700 PEOPLE IN WILD WEST SHOW

Young Buffalo Wild West Has a Galaxy of Star Performers

The Young Buffalo Wild West Show will exhibit in Peterborough on July 8th, afternoon and night. The aggregation is a large one, numbering as it does over 700 men and women —many of whom have earned international repute for their skill and daring.

Fred Burns, who heads this band of experts, is called "King of the Rope," and is perhaps the best informed man to-day on practical roping. He is also an expert rider and has invented a special saddle for bucking horses, which is a success. Burns is an old-time cow-puncher of the open range school and is also one of the best broncho busters that ever sat in a saddle. With Mr. Burns is his younger brother, Bob, who is also a clever man with a rope and saddle, running his brother a tight pinch for first place.

Montana Jack, a young chap of 22 years, also a rope expert, will be with the show, and together this trio will show the different styles of roping used on the range.

Among the features is Ambrose Means, the hero of the Buffalo Jones Expedition to Africa, and the first man to rope a lion. Besides Mr. Means, there will be Miss Annie Oakley, the greatest woman rifle shot in the world. Then there is Prairie Rose, a young girl who rides real bucking horses at every performance and who is considered the nerviest girl rider in the business. Besides these already mentioned, there are man sun-tanned cow-punchers who will fill the arena with stunts never before attempted in a wild west show. This show is the kind that only a man of Colonel Vernon C Seaver's calibre would attempt. Colonel Seaver is known from coast to coast as having the best Wild West show in the world. It always leaves thousands of pleased patrons in its wake. A big street parade will be given at 10 o'clock on the day of the exhibition.

BEAUTIFUL EYES

are made beautiful by long, silky lashes, and well defined, lustrous brows. Eyes, like diamonds, depend on their setting. The beauties of the face are lost if the eye brows are thin and scanty; and the lashes are short and lifeless. Parisian Lash Lustre grows beautiful, soft, silky lashes. It has done so for society women throughout Europe, and it comes here well recommended to do the same for you. Parisian Lash Lustre is not a dye or colorator, but a scientific preparation for beautifying the eye lashes and brows. Our guarantee goes with every box of Parisian Lash Lustre. SONS OF REST IN REGULAR SESSION

Big Chief Bluebeard Hands Out Some Penalties

Special Correspondence.

Lang, July 3—A meeting of the Sons of Rest was held in the Town Hall, Lang, on Wednesday evening, June 21st, when Bluebeard Scully occupied the chair. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Several complaints were made about the brethren, and the chairman decided to impose heavy fines on the culprits.

Dear-hunter Babe was fined $5.00 for having more than two dears on the string at once.

White-nigger Fife was fined $15.00 for incivility to His Lordship, when on the race track.

Long-armed Dinsdale was fined $2 for splitting a raisin in two to make up the weight.

After the above had paid their fines Bro. Red-faced Audie favored us with a song which was received with hisses and groans.

It was then decided to pay our Brethren in Keene a visit on Tuesday evening next, when His Lordship kindly offered to supply conveyances for the crowd. Brigadier Keitel then complained of being sleepy, so Blue Beard Scully then dismissed the Brethren with his blessing.

RECEPTION TO LAURIER.

Return of Premier Will Be Greatest Ever, Says Organizers.

Montreal, July 5.—The reception to be given to Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his return to Canada next Monday will eclipse any demonstration ever before tendered to a Canadian Prime Minister on his return to the country over the destinies of which he rules.

Already plans have been made for the illumination of the river, of St. Helen's Island, of the port, Jacques Cartier square, the Champ de Mars, and the principal streets of the city through which the Premier, accompanied by Hon. L. P. Brodeur and possibly Sir Frederick Borden, will drive to the station.

Leaving the Empress of Britain at Quebec on Saturday or Sunday evening, Sir Wilfrid will come up the river in a private yacht, arriving here about 7 o'clock Monday evening.

Deputations from the Reform, Lemieux, Bickerdike, Westmount Liberal, St. Lawrence Liberal, Chenier, Prefontaine and Laurier political clubs, will meet the party at Victoria Pier, which will be tastefully decorated and illuminated for the occasion by the harbor commission.

Complaints are being made of the practice of bathers in front of the boathouses at the end of Sherbrooke street. If this is not stopped at once some one will appear in police court.

The foul language that is used by some of those who bath at this spot is ridiculous and the police should pay a visit occasionally to try and put a stop to it.

DROWNED BABE AND HERSELF IN BEAMSVILLE RESERVOIR

No Motive Can Be Ascribed For Tragedy and Girl Is Known to Have Been of a Cheerful Disposition—Had a Bank Account — Farmer Finds Body of Three-Year-Old Child and Later the Mother's Body.

Beamsville, July 6.—With the finding of the body of the three-year-old infant of Edna Comfort in the village reservoir yesterday, murder was disclosed and by 10 o'clock last night it was known that the crime had been expiated by the mother, when her body was also found in the same place.

The woman was a hired girl of 20 years, who worked about with different farmers in the locality. On Monday she was employed picking berries on the farm of E. W. Tinlin, close to the reservoir. She had her child with her at this time, and after having her supper, took it to return to her home with her mother and brother. She never arrived there, but as she often stayed at the houses of those by whom she was employed, no great alarm was felt.

The body was discovered by Isaiah Pufford, a farmer, who saw it floating in the reservoir. When it became known that the Comfort woman's child had been found in the water, enquiry disclosed her disappearance and a party set to work to drag for her body.

Coroner Alexander of Grimsby opened an inquest in the Town Hall last night, which was adjourned until Tuesday next, after the child's remains had been identified by the grandmother, who appeared unmoved under the trying ordeal. He will open an inquest into the death of the mother to-day, when post-mortems will be performed on both bodies, which now lie in the morgue of Undertaker J. W. Buck.

The reservoir in which the bodies were found is a mile south of the village and the girl lived on her brother's farm, a mile south of this. No motive is known for her terrible act. She was of cheerful disposition, had a bank account and had no trouble in finding employment.

Renfrew, Ont., July 6.—At North Cote, a short distance from Renfrew, Tuesday evening Mrs. Henry Crozier of North Cote was killed in a runaway accident. She and a neighbor, Mrs. Carswell, were driving home from a women's missionary meeting, when something went wrong with the harness and their horse started to run. When nearing a hill Mrs. Crozier jumped. A husband and three young sons survive.

STEEL MEN OF THE WORLD TO FORM A HUGE ASSOCIATION

Elbert Gary of the United States in the Chair — Germans Prominent,

Brussels, July 6.—The steel interests of Canada, England, the United States, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Austria and Spain were represented by 160 delegates who met in conference yesterday preliminary to the formation of an international association, broadly similar to the American Steel Institute.

Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the U. S. Steel Coroporation, who presided, said he believed the idea to be feasible. Necessarily, it should be formed and managed, so as to avoid antagonism or intereference of any other institution, and so as to secure the approval of public sentiment.

Baron Van Bodenhausen of the Krupp Works, speaking for the German group, warmly supported the idea, and one by one the members representing all the nations and groups fully accepted the project, M. Kestranek of Austria, M. Diex for France, Sir Hugh Bell and Sir John Randle for Great Britain, M. Greiner for Belgium, Count Zubiria of Spain, M. Witmeur of Russia and M. Arninivonbird of Hungary, T. J. Drummond of Canada, J. A. Farrell, C. M. Schwab, Willis L. King and E. A. S. Clarke of the United States.

Dog as a Life-Saver.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 6—Charles Weiderhold and his dog yesterday saved two Greeks from drowning in the Niagara River, a mile above the falls. Weiderhold went to the river to give his dog a swim. While he was there two Greeks came along and removing their clothes waded into the water. Neither could swim. They got beyond their depth and cried for help. Weiderhold jumped into the water without removing his clothes and brought out one man, while his dog grabbed the other and made a desperate effort to bring him in. Weiderhold then returned to the water and brought the second ashore.

FIGHT ON IN THE BRITISH CABINET

Over Governments Policy on the Moroccan Situation

Special to the Review.

London July 6—As a result of the policy to be pursued by the Government in the Morrocan situation, a bitter fight has broken out in the British Cabinet. Asquith and his followers favor a strong aggressive stand against German intervention, while the group led by Lloyd George, urge caution and moderation.

MONUMENT TO LAURA SECORD IS UNVEILED AT QUEENSTON

St. Catharines, July 6.—A large assemblage gathered at Queenston Heights yesterday to witness the unveiling of the handsome memorial to Laura Secord, the Canadian heroine, who distinguished herself so nobly in the war of 1812. The monument erected on the site of the old Brock monument, twelve feet high and costing $2,000, was unveiled by Sir Charles Moss, Chief Justice of Ontario, and at present administrator of the province. Sir Charles made a notable speech. Speaking of the wonderful achievements of the heroine and of the appropriateness of erecting the monument on Queenston Heights, not far from her own home, he mentioned the fact that he had come to unveil the monument instead of Sir George Ross, who was prevented by recent bereavement in his family. He spoke of the work of former Premier Ross and also of Mrs. Currie of St. Catharines, through whose efforts the money was obtained from the Government for the erection of the monument. Sir Charles, on behalf of the Government, presented the monument to J. Langmuir of the Victoria Park Commission.

Robbed on Street.

Toronto, July 6.—The hot weather was forgotten in a wild pursuit on Spadina avenue at 5.30 yesterday afternoon when Thomas Keenan, a visitor from Montreal, came upon Mrs. Annie Lloyd, who was wheeling her infant child in a baby carriage. Mrs. Lloyd's chatelaine lay in the perambulator, and Keenan spied it. He grabbed it and extracted $10.

Then Mrs. Lloyd gave chase, in which others joined and, at Queen street, Keenan unwillingly run into the arms of Policeman Seaton. He was taken to the Esther street station and charged with theft.

BORDEN BACK IN MANITOBA; ALL PLANKS BUT ONE APPROVED

Leader Gets Good Reception at Minnedosa, Man.

He Visits a Grain Growers' Gathering and Is Recipient of a Resolution Commending Every Plank In His Platform With the Exception of Reciprocity—Says He Will Stick to His Guns.

Minnedosa, Man., July 6.—A grain growers' picnic introduced variety into the tour of R. L. Borden yesterday. It was held at Shoal Lake and was the second meeting which the Opposition leader addressed during the day. He spoke in the morning at Binscarth and in the evening at Minnedosa. All three meetings were in the riding of Marquette, which is represented at Ottawa by Dr. Roche. The meeting of Tuesday afternoon was originally arranged for Birtle, but the grain growers invited Mr. Borden to attend their picnic and the invitation was accepted.

The proceedings at the picnic opened with a meeting of the grain growers, which was in progress when Mr. Borden and his party arrived. At this meeting D. N. McCuaig, chairman of the provincial elevator commission, spoke of the work of that body and appealed to the farmers to support the provincial institution. It appears that in some districts where the provincial elevator has private competition the farmers are readily drawn away from the provincial elevator by an offer of a couple of cents higher by the private company.

Mr. McCuaig was followed by President Henderson of the Grain Growers Association for the Province of Manitoba. He discussed reciprocity "from the grain growers' standpoint." He stated that for four years the question of reciprocity had been before their annual convention at Brandon. The attitude of the grain growers, therefore, was no snatch verdict.

R. M. Cherrie of Birtle read a resolution which declared: "We are sorry to learn that you are not in favor of reciprocity between Canada and the United States, which is in the interests of, not only the farmers, but of all the people of Canada, except a few capitalists."

David Mair of Hamilton read a resolution which expressed "warm and sincere appreciation of the service you have rendered and the stand you have taken in regard to the Hudson Bay railway, terminal elevators and chilled meat, and concluded, while we regret that you cannot see as we do in regard to reciprocity, we admire your sincerity and frankness in stating your views."

Mr. Borden again acknowledged this compliment by again candidly stating his opposition to reciprocity, and said he would rather go down to defeat than give us his sincere conviction."

At Voice—You'll go down then." (Laughter.)

"If my friend can speak for the whole people of Canada," replied Mr. Borden, "I will go down, but at all events I will go down fighting for what I believe to be right."

The chairman—"Hear, hear."

The grain growers' meeting closed with cheers for reciprocity, asked for by the chairman, and cheers for Mr. Borden, suggested by one of the audience.

At the public meeting which followed, Mr. Borden had to face considerable heckling in regard to the dangers from the favored nation competition and agricultural implements.

HOT WAVE PASSING, BUT LETS GO ITS GRIP WITH RELUCTANCE

Many Deaths From the Heat in Canadian Cities — Hamilton Swelters at 103—Chatham Suffers Some Also.

Toronto, July 6.—The present spell of torrid weather is now being broken, but the process is gradual. Reports from the meteorological office last night stated that there would be a general rainfall all over the heat-affected areas. There was a slight thunderstorm yesterday in the Niagara district, but it was very local, and did not even extend as far as Buffalo. The electrical disturbances in the afternoon upset the Hydro-Electric transmission line for a little while. The affected section of wires was somewhere near Port Credit.

There was a considerable drop in temperature last night, the mercury not registering over 82 degrees. The humidity of the atmosphere, however, made it very uncomfortable.

One death in Toronto yesterday was directly attributed to the heat, while in another instance the sultreness hastened the end.

John Chisholm, aged 70, of 15 Riverdale avenue, was seized with faintness yesterday morning about eight o'clock after he had breakfasted. He lay down on a couch and expired almost immediately. Mr. Chisholm was a retired farmer, having come from near Agincourt to make his home in Riverdale not long ago.

The heat hastened the death of William Patterson, printer, 61 years old, who had been ill at the residence of his sister, Mrs. George Owen, since a few days previous to the start of the hot spell.

"All we want is rain and more of it," said P. W. Hodgetts, secretary of the Fruit Growers' Association yesterday. "There is still a hope for the raspberry crop if the showers continue."

The United States is still suffering from severe heat. Never in the country's history has the intense heat area been so widespread as yesterday. It extended from South Dakota to the Atlantic coast.

Chatham Swelters.

Chatham, Ont., July 6.—The temperature in Chatham yesterday has been hovering around the hundred mark, with no sign of abatement. Old residents of the city cannot remember any time during the past seventy years when the heat was so intense. Several serious prostrations are reported. Andrew Harding, a driver for Cerant, the ice man, keeled over on his ice wagon as a result of sunstroke. He is in a very serious condition. A workman on the roof of Park's drug store was overcome by the heat and his steel chisel became so hot that he could not hold it. The temperature at the top of the building was 132 degrees. Automobile tires and bicycle tires are softening at a rapid rate, and several autoists have been unable to run their machines yesterday, as their tires would not hold the air.

One Hundred and Three.

Hamilton, July 6.—The weatherman remained in the spotlight here yesterday, and, in addition to equaling his Monday heat record of 103 in the shade, he threw in a bountiful supply of humidity for good measure, with the result that the Ambitious City experienced what seemed the limit of discomfort. Everybody who could manage to do so parted company with work and shed as much clothing as the law would allow. The street car men threw convention and discipline to the winds and appeared on their cars minus, caps, collars and coats. The postmen went their rounds a la negligee, and the populace in general suffered only such garments as were considered absolutely necessary.

Succumbed to Terrific Heat.

Toronto, July 6.—Thirty-five deaths were registered at the city clerk's office yesterday, fifteen being directly due to the heat. Ten of these deaths were of children of whom four succumbed to the heat.

Most of the adults whose deaths are directly attributable to heat were well over middle age, two were over eighty and one had reached 103. One man, though, was only 33 years of age.

GERMANS ARE EXPLAINING

Warship Sent To Morocco to Secure Settlement.

Newspapers Discredit Territorial Ambitions.

Berlin, July 6.—The final object of the step taken by Germany in sending a warship to Agadir, Morocco, according to The Cologne Gazette, is an honorable and useful settlement of the Moroccan question.

This is the note struck by other responsible organs which are now most anxious to discredit any idea of territorial acquisition. They say that Germany has been trying in vain to come to an understanding regarding Morocco, but the French Government has evaded the issue since the advent of the now retired Premier Monis and the launching of the French expedition to Fez, and that a demonstration was necessary to make the Frenchmen talk business. Baron Von Kiderlen-Weachter, the German Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, has returned to Berlin, which indicates that an answer from France is soon expected.

In conclusion The Cologne Gazette makes reference to Theophile Delcasse, whose resignation as French Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Rouvier Cabinet was due to the delicate Moroccan situation in 1905, and against whose supposed influence in the present controversy certain German newspapers are conducting a campaign. The Gazette says that although the closing days of Delcasse's occupancy of the Foreign Office were hostile to Germany, "we have no reasons for regret if a person with a real personality like that of M. Delcasse should become French Minister of Foreign Affairs."

CHILD IS BLOWN AWAY BY WIND

Carried Seventy-five Feet At Long Branch.

Long Branch, July 6.—Trees were uprooted, a pavilion demolished, the wharf badly damaged in yesterday's storm, which damaged property to the extent of $3,000 in all. The electric light wires were dismantled but were temporarily repaired last night.

So strong was the wind when the storm struck at two o'clock yesterday afternoon that Harry McDonald, a boathouse keeper on the lake shore, who was putting away a rowboat, was carried fifty feet with it through the air. Fortunately he struck in a pile of brush, and beyond a few scratches was unhurt.

Two little children attending the Salvation Army picnic were under a wooden canopy with slate roof at the shore end of the dock. The girl was blown 75 feet along the shore, bringing up against a dinghy. She was only slightly hurt. The boy was buried under the roof of the canopy, which was completely wrecked, but crawled out of the debris uninjured.

Killed by Lightning.

St. Mary's, July 6.—The electrical and rainstorm that passed over St. Mary's and district shortly after four o'clock yesterday was the most disastrous in local history. A young man named Holmyard, for nine years hired man for Adam Smith, on the Mitchell road, two miles north of St. Mary's, who took refuge under a tree, was struck and instantly killed.

Large barns on the farms of W. Moffit and Donald McLetton, in Blanchard, were struck and totally destroyed. A new barn on Chas. Barnett's farm was blown off the foundations and totally wrecked. The fire hall was struck and badly damaged. There was a heavy fall of rain, and trees were uprooted and poles and fences blown down.

Accidentally Shot.

Chatham, July 6.—The 15-year-old son of Fred King of Spencer avenue was accidentally shot through the left thigh on Tuesday. He was attempting to pry out a shell from one of the chambers of a 32- calibre revolver when the shell exploded, sending the ball through the flesh about 16 inches and out again. He is reported to be doing well.

A Discovery of Vast Importance

It Is Now Admitted That Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Coughs, and Colds Can Only Be Quickly Cured By Mixing a New Medicine With the Air You Breathe.

Scientists acknowledge that medicated air treatment is the only treatment that will cure these diseases, and that stomach medicines are worse than useless.

Catarrhozone air treatment has been found to be the most effective way to cure all diseases of the throat, lungs, and nasal passages. Its action is so prompt that in less than an hour an ordinary cold is cured, and after a more thorough use of Catarrhozone, Bronchitis, Catarrh, and all diseases of the throat and lungs are completely cured.

Catarrhozone is a very simple and powerful method of treatment. You simply breathe it through the inhaler and it immediately passes over every air cell of the throat, lungs, and bronchial tubes, curing and healing as it goes.

Catarrhozone treatment affords little drops of healing for sore places in the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

TAFT ON RECIPROCITY

At Indianapolis a few evenings ago, Mr. Taft made a speech at a dinner. He frequently is more frank and open in his after-dinner speeches than in his official documentary utterances, the congeniality loosening the flow of his real thoughts to the surface more readily.

President Taft told the Indianapolis men that reciprocity would not reduce the cost of living. It could only help to steady prices, and make the operation of corners more difficult. Said he:—

"The reciprocity agreement will not greatly reduce the cost of living, if at all. It will steady prices by enlarging the reserves of supplies for those things that are raised in both countries, and it will make more remote the possibility of cornering commodities and extorting excessive prices for them from the public."

In the first place President Taft is right in asserting that the cost of living will not be lowered across the border, by the free admission of Canadian natural products. Canadian prices are as high now as the American, and in some cases higher, and with a free exchange of commodities, it is inconceivable that the production of 8,000,000 people can materially affect the food costs of 90,000,000. The addition of the products of the 8,000,000 might have a steadying effect, until those responsible for the cornering that President Taft speaks of in the 90,000,000 market can also include in their grasp the products of the 8,000,000.

Canada does not export more than 15 or 20 per cent of her natural products. Would it be difficult for the food trusts whose exactions 90,000,000 people would free themselves from, to also control the prices of 20 per cent (or less) of the production of a nation the size of Canada?

Reciprocity will make Canada the football of the American food trusts, and instead of the Canadian farmer and consumer benefiting by the free interchange of these products, they will be liable at any time to the incursions of the twentieth century dragon. Canada has a good market now, and the cry of more markets does not necessarily mean that additional markets will be better ones as regards price or capacity to absorb.

SUNDAY ICE CREAM

Suppose that yesterday or the day before were Sunday. Wouldn't it have been cruel as well as ridiculous to say that ice-cream and cold drinks were simply and merely luxuries, and as such not to be sold on the Sawbath?

Yet this is what a few zealots mistakenly urge, on the ground that such sale is violating and desecrating the day of rest. Fortunately the men who urge this cannot carry the day, and a reasonable measure of freedom is regarded ice-cream sales is allowed restauranteurs. But even under the latest interpretation of the law, ice-cream may be sold in restaurants on Sundays only for consumption on the premises. If you have a sick wife at home, or an invalid in the family to whom a cooling dish of ice-cream would be like a draught of cool water to a Sahara traveller, you musn't buy that ice-cream to take home to the sick one, not even if you carry it all the way yourself, and do not call on anyone to perform Sunday labor.

If you want ice-cream or cold drinks on the Sawbath, you must either grind out the weary round on the freezer at home, or sit at the grab-counter and shovel it down.

There is considerable doubt even yet as to what the Lord's day act of Ontario really provides. One Toronto official says that restaurants cannot legally open on Sunday at all, but this is so absurd that not even Toronto police officials—who are noted for absurdity—would try to enforce it. The common people who want to have a sane Sunday have no champions to enter the lists against the Lord's Day Alliance men—the zealous ones who have done so much good work they don't realize when they are overstepping the bounds of sweet reasonableness.

The law should be amended, if necessary, so as to permit the sale of ice-cream on Sundays in July and August without restriction, and the chances are that the morals of the nation wouldn't be hurt as much as by train-travelling on Sunday.

THE GREAT DIVIDE

The political prophets of East Peterborough don't know what to do with the situation produced in the Liberal camp as the result of the convention at Norwood. In fact, it has the guessers up in the air. F. D. Kerr is the nominee, by six votes, but there were only 185 delegates, and 202 ballots were cast. Out of that seventeen, how many were for Kerr and how many for Hall? The choice of a candidate rested on how these extra votes went.

It is said with good authority that all the supporters of R. R. Hall are determined to have another convention. They don't want a candidate by a fluke, by 17 ballots or otherwise.

It is pointed out by these strong Liberal disgruntles that R. R. Hall was to have had the nomination, that Kerr is an interloper in the party plans, and cannot receive anything like united Liberal support. In fact, it is said that Kerr has the support of only a few Grits in Otonabee, and the rest of the riding doesn't know what it wants.

The mystery of the seventeen ballots is certainly a puzzler. Where did they come from? (This question has a most familiar sound.) Who was the kind friend that wanted to defeat the party bosses' plans so badly? We have heard things a-plenty about stuffed ballot boxes, ballot switching, etc., but to stuff the box in a party convention really is very unchristianlike, and indeed most unaesthetic.

We don't wonder that the East Peterborough Liberals, who thought they were selecting a candidate according to program, should feel sore at ballot-box stuffing coming home to roost in such effective manner. We would advise the Hallites and the Kerrites, and the seventeenites to keep their dirks in their belts. The hand of brother should not be turned against brother, nor Liberal against Liberal, even if the mystery of the ballots isn't solved until someone confesses.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Montreal hotelmen and breweries put up the price of beer on the hottest day of the season. The very thought would drive a man to drink.

In Montreal an eighty pound sturgeon, four feet long, jumped into a boat, and was captured. That's the biggest fish story we've heard for a long time.

The weather report from Calgary gives the temperature at from 42 to 68, while it is close to 100 in this part of the country. This should be the greatest incentive to get the western fever yet.

The doctors advise people with delicate constitutions not to drink cold liquids in such hot weather. Eat little meat or no meat. Fruit, especially lemons and oranges is good. Cold drinks and ice water are dangerous. The thing most to be avoided is a cold bath after a meal, either in the house or in the open.

Canadian progress is smashing records every year. Last year Canadians drank more liquor and smoked more tobacco than ever before. A few dollars more trade, or half a dozen Italian immigrants look big when we tell about them, but we don't brag about our booze bill.

Lieut. Trochan, a French military aviator, was fatally injured while making his first trip alone.

MONTREAL, July 5.—There was a fairly good demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and the prices bid showed an advance of 1½d per quarter for No. 2 northern, but even at this rise exporters stated that they were fully 1½c per bushel out of line with values here. On the other hand, advices from Winnipeg reported a fair demand for No. 3 northern, and lower grades for export account.

The foreign demand for oats was also fair, and, as the bids were 1½d per quarter higher, sales of several loads were made for July-August shipment. The local trade in oats and other coarse grains was quiet, but the tone of the market remains firm in sympathy with strength in the west.

There was a good inquiry from European sources for spring wheat flour, there being orders in the market for 10,000 sacks; and, in addition to this, the call for local and country account was also good at steady prices.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 5.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings were 625 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 900 calves. Owing to the continued very hot weather, a weak feeling developed in the market for cattle, and prices for steers declined ½c to ¾c, cows ½c to 1c, and bulls 1¼c per pound.

There was very little demand from butchers, even at the reduction in prices. It was the dullest market of the season to date. Steers sold at from 5c to 6c; cows at from 3c to 5c, and bulls at from 3c to 5c per pound.

The supply of hogs was in excess of the requirements of the trade, and this, coupled with the extreme heat, created a weaker feeling in the market, and prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds, with sales of selected lots at $6.50 to $6.75; mixed, heavy lots at $5.50 to $6.25, and sows at $5 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

The market for sheep, lambs and calves was also weaker, on account of the increased offerings, for which the demand was limited, and prices in consequence declined all round. Sheep sold at $3 to $5.50; lambs at $3.50 to $4, and calves at from $2 to $5 each, as to size and quality.

At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market teh offerings of live stock were 350 cattle, 500 sheep and lambs, 750 hogs and 300 calves. A feature of the trade was the weakness for hogs, and prices since Monday show a decline of 50c to 75c per 100 pounds, with sales of selected lots at $7, and mixed, heavy lots at $6.50 to $6.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. The prices realized for cattle, sheep and lambs and calves were much the same as those quoted above.

Novelized From Eugene Walter's Great Play ....

—BY—

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"You boys," he said in his slow, distinct voice, "have made up your minds to quit at 10 o'clock because somebody told you you ought to be getting more pay and a raise was refused. Well, this is a free country, and every man's right to sell his labor where he likes and at what price he likes is guaranteed him by the constitution. If you want to walk out of here you are free to do so, but if you take my advice"—

"See here," interrupted one of the leaders roughly, pushing to the front, "we ain't askin' no advice from you nor no one else. What we want is money. Do we get that raise or don't we? If we do, all right; if we don't, we quit here and now, and that's all there is to it."

A murmur of approval greeted this ultimatum.

"No," answered the superintendent. "I ain't going to leave you in doubt about it for a minute. You don't get it."

"Then shut up!" ordered the man. "We ain't goin' to lose our time listenin' to no cheap talk. We've voted to quit and all talk is off."

"All right," retorted Smith. "Consider you've all quit. Now, that being the case, you have heaps of time on your hands and are likely to have for an indefinite period unless you have provided jobs for yourselves in anticipation of this. I've got something I'd like to say to you. Those who don't want to hear me don't have to. As I said, this is a free country."

"Go ahead, Jimsy!" cried a voice in the crowd. "You're all right! You've always given us a square deal."

"I hope so," he replied, "and one square deal deserves another."

"Aw, come on, fellows!" admonished the leader. "We're not kids. A strike's a strike. This ain't no debatin' bee, and we don't belong to no mutual admiration society."

Some of the men turned away, but others voiced the view that a hearing ought to be given to the superintendent since he wished to speak to them, and, seeing that their fellows remained, the others soon returned.

"I haven't got a lot to say, and I'm no preacher," he continued. "What I want to give you is not a lecture on what you've got to do—that's your business—but an explanation in your interest. I want to tell you things other people haven't told you and that you evidently don't know. Please let me get through, then you do as you like. I don't have to tell you that the rate of pay is governed, like everything else, by the law of supply and demand. What is the situation today? We have had rush work for several weeks, and the docks here and all along the water front are choked up with freight. But back of this, although you may not know it, the railroads everywhere are laying off freight cars, mills are laying off men, and signs point to a serious slump in business all over the country, which will reach here soon. The indications are that in the natural course of things during the coming winter there won't be work for more than half of you and that you'll need badly all the spare coin you can save now. Yet you chose this very time to demand an increase from the company and give it eighteen hours' notice, including twelve nonworking hours, in which to think it over. I don't call that a square deal, whatever you may think about it. Now, the country towns are full of men anxious to get jobs, and the company, notwithstanding the short notice, is fully prepared for a strike. In that shed yonder are 3,000 cots, put there during last night, and provision has been made to feed 3,000 men for several days. Captain Williams"—

An outburst of curses and yells greeted this mention of the president's name with cries of "We know Williams!"

"Captain Williams," went on the superintendent calmly, "says that any man who goes out on strike now will never enter the employ of the line again in this or any other port. And I'll see personally to it that he doesn't. This man here said a strike had been decided on, but anybody who wants to stay and work instead of making a fool of himself by quitting will be taken care of, I'll promise that. That's all. It's up to you."

Amid dead silence he got down from the crate and returned to his office.

The men remained assembled for consultation, and in the crowd were many doubtful faces. It was clear that Smith's calm, drawled harangue had made a profound impression. Just as in private life he attracted the warmest friendships, so in business, to which he gave strict and intelligent attention, he earned the respect of all with whom he had to deal.

The strike leader mounted the crate and, amid the applause of the hot headed and discontented, delivered himself of a fierce denunciation of the company as a greedy, grasping, oppressive corporation and of its dock superintendent as a "flour flusher" and a dispenser of "con" talk, meaning thereby of words intended to deceive. But there were too many who knew that Smith was neither.

"For my part," one of the laborers said, "I've got a wife and six kids, the eldest of which is nine. I move that we take another vote on this here strike."

The motion was adopted with acclamation. The result of the ballot was overwhelmingly in favor of remaining at work.

While delegates appointed to inform the superintendent that there would be no turnout were waiting upon him in his office, the other men passed the shed indicated by Smith, pushed open the door and gazed in, while others crowded up behind them. Arranged all around the vast space were neat, white cots, and in the center were long tables and benches.

"Say," remarked one of the men. "Jimsy Smith ain't no bluff, is he? For a slow speakin' and movin' man he's the liveliest hustler I ever seen."

Half an hour later Smith once more lowered himself into the chair beside the president's desk.

"Well," said Captain Williams gruffly, "I understand the strike's off."

"Yep," was the reply.

"I put it up to you, and you've made good."

"How did you do it?"

"Told 'em the truth."

"I guess you don't often lie, Smith."

"Not more than I have to."

"What preparations had you made for trouble?"

"Three thousand hired army cots in No. 2 shed, with tables and benches. Then there's these."

He laid before the president a number of bids for supplying rations three times a day to from 500 to 3,000 men and telegrams from various towns worded something to this effect:

On terms offered can ship 200 men within forty-eight hours.

Williams read each paper carefully.

"A strike at this time would have meant heavy loss to the line," he observed.

Smith nodded.

Then the captain gave utterance to the highest compliment he had ever made to a man in his life:

"I put it up to you," he said, "and you've made good. I guessed it was likely you would. Have a cigar."

CHAPTER VIII.

ALTHOUGH Captain Williams had assured Mrs. Brooks that he would bear them no grudge because of her husband's attack upon him, he did not return again to the little flat, and it was some time before Mrs. Harris and Beth favored them with another visit. But this did not trouble the young couple a bit. Commencing on that night when he had insisted on taking his wife to a place of amusement, Joe's conduct toward her had undergone a complete change. Instead of returning home depressed and irritable he was nearly always in good humor and affectionately considerate. They needed no other company than their own and occasionally Jimsy's.

The happy transformation had been brought about by an unexpected bit of luck. As Joe explained it to his delighted wife, in his capacity of collector he had become very friendly with the manager of a concern which transacted business with the steamship company, and this gentleman had offered him $10 a week to render, when required, certain little services in the matter of collections, which he was able to do without interfering to any extent with the duties the Latin-American line paid him for performing. It was just the amount of the advance he had asked for and which Captain Williams had refused to give him, and it represented the difference between very painful sparing and comparative ease. And that was not all. One thing leading to another, Joe was enabled now and then to earn an extra $5 or $10 from other sources.

With this prosperous turn in his affairs the self confidence and assurance that long had abandoned him under his repeated disappointments and failure to make headway returned. Morose supineness gave way to vim and energy. His old optimism had revived in most extravagant form. He began to be interested in the price of real estate and automobiles.

"I COULD NOT LIVE"

WITHOUT "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Writes The Treasurer Of Caledonia Township

FENAGHVALE, ONT., Jan. 29th, 1910.

For thirty-five years (and I am now a man over seventy) I have been a terrible sufferer from Constipation.

No matter what remedy or physician I employed, the result was always the same—impossible to get a cure.

About two years ago, I read the testimonial of Hon. John Costigan regarding "Fruit-a-tives" and I decided to give this fruit medicine a trial. I have used "Fruit-a-tives" ever since. They are the first and only medicine that suited my case. If it were not for "Fruit-a-tives", I am satisfied that I could not live." JAMES PROUDFOOT.

The liver controls the bowels by giving up enough bile to make the bowels move. The only possible way to cure constipation is to make the liver active and healthy and thus store up sufficient bile to move the bowels.

"Fruit-a-tives" acts directly on the liver—ensures an abundance of bile and causes the bowels to move regularly and naturally. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. At dealers, or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

For the Family

You work to provide for your wife and children. Your ambitions are for them. You intend to make up to your wife the self denials she has practised. You plan that the girls and the boys shall have their chance; you picture the future by your hope.

But have you had the forethought to realize that death does not halt for any man's hopes, or wait for any man's convenience? Have you made such provisions for the future that your family will receive an income adequate to their needs in case of your death?

By devoting a small part of your income to life insurance, your hopes will become realities to them.

A guaranteed income policy for $1,000 at age 35 costs less than 10c a day and will not lapse if you become unable to pay the premiums in consequence of total and permanent disability from accident or disease, and further if you wish it, the Company will begin immediately to pay the amount due under the policy, not necessarily waiting until it becomes a claim through death.

LENSES FOR THE EYES

The average person who has to wear glasses usually thinks little of the lenses themselves but much of the mounting, the adjustment and the eye examination. The LENSES are the important thing. You look through the LENSES from the time you start to wear glasses until your eyes can no longer see.

TORIC Lenses are the greatest improvement in lenses in the last hundred years.

Shaped like the cornea of the eye, they prevent eye strain, give a wider angle of view without touching the lashes or your seeing the edges of the lens.

We grind all our own TORIC lenses. They cost a little more than the ordinary flat lenses and are worth MUCH more.

The cause is a disordered liver—the cure Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. They go straight to the root of the trouble, put the liver right, cleanse the stomach and bowels, clear the tongue and take away the bitter taste from the mouth. MONAGHAN FARMER DIED FROM INJURIES AND SHOCK

Samuel T. Andrews Fell and Fractured Ribs Which Pierced Lung

From severe injuries and shock, sustained by a fall from a load of hay, Mr. Samuel T. Andrews, Con. 12, Lot 12 North Monaghan, died at his home last night about eleven o'clock.

It appears that the deceased was descending from a load of hay, at noon yesterday, sliding down part of the way, expecting to touch a cross-beam on the wagon, with his feet, but missing it, he fell heavily on his right side, fracturing two ribs, which entered his lung. He was carried into the house and Dr. Eastwood summoned by phone. Mr. Andrews' advanced age, 66 years, added to a rather feeble condition of the heart failed to withstand the shock and he expired about eleven o'clock.

The deceased was widely known and esteemed in North Monaghan where he has been engaged in agriculture for the past eleven years.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at Welcome, near Port Hope, the former home of the deceased. The remains were brought to Belleghem's undertaking rooms and will be sent on the 11.45 G.T.R. to-morrow to Port Hope.

To mourn his tragic death, there are left besides his widow, two sons, William and Norman and one sister, Mabel

REPORT SAYS LOCAL MAN WAS DROWNED AT COBOURG

William Cook Who Worked for Adam Hall and Boarded on Aylmer Street Missing.

Has William Cook, who was employed as a moulder at Adam Hall's and boarded at 346 Aylmer street, been drowned?

A report says that he met his death at Cobourg, but no confirmation is at present forthcoming.

Cook's home is at Madoc and the Review tried to get into communication with that place this afternoon but this was not possible on account of trouble on the line.

He left here Tuesday night on the nine o'clock train after having drawn his pay at Adam Hall's. It is said he intended to go to Cobourg and the report comes from that place that he was drowned there.

Mr. P. J. Heaslip, foreman in the moulding department, and under whom Cook worked, was called up over the long distance phone from Stirling in regard to the report, but no definite information was received by Mr. Heaslip as to whether the body found was that of Cook.

It is feared, however, that the report is correct.

BODY THAT OF COOK.

Just before going to press the Review had communication with Chief Ruse, of Cobourg, and he said that the body found there was that of William Cook. It is supposed that he accidentally fell into the lake.

AN OUTING TO STONEY LAKE

Held by Lakehurst and North Smith S. S. Association

The most successful picnic ever held under the auspices of the Lakehurst and North Smith Sunday school association took place on Friday, June 30th. The day was ideal, and everyone was out for a good time. The steamer "Stoney Lake" took on part of the crowd at Gannon's bridge and the rest at Buckhorn, numbering in all about 250. Dinner was heartily partaken of at McCracken's Landing, and after sailing around a number of the important islands, landed at Juniper Island for an hour of recreation. The musical treat given by Miss Simpson and Messrs. Theo. and H. Simpson on board, was greatly appreciated by all. A large number took advantage of Captain Scollard's kind invitation for a trip from Buckhorn to Gannon's bridge and return. The crowd thanked the captain by three cheers, and cannot speak too highly of the splendid accommodation afforded by the steamer "Stoney Lake" and its crew, which is a credit to the Navigation company.

MOONLIGHT WAS BIG SUCCESS

"Posties Had Almost Three Hundred on Second Annual

The post office clerks and carriers held their annual moonlight excursion last night, and in spite of the threatening weather, it was one of the best attended of the season. The steamer Stoney Lake left the Wolfe street wharf at eight o'clock, and proceeding down the river, called at the street railway wharf and took on board about fifty people, which brought the moonlighters up to the number of two hundred and twenty-five. An orchestra supplied excellent music for dancing.

On Thursday evening the Presbyterian church had a little farewell for Mr and Mrs. Simpson.

LIGHTNING CAUSED LOSS TO FARMERS

Much damage was done in the country by the storm yesterday afternoon and this morning, but nothing of a serious nature occurred in the city. There was practically no wind here yesterday, and very little rain, but outside the city limits the rainfall was heavy and at points not far distant, the trees, posts, sheds and chimneys were brought to the ground by a severe storm. Again this morning the city did not get the brunt of the storm, it being most prominent in the surrounding districts.

The temperature at noon to-day was 88 and the indications point towards cooler weather. As expected, yesterday, the mercury reached 100.

One of the delivery horses of the Peterborough Hardware Company was nearly electrocuted this morning about 9.35 at the entrance to the lane leading into the yard on Simcoe street next to A. G. Gillespie's store. Some of the wires in the vicinity caused the ground to become charged with electricity and unawares the driver of the delivery horse drove into the lane, when the animal plunged violently and fell down on its knees, then struggled up and backed frantically away. The driver not grasping the cause of the horse's action, was attempting to force it forward again, when warned of the cause by a couple of store clerks who were aware of the dangerous spot.

The lane was immediately boarded up until the danger was remedied.

DAMAGE AT BRIDGENORTH.

Residents at Bridgenorth were terrified this morning at the violence of the storm. Trees were blown down and in one case, a large elm was splintered into kindling wood by being struck with a bolt of lightning.

Mr. P. T. Udy, general merchant at Bridgenorth, told the Review that at one time it was impossible to distinguish objects from one side of the road to the other, so heavy was the rainfall. Many of Mr. Jobe's trees, he said, were blown down and the porch at the Methodist church upended and blown a distance of about forty feet. This is the porch that was damaged in a recent storm and it had just been repaired.

GILMOUR MEMORIAL CHURCH.

Yesterday afternoon, both chimneys on the Gilmour Memorial church were swept away and a large hole made in the roof. This allowed the rain to enter and the floor being raised the water flooded the space about the pulpit.

AT ENNISMORE.

No fires occurred in the vicinity of Ennismore, the driver of the Ennismore stage stated this morning. There were many fences, sheds and trees blown down by the wind.

UNWELCOME VISITOR.

The home of Mr. George Armour, 145 Rubidge street, was visited by the lightning this morning and the rear chimney was badly shattered.

The house in question is the north residence in the Bell terrace, between Wolfe and Townsend streets. The lightning struck the rear chimney and followed it through to the ground, blowing out all the stoppers on its descent.

Mrs. Armour was sitting in the kitchen a short distance from the chimney and she was stunned for a few moments. The other occupants of the house immediately arose and dressed, but there was no further damage. The front door was open and the soot was strewn through the different rooms and on to the verandah.

AT BYERSVILLE.

The house occupied by Mr. S. Sandiford in Byersville and belonging to Mr. Cummings, was struck by lightning this morning, but only slightly damaged. The plaster on the west wall of the back of the kitchen was torn off for a few feet, but no one was hurt. A sparrow had apparently sought shelter over the door as there were feathers strewn around where the bolt entered the ground.

DOURO FARMER'S LOSS.

Mr. Patrick Healey, of Douro, suffered an extensive loss by fire this morning when his fine barn was struck by lightning and burned, as well as his out-buildings, twelve pigs, 100 bushels of grain and considerable alfalfa.

The barn was a spacious frame one with stone foundation. There were several outbuildings such as strawshed, drive house, etc., nearby and they all went up in smoke.

The horses, fortunately were in the fields and were therefore not another item on the loss account.

DAMAGE IN SMITH.

The fine barn of Mr. Harry Garbutt, Smith township, was destroyed by fire during the fierce electric storm this morning.

It could not be ascertained whether there was any stock in the building but there was a considerable amount of grain, which he was saving for feed during the harvest season.

Mr. Garbutt's buildings were the finest in Smith township and he will be a heavy loser.

TELEPHONE TROUBLES.

The lines of the Bell Telephone Company as usual, were injuriously affected by the electrical storm this morning. Trouble calls were constantly being received by the trouble department of the company, the majority being complaints of subscribers not being able to hear over their phones. In the neighborhood of one hundred complaints were received and many of the rural sets are disabled.

Near Agincourt the telephone wires between fifteen poles were affected by an electric storm which raged there during the afternoon of yesterday.

WAS PARISH LEFT OUT?

Citizens of Montreal Suburb Hot On the Census Men.

Montreal, July 6.—That the parish of St. Alphonse d'Youville did not see a census man during the recent enumeration is the statement of prominent citizens residing there, who also declare that this statement applies to Villeray, which is bounded by St. Hubert and St. Letang Park, up to the Canadian Pacific Railway line. The total area affected comprises 135 families, 119 of whom are French-Canadian and Catholics, and the population is estimated at 350.

Father Simard of the Redemption Order, parish priest, said to a reporter yesterday:

"It is true that we have not seen a census man, and I fail to explain this discrimination, the result of which will be that the increase in our French-Canadian citizenship will not be shown. I am led to think that these tactics are intended to force us to reduce what some people call our pretensions and what we call our rights."

Albert Gingras was the enumerator for Maisonneuve, and W. F. Gingras for Jacques Cartier, but both assert that the parish of St. Alphonse d'Youville was not on their lists.

Just Where They Were.

Banff, Alta., July 6.—Chairman Gordon has almost completed his report to the Minister of Labor, and left last evening for Winnipeg. It is almost certain that Mr. McLeod will sign this report along with Chairman Gordon, thus forming a majority report. Mr. Carter's report will differ widely from that of the chairman, provided the latter is along the lines of his proposed agreement, which both sides of the controversy turned down so emphatically. The minority report will support the contentions of the mine workers in all the essential points of the controversy.

Indications are that the miners are preparing to make a stubborn fight for what they are asking for. The operators are non-committal as to future action, but the outlook for any immediate advance by each side is decidedly gloomy.

FORTUNES CAME WITH THE IDEAS

Inventions That Have Been Worth Millions to the Men Who Owned Them

The report that an invention for making salt has recently been sold to an American syndicate for no less than $5,000,000 once again illustrates [illegible] commercial warld. We [illegible] course, all think out time and labor-saving devices which are going to bring us in a cool million, but we can keep our eyes open for useful inventions which, although they may not at the moment seem very profitable may prove little gold-mines; for the fact should not be overlooked that some enormous fortunes have been made from little things.

Simple toys, puzzles, and games, have often proved such a success as to put thousands of dollars into the pockets of their inventors. The man who invented the tin rattle for babies retired with a quarter of a million of money, while the man who thought out the idea of the returning ball, which consisted of an ordinary rubber or wooden ball to which was attached a long elastic cord, profited to the extent of $50,000 per annum. The flying top had a rush of popularity which enabled its inventor to live in the lap of luxury for the remainder of his life, while the once popular toy known as "Dancing Jim Crow" is said to have yielded its patentee an annual income of upwards of $75,000.

Inventor of Roller Skates

It is not so many years ago that everyone laboriously laced his own boots from the lowest hole to the top. There was none of that lightning crossing of the laces into the neat little hooks with which the modern lace-boot is provided. The inventor of the boot-hook, H. A. Snipp, sold his patent outright for the sum of $250 and the purchasers are said to have made $1,250,000 out of the idea.

When Harvey Kennedy introduced the shoe-lace he made $2,500,000, and Mr. Plimpton, the inventor of the roller-skate, made a similar fortune out of his idea. Probably our readers will remember a legal action which too kplace some years ago, when in the course of the evidence itt ranspired that the inventor of the metal plates used for protecting the soles and heels of shoes from wear soild 12,000,000 plates in 1879, and in 1887 the number reached a total of 143,000,000, which realized profits of $1,150,000 for the year.

Badly Rewarded

But the inventor does not always reap such magnificent rewards for his genius. Take the case of Mr. J. Longridge, the famous engineer who invented the wire-wound gun, for instance. Longridge invented the gun in 1854, and did all in his power to place it before the authorities, but they would have nothing to do with it. Thirt yyears afterwards, however, the Ordnance Department at Woolwich, subjected one of the guns to exhaustive tests, and so satisfactory were the results that they declared that nothing could equal it for heavy ordnance. Unfortunately, the inventor died from a broken heart before this end was attained.

In all the world's history, however, there is no more startling instance of ingratitude and forgetfulness than the history of Henry Cort, a native of Gosport. He expended the whole of his private fortune of $100,000 in perfecting his inventions for puddling iron and rolling it into bars and plates. Then he was robbed of the fruits of his toil by the villainy of certain Government officials, and in the end left to starve. This was in 1784. Since that day Cort's inventions have conferred upon Great Britain an amount of wealth equivalent to $3,500,000,000, and given constant employment to about 600,000 workmen for the past four generations.

DANGEROUS EXPLOSIVES

The Great Precautions that Have to be Taken by Workmen

On the outside of the wrapping of frozen dynamite feathery crystals gather. These crystals are called "whiskers," and they are more "irritable" than dynamite itself. So touchy are they that anybody treading heavily near them is sufficient to set them off by concussion.

Cordite is another dangerous explosive, more so during its manufacture than after. Easy as it is to handle in its final form it is a favorite explosive with anarchists and bomb-throwers. It is made from a mixture of nitro-glycerine, gun-cotton, and vaseline.

The nitro-glycerine store is a most extraordinary building, buried literally under a mound and reached by a bric-lined passage through the earth.

Nitro-glycerine itself is an almost colorless liquid, and so careful are the men who handle it, that if a single drops falls on the leaden floor it is at once wiped up with a damp rag. All the water that comes from this underground building is carefully drained into a neighboring pond, and every week this is blown up by dynamite on account of the dangerous explosive matter contained in it.

Even in the manufacture of such a comparatively "harmless" explosive as gunpowder the greatest precautions have to be taken. On entreing the building where the powder is being turned out, all matches, pipes, and any steel instruments have to be given up, and special boots have to be put on to prevent any grit reaching the soft leather floor of the buildings.

Machine Reads Character

BETTER BE SINCERE

Strength Lies in Character; Deceit in Weakness

Nothing adds so much to one's personal power as the knowledge that one is absolutely sincere.

If your life is a perpetual sham and deceit, if you know that you are not what you pretend to be, you cannot be strong or exercise any real influence. Others will find you out.

If there is a mote in your eye, set about trying to remove it. Don't fence with it, end try to deceive yourself that it is not there. Other people see it, if you don't.

If there is a continual struggle going on inside you as to whether you are really honest with yourself or not, be sure that there is something wrong. Endeavor to eradicate this.

If you do not trust yourself, you will be unable to look the world in the face. You will "shuffle" out of things, and in time will become so sly that your whole moral being will be besmirched.

Strength lies in character. Deceit is weakness; sham and pretence are enfeebling. Only the genuine and sincere are worth while. Be true to yourself always; then there will be no looking back or turning away to avoid the searching glance of those who are really true.—Home Companion.

PERJURY SYNDICATE

Men Who Manufactured Evidence for Use in Constantinople

A "perjury syndicate," which did a flourishing business in manufactured evidence supplied to litigants at the law-courts in Constantinople, has just come to an end through internal disagreement, and details of its peculiar methods are published. The personnel of the syndicate was composed of pensioned ushers and other petty officials attached to the courts. This organization devotes itself to providing, at reasonable charges, witnesses for the services of litigants who arrive at court insufficiently provided with testimony. The society's agents are to be found outside the doors of all branches of the judicature, including those dealing with divorce and chancery cases, and by reason of the extensive experience of its members, gained by long service in official posts of trust, it is able to supply any class of evidence desired, not as unintelligent perjury, but in a form appropriate to the usual preference of the particular judge detailed to try the case. The success of the society has so widened its sphere of operations that its terms are onw on a low cash basis. The charges for even the highest class of testimony supplied—that in divorce proceedings—are so reasonable, that for two medjidiehs ($1.50) a head the society will provide a petitioning wife with eye-witnesses, of straightforward and convincing simplicity of bearing, of the actual ill-treatment on the part of the respondent required to secure the desired separation.

The collapse of this organization is due to internal dissension among its members as to whether the basis of the division of profits should take account of the additional strain and conscience and religious conviction entailed by the more complicated cases submitted to the society, or whether regard should be had only to time spent in attendance at court. This dispute led to a brawl, which attracted the attention of the police. Without a single exception, all the members of the society have offered to give eviednce for the Crown, and so high an appreciation of each other's abilities is shown by the late associates of the disbanded enterprise that the most intricate and harrowing revelations have been promised to the authorities by ex-members eager to obtain the benefits of service in the witness-box. It is stated that with the dissolution of this association the main supplementary source of livelihood far a large number of meagerly pensioned court officials in Constantinople has been removed.

Death Is Mysterious.

Montreal, July 6.—Mystery surrounds the death of Heldevrie Desroches, forty years of age, who died in the general hospital at four p.m. on Tuesday as the result of poisoning. The man, who was married, had been away from home for three days and had been staying at a hotel on St. Dominique street.

At 2.30 Tuesday afternoon, the ambulance of the general hospital was summoned by someone in the hotel, who found Desroches lying on one of the beds in a very weak condition. He was taken to the hospital, but only lived two hours.

No poison of any kind was found in the room, as would have been the case if the man had committed suicide.

Had Been on Thin Ice.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 6.—The ceremonies in connection with the grand convention of the Knights of Columbus closed yesterday when the Canadian Club entertained the visiting delegates at a banquet, attended by 300. An address was made by Bishop Fallon, who dealt with imperialism. During his remarks he stated that he had recently been on thin ice, but had not yet falltn through, no doubt referring to his bout with Hon. Mr. Hanna re bilingual schools. The address was admitted to be one of the best and most entertaining ever delivered before the Canadian Club here. Bishop Fallon's remarks regarding closer intimacy between the mother country and its dependencies met with favor from those attending.

NEW TEACHER FOR NORWOOD SCHOOL

Miss Cook Succeeds Miss Scott Who Resigned.

Special Correspondence

Norwood, July 4.—The Norwood Board of Education met on Monday evening, the 3rd inst., at eight o'clock at the high school.

Present; Messrs. C. E. Pakenham (chairman) W. H. Cuthbertson, J. R. McKelvie, E. C. Squire, Thomas Burkell, J. Ald. Finlay, G. H. Nickel, I. MacNaughton.

Minutes of the last meeting read an adopted.

The chairman reported that the executive committee had engaged Miss Edna J. Cook at a salary of $725.00 to fill the vacancy on the high school staff caused by the retirement of Miss B. Scott.

Moved by Messrs. J. A. Finlay and Thomas Burkell, that the board sustain the action of the executive committee.

A communication was read from Miss Mary A. Kirkpatrick asking the board to grant her leave of absence till Jan. 1st, 1912. Moved by Mr. Cuthbertson, seconded by Mr. McKelvie, that the matter referred to in Miss Kirkpatrick's communication be left with the executive committee.—Carried.

The following accounts, on notion of Messrs. Finlay and Squire were referred to their respective committees for ratification: J. W. Rork, supplies for agricultural departemnt, $2.05; George M. Hendry, high school supplies, $6.85.

The board adjournedd at 9.15.

Several of the farmers in this vicinity have already commenced their haying. The excessively warm weather is ripening up the fall grain so fast that the binders will have to be started before the hay crop is out of the way.

The outlook in this section for a bountiful harvest is at the present time most promising. Crops have seldom look as well as they do this year. One kind of grain appears to be trying to surpass the other. Peas will be extra good if we have another nice shower of rain within the next few days. While the hay crop will not be as heavy as it was last year, on account of the clover having been killed out during the winter and spring, still the quality promises to more than make up any deficiency in quality.

The Norwood Baptist Sunday school held their annual picnic at the grove at Centre Dummer on Monday of this week. Despite the excessive heat nearly four hundred people atetnded. All speak as having had a very enjoyable time. The refreshment booth did a flourishing business and added about forty dollars to the treasury of the school.

APSLEY NEWS

Special Correspondence.

Apsley, July 5.—The High school entrance examination was held in the Public school here last week, with Mr. Harvey, principal of the Lakefield Public school as presiding examiner.

Dr. Gibson, of Lakefield, spent a very busy day here on Monday of last week filling and extracting teeth.

Mr. R. R. Hall, of Peterborough, paid this part of the country a flying visit in his automobile recently in the interests of the Liberal convention. A number from here attended the convention in Norwood last week.

The Public school has closed for the summer vacation and Miss Lees left for her home in Peterborough last week.

It was with sadness that word was received here of the death of Mr. William Snelgrove, of Markinch, Sask. He was a resident of this place up to a couple of years ago, when he left for the west. He has been in poor health for some time. He leaves a wife and one brother to mourn his loss.

The death occurred here on June 18, of Mrs. Ayling at the age of seventy-seven years. She has been a resident of this village for some time. She had been in failing health for about three months and the end did not come unexpedly. The funeral took place on June 21st, from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. Henry White, where she made her home, to the Anglican church, where a funeral service was held by Rev. C. Lord. Interment took place in the Anglican cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. T. Eastland, A. McColl, W. James, A. Woods, T. Tanner and G. Bullied. SIMON LEGREE OUTDONE; FREE COMEDY ENTERTAINMENTS

There was fun and frolic on Hunter and Chambers street yesterday afternoon about five o'clock ,the program being made up by a "Simon Legree" performance and a fistic engagement, and as there were no policemen around to act as officials to see that everything was on the level, the crowd, which soon gathered, forgot for a time that the thermometer had been aviating around the 100 mark. The preliminary, staged, in front of Minicolo's fruit store, was very funny. The principals were a son of Erin and an Englishman, the latter having resented some action on the part of the Irishman, who was driving. The latter had evidently threatened the other with his whip, and Johnny Bull kept up a heated protest. He carried a pair of irons on his shoulder and the climax came when the Irishman used the butt end of the whip on the top-piece of the other after he had raised his irons as if to strike the fiery occupant of the buggy. Then followed a hugging match on the pavement, but the two men parted before any damage was done. More compliments flew and the finale was immense. The Englishman took to his heels, and with his pugilistic opponent in hot pursuit, but a poor second, ran to the corner of Water street, pretty much after the fashion of a rugby half-back on a forty yard run, and the also ran gave up the chase.

BOYS WILL BE BOYS.

The crowd had barely ceased laughing over the mix-up when two youths on Chambers street near Akey's livery barns attempted to outdo Ad. Wolgast and Owen Moran. Both clinched and sidestepped like veterans of the squared circle and after two rounds, during which neither struck a blow, consignments of water from a second storey window broke up the fight.

BICYCLE VS. WAGON.

Again, at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets, a resident of east city, named McMahon, who was riding a bicycle, tried conclusions with a delivery wagon. He was knocked off his machine and had a narrow escape from serious injury. He was somewhat shaken up and the bicycle was practically demolished.

Vernon Severs, the general manager of this tremendous amusement enterprise, has spared no expense to make this street pageant the most glitteringly beautiful and [illegible] affair possible. One of the features of the parade is Col Stewart and his 20 ox-team. Col. Stewart is the veteran ox driver of the civil war.

A correspondent speaks of the inconvenience and danger in allowing cattle to run our roads at night, and suggests that the owners of such cattle would be liable for damages in case of accident. We do not know as to their liability for damages, as men of our legal profession might take a wider view than we might imagine at first sight, in connection with such a case and accumulate more wealth themselves than would cover damages, besides probably charging us with recklessness in case of accident. We are safeguarded by a by-law in our municiapl books prohibiting the pasturing of cattle or other animals on our roads between sunset and sunrise, and we have an individual part to perform in in the enforcement of such a by-law and if a person seeing cattle on the road during prohibited hours were to impound them, giving notice thereof in writing to our township Clerk, stating the number and keeper of said pound, we think by holding the owner liable for the necessary release fee, that the grievance could be remedied without any legal complications. Another by-law, which is either defective or is often violated, is our local option by-law and shoul dreceive the attention of all right thinking men and women and a stricter measure should be urged upon our government. We quite frequently here of intoxicants by the case and keg being brought into our midst by different means of transportation, and drinking and carousing of a most disgusting nature are carried on in some quarters of our community.

VOL. LXIII., No. 5. PETERBOROUGH, ONT., CANADA, FRIDAY, JULY 7, 1911 TEN CENTS PER WEEK.

FIRST PART OF ARBITRATION TREATY SIGNED AT CAPITAL

Schedule of Pecuniary Claims is Signed—Conference on General Arbitration is Progressing.

Washington, July 7.—The principle of arbitration of international disputes, in so far as its application to the United States and Great Britain is concerned, received a pronounced impetus yesterday. Secretary of State Knox and Ambassador Bryce signed the first schedule of certain pecuniary claims existing between the United States and Great Britain and the terms of their submission to arbitration in accordance with the special agreement signed August 18 last.

Not satisfied with this accomplishment for one day, the Secretary and Ambassador then further lent their energies in the cause of international peace by conferring for an hour on the proposed general arbitration treaty, which is to supplant, by broadening its scope, the very convention under which the pecuniary claims will be arbitrated.

This conference was devoted to questions relating primarily to phraseology. It is admitted in official quarters that the treaty is all but completed, and the administration is confident it will be finished in time for submission to the Senate for ratification at the present session.

The pecuniary claims to be arbitrated aggregate several million dollars. Some of them are of long standing, even antedating the war of 1812, while many grew out of the war in the Philippines. Others relate to fisheries and the Fiji Islands.

Both the special agreement and the schedule of claims will now be submitted to the Senate for ratification. The special agreement commits the two Governments to the arbitration claims and provides the machinery of the arbitral tribunal, while the schedule is a list of claims believed to be legitimate and worthy of consideration.

Boatman's Body Recovered.

Sault Ste. Marie, July 7.—A body taken from the river two miles below the Soo Wednesday evening has been identified as that of John Sherwood, a local boatman, who met his death in the river last November, while bringing a party of Canadians, three of whom were drowned, to the Canadian side. It was rumored at the time of the accident that Sherwood had escaped and had left for parts unknown, fearing the consequences of his act. The body has been interred in the local cemetery at the expense of the city, as he had no relatives here.

Fish Dying by Thousands.

Chatham, Ont., July 7.—The fish in Lake Erie are dying by the thousands, and are daily being washed up on the shores. Along the lake front near Erie Beach and Erieau people are burying dead pickerel, bass, and herring by the ton. No reason can be assigned for this remarkable slaughter of the finny tribe.

REPORTS ARE RIDICULED

No Trouble in Hull Expected on July 12th

Special to the Review.

Ottawa, July 7.—Prominent Roman Catholics of Hull ridicule alarmist reports that the holding of the parade there by the Orangemen on July 12th, is likely to be attended by rioting and bloodshed. Ottawa papers and Mayor Archambault, of Hull, are blamed for the whole agitation. Unless the unexpected happened, it is said everything will be quiet.

PIER AT PARK COLLAPSES

A Score of Ottawa People Nearly Drowned.

Two Yacht Club Members' Rescue Work.

Ottawa, July 7.—Through the collapsing of a section of the pier leading to the dock at Queen's Park, Aylmer, shortly after five o'clock yesterday afternoon, fifty people, all residents of Fitzroy Harbor and Torbolton, were precipitated into the water. A scene of indescribable confusion followed. One fatality occurred, Mrs. Justin Davis of Woodlawn, near Torbolton, losing her life by drowning. Miss Pearl Graham, Torbolton, had a narrow escape, only being brought around with difficulty.

The lives of the whole fifty persons were endangered, and had it not been for Mr. Foley Ottawa, and Mr. Mullin, Hull, two young members of the Victoria Yacht Club, it is more than probable that a score or more would have met their death by drowning. To these young men and to Mr. Armitage, Torbolton, who assisted them in pulling the rescued out of the water into a boat, many owe their lives.

At the time the accident occurred the pier was crowded with about 200 members of the Anglican Churches at Fitzroy Harbor and Torbolton, who were awaiting the arrival of the steamer G. B. Greene, which was to carry them back to their homes. The occasion of their visit to the park and to Ottawa was their annual excursion, held under the management of Rev. Mr. Ivison, rector of the two charges. The steamer was about to put into the dock at the Victoria Boat Club to take on the excursionists awaiting its arrival. Many of those waiting were engaged in watching young Foley and Mullin swimming and diving. At the sound of the steamer's whistle a half rush was made toward the end of the dock, when suddenly there was a sound of rending timbers, and in a moment those who were standing over the spot where the break occurred, were hurled into the water with great force.

The balance of the excursionists stood seemingly helpless. Not so with Foley and Mullin. In a trice the two young men were engaged in their work of rescue. Hastily sizing up the situation and seeing that they alone in the crowd had any thoughts of helping those in peril, they plunged into the lake and commenced to bring the women to the pier. One after another was pulled, hauled, or carried to the platform, raised up the side of the pier so that willing hands could bring them to the safety of the dock. With no thought to themselves they worked like beavers and never stopped until all were accounted for. Men stood watching them and did not offer a hand. Indeed, it seemed to be "save him who may."

In the water several incidents occurred that throws no heroic light on the men who were thrown in along with the women and children. One of the occurrences was of a particularly cowardly nature. Young Mullin had just pulled a woman out who was going down for the last time. Seeing another in a like predicament he asked one of the male passengers, who was clinging to the dock, to take charge of the first woman while he went to the help of the second. Mullin had no sooner turned than he heard the sound of a cry, looking around he saw the man strike the woman full in the face, sending her back into the water. Happily, however, Mullin was able to rescue both women, but in the hurry he lost track of the man who did the cowardly act.

Struck by Flying Splinter.

Chatham, July 7.—Baum Pickering, an employe at the bent goods works, was struck by a flying splinter from a shaver he was operating and suffered a severe gash in the face below the right eye.

ELECTRICAL STORMS WORK HAVOC IN SOME LOCALITIES

Lightning After the Hot Spell Does Damage in Parts of the Province.

Brockville, July 7.—Two thunderstorms which brought the rain down in torrents, giving relief from the stifling heat, were gladly welcomed throughout this section yesterday. Farmers are also in a joyful mood, as meadows and crops were beginning to feel the need of water after the unusual warmth.

During the storm lightning struck three cottages close to the town. The summer home of F. B. Steacy at Fernbank was the scene of one of the attacks. The lightning struck the roof, tearing a hole through and twisting the rafters as though they were matches. It made its way through the interior downstairs, ripping up floors and woodwork. In the cottage at the time were Mrs. Steacy, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Bell, and daughter, Miss Bell of Toronto, and Adiel Steacy and servant, all of whom sustained injury. The cottages of Lieut.-Col. Cole at Oriental Isle and H. S. Brown at Bay View also sustained damages by the lightning's pranks.

Deafened by Shock.

Barrie, July 7.—Considerable damage was done in this locality early yesterday morning during the electric storm, which passed over the section during the early hours. The homes of J. Wellington and William Goddon on Centre street, in the Allandale ward, were both badly torn up. Goddon was deafened by the shock, and up to noon his hearing had not been restored. His wife was also stunned and their cat was killed outright. Several barns in the locality of Barrie also reported to have been completely destroyed.

Stocks and Implements Burned.

Beaverton, July 7.—Yesterday morning about six o'clock during a severe thunderstorm in this vicinity, about four miles south of Beaverton, the new bank barn of Donald Brown, reeve of the Township of Thorah, was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Mr. Brown's loss will be heavy, as four horses, twenty-five hogs, one cow and six calves were killed, also all his hens and implements were burned.

Trolleys Struck.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—For half an hour yesterday the most severe electric storm of the summer raged along the frontier. On the American side great hail stones fell. Several trolley cars were struck by lightning. Firemen were called out to extinguish a blaze resulting from two telegraph poles being struck.

Will Receive Increase.

Montreal, July 7.—When the workmen at the Angus shops of the C.P.R. get their next pay checks they will find them considerably augmented, as the company has decided to grant an all-round increase to its employes.

The schedule is practically completed and affects all departments except the office staff. It gives increases to all the mechanics and their helpers, ranging from half a cent to three cents an hour, and takes immediate effect.

HEAT WAVE GOING WEST

Saying Good-bye to Ontario and Quebec.

Weather in New York Still of Bake-Oven Nature.

Toronto, July 7.—The heat wave is on its way west. Quebec and Ontario last night bid it good-bie. The weather man said that its next stop would likely be Manitoba and Alberta. During the last few days it has been quite cool in the west, Calgary having been only four points above freezing.

The prolonged previous dry spell in Ontario made the heat harder to bear. Added to this was the usual Ontario humidity. Had the atmosphere been dry like the western air, the heat would not have been nearly so oppressive.

The death toll in Toronto has now reached over 40, and possibly more have died indirectly. Yesterday thirteen out of twenty death registrations at the city hall were caused by the heat. The total number of registrations since Saturday is almost double that of the same period of last year, and judging from this, it is not at all unlikely that many deaths, while not being attributed to the heat, may have been hastened by it.

New York Still Torrid.

New York, July 7.—Showers last night brought measurable relief to New York from the hot wave which has taken more than 100 lives and caused hundreds of prostrations during the five days it has hung over this city. Until the shower area began to develop locally, shortly after eight o'clock last evening there had been no sign of a letup in the intensity of the wave. Indeed the day's maximum of 95 bettered Wednesday's high mark by half a degree. All that made conditions in any way endurable was a brisk breeze.

Stricken horses were to be seen every few blocks. One driver went mad on his seat and had to be restrained and forcibly taken to a hospital.

England Also Warm.

London, July 7.—England is experiencing a hot wave also, which, however, according to meteorologists has no connection with the American heat wave. The temperature in London yesterday was 83 in the shade—the hottest in two years and the high temperature is driving the people by the wholesale to the seashore.

HEAT WILL HURRY VOTE

Senators Anxious to Get Rid of Reciprocity.

Washington, July 7.—A more general sentiment for expeditious action on the Canadian reciprocity agreement, wool revision and free list bills was apparent yesterday after informal conferences among various groups of Senators and six hours' of continuous debate in the superheated chamber of the Senate. It was the first of the longer sessions under the decision of the Senate to meet one hour earlier than usual in order to hasten action on the legislative program. Senator Gronna of North Dakota, an insurgent Republican, after a long speech in opposition to the agreement, during which he clashed frequently with the advocates of the measure, was forced to give up almost exhausted at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the Senate almost immediately afterwards adjourned.

The informal discussions among Senators indicated that the present feeling, doubtless influenced to some extent by the existing hot wave, is that debate may be brought to an end within ten days or a fortnight, and that when the reciprocity bill is passed, the Democrats will be willing to vote on the wool and free list bills without any extended debate, and adjourn almost immediately. The insurgent Republicans are still holding out, however, for other legislation.

PEERS WON'T DIE WITHOUT A VIGOROUS FIGHT FOR LIFE

Will Fight the Surrender of Veto Power to the Finish —Debate in the Lords.

London, July 7.—The committee stage of the Parliament bill, otherwise known as the veto bill, for the curtailment of the powers of the Lords, was concluded in the House of Lords last night. Although numerous amendments and new clauses seeking to modify its provisions were proposed by members, these were all withdrawn or rejected.

The debate throughout displayed great restiveness on the part of the peers against their leaders and there were significant differences of opinion. Lord St. Aldwyn, who as Michael Edward Hicks-Beach, was Chancellor of the Exchequer in 1885, and again in 1895-1902, the financial leader on the Conservative side, more than once declined to vote with his party.

The House of Lords shows the greatest reluctance to yield its control of money bills. As the bill leaves the Lords, it commits to a joint committee of six members of the two Houses the power of deciding whether or not any bill is a money bill—a power which the Government bill reposes in the Speaker of the House of Commons alone.

Further, the same committee will have the virtual power of referring any important bill to a referendum of the people. The report stage has been fixed by the Lords for July 13, and when the bill goes back to the House of Commons, it is certain that these new clauses and amendments will be rejected en bloc. What course the House of Lords will then adopt is uncertain, but the strongest influences are being brought to bear from the strongest section of the Unionist party to persuade the leaders against forcing the Government to invoke the creation of 500 peers.

Lord Cromer and his fellow Unionist peers profess to fear that a money bill may pass the House of Commons with general legislation tacked on, and they declare that it is not a sufficient safeguard to leave the settlement of the question to the speaker.

Lord Morley of Blackburn said that he could not understand how members who had voted on a measure could be expected to consider it impartially afterwards. This clause, he declared, would destroy the entire structure of the Parliament bill and involve the incomplete betrayal of its objects. Therefore the Government would not consent to it.

After several peers had spoken in support of the new clause, it was adopted and added to the bill.

THE COUNTESS OF ABERDEEN, who will receive the King and Queen as the wife of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ireland.

Motor Cylist Hurt.

Chatham, July 7.—Murray Hogarth had an unfortunate experience yesterday morning, when motoring in town on his motor cycle on the river road, Harwich. A horse hitched to a wagon was being driven by a man who was going in the same direction. When it heard the cycle come up suddenly from behind it became frightened and dashed right into the cyclist, knocking him down into the side ditch and damaging the motor cycle considerably. Hogarth was badly injured.

PRAIRIES CALLING FOR MEN BUT THE ANSWER COMETH NOT

Inquest Adjourned.

Beamsville, July 7.—The body of Edna Comfort, which was taken from the reservoir Wednesday night, was removed to an undertaking establishment and a jury was empanelled yesterday morning at six o'clock. A postponement was taken till Tuesday evening, July 11, to procure further evidence. Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock Drs. Fairfield, Elmore and Stallwood conducted a post-mortem, but they decline to make any statement until the inquest. The mother's hat and a little wagon belonging to her son were found in the woods a short distance from the reservoir by a squad of boy scouts yesterday afternoon.

Labor Difficulties Staring West in the Face Already —Cheap Fares Offering.

Winnipeg, July 7.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is rousing to a sense of its responsibilities in harvesting what at the present time promises to be the two-hundred-million-and-over bushel crop of the Canadian prairie west. It was stated yesterday at the company's office that a number of enquiries had been telegraphed to large employers all over eastern Canada, asking whether they could spare men. Answers received to date show that the labor situation is not encouraging. Instead of being able to spare men, employers say they have not enough to meet their normal requirements.

It is possible, though, that an altogether novel experiment will be made, of bringing from seven to ten thousand men from British Columbia points, mainly from Vancouver. It has been pointed out to Sir William Whyte that owing to the exceptional labor conditions prevailing at Vancouver, a large number of men are out of work. The Canadian Pacific Railway has been asked to grant the same cheap harvesters' fares from the coast as are offered from eastern Canadian points. There is little doubt that these will be conceded, and that the prairie west in its hour of need will thus get help from the Pacific coast. Rates will be extended to Seattle and all points in that territory, reached by the Canadian Pacific.

THE TWELFTH IN HULL

The promise of trouble in Hull on July 12th, if the Orangemen carry out their proposed parade on the streets, ought to waken some people up, to the fact that this is not Canada, a free British country, where man can parade as he likes on the streets, but some other place—we don't know what.

Mayor Archambault, of Hull, has issued a warning to the Orangemen, but that he should take the attitude of opposing the parade because it will nto be popular with some of the Hull people is most nnjudicial.

The Roman Catholics of Hull have the right, as British subjects, to parade the streets of Ottawa with a clerical procession. Their Protestant compatriots would certainly not dream of offering violence, or anything but toleration Then why should Hull threaten such trouble merely because the Orange parade is distasteful to the residents? The law should sternly sit on any such attempt to create a clash between the two bodies, for the Orangemen in this case, as long as they behave decently, quietly and respectably, certainly are within their ordinary rights. The trouble with most people is that they cannot view religious matters broadly and dispassionately. Their zeal runs to all sorts of foolish directions, and leads to intolerance that is unbearable to the mind of broad and generous calibre. We venture to say that nowhere but in Quebec would there be violent objection raised to any religious procession.

The Ottawa Citizen, which has taken up the cause of the Orangemen, and urges them to stick to their guns in insisting on what is certainly their privilege as Canadians and Britishers, says:

"Mayor Archambault has made the inflammatory statement that a body of Orangemen proposed to hold a procession in Hull to educate the majority of the people of that city. The Citizen has more respect for the good sense of the majority of the people of Hull, but it has no hesitation in declaring that the holding of such a procession would have a very salutary educative influence on the Mayor and mayor and police force of that city, in demonstrating to them the inalienable right of British subjects wherever the flag flies. The Citizen would go further, and say that if the Orange order demonstrate that right in Hull or any other place in Canada, it should be done in a manner that should thoroughly vindicate the right, and not by any dangerous half measure."

SCHOOL PLAY-GROUNDS

The members of the board of education had an eye to the future when they determined that when getting locations for the new east and west ward schools they would provide good playing grounds in connection. This policy should have been adopted by the school boards of years ago, when the present schools were secured, for to-day Peterborough is suffering through the mistake.

The location of the east ward school at the north east corner of Concession and Hunter streets, proposed by the committee, has the merit of providing six acres of ground for school purposes Six acres is more than is really necessary, but land acquired in this manner by a civic body is money well invested, just the same as in private real estate speculation. In the south end of the city the school board once had a chance to get a block of land in connection with a school for about $700 and to-day the land is worth as many thousands of dollars.

It seems somewhat of a pity to condemn posterity to have to climb the hill to the proposed east ward school site, but according to the members of the board, there is no other suitable location in the east, that could be secured without having to purchase three or four houses and tear them down.

The east ward site will have the advantage of being bigger than is needed, high up on a slope, commanding a fine view of the city, with the best of fresh air. It is somewhat doubtful if the city will grow much for years towards the lift lock, over that hill, but a school placed at the outer edge of the ward should in time be very centrally located.

The mistakes of other school boards should be lessons to the present body in providing in location and in building for the increased tax, the future will make on the school accomodation of the city. We don't want another South Central school, where the children have to play during recess on the sidewalk and the street.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The heat ought to be some inducement these days, to make a man take to underground work.

The thunderstorms this summer seem to unusually vicious, some place getting hit every time. It is a shame that we can't have the lightning muzzled, the same as the innocent canines.

The rumor that Sir Frederick Borden has been offered the Canadian high commissionership, is not confirmed. It would probably be quite a break for the doctor to leave his associates in Ottawa.

When a Kerr Liberal meets a Hall Liberal these days, the July torridity seems to suddenly disappear into the Arctic regions. If we could only borrow some of that icy atmosphere, we would save on our icemen's bills considerably.

When other Canadian cities were sweltering in a hundred degrees of heat, Kingston was cool with a little over eighty. That's not surprising. Kingston will catch up with this warm spell in a month or so.

The pupil is sometimes more apt than the master The balloting at the Norwood convention was done so nicely that one would have imagined Cap. Sullivan had been on the job. But, of course, Mr. Kerr had no knowledge that there were seventeen fewer delegates than ballots cast.

Many complaints have been received at this office from farmers living on Rural Route No. 2, which has its terminus at Fowler's Corners, about bad delivery of mail, some of the farmers going so far as to claim that whoever handles the mail cannot read. However this may be, it is certain that the delivery is made in anything but a satisfactory manner.

The liquidator's financial statement of the F. A. Slocum company shows $113,906 that was spent on advertising as an asset. Good paid for advertising is undoubtedly a great asset to the firm, but the free advertising the Slocum company got, through the investigation is anything but an asset. All of which demonstrates the power for good or evil, of advertising on a firm's fortunes.

Nat Goodwin, the actor, tells of how he and Maxine Eliott (No. 3 for Nat), hired guests to partake of his hospitality, in trying to break into English society. He wined them and dined them, and paid them at the same time, and the cruelest blow of all was having to lend $2,000 to a duke on a French race-course, which was never paid back. Nat apparently decided that Maxine's English bee in her bonnet was too busy for his'n.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 6.—A sudden collapse in prices to-day came as an immediate result as an end of the heat and drought. Corn led the downfall, closing with a net loss of 2 5-8c to 3c. Oats made a close second, finishing 1 1-4c to 2 1-8c down. Wheat was 1 1-8c and 1 1-4c to 1 3-8c lower than last night, while provisions, too, scored a decline of a nickel to 25c. Corn sharply reversed the action of yesterday and closed at almost the bottom figures of the session. During the session Sept. ranged from 63 3-4c to 65c, closing fairly steady at 64 1-8c, a net loss of 2 5-8c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ½d to ⅝d lower than yesterday on wheat and ⅝d lower on corn. Antwerp wheat closed unchanged, Berlin ¼c lower, Buda Pest ⅜c lower.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 6.—A fair amount of business was worked in low grade Manitoba spring wheat over the cable, but the prices bid for No. 2 northern were 1½d lower than yesterday at 36s 6d. The trade in oats for export account was quiet, and the only business of importance reported on spot was a sale of 10,000 bushels of No. 2 Canadian western at 41¼c per bushel afloat July shipment. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour was moderate, and all the offers sent out last night at advanced prices were accepted, and orders were received for winter wheat flour, but the prices bid were 6d per sack under what sellers are asking. Local trade is fairly good, and prices steady. A local feeling has developed in the market for Ontario and Manitoba bran, and prices have declined $2 per ton. and shorts are also $1 lower.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, July 6.—The railways reported 55 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 574 cattle, 1445 hogs, 416 sheep and lambs and 140 calves.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought for the Harris Abattoir Co., 833 cattle, on Wednesday and Thursday as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.30 to $5.90; a few heavy cattle, at $5.80 to $6; cows at $3 to $4.80; common cows, $1.50 to $2.80; bulls, $3 to $4.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Stock and feeding cattle market was stagnant. Lack of good pasturage in many sections, and the desire of those who have the grass to hold on to their money believing that the bottom has not yet been struck is keeping the country demand down to small proportions, and prices are down to much the most attractive level for many months. Sellers had to force the trade to take hold at prices that are from 75c to $1 per cwt. less than were current about a month ago.

Milkers and Springers.

During the week there has been a fair supply of medium to good cows, but not enough of the high grade toppers. Prices have ranged from $40 to $65, and $70 to $75 for a very few choice cows.

Veal Calves.

Receipts moderate, prices steady to firm, at $4 to $7.50 per cwt. with an odd one or two extra quality at $8.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn quoted prices as follows: Heavy ewes and rams, $2.50 to $3.25; light handy ewes, $3.50 to $4.50, and yearlings at $5 per cwt. in a few instances; lambs, $7 to $8 per cwt.

Hogs.

The hog market was weak at $7.10 for selects fed and watered, and $6.75 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 6.—Cattle—Receipts 250 head; market dull and steady; prime steers, $6.40 to $6.75; butcher grades, $3 to $6.45.

YOUNG BUFFALO SHOULD HAVE BEEN ON THE JOB

Noble's Team on their Bad Behavior at Noon

Pandemonium reigned on George street for a few moments at noon today when the team belonging to Mr. Isaac Noble, expressman, ran from the C.P.R. station colliding with and damaging one of the National Hotel bus team and finally stopping on Simcoe street, when one of the horses landed on the sidewalk.

The team was attached to one of Noble's express wagons and was left standing at the C.P.R. station while the 11.28 train pulled out. The driver was on the end station platform and when the animals started he did not have time to catch them. The Oriental and National busses were leaving the yard and the swerving wagon struck the front wheel of the National bus and caught one horse on the hock of the left hind leg, cutting it severely. The runaways proceeded up George street and when near the corner of Charlotte and George streets, the vehicle was hit by a street car and the pole was broken. The wagon now swerved more recklessly than before and the horses turned at Simcoe street and ran on to the south pavement. One of the frightened animals fell and before the other could break away it was secured by a passerby.

The runaways were only slightly scratched, but the bus horse has a very sore leg.

The privileges you grant people soon become their rights.

John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

His wife, with the sobering recollection of the gulf between talk and achievement, of desire and possession, was careful to build no hopes upon these fabrics of vision, though she was too wise to seek to restrain the ardor of his imagination. She did, however, take with gratitude what the gods had given, pending the bestowal of possibly greater favors. The substantial addition to their means enabled her to hire a woman who (when she felt like it) did the dirtier work of the household that had been such a tax upon her. Little toilet necessities and accessories made their appearance. Brooks, when he had made an extra good week, insisted on lavishing his additional earnings upon her. New and suitable clothing restored her self respect and the pleasure that every woman feels or should feel in making herself attractive.

Mrs. Harris and Beth could not fail to notice the change, and it had a gradual but marked effect on their attitude toward Brooks, which became more civil and cordial. Emma declined to gratify their inquisitiveness beyond admitting that Joe was "getting on." To all leading questions she returned evasive answers, one reason being that deep resentment rankled in the heart of her husband for the lofty disdain under which he had suffered for so long and that he objected emphatically to the revelation of their private affairs to anybody, even to Jimsy. Besides, as he had pointed out, it would not be to their interest for the intelligence that he was doing outside work to reach Captain Williams' ears. He would either be dropped or so much would be given to him to do that there would be no time in which to devote his energies so lucratively elsewhere. The force of this could not fail to be seen by Mrs. Brooks, and, thus placed on her guard, she was all discretion.

Soon Joe was doing so well that they decided to take a larger flat and engage a regular servant.

Another piece of luck came to Joe, so unlooked for, in form so amazingly substantial, that it almost made Emma crazy with joy.

Looking out of the window about supper time and wishing that her husband would come, she noticed a cab drive up to the door and, to her surprise, saw her husband leap out of it. He bounded up the stairs two at a time, breathless with excitement, and emptied from his pockets on to the table a heap of notes and gold. Then he seized hold of her and forcibly waltzed her around the room.

Finally he sat her, panting and bewildered, in a chair and pushed the money toward her.

"There, little woman," he gasped "that's for you, all of it—every penny of it! You know that three days ago when Jimsy started on that trip of inspection to our South American ports of call Williams went too and that they are to be gone for two or three months. Well, I'll give you a million chances and you'll never come near guessing the decent thing Williams did. He recognized my services to the company at last by promoting me to head a new exchange and collection department with a salary of $300 a month, the raise to date from six months back. Here's the six months' back pay—$1,800."

It was Emma's turn to get up and waltz when she had recovered somewhat from her astonishment.

They decided at her suggestion to celebrate their good fortune forthwith by a banquet royal for two at one of the fashionable restaurants. Hastily she donned her prettiest costume, and they set out. Never had she been so vivacious, never more charming.

"Now," she said joyfully, "you'll be able to get a dress suit, and I can have a piano."

The lack of a piano always had been cause for keen regret.

Then she began to consider how they might live more comfortably than they had been doing. Joe proposed that they should avoid the housekeeping and servant problems altogether by living in an apartment hotel. He thought this would be within their means if they furnished the apartment themselves. He did not think it would cost more than living in a flat. Emma fell in with this view with eager enthusiasm.

Investigation proved the plan a little more expensive than they had bargained for, but they had what appeared to Emma to be a fabulous sum of money on hand, and they found an apartment which so pleased them in a hotel where the arrangements appeared to be satisfactory that they decided to take it.

Then Emma, with a light heart and a full purse—which, however, did not remain long in its bulging condition—experienced for the first time the unalloyed felicity of shopping to her heart's content, and the tangible result of her peregrinations was a charmingly furnished nest, conspicuous among the objects in which was her coveted piano.

WILL PURCHASE PUMPING ENGINE

One is Needed in Connection With Overflows

Board of Works Recommend Paving of Chamber Street

The Board of Works decided to purchase a gasoline pumping engine from the Smart Turner Co., of Hamilton, at the meeting last night. Mr. Chipman and the city engineer recommended the machine. It will cost $216.85 and will be used in connection with the work on overflows, which are being constructed. The machine will raise one hundred gallons of water a minute.

A request to install [illegible] pipe across Reid street at a depth of from three to four feet, from the Wm. Hamilton Co. was granted and the engineer will report on a request from the Bell Telephone Co. to open parts of George, Aylmer and Charlotte streets to lay conduits.

The matter of conducting a catch basin at the corner of Walton and Weller street was left with the chairman with power to act.

The engineer and chairman will act on a request for an extension of a storm drain on the east side of George street, north of Simcoe. This will stop flooding at the corner of George and Simcoe streets.

Ald. Brown suggested that a granolithic sidewalk be provided for at the Canadian General Electric Co., south of the gate house. A sidewalk, he held was very much needed.

The chairman informed the committee that gravel could not be secured from Leahy's pit in Monaghan for the purpose of gravelling Chamberlain street. Gravel from another pit, however, may be obtainable.

A petition was read from property owners, who asked that Chambers street be paved. After some discussion, the committee decided to recommend to the council that the city engineer make a report on the cost of paving the street with 2 1-2 inch asphalt block.

As to the proportion of assessment, one of 30 and 70 was recommended.

SUDDEN DEATH OF JOHN CHISHOLM

Former Resident of Monaghan Passed Away In Toronto

Toronto, July 6—John Chisholm, who passed away yesterday at the home of his sister, 158 Riverdale avenue, was a well-known and highly respected member of the Masonic Order, and Oddfellow's Society. He was seized with faintness after he had breakfast yesterday, laid down on a couch and expired almost immediately of heart failure, due to the excessive heat.

He was born in Monaghan, near Peterboro, 70 years ago to-day and his birthday was to have been celebrated to-day. For over twenty-years he had been a member of Stanley Lodge A.F. and A.M. of West Toronto, and a member of Beethoven Lodge, of Oddfellows, Brooklyn, for 25 years. He was a Methodist and a Liberal. Of a retiring and gentle nature he was universally respected.

ELOPEMENT AT RICE LAKE ?

James Trebilcock is Looking for His Better Half

An Indian from Rice Lake named James Trebilcock, was in the city this morning and complained to the chief of police and also to County Magistrate Edmison, about a man of his own color whom he believed eloped yesterday with his wife. As the alleged elopement is said to have occurred in Northumberland County, no action on the part of the local authorities can be taken. It is rumored that the elopers have taken themselves in the direction of Lake Simcoe, where they will be amongst relatives. The deserted husband was in a very much excited state this morning. In the latter end of May he appeared in the local police court on a charge of drunkenness after having spent the winter at North Bay. He was discharged at the time and left for Roseneath, Ont.

DROWNING OF WM. COOK IN THE LAKE AT COBOURG

Was Last Seen About Ten o'Clock at Night—Had Complained of Heat.

Cobourg, Ont., July 6.—A young man named W. J. Cook, who had only been in town a short time, was drowned at the wharf here either last night or early this morning. The body was noticed near one of the boat-houses and was recovered. His father resides near Stirling, and arrived in town tonight to take the remains home. Deceased was a moulder and has been working in Peterborough. He was noticed about the water yesterday afternoon and was last seen at ten o'clock last night at the lake. He was complaining of the heat. Coroner Elliot viewed the remains and decided that an inquest was unnecessary.

The late Wm. Cook was well known in this city and many friends and acquaintances learn with deep regret the announcement of his death in yesterday's issue of the Review. He boarded at the home of Mrs. Kate McDonald, 346 Aylmer street, and worked in the moulding shop of Adam Hall.

VISITOR HAD COSTLY DRUNK

Came Here With $25 and Landed in Cells With $12.85

Peter Hill pleaded guilty of being drunk in a public place yesterday, when the charge was read to him at police court to-day.

He told his Worship that he hailed from Sudbury and was on his way to Campbellford, Ont.

Last night he was arrested very much intoxicated and assisted to the police cells. He had about $25 early last night, but his funds this morning amounted to just $12.85, and Peter was unable to say where the balance had slipped away.

"I wasn't accustomed to drinking," was his excuse.

The magistrate ordered him to be escorted to the station and put aboard the Campbellford train.

TWENTY-OX TEAM IN CIRCUS PARADE

Young Buffalo Wild West Show Creates Very Favorable Impressions—Another Tomorrow

Little Johnnie and his "weeny" sister were on the streets early this morning, dressed in their best bibs and tuckers; their faces wearing anxious expressions and their whole beings denoted pent up excitement caused by young Buffalo and his wild and wooly westerners, his Indians and cow girls and the many unique features common to far western life, particularly in years gone by.

There were four bands in the parade, a steam calliope, dozens of Indians and scores of cow boys and cow girls. One of the unique features of the parade was the 20-ox team driven by Col. Stuart, a veteran ox-driver of the Civil War.

RIOT OF COLORS.

The parade was a veritable riot of colors, and presages a multitude of features in the wild west line that will be new to this city. It was a very large and commendable pageant.

The first performance of the young Buffalo show will take place this afternoon. Performances will also be given to-night and to-morrow afternoon and night at Dufferin Park.—Toronto News.

COULD NOT TELL WHERE HE GOT IT

Lister Unable to Remember Details of Drunk

A local man who is on the black-list, was summoned to appear at police court this morning, where he pleaded guilty of being under the influence of liquor. He was fined $10.

"It is not a great crime," he said to the magistrate, when the charge was read to him.

When put in the box and asked to tell where he procured the liquor, he stated positively that he could not tell.

His worship gave him time to think over whether it would be advisable for him to tell, warning him that if he did not, the law would take its course.

Some History About Typewriters Modern and Ancient

CHAPTER SEVEN

IN buying a typewriter the price should be the last consideration.

YOU can buy cheaper typewriters than the Underwood but if you pay less, you get less—a great deal less.

AN Underwood is worth what you pay for it—generally more. Its value depends not merely upon what it is, but what it does.

THERE is something which goes with the Underwood—included in every sale but not figured in the price—it is service.

IN a great many cases the time and labor saved by a specially devised Underwood system pays for the machine in a few months.

LETTER TO PEA AND CLOVER MEN

George Mather Writes Letter on Weed Evil.

The following letter has been sent to the growers of peas and clover in the district by George Mather, of Peterborough:

"Owing to a smaller consumption of soup peas during the past year or more and a tendency to a greater acreage grown, the trade has been demanding of the grain dealers a much higher standard of purity, with [illegible] from bugs and good [illegible] the request [illegible] standard has become so persistent that we think it advisable to call the attention thereto of the farmers who are growing peas, in the hope that they will look well after the harvesting, threshing and cleaning of their crop.

"As yet it is too early to foreshadow anything with regard to the price of white peas for this season, but to those interested we would say, have your goods well cleaned and carefully threshed.

"It is well known that the people of the world over are becoming so fastidious in their culinary requirements that anything but a first class standard meets with steady rejection. This is just as true of peas as of butter. In a word, a cleaner sample of peas is required.

The annual loss due to the occurence of pernicious weeds upon farm lands, although acknowledged in a general way, are far greater than is actually realized. Where, however, a proper course of treatment based upon an accurate knowledge of the nature of each weed is adopted, these losses can be readily lessened very appreciably.

The subject of farm weeds and their eradication is now one of burning interest to all cultivators of the soil in every part of the Dominion. This interest is shown by the many enquiries that we have had during the past season for the correct names and nature of any strange plants found in clover seed, and for advice as to the best means for controlling them.

"In the fight against noxious weeds, the first thing of importance is to know a weed when seen and to call it by its true name. Ragweed, mustard, night flowering catchfly, white cockle, bladder campion, ox-eye daisy, Canada thistle, perennial sow thistle, common plantain, ribgrass or Buckhorn, curled dock, peppergrass and green foxtail as a general list constitute the bulk of the most troublesome weeds prevalent in our clover crops. In the Maritime Provinces the ox-eye daisy is considered the most harmful of these weeds. It has not, as yet, spread to any great extent in this section; but we have observed the seed in a number of lots of clover received last winter, and we therefore assume that it is likewise getting a considerable foothold in some of our Ontario farms, which those concerned should endeavor to remedy.

"Red clover fields should be carefully watched for ragweed and foxtail, and also for ribgrass or Buckhorn and common plantain. These, though the latter may not otherwise be very harmful are probably the most dangerous weeds that we have in red clover seed, and they should be kept down at any cost.

Night flowering catchfly, mustard, white cockle and bladder campion are also very dangerous, especially in alsike, and their systematic eradication is particularly urged.

That the losses due to the presence of weeds upon cultivated land is generally understood; but there is no weed known which cannot be eradicated by constant attention. As a means of keeping farms free of weeds there are few methods of working land which give such good results as a systematic short rotation of crops with regular seeding down to grass or clover at short intervals. Generally speaking, weeds should never be allowed to ripen seed, and it would be well to remember that all kinds of them can be kept under control on land properly worked and under a short rotation of crops with the ordinary implements of the farm, used at a regular time.

As most of you are aware, the price of clover seed is now regulated to a large extent by what it contains, and the one who has good clean seed usually receives the top of the market for his production. Self interest, therefore, should be an incentive to farmers to destroy weeds, and destruction of them should not alone be confined to the fields, but also to the public highways, which are generally found in a most deplorable condition in this respect, a condition, too, that might easily be corrected with direct profit to the farmer doing so; for where everything else is equal, it often happens that one's goods are considered favorably from the appearance of his environment, and it might therefore be reasonable to say, that in exterminating the weeds on the highway in front of his farm, a man would be gaining a distinct advantage over his neighbor who is indifferent about the beautification of his surroundings. Weeds, at the best, whether in the fields or on the roadside, are conspicuous and unsightly."

NAPS SHUT OUT ATHLETICS FOR FIRST TIME OF SEASON

Chicago Cubs Take the Lead in the National — Toronto Had Rest.

Cleveland, July 6—Pitching faultless ball, Gregg administered a whitewash to the Athletics to-day. The Naps collected ten hits off Morgan and rapped out two off Long, who was sent in in the eighth by Connie Mack. Four hits were all the Mack men could gather off the delivery of Gregg. Gregg struck out 4, Morgan 3, and Long 1. The Athletics played a rather loose game in the field with men on bases, errors by Derrick and Thomas being responsible for two of the Naps' runs. It was the first shut out the Athletics have had this season.

TWO FAWNS SEEN NEAR GOLF LINKS

Pretty Denizens of the Woods Appear at Lindsay

Lindsay, July 6—This morning quite a sensation was caused in the neighborhood of the Ross Memorial Hospital when Mr. Frank Hazleton, who lives nearby, saw two fawns. They came across the golf links and passed about ten or fifteen rods from his barn. They were pursued by a couple of hounds and after leaving Mr. Hazleton's farm jumped the fence into Mr. Hardy's field going towards the Oakwood road. Nothing further has been heard of them.

BRIGHT LETTER FROM LONDON

Miss Smith Writes Entertainingly of Seeing the King

The following is part of a most interesting letter received by friends in the city from Miss Elizabeth Smith of George street, from London, where Miss Smith was seeing the coronation sights. She tells of seeing the king riding in Hyde Park.

We have certainly started this week early. One of my cousins heard that the king rode every morning in Hyde Park, about twenty after eight, so he got up early one morning to see; it takes nearly an hour to get there. He said there were very few about at the time, as the people had not heard, so when he took off his hat as they rode past, the king raised his and bowed. Nothing would do then, but we must all go, so this (Monday) morning four of us started out, and luck was in our favor. We stood waiting in a group by ourselves; we saw the gates being opened and presently the king came by. We were only about three feet from him, and he raised his hat. After he had passed I said, now if I could see the Duke of Connaught I would be all right. I had hardly spoken, when one of my cousins said, why there he is now. I thought they were joking, but they were not, and I had a good look at him. He looks very much like the pictures one sees of King Edward, only taller, I think, and not so stout. After leaving Hyde Park we walked around to see the memorial to Queen Victoria, it is a wonderful work of art. Away up at the top is a splendid gilded figure of Britannia, you have probably seen the pictures of it. We spent the rest of the morning in Selfridge's, one of the finest west end stores, there are, and about the only one that will allow you to go all through, without having to buy something.

On Thursday afternoon we were all through the Alexandra Palace. It is like a small-sized Crystal Palace. In one part you see statues of the old-time kings and queens, showing the old style of dress. Some of them look as though they needed cleaning up a bitt. the Japanese part is fine, They have a minature village, it is a perfect model, even the people that are dotted about. They are getting everything fixed up for the coronation, the band-stand is painted white with red, white and blue lights strung nearly all over the top, it gives a very pretty effect, the grounds are lovely, so well taken care of and such beautiful flowers.

They do have odd names for places here. I notice that most of the taverns are named after kings or princes, or some royal name (it sounds bad).

On Wednesday evening early we went to Madame Tussard's, there was so much to see that it is hard to write about it. The old-time kings or at least most of them were giants. Henry VIII looked very much like a Mormon, with his six wives surrounding him. There are some new figures added lately of the late King, Queen Alexandra in her mourning robes, and a group showing King George, Queen Mary, the Duke of Connaught, Princess Victoria of Wales Princess Beatrice and Princess Royal of England, and another showing the King and Queen of Spain. What a horrid looking fiend King John was. He looks it anyway. There is a tableau, showing him signing the Magna Charta, with the nobles standing around him. They have the four leading suffragettes, rather a homely looking lot, all except Miss Pankhurst. She is not bad. They have Roosevelt and Taft, and a number of other past Presidents. We went through the Napoleon rooms where we saw a number of splendid relics, the carriage that Napoleon escaped in from the battle of Waterloo. It is in a glass case to preserve it. There are some others that are falling to pieces. We saw Napoleon's and Empress Josephine's coronation robes, they are red velvet embroidered with large black floss. There were coins, swords rifles, and a set of china that Napoleon used while on the island of St. Helene. I don't think he was so badly used if he had everything to correspond with the china. We went from there to the chamber of horrors. I had a creepy sensation when we started our tour around that part. I took care not to look at many of the heads, they were ghastly. You see Robespierre just as you go into the chamber of horrors. We saw the coiners' den, just like life the fire, the mould, everything. One man is holding the door open, listening. It is a wretched looking place. Then we saw an opium den. You can see a picture of their dreams, lonely at first, then at the last a horrid monster's head, showing a lot of ugly teeth. Then there were six different scenes of a gambler's downfall. The first one shows where he has been taken by a supposed friend to a room, where 2 men and a woman have been playing cards, they have wine glasses in their hands, and the woman is holding her hand out to the yound man to come and join them. They are dressed very fine. The next shows him with a lot of cards scattered under the table, his friend is beside him. He has lost everything. The third shows him at home, and a man come to turn him out. The fourth shows where he has just just murdered the man that is supposed to be his friend. The fifth he is being tried for the murder, and the last one shows him being led away to his execution, leaving his wife and a little girl. I did not mention Crippen being in the chamber of horrors. I did not care to see all the murderers, I prefer relics. You could not help seeing some of them as you had to walk around them to see other things. We saw the guillotine and the horrible knife that chopped off twenty thousand heads in the reign of terror. There is no end of war relics and it would almost take a whole book to describe them.

MR. GARBUT LOST TWO ANIMALS

Five Horses Taken From Burning Barn in Smith

(Lakefield, July 7.—A terrific electric storm, accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, passed over this district on Thursday morning about six o'clock, and considerable damage was done. The barn of Mr. H. C. Garbutt, of Smith, was struck by lightning and destroyed. A fine thoroughbred Clydesdale mare and colt were burned, together with a quantity of grain, hay, implements, etc. Five horses were taken safely out of the barn, and when Mr. Sherman Garbutt went into the burning building to take the mare and colt out, he received a severe kick from the mare and in consequence was unable to take them from the building. With the assistance of neighbors the house was kept out of danger from the flames. The loss will be fairly covered by insurance. A house on Rabbitt street belonging to Mrs. P. Baptie was also struck by lightning and considerably damaged. A number of trees in the village were blown down, and the crops in the country suffered from the high wind.

"Well" the women have a habit of saying after a marriage, "she finally got him; but she didn't get much."

Kryptok lenses have distinctive advantages over all former near and far-sighted glasses, having no line or patch to suggest old sight or to confuse the eye. GRANDSTAND OF STEEL FOR THE PETERBORO FAIR

Will Accommodate 1500—To be on Present Site

A meeting of the Fair directors was held Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. R. H. Leary, McDonnell St where plans were discussed for the erection of an all steel, up-to-date grand stand at the Peterboro Exhibition grounds, which will accomodate 1500 people.

The proposed structure will occupy the same site as the present one.. Several estimates of prices have been submitted, one offer being $9000. The directors however, hope to have one erected for a considerable lower figure.

The prize-lists for the Fall fair this year are in the hands of the printers and are expected to be ready in about two weeks.

The lease on the other grounds has been renewed for a period of five years The intention is to have two night entertainments this year, and another proposition is to go ahead with a new building if the merchants can be prevailed upon to subscribe say $100 each vailed upon to subscribe say $100 each for which they would be given floor space for exhibiting purposes..

IMPROVEMENTS AT THE GRAND

Painters and Decorators are at Work Again

The interior of the Grand Opera House is being repainted and redecorated, and the management promise something very pleasing to the patrons when the doors are thrown open for next season. Messrs. Turner certainly deserve credit for keeping their theatre up to the high standard which is always appreciated by patrons and show people alike.

It is surprising how men remember their old jokes and refuse to laugh at your new ones.

METHODISTS HAD SPLENDID TRIP

George Street Excursion Held to Idyl Wyld

One of the most enjoyable picnics so far this summer was that held yesterday to Idyl Wyld under the auspices of George street Sunday school. The patronage was very large and ideal outing weather favored the excursionists. The commodious steamer "Otonabee" carried the crowd, and the committee in charge desire to thank the officers and crew for the courtesy and care extended to them.

After dinner a splendid program of races was run off, evoking some keen competition and plenty of amusement.

The following was the list of events and the winners:—

Junior Girls—1 Alice Cresswell, 2 Laura Lewis.

Boys under 15.—1 W. Srigley, 2 Chas. Elliott.

Married ladies—1 Mrs. Lee, 2 Mrs. Srigley.

During the trip the George street Sunday school orchestra provided most enlivening and appropriate music.

The Wolfe street wharf was reached about 7.30 in the evening.

ST. JAMES' OUTING.

St. James' church Sunday school excursion was held yesterday per steamer "Stoney Lake" to Idyl Wyld and Jubilee. The time of leaving was delayed about one hour owing to rain, but the remainder of the day was ideal for the outing. A very large crowd took in the picnic. Idyl Wyld was reached about 11.30 and after dinner the boat left for Jubilee, where the sports were held. The list of events and the winners will be published to-morrow. Peterborough was reached about 8.30 after a most successful day of pleasure.

HE DOESN'T LIKE THE INSPECTOR

Blacklister Called Him Names and Was Fined $4.60

A local liveryman was arrested yesterday afternoon charged with calling License Inspector Stewart nasty names and using profane language in the hearing of passers-by on the street. He appeared before Magistrate Dumble this morning and was assessed $4.60. What caused his wrath towards the license inspector was the fact that that official had him placed on the blacklist without his knowledge.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Twenty-five years ago the Canadian Pacific Railway ran its first transcontinental train. At that time the company had gross earnings of only $10,000,000, while to-day they are over $100,000,000. In that year the company possessed 372 locomotives; to-day the C.P.R. possess 1,625. Altogether there are in Canada about 4,000 locomotives supplying the needs of 25,000 miles of railroad. Over 6,000 miles of road in Canada are being built or are being surveyed, and when this is being completed, it will mean that another 1,000 locomotives will be required. It is estimated that Canada will require about 1,000 locomotives per year for the next half century, partly to replace existing stock, and partly to provide for the new mileage. The Canadian Locomotive Company's decision to double the capacity of their plant was amply justified by Canada's development and railway requirements.

KNOCK FROM TWEED

The Tweed News has the following to say about the pranks of some of the Rangers when they passed through that burg on their way to Brockville Friday night:

"The decorations at the C.P.R. tracks suffered despoilation at the hands of some of our so-called brave defenders from Peterborough. If they had only taken down the Stars and Stripes no one would have cared so much, but they proved thieves by stealing our British flags. The man who stole the flags is no patriot, only a common thief."

KING GEORGE AND HIS CONSORT RETURNING ALONG PALL MALL, ENGLAND'S FAMOUS CLUBLAND SECTION, FOLLOWING CROWNING CEREMONY AT WESTMINSTER

THEIR MAJESTIES' RETURNING ALONG PALL MALL.

THE SEALING PACT SIGNED

Pelagic Hunting Is Prohibited in North Pacific.

Convention Makes Arrangement For the Apportionment of the Annual Proceeds of the Seal Herds and the United States Will Make an Advance Payment of $200,000 Each to Great Britain and Japan.

Washington, July 8.—By the terms of the seal treaty signed yesterday, pelagic sealing is prohibited in the seas of Behring, Okhotsk, Kamchatka and Japan.

The convention arranges for the apportionment among the signatory powers of the annual proceeds of the several seal herds in which they are interested, as follows: Thirty per cent. of the skins annually taken from the American and Russian herds respectively is divided equally between Great Britain and Japan; thirty per cent. from Japanese herds, divided equally among the United States, Great Britain and Russia and thrity per cent. from any herds which may hereafter resort to the breeding grounds under British jurisdiction in the North Pacific Ocean is to be divided equally among the United States, Russia and Japan.

In connection with this apportionment the United States will make an advance payment of $200,000 each to Great Britain and Japan. These payments are to be refunded to this country out of the proceeds of the British and Japanese share of skins taken from the American herds. "This payment," says an official statement on the subject, "is in effect merely a loan, and was necessary only because the United States reserves the right to discontinue altogether the killing of the Pribilof Island seals."

The convention also prohibits the hunting of sea otters on the high seas. The treaty will extend for fifteen years and thereafter until terminated by one year's notice by any of the powers concerned. It will now be submitted to the Governments whose representatives have signed it for ratification. Aside from ratification by the Senate it will also be necessary for Congress to pass some legislation to carry its provisions into effect.

While the official statement makes no mention of the disposition to be made of the advance payments of $200,000 each to Japan and Great Britain, it is understood the money is to be used to reimburse the owners of the vessels of those two countries heretofore engaged in pelagic sealing.

A feature is a paragraph prohbiting the importation of sealskins into the territory of any of the parties to the convention which is known as pelagic sealers. The original gray seal skin is practically worthless unless carefully tanned and dyed, which can be done to perfection only in London, so that the market for pelagic sealskins is practically destroyed by this provision.

Originally intended to provide also for the protection of plumage birds, the convention did not include that subject, owing to the lack of sufficient data as to the kind and habits of the birds. This matter is left to be deals with hereafter.

Germany Wants Slice.

Berlin, July 8.—The Russian ambassador called yesterday at the Foreign Office and had a long talk with Baron von Kiderlin Waechter, the Foreign Secretary. He had been directed by Emperor Nicholas to enquire in a friendly spirit concerning Germany's intentions in Morocco.

There has been no intimation of what Germany's pretensions will be in the eventual bargaining between the powers over Morocco. Officals here adhere to the point of view that France, first of all, should state her intentions in the premises.

There is some reason to believe, according to a well-informed and friendly diplomat, that the ultimate basis of negotiations will concern Germany's participation in railroad and industrial concessions in Morocco, and the extention of the Kamerun-Congo Railroad, while in anti-Germany diplomatic circles, the opinion is expressed that Germany first will try to secure a position in South Morocco and fall back upon a demand for railroad concessions if she should fall therein.

AN EXPLANATION FROM GERMANY?

On the Moroccean Situation—No Pledge.

Special To The Review.

London, July 8.—While lacking official confirmation, it is understood Britain has received Germany's explanation on the Moroccan situation. Germany, it is said, claims it never pledgitself disinterested in the policy of that country and would consider the dispatch of British and French warships there as an unfriendly act. The tone of the note is considered most disquieting.

Money "Tight" In West.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Because of the amount of money being put out by the banks in the west to handle the annual crop other lines of business in Western Canada are to-day hard pressed for funds.

This is the cry from all sections. Collections are reported above the average by collectors, but they are complaining of tight money.

All loans relating to real estate, even remotely, have been cut off in the west on orders from Montreal and Toronto.

In view of the heavy business this is being felt severely.

IRISH CAPITAL GREETS HIS MAJESTY WITH CHEERS

Thousands of Enthusiastic Irishmen Line the Breakwater When King and Queen and the Prince and Princess Arrive on Board the Royal Yacht—Round of State Functions Will Occupy Next Few Days.

Dublin, July 8.—The royal yacht Victoria and Albert, with King George and Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary on board, anchored in Kingstown Harbor at 8 o'clock last evening. Every available point along the breakwater and on the landing stages was crowded with cheering Dublinites who, on seeing the King and the Prince of Wales on the bridge of the yacht, burst forth singing the National Anthem. The first division of the home fleet, anchored just outside the harbor, also fired salutes in honor of Their Majesties. The royal party landed this morning.

When they came ashore they were received by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland and driven in state carriages to the castle, where they are to reside during their stay. A number of brilliant state functions are to take place in the royal residence during the next few days, including dinners, a levee, a court reception and a chapter of the Order of St. Patrick.

The old building, dating from early in the thirteenth century, is not very imposing in appearance, but it is commodious and well suited for court ceremonies.

In the presence chamber, where the court receptions will be held, stands the King's throne of gilt carved work under a canopy of rich crimson velvet beautifully ornamented with gold lace. In the ball room, known as St. Patrick's Hall, the chapters of the Order of St. Patrick always are held. In the paneled ceiling is a large allegorical painting of George III., supported by figures representing Justice and Liberty. One of the side panels is filled with a painting of St. Patrick preaching to the native Irish, and on the other side is a picture of the submission of the Celtic chieftains to Henry II.

On Sunday Their Majesties will attend service at St. Patrick's Cathedral. The present building dates from 1190 when it took the place of one which had stood on the same site for centuries. During the time of Cromwell, the protector used the cathedral as a law court.

On Monday the King wll inspect the Royal Irish Constabulary in Phoenix Park, where he will also hold a review of troops and present some of the regiments with new colors.

The weather is brilliant, and Dublin looks her best in her gala decoratons. Enthusiastic crowds are parading the streets.

Among a large party of guests at the vice-regal lodge are the Earl and Countess of Granard, the Earl and Countess of Bandon, the Earl and Countess of Carrick, the Countess of Mayo, Lord and Lady Castletown, the Earl and Countess of Rosse, Lord and Lady Castlemaine, and Lord and Lady Pirrie.

A Prize Hen Story.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 8.—Colonel W. M. Parker vouches for a prize winner in the hot weather yarn contest. He says a setting hen belonging to him died four days ago from the intense heat. From eggs left in the nest on Thursday, four chickens were hatched by nature's heat. Yesterday five more eggs sent forth chickens into a sweltering world.

Looking Into Child's Death.

Niagar Falls, N.Y., July 8.—An enquiry is being held into the death of the adopted two and a half years old boy of Mrs. Josephine Taylor, 2,444 Allen avenue. Eighteen witnesses have been summoned before Coroner Scott. Meanwhile the woman is detained.

Dr. Frank Jones attended the child a few hours before death, finding its body a mass of bruises, and with ugly marks about the neck, indicating that it had been strangled.

According to neighbors the woman, who is young, and has been married only a short time, secured the child from a home in Buffalo a few months ago, and it is said to have been deprived of proper food, and was continually beaten because it cried.

Building New Grand Stand.

Winnipeg, July 8.—No time is being lost in the work of construction of a temporary grandstand to accommodate several thousand people at the coming exhibition. Fifteen hundred workmen were on the grounds yesterday before the embers of the fire were cool. Every lumber company in the city is rushing material to the grounds. The exhibition opens in six days.

Montreal Police Inadequate.

Montreal, July 8.—The annual report of the police department has just been completed by Chief Campeau, the chief feature of which is that, although criminality has increased considerably during the past year, there has been no corresponding augmentation of the police staff. Certain new wards in the city have no police protection whatever.

Milk Famine Threatens.

Chatham, July 8.—Chatham is threatened with a milk famine. The outlook at present has quite a serious aspect and little babies will be the greatest sufferers.

Milkmen are having a very hard time to secure enough milk to supply the actual needs of their customers, and yesterday the shortage became quite alarming.

The prospects are at present not very encouraging. Though it rained heavily in different sections around Chatham on Thursday the grass has not shown any great signs of picking up yet. The intense heat has so dried out the soil that the rain evaporated before it had a chance to do the grass any good.

Farmers state that the grass in many sections of the county is burned to a yellow crisp—so dry that it cracks under foot. Pasture fields are beginning to be as devoid of a green blade as a city pavement, and the ground beneath is as hard as stone.

If rain does not soon come to the rescue the milk famine will become quite acute.

COLLEGE EIGHT KEEP THE CUP

Oxford Defeated Jesuis College—Thames Rowing Club Won.

WM. SHAW IS DEAD

Drug Clerk Dies From Effects of Wounds

Cornwall, July 8.—William Shaw, the young Carp drug clerk who was shot at Bridge-End, Glengarry, last Saturday afternoon, passed away yesterday afternoon. The bullet which caused his death is believed to have been of 44-calibre and came through the back of an automobile before breaking a rib and landing in his left lung. He was motored to Lancaster and taken thence to the Cornwall General Hospital on Saturday night. All the time he retained consciousness and until yesterday morning it was believed that he would pull through. He took a bad turn, however, and passed away late in the afternoon. He was 28 years of age and a native of Scotland. He came to Canada six years ago, was employed in Dr. McGee's drug store at Carp and was highly thought of by the whole community. It is said that he was to have been married this month.

Immediately on information of his death Dr. C. J. Hamilton called for a coroner's inquest and at 8 p.m. the jury viewed the remains at the hospital. After Dr. D. O. Alguire had been given charge of the post-mortem, the inquest was adjourned till 10 a.m. on Thursday, July 13, at the Cornwall court house.

Yesterday the aged prisoner, F. D. McRae, appeared before Police Magistrate Danis, but the County Crown Attorney was not ready to go on, and Dr. Magee, to whom he had telegraphed, was not present. He objected to the form of the information, and read a note from Dr. Alguire, to the effect that the condition of the wounded man was worse yesterday morning, and that he might die within twenty-four hours.

R. A. Pringle, K.C., and J. A. Chisholm, counsel for the accused, were agreeable to a reasonable adjournment, but asked that their client be released upon bail, even to the amount of $15,000. He was an old man, held in the highest esteem in Glengarry, and was reeve of Lancaster Township.

The magistrate was not prepared to accept bail at present. He suspended judgment on this point, and adjourned the case for seven days.

"FLYING DUTCHMAN" RITCHTER COMES TO GRIEF IN TORONTO

After Two Unsuccessful Attempts to Satisfy the Crowds of Sight-seers at Hanlan's Point, Bird-Man Starts and Dashes Into the Bleachers—Only a Hundred Present—Richter Laid Up for Eight Weeks.

Toronto, July 8.—Within twelve seconds from taking his seat, Joseph Richter, known as the "Flying Dutchman" and the fearless aviator, who earned fame by his flight around the Singer Building in New York, was lying amidst the wreckage of his machine seriously injured at the stadium at Hanlan's Point yesterday.

Richter is suffering from a simple fracture of the left leg, both shin bones being broken, a skin abrasion on the left thigh and on the bridge of the nose and slight abrasions on both shins. He will not be able to fly again for eight weeks.

A better day or more favorable weather conditions could hardly have been desired. There was not a cloud in the sky and a moderate south by southeast wind was blowing across the field. About a hundred spectators were present in the stadium, and H. E. VanDeventer, manager for Richter, Alfred Shrubb, the well-known runner, and other officials were on the field at the time of the accident.

At three p.m. Richter decided that he would attempt a flight and seemed hopeful that he would be able to soar over the city and alight safely again in the centre of the field. The machine was brought from the tent at 4.15 and over a quarter of an hour was spent in oiling the motor and seeing that everything was working satisfactorily.

When he was seated the motor was once again cranked and the aviator raised his hand, when those who were holding the bi-plane let go. The machine sped along the ground at a rate of about twenty miles an hour and apparently made no attempt to rise. When the machine reached the centre of the field and had not risen an inch from the ground, the officials and a great number of the spectators feared an accident.

Fortunately Richter had the presence of mind to shut off the motor when he saw that it would be impossible for him to clear the bleachers. The machine immediately lessened speed, and Richter tried to circle, but the impetus was so great and the space so narrow, that the machine dashed against the boards.

Richter was thrown from his seat, striking his head against the wires of the bi-plane, and was then hurled with great force into the seat, breaking the shin-bones of his left leg. He did not lose consciousness.

Died From the Heat.

Woodstock, July 8.—A very sad death occurred at the Alexander Hospital Thursday night about midnight. Andrew Conn, an Irishman of about middle age, was working in the hay field of George Holmes, second concession of Dereham, on Wednesday morning, when he was overcome by the heat. Shortly after 11 o'clock he was taken to the hospital in a condition of unconsciousness and from that time till the time of his death he did not regain consciousness.

Mr. Conn came from Ireland only about a week ago and was with Mr. Holmes only five days. He left a letter which read: "If anything should happen to me, I have left papers regarding my affairs with Rev. A. Stephens in the manse, Warrenpoint, Ireland." Mr. Conn was an unmarried man and leaves a widowed mother in Ireland.

Deckhands Sentenced.

Kingston, July 8.—Three young men guilty of creating a disturbance on the steamer Kingston were sentenced yesterday. Harry Sullivan, the ringleader, was given four weeks in jail. Walter Hunter and Arthur Francis were each given two weeks. William Sparring was discharged.

NOT OPTIMISTIC.

Ralph Connor Sees Serious Results From Miners' Strike.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Dr. W. C. Gordon, better known as Ralph Connor, who has been sitting at various points in the Crow's-Nest district of Alberta as chairman of the conciliation committee, which has been trying to settle the strike, returned to Winnipeg yesterday and was not particularly optimistic as to the prospects. He expressed the hope, indeed, that the strike now going on would be settled before any further injury was done the people of the west. "The board of arbitration have given their decision," he said, "on which both parties can meet; but unfortunately at the present time this decision has not been accepted. I am hopeful that both sides will see the equity of this proposition we have presented them and will come to a reasonable attitude regarding it."

He went on to say that unless a settlement was reported in the near future, there was bound to be a rise in the price of coal in Manitoba, from the fact that much of the supply of Pennsylvania anthracite would be diverted from this province to Alberto. The price of this class of coal yesterday was $10.50 per ton here.

Said She Was Tired of Life.

St. Catharines, July 8.—Beamsville people accept the theory that the death of Edna Comfort and her child was murder and suicide. The girl seemed to have been a somewhat free character, and it is said she was heard to say she was tired of life. The hot weather, too, may have affected her mind, for why she should have undressed the child is a mystery.

However, the doctors who performed the autopsy are criticized for refusing to say anything as to the result of their examination, the opinion being that it would be better to set at rest stories that are going around.

Some people, however, hold to the double murder theory, strengthened in their belief by the fact that the district is now overrun with Indians and men of unknown homes, picking fruit. Crown Attorney Brennan is at Sault Ste. Marie, and High Constable Boyle is awaiting instructions.

SCIATICA

EXPECTED DEATH ANY DAY

Another Case Where Life Was Saved and Health Restored by "Nerviline."

It is because he feels it his solemn duty to tell to the world his faith in Nerviline that Victor P. Hires makes the following declaration: "For three years I was in the Royal Mail service, and in all kinds of weather had to meet the night trains. Dampness, cold, and exposure brought on sciatica that affected my left side. Sometimes an attack would come on that made me powerless to work. I was so nearly a complete cripple that I had to give up my job. I was in despair, completely cast down because the money I spent on trying to get well was wasted. I was speaking to my chemist one day, and he recommended "Nerviline." I had this good liniment rubbed on several times a day, and got relief. In order to build up my general health and improve my blood I used Ferrozone, one tablet with each meal. I continued this treatment four months and was cured. I have used all kinds of liniments, and can truthfully say that Nerviline is far stronger, more penetrating, and infinitely better than anything else for relieving pain. I urge everyone with lumbago, neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica to use Nerviline. I know it will cure them."

CURED SIX YEARS

There isn't a more highly-esteemed citizen in Westchester than Mr. Hires. What he says can be relied upon. For six years since being cured he hasn't had a single relapse. Don't accept anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." 50 cents per bottle, trial size, 25c; sold everywhere, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

THE POLITICAL SITUATION

With Sir Wilfrid Laurier on his way across the briny deep, and Mr. Borden closing his western tour, the political scene will again shortly shift to Ottawa. Parliament is due to re-assemble after the adjournment, on July 18, and if what is believed to be the intention of the leaders comes to pass, the members of the house will be soon engaged in a death struggle over reciprocity.

Mr. Borden has given plain intimation in the west that if it does not get the representation it desires, under redistribution, it will be the fault of the government, not his fault. He wants to force an election on reciprocity, believing that he has the great majority of the thinking people of the country behind him, but he also wants to do justice through having a proper redistribution.

It has been declared with considerable confidence that the government will delay the redistribution bill, and discussion, to give reciprocity the right of way, and if the opposition chooses to fight to the finish on reciprocity, it will be blamed as the cause for no redistribution before the expected election. Mr. Borden, however, forced Sir Wilfrid Laurier to go to the conference, outwitting the wily premier, and the struggle that will most assuredly ensue when parliament meets, will be complicated by several considerations not yet on the bulletin boards.

Mr. Borden's western tour has been a great and agreeable surprise to the opponents of the give-away-Canada policy. He has plenty of pro-reciprocity sentiment among sections of the farmers, but Mr. Borden also found that the westerners were open to conviction, and that many of them were opposed. In all the industrial and commercial centres, he found unequivocal opposition to reciprocity. His most strenuous trip over thousands of miles of territory has had a profoundly educative effect on the west, which to a man declares its admiration for his plain spoken and outright attitude on public questions.

If the reciprocity bill does not pass the U.S. senate when it is still under consideration by the Canadian parliament, Sir Wilfrid Laurier will be in a dilemma. He will be forced to be a willing and consenting party to delay—being as much an obstructor himself as anyone—for his policy has been not to press passage while the bill is still unratified in the United States. Whether he will consent to delay, to watch proceedings at the capitol, is problematical, but he has hitherto pursued this course.

SUNDAY STREET CARS

The street car company of Kingston has determined to provide a Sunday car service, in response to the demand of the citizens by conveyance to Lake Ontario park, and will put on the service in spite of the threats of the Lord's Day Alliance to take action.

The franchise of the company calls for a service to the public, and the company holds that if the public wants Sunday cars, it is entitled to have them, Lord's Day Alliance, or no Lord's Day Alliance.

The question of Sunday street cars in the lesser cities is a vexing one, because in some places they are not needed by the people for conveyance purposes. There does not seem to be particular need for street cars in Peterborough on Sunday, though no doubt they would be a considerable convenience. But until the public demands street cars on Sunday, it is just as well to have them kept inside the barns. When the public does want them, the Lord's Day Alliance should not be permitted to stand in the way, blocking the wishes of the great majority of the people. The Lord's Day Alliance needs sitting on occasionally as well as other bodies of would-be reformers.

It is accepted that there should be Sunday street cars in places like Toronto, Hamilton, Ottawa, or places where distances are too long for ordinary comfort in walking. In Kingston many people want to go to the park, which is about two miles out, for a Sunday afternoon, to avoid the heat. The street railway company is perfectly right in desiring to give the people the service in this case.

FREE TRADE BENEFITS

While the old question of free trade and protection will probably be debated anew a century hence, we are concerned in how the two fiscal policies work out in present day practice. Many men are theoretical free traders, but in trade and tariffs, as in everything else, circumstances alter cases, an these men in Canada are staunch protectionists.

Mr. Borden in speaking at Brandon dealt with the question of free trade. He demonstrated the fallacy of the proposition, that free trade "as they have it in Britain" would be a relief from the taxing under a tariff, because even in Britain there is no such thing as a "free breakfast-table." In Britain, though it is nominally a free trade country, and the revenue from levies on imports and exports are correspondingly less than in a country obtaining its general revenue from a tariff, other taxes more than make up the total. The government has to have a certain amount of money to carry on the work of the country. It can either get the money from customs taxes, or indirectly, or from direct and specific taxes. Canada has in a moderate protective system the best fiscal policy to be designed for her particular needs. For instance, if Canadians had to pay taxes to a central government—as Mr. Borden told of at Brandon—as the British people pay, they would speedily convert the scattered band of free traders into common-sense protectionists. Mr. Borden's remarks are most interesting He said:

The people of Great Britain last year paid more than £160,000,000 in income taxes. There are taxes on dwelling houses, carriages, horses, guns, motor cars and many other articles. The tax on a four-wheeled carriage is $10. The annual license for motor cars is from $15 to $210, according to horsepower. There is a tax of $3.75 for every male servant. There are stamp taxes on every bill of exchange, every policy of insurance, every draft, receipt, cheque, deed, mortgage and bill of lading and on numerous other documents. The stamp taxes paid by the people of Great Britain last year amounted to nearly $40,000,000. In addition to the above there are heavy municipal and local rates which are a distinct charge. To give up twenty per cent. of the increased value of land upon every sale or transfer would impress upon the Canadian people an abiding realization of the fact that the public revenues do undoubtedly come out of the pockets of the people. There are those in this country who advocate free trade without realizing that a large public revenue is a necessity in Canada. We cannot build National Transcontinental and Hudson Bay railways or construct Georgian Bay canals and other great public undertakings without taxation in Canada but their own—possible addition of a few measly dollars to their own pockets per year. Some of the grain-growers—luckily they are mighty few—are about as selfish and narrow in their conceptions as men possibly could be.

The counsels of saner minds are expected to govern in Hull if the Orange parade comes off. That is good news. The best way for those who do not like the celebration of the Glorious Twelfth—which is without any real significance in a political or religious way now—is to ignore it. The Orangemen have the right to honor the day that to them calls for a celebration, just as Irishmen celebrate St. Patrick's day, or Englishmen St. George's day.

LACK OF EXERCISE

Brings on Troubles which are Best Corrected by Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills

Sedentary Habits Develop Constipation

Man was intended to live an active, outdoor life, and his digestive system was modelled accordingly. Indoor work with hands or head, long hours sitting or standing still, especially in air that's none too good, slow down the healthy activities of stomach, liver, kidneys and the millions of tiny skin glands.

Constipation, headaches, indigestion, biliousness, rheumatism and similar troubles follow.

Then the worth of that good old reliable family medicine, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, is appreciated. Though it has been in use for over half a century, modern science has not been able to devise a safer or better cleanser for the whole system.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are largely vegetable in composition, free from any harmful drug, and mild yet most effective in their action. They are "Mother's standby" in hundreds of homes because they nip in the bud so many of the common ailments.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucuous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood, and mucous surfaces of the system. In buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

Sold by Druggists. Price, 75c. per bottle.

Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

May Knight Women.

In olden days they were not so chary of recognizing feminine services. The abbesses of great nunneries used to be "knighted" and even now there is a charming young French woman, who, though, unmarried, is a countess in her own right by reason of being the Chanoinesse of a religious order.

At present in England there is something anomalous in the fact that man takes all the titles, stars, and ribands, as well as place, power, and money, and allows the women folk to toil all their lives at inferior salaries and with no hope even of those ornamental rewards, such as coronets and orders, to which human nature is so persistently attached.

It has been whispered, though, that the two ladies who have been elected Mayors of English towns, will be knighted during this coronation year, precisely as their masculine compeers will receive this honor at the hands of King George.

The idea should be persistently dwelt on, as the circulation of such a rumor may lead to the foundation of some order—with a title attached—which can be bestowed on eminent women, whether married, single or widows.

May Need Special Election.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—City Solicitor McBurney goes to Toronto to-day to interview Master in Chambers Cartwright on the Homan case, the latter having been recently unseated from the council. McBurney will endeavor to ascertain whether or not it will be necessary to hold a special election to fill the vacancy on the aldermanic board.

Two Fingers Crushed.

Chatham, July 7.—A. McCormick, up the creek at Harwich, met with a serious accident yesterday morning. He was aiding in the removal of a barn when his hand got caught in a pulley. Before he could release it two fingers of his left hand were crushed to a pulp. He was brought to the city, where he was given surgical attention.

Will Be Extradited.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 7.—Arrangements are being made to bring Antonio Vescio, wanted in Winnipeg for murdering a fellow-countryman on Oct. 30, 1910 back to Canada. Pending completion of arrangements he is held in Buffalo. The Canadian Government offered $500 reward for his arrest.

CHAPTER IX.

At the end of the first month passed in their new home Mrs. Brooks' joy in the sudden and great change in her husband's fortunes in the steamship company remained undiminished. Her mother Mrs. Harris, had come to look upon him with great respect and to be rather proud of her son-in-law, who had belied her dire prognostications and upset all her firmly rooted ideas and convictions by rising in the world.

As to Brooks himself, the exuberance of his optimism had worn off considerably. He did not share to any extent in the light heartedness of his wife, who diffused happiness and rippled it in joyous music on the piano and in songs that had smoothed out the creases of care on her father's brow when she sang to him in the days of her girlhood. He had become more and more thoughtful, with lapses at unexpected times into absentmindedness. Moreover, of late, symptoms of his former ill humor and nervous irritability had reappeared.

"Goodness, Emma, one would hardly know you!" exclaimed Beth to her one evening after dinner, to which Mrs. Brooks had invited her mother and sister. "Your dress is a dream, and at table you were positively radiant."

She had followed Emma into her bedroom and was gazing in admiration at her sparkling eyes and her cheeks rosy with health.

"I am happy," admitted Emma, putting her arm around her affectionately.

"Do you know, dearie, I'm just beginning to know who and what you are?"

Highly amused at the girl's patronizing manner and not at all inclined to take her seriously, Emma looked at her with assumed gravity.

"How's that, little sister?" she inquired.

"Please don't call me 'little sister,'" objected Beth. "You're always making fun of me."

"My dear Beth, it is you who are always making fun of yourself," Emma told her.

"Indeed I'm not!"

"Why not laugh and play and just be a girl—a real 'tomboy?' After all, that's the thing. You are only eighteen, while I have reached years of discretion, I'm twenty-five, you know, and awfully staid and wise in consequence."

"You weren't a tomboy."

"Oh, yes, I was until I fell in love. You were a wee bit of a little maid then, and after I fell in love I became a silly little goose like all girls in love, and then"—

"You married Joe."

"Yes," said Emma seriously, "and that's why I want you to have such a good time now, while you can. Of course I hope you'll not have the hard pull that Joe and I have had—I mean when you are married—but one never can tell."

"Never mind the past now, Emma. Think how happy you are."

"I know. It is good to be living once again, but the best of it all is that Joe has succeeded. Even mother admits it. Think of it!"

"She even likes him," confided Beth.

"My dear, you know that mother likes most any one who has healthy indications of a bank account."

"Emma," chided the girl, "you ought to be ashamed!"

"I'm not," laughed her sister. "I'm too contented. I don't think that I shall ever forget the night, nearly seven weeks ago, when Joe came home with the good news, his salary more than tripled and six months' back pay."

"Joe never thought Captain Williams would do it for him."

"No, nor I. And the way it was done! You know the captain and Jimsy had been gone three days before Joe knew the good news."

"Joe says he doesn't know."

"Isn't it funny that with all his luck he doesn't seem contented?"

Emma became grave.

"He's worried, poor dear, and I can't make it out," she said. "Perhaps he's so anxious to succeed in his new position."

In the parlor Mrs. Harris sat fanning herself, for it was a very warm day. She was dressed in a gown of summer finery that would have been more suitable to her had she been, say, fifteen years younger, and she was engaged in her usual pleasant occupation of criticising—or "knocking," as Joe called it.

Brooks was in dinner coat and bore other external evidences of his prosperity, which, however, was being purchased at considerable physical cost, for he had become thinner and was pale and haggard. The worry his new position occasioned him was plain to be seen, and he was in an execrably surly mood and as nervous as the proverbial cat.

"As I was saying to Joe," observed Mrs. Harris, turning to Emma and Beth, "for a hotel of this character the coffee is not what it might be. It's terribly bitter. Otherwise I liked the dinner. Yes, on the whole, I liked the dinner. But if I were you, Joe, I'd complain about your waiter."

NATURE WILL CURE YOU

Of Kidney Disease, Aided by Father Morriscy's No. 7.

Kidney trouble is one of the most distressing ailments of mankind, and leads to backache and rheumatism. This is because of the importance of the work done by the kidneys,—work which must proceed normally to insure good health.

A very large proportion of civilized people have some form of kidney trouble, sometimes without knowing that their malady is of that nature. Many obscure pains can often be traced to diseased kidneys.

These organs are the filters of the body. Their function is to strain out of the blood and eliminate through the bladder the worn out tissue and other impurities gathered by the blood in its course.

When the kidneys become congested and sluggish, these impurities, including the irritating and poisonous uric acid, are not entirely removed from the blood. The result is that the uric acid is deposited in the joints and tissues, causing the agonies of rheumatism and frequently affecting the liver and other organs.

Father Morriscy, the famous priest-physician of Bartibogue, N.B., after much research compounded a remedy which worked hand in hand with Nature. His doctrine, justified by thousands of cures, was that the need is not a patchwork relief, but a treatment that will enable the forces of Nature, working through the kidneys, to accomplish their intended work.

His famous prescription, No. 7, assists the kidneys to work vigorously and eliminate the harmful uric acid from the whole system. In the form of tablets, No. 7 is easy to take, and will effect cures where other remedies have failed. Do not trifle with kidney disease, but take No. 7 Tablets, the treatment that has proved so successful with other sufferers.

DEADLY ANAEMIA

Casts a Shadow Over the Lives of Thousands of Women and Growing Girls

"Not enough blood," is the simple meaning of the term anaemia, though it should scarcely need explaining, for, unfortunately, anaemia is one of the greatest evils in this country, afflicting women of all ages, including young girls. The signs of bloodlessness are plain enough—pallid lips and cheeks, and aching back, frequent headaches, with breathlessness, heart palpitation and great weaknesses. The only effective treatment is to strengthen and build up the blood, and it is just by this power of making new, rich blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anaemia in more cases than it is possible to place on record. Among the host cured of this trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss C. N. Roberge, of Sorel, Que., who had been in poor health for several years. Miss Roberge says: "I believe that if I had not taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills my illness would have proved fatal. The trouble came on so gradually that I can scarcely tell the point at which it did begin. The first noticeable symptom was loss of color and a feeling of lassitude. Then I began to lose my appetite, and had frequent headaches and spells of dizziness, and became unable to do any housework without being completely exhausted. Finally my trouble became aggravated by a persistent cough. I took several kinds of medicine, but did not get any relief. At last I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to do so. After I had taken several boxes there was a noticeable improvement in my condition and I continued using the Pills until I had taken nine boxes. The result, in my opinion, was marvellous. My appetite returned, my nerves were strengthened, my weight increased, headaches disappeared, and I am enjoying the best health of my life. In gratitude for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me, I give this statement in the hope that it may bring new health to some other sufferer."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all those troubles due to poor blood, such as anaemia, indigestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, St. Vitus' dance, partial paralysis, and the troubles which attack girls budding into womanhood and women of mature years. Sold by medicine dealers everywhere, or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

OLDEST MAIL CLERK

Robert F. Drummond Has Been 25 Years in the Western Service

To Mr. Robert Fraser Drummond belongs the distinction of being the oldest mail clerk in British Columbia and one of the oldest in the service of the C.P.R. On July 6 next it will be exactly twenty-five years since he brought the first mail car over the C.P.R. from Calgary to Port Moody. This was on July 6, 1886. In May of the following year the first mail car left Vancouver and that was taken out by Mr. Drummond. His service with the C.P.R. now well extends over a period of twenty-five years, he having been appointed to the mail service in 1885. His first run was to Calgary, and for eighteen years he was on the main line. For five years he ran on the Sumas line and for the past four years has been on the Blaine line. Mr. Drummond is one of the best known railwaymen and old-timers in the province. He was born in Toronto in 1855.

Catarrhozone

Cures Permanently BRONCHITIS, COUGHS, COLDS, ASTHMA, CATARRH

Throw medicine to the dogs. At best they are unpleasant, often useless. You are suffering from some disease of the throat, nose, or lungs, Doctors call it Bronchitis, Asthma, or Catarrh, or it is a slight or severe cold. Germs cause these diseases—they have a common root.

Catarrhozone destroys disease germs, but it does more, it heals disease tissue.

CATARRHOZONE is little drops of healing carried by air to the exact place where Catarrh exists. Observe, Catarrhozone not only destroys the cause, but immediately repairs the result of diseased condition.

Catarrhozone means little drops of healing carried by air and placed over the lungs, throat, and nasal passages.

Catarrhozone is endorsed by doctors, druggists, and by thousands of Canadian people who have used it.

Catarrhozone

Yes, Sir, it is taken in air.

Three sizes: 25c. 50c, and $1.00, at druggists, or by mail postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Ont.

QUEEN OF SWEDEN

On Account of Ill Health She Lives Most of the Time in Sunny Climes

The Queen of Sweden is a kindly and brilliant woman. But she is very little known in Sweden, for her health makes it advisable for her to spend a great deal of time in summer climes She lives and dresses in the plainest fashion. She may often be seen walking along the narrow roads wearing a dress of white woollen material together with the cloth shoes with rope soles which the peasants at Capri wear habitually to enable them to climb the rough roads and walk over the rocks which abound in that sea girt place.

A daughter of the Grand Duke and Grand Duchess of Baden, she was married at nineteen, and a grandmother at very little over forty.

She is devoted to her grandchildren, who include the children of her eldest son's wife, the Crown Princess, our Princess Margaret of Connaught, who since her marriage, now nearly six years ago, has had to take the Queen's place at many State functions.

SMART TRAVELLING SUIT

A chic little suit, showing the newest wrinkles in tailored models, is illustrated in this sketch. The short stylish jacket and large revers are unusually good and the skirt with the buttons at the side illustrates the latest French idea. The same model would develop well in white serge, trimmed with black and white or red and white, if for the seashore.

SOME CHARACTERISTICS

Do Any of These Describe You in Any Way?

Blue eyes are the weakest.

Wide open eyes indicate rashness.

Side-glancing eyes must be distrusted.

Downcast eyes typify modesty.

Unsteady eyes indicate an unsettled mind.

If the white of the eyes show beneath the iris, that person has a bad temper.

Eyes that are far apart indicate great intelligence and tenacious memory.

A retreating chin is a sign of chilliness, and if the brow is receding, of imbecility.

THREE WAYS OF COOKING EGGS

Buttered Eggs.—Three eggs and an ounce of butter. Put the butter in a saucepan, and keep turning one way till melted. Put in beaten eggs, and stir one way, till the mixture becomes thick; serve on buttered toast.

Baked Eggs.—Butter a baking-dish, break your eggs on to it, sprinkle with pepper and salt, parsley, and a little ham; put in the oven till the eggs are set.

Curried Eggs.—Mix a quarter of a pint of milk, a teaspoonful of curry powder, a teaspoonful of flour, and a little salt together, boil for three minutes. Remove the shells of three hard-boiled eggs, cut each in two, pour sauce over, and serve.

RENOVATING BLANKETS

One of the first places to show wear in a blanket is along the edge, which will begin to split into a coarse fringe. Keeping blankets well bound with inch-wide ribbon will prevent this. Unless some accident happens to a blanket, patching is not resorted to until it is very old, then a piece from another blanket may be laid on, large enough to cover the worn place, and held in place by darning rather than seaming. All thin places can be fortified by darning with ravellings from an old blanket. When the blanket is past repair, just double it and quilt it together here and there and lay it across the matress under the sheet, and it will continue to be of service.

SICK HEADACHES AND NERVOUSNESS

"Fruit-a-tives" Completely Cured Me.

LAKELET, ONT., May 12th. 1910.

"It is my firm belief that every woman should take "Fruit-a-tives" if she wants to keep herself in good health.

Before taking "Fruit-a-tives", I was constantly troubled with what is commonly known as "Nerves" or severe Nervousness. This extreme Nervousness brought on the most violent attacks of Sick Headache, for which I was constantly taking Doctor's medicine.

Constipation was also a source of great trouble for which the Doctors said "I would have to take medicine all my life" but "Fruit-a-tives" has banished these troubles and I am a well woman.

When I started taking "Fruit-a-tives", I took four at a time, but have reduced the dose so that it is only necessary for me to take one in a week, and that one "Fruit-a-tives" tablet every week keeps me well". MRS. FRED GADKE.

It is wonderful how quickly women get better when taking "Fruit-a-tives". These famous fruit tablets relieve headaches and tone up the whole nervous system. They regulate the bowels, strengthen the stomach, stimulate the appetite, and take away that pain in the back. Pale, weak, nervous women should always use "Fruit-a-tives".

YOUNG BUFFALO WILD WEST SHOW GAVE GOOD PARADE

Performances This Afternoon and Evening on Property Near King Edward School.

The Young Buffalo Wild West, World's Wonder Show, procession took place at eleven o'clock this morning and was viewed by throngs of people who were given an opportunity of witnessing a splendid collection of genuine cowboys, cow-girls, bronchos, oxen, rough-riders and all the other paraphernalia which always accompanies a production of western flavor. Judging from the appearance of the parade the performances of this afternoon and evening are worthy to be recommended. The colletcion of horses was especially praised and the cow-boys and other riders attracted a large share of interested attention. The ox team pulling an old-fashioned prairie van was remarkably typical of olden days out west.

The procession was very lengthy and after parading up Aylmer street crossed over on to George, down George to the grounds near the King Edward school.

A free show was the attraction at the grounds immediately after the procession.

There will be two performances given, one at 2 p.m. and one at 8 o'clock this evening.

EARL SCHWERER GOES TO CENTRAL FOR SIX MONTHS

Seventeen Year Old Youth Sentenced in Police Court.

Earl Schweier, the 17 year old youth who was remanded until this morning to be sentenced for theft was ordered to be confined to Central prison for a term of six months.

Schweier was convicted in March on another charge of theft, and was allowed out on suspended sentence. He has also served a term of 4 years at Mimico.

Chief Thompson stated that his reputation was not good, he practically refuses to work, and his father would not appear at court for him, having no interest in him.

He, also, according to the Chief, is the ringleader of a bunch of small boys upon whom his influence is very deteriorating.

Schweier is the youth who entered the Sherbrooke Street house and committed theft.

WEATHER FOR JULY

Forecasts of Ira Hicks — More Storms Coming

A reactionary storm period is central on the 2nd, 3rd and 4th, with the moon on the celestial equator and at first quarter. By the 2nd expect very marked rise in temperature, falling barometer and vicious electrical storms will pass easterly over the country, preceded by excessive heat.

A regular storm period covers the 6th to the 10th, with probability of being prolonged over the full moon on the 11th. The Venus influence is still dominant at this period, which fact may reasonably excite hopes of rain over many sections of the grain growing regions. We believe that a very serious lack of general rains will be upon very wide sections of the great agricultural regions to the north-west, west and south. from the middle of July until late September.

A reactionary storm period centres on the 12th, 13th and 14th, with possibility of threatening conditions holding over from the preceding storm period. Falling barometer, increase in temperature, with cloudiness and moderate rains will be due on the 12th to the 14th, all followed by change to fair and cooler weather, up to the 16th. Do not forget that all storms and weather changes progress from west to east ;they do not strike the whole country at the same time or day. A seismic period is central on the 11th, affecting the 4th to the 14th.

A regular storm period begins on the 16th, and extends to the 23rd. We prolong this period to the new moon on the 25th ,for the reason that storm periods are often drawn forward in their culmination by pending new moon dates. A probable storm crisis will fall on the 19th, 20th and 21st, causing rain, wind and thunder, leaving high temperature and threatening conditions, to continue over the 23rd.

A reactionary storm period falls on the 24th, 25th and 26th. This period falls at the centre of the Mercury period, at the close of the Venus period, at the new moon. in perigree and at extreme north declination. Expect excessive warmth at this time with low barometer, and fierce thunder gusts. Squalls and local downpours will visit localities, but far-reaching general rains are indicated. Mercury cloudiness and moderate drizzle may touch most parts for several days; including much of the Mercury period. A seismic period of very positive character extends from the 22nd to the 28thm central on the 25th.

NEW POTATOES AT 20c A PECK

Stores Have the Only Offering in Murphys

New potatoes could be purchased in the local fruit stores this morning for 20 cents a peck. None could be had at the local market however, the stores having to have them shipped in. One fruit dealer whom the Review interviewed concerning the outlook for the potato crop, stated that it was not particularly bright. The heat he said, had penetrated the ground, and the foliage of the potato plant was so dry that it was not sufficient to cover the potatoes. thus allowing them to become affected.

Tomato vines were also withered somewhat ,more so, however, in some localities than others.

The band and songsters will assist the brigadier with these meetings and a very profitable time is anticipated. CANADIAN LOCOMOTIVE WORKS TO STAY IN KINGSTON

In spite of much talk of removing the works of the Canadian Locomotive Co., from Kingston to Toronto, or Montreal, the Company's Directors have denied that they contemplate moving. The company has at Kingston excellent means of transportation both by land and water. An interesting feature of this company is its bonus system which is applied to employees. By this system a man who is in a satisfactory manner accomplished more than a certain standard of work in a day is paid so much more in proportion. Many of the men now at work in the plant were preceded in their positions by their fathers, and like the German artisan, his work is his real life interest.

O'Keefe's PILSENER LAGER

"The Light Beer in the Light Bottle"

Is Far Better Than The Government Regulation Requires

The Canadian Government regulation, regarding the brewing of lager, is probably the most exacting in the world.

It calls for a brew of Hops, Malt and Water only. The American Government places no such restrictions on her brewers.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" not only complies with the Canadian Government regulations—but is brewed of the very finest Hops and Malt, and pure filtered Water.

Borden Ends Tour.

Winnipeg, July 8.—The western tour of the Conservative leader closed last evening at Somerset. During the last three weeks he has held nearly forty public meetings and spoken at as many more gatherings of grain growers or municipal receptions.

Three meetings were held yesterday, Gladstone in the morning, Portage la Prairie in the afternoon, and St. Pierre in Provencher last evening.

The meeting at Gladstone in the morning was attended by about two hundred persons. Both political parties were represented, and members of both parties were in militant mood.

The grain growers at Portage la Prairie presented Mr. Borden with memorials, "practically the same" as those presented to Hon. Frank Oliver here. This description was given to them by the head of the deputation, W. N. Stewart, president of the local farmers' association.

Smallpox In Manitoba.

Winnipeg, July 8.—Alarming smallpox conditions have broken out in the eastern part of this province. Nineteen cases are reported at Port Alexander on the Winnipeg River. There are other cases near Mapleton, in the Selkirk district. Niagara Falls, Ont., July 8.—So crowded were city schools before vacation that the public school board yesterday let contracts for additions to several. A large number of people brought here by the location of new factories during the past year, has greatly increased the school attendance.

DO YOU USE PILLS?

If In Doubt About the Right Pills to Use Read the Following Letter Carefully:

"I am one of those persons whose system requires aid," writes Mr. Young Gledhill, from Picton, "but it is so easily affected by reason of the great sensitiveness of the bowels that ordinary drastic pills inflict great injury to the delicate coating, and excite such persistent activity as to be with difficulty checked.

"I wish in the highest terms to express the great value of Dr. Hamilton's Pills in cases like mine, and I am sure also for elderly people and the very weak, there is no pill like them.

"Speaking of my own experience with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I can say they have proved the most stimulating pills for the liver I have found. I have proved their tonic action upon digestion, and the same results have been secured by friends upon whom I have urged their use. The manufacturers are to be congratulated upon possessing so valuable a prescription, and the public should know that so valuable a remedy has been placed at their command."

No other pill for constipation, for liver, kidney, or stomach trouble, compares with Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild and sure always to restore health. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all dealers, 25c per box, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston Ont.

CONNEAU'S WINNINGS

His Prizes in Aeroplane Race Total $50,000

Paris, July 7.—Engisn Conneau, flying under the name of Andre Beaumont, won the great European circuit race to-day, flying from Calais to the Vincennes acrodrome, 156 miles, in three hours and 25 minutes.

The total distance of the nine stages of the race, which took in four nations, was nearly 950 miles, and Conneau's time was 58 hours 38 minutes and 45 seconds. His actual flying time, however, was only 23 hours 22 minutes and 39 seconds.

Conneau's prizes will total more than $50,000, chief of which is the $40,000 offered by the Paris Journal, under the auspices of which the race was held.

Vidart won the last stage, leaving Calais at 6.04 and alighting at the finish point at 8.35, after a brief stop at Amiens. The fastest train time between Calais and Paris is three hours and 20 minutes.

Roland Garros was second in the big race, his elapsed time being 62.16.-27, actual flying time 21.50.36, and Vidart third, with elapsed time of 73.40.52, and actual flying time of 37.-55.21.

Pierre Vedrine, the winner of more individual stages than any other contestant, injured his machine slightly in alighting at Amiens.

The bird-men who have been on a three weeks' aerial cruise over a large part of Europe, began ascending at Calais for the final flight at 6 o'clock. At intervals of two minutes they headed for Paris, the order of departure being:—Conneau, Garros, Vidart, Vedrine, Gibert, Kimmerling, Renaux, Barra, Tabuteau and Bobba.

Kimmerling fell when near Calais, but returned to the city afoot, got another machine and arrived at Vincennes at 10.30.

The only time I feel really important is when on a train passing through a little train, and the train doesn't stop.

No great harm is done, probably, when you step on a cat; but you can't help being disturbed by the incident.

CHERRY-SEEDING DEVICE

Plunger Pushes Pits Out and Fruit Drops Into Bowl

Cherry pie is a toothsome bit, but when the teeth bite on a stone much of the enjoyment is lost. Most careful cooks stone the cherries before they bake the pie, but that is a long and tedious operation unless performed with the assistance of the seeding machine invented by a Pennsylvania man and shown in the illustration. The machine clamps to the edge of the kitchen table and has attached to it a plate to hold the cherries before the stones are removed. A plunger operates through a ring that holds the fruit. The cherry is laid over this ring and the plunger pressed down, returning by the action of a spring. The downward pressure pushes the pit ahead of the plunger and it drops into a plate below. The good part of the fruit, cleaned much better and quicker than could be done by hand, drops into another dish.

TIPS ON OCEAN LINERS

Some of the Stewards Make Big Money from Passengers

To tip or not to tip? That is the question which is agitating the minds at the prest time of tourists between Europe and America. And it would certainly seem that travellers have just cause for complaint, judging by the tips which are expected of them. Upon an Atlantic liner one pays at least $10 in tips after a seven days' journey. This is made up as follows: Bedroom steward, $2.50; table steward, $2.50; deck steward, $1.25; boots, $1.25; library steward, $1.25; smoking-room steward, $1.25. That is the average man's scale. Passengers occupying expensive suites of rooms often give five times as much.

Indeed, there is no limit to the amount of money which a steward who has a knack of making himself useful to passengers can annex. Two hundred or three hundred dollars a voyage is often made by first-class stewards, and one of them did so well that he not only purchased a big house out of his savings, but sent his sons to one of the leading colleges.

There was a story told in a Liverpool court some time ago fo an American passenger on one of the liners who distributed over $35 in tips, and then took it back because he said he was badgered for more. There is certainly no compulsion to tip, and the rule with most companies is that the steward who solicits fees renders himself liable to instant dismissal. A judicious tip, however, adds much to the pleasure of a voyage, and the bedroom stewards are usually very lucky. Each has about twelve passengers to loo kafter, most of whom tip with sums ranging from $3 to $6.

TO CLEAN GILT MOULDINGS

To clean gilt moulding frames and other such things, take a piece of fresh bread, which has not been baked more than a day or two, pour a few drops of ammonia on it, and rub over the article to be cleaned. If the bread is very fresh it will clean without the ammonia.

WOMEN MAY AVOID OPERATIONS

By taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The following letter from Mrs. Orville Rock will prove how unwise it is for women to submit to the dangers of a surgical operation when it may be avoided by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was four weeks in the hospital and came home suffering worse than before.

Here is her own statement.

Paw Paw, Mich.—"Two years ago I suffered very severely with a displacement. I could not be on my feet for a long time. My physician treated me for seven months without much relief and at last sent me to Ann Arbor for an operation. I was there four weeks and came home suffering worse than before. My mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I did. Today I am well and strong and do all my own housework. I owe my health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and advise my friends who are afflicted with any female complaint to try it."—Mrs. ORVILLE ROCK, R. R. No. 5, Paw Paw, Michigan.

If you are ill do not drag along until an operation is necessary, but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for women's ills, and has positively restored the health of thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

CANADIAN FISHERIES

The Total Value of the Output in 1909-10 Was $26,629,269

The total value of all kinds of fish and fish products taken by Canadian fishermen during the year 1909,1910 was $29,629,169. This sum constitutes a record, being the highest yet reached during any one year in the history of the Canadian fisheries. It is $4,-178,084 ahead of 1908-09, and $149,-607 better than the total of 1905, which was the best previous record.

This result was obtained by a fishing fleet of 1,750 vessels, steamers and tugs, 37 of which were engaged in fur-seal hunting, and 41,170 boats, the whole being manned by 68,663 men.

RAILWAYS OF CANADA

Figures Showing the Marvellous Development of Railway Traffic

During the ten years from 1900 to 1910 the increase in railway mileage in Canada was 7,074 miles or 40 per cent. The total mileage is distributed among the various provinces as follows:

Ontario	8,230.25
Quebec	3,794.94
Manitoba	3,220.62
Saskatchewan	2,931.90
Alberta	1,488.42
British Columbia	1,832.28
New Brunswick	1,521.65
Nova Scotia	1,350.56
Prince Edward Island	269.33
Yukon	90.91
Total	24,730.86

The number of persons employed on Canadian railroads is about 140,000, their total wages last year being over $67,000,000.

The railways of Canada on June 30 last owned 4,071 locomotives, and 132,681 cars. Of these nearly 120,000 were freight cars. The freight cars have risen rapidly in numbers since the days of car famines, some seven or eight years ago. In 1907 there were 107,000; in 1908, 115,700; in 1909 there were 117,700; and in 1910, 119,700. Of the freight cars nearly 6,000 were box cars; over 20,000 were flat cars, and over 12,000 were coal cars.

THE APPLE TRADE

A Canadian Industry That is Assuming Large Proportions

Ontario is the chief producing province of Canada, though the production in the Oganagan Valley, British Columbia; St. John Valley, New Brunswick, and the Annapolis Valley is increasing rapidly. The plantings in some sections of Ontario are increasing very fast. The Survey Report of the Department of Agriculture for Northumberland County, 1910, gives approximately 10,000 acres for that county alone, fully half of which have not yet produced a crop. Norfolk County is perhaps the best known of all and has made her reputation all within the last six years. Seven years ago she produced practically no first-class fruit at all, but this past season she produced more than 25,000 barrels of good fruit.

AGRICULTURAL IMPLEMENTS

While the general business in agricultural implements in the Eastern Provinces has remained pretty much at the same proportion for several years, there have been very large increases in the Northwest Provinces. This is especially true of Saskatchewan and the northern parts of Manitoba and Alberta. British Columbia has also shown very satisfactory increases for some years past. Not only has the number of machines increased, but the sizes have also increased. For instance the former self-binder with the six-foot cut has been replaced with the machine of eight-foot cut. The same is also true with regard to harrows, drills, mowers, etc.

BABIES' RIGHTS

Their Protest Against the Caresses of Strangers is Receiving Attention

Babies adorn life. Their simplicity and sincerity leaven the humbug and hypocrisy of "grown-up" humanity. Noisy they may be sometimes; naughty they may be often. Nevertheless they are usually fat and funny and fascinating. Indeed, they are too adorable for their own happiness. Their beauty proves fatal to them. There are some affectionate souls whose first exclamation on seeing a baby is, "Oh, the little darling! I must kiss it." And whether she has been properly introduced to the infant or not she promptly proceeds to do so.

It is pleasing, therefore, to know that babies' rights are at last receiving attention. Men have always had their rights; women are clamoring loudly for theirs. But no voice has been raised on behalf of the baby, who has suffered, though not in silence, for so long. Often has it made the welkin ring with its protestations, but no one paid any heed. Grown-ups, in their blindness, did not understand. Baby was "peevish," or "cross," or "cutting its teeth." They did not realize that baby's cry came from its heart—an essentially modern cry for its rights, for the right to live its own life, untrammelled by the superfluous caresses of unintelligent strangers, or the fatuous endearments of well-meaning friends or relations.

It is slowly penetrating the brains of parents that baby is not merely a pretty plaything to be petted. It has a sturdy little individuality, with likes and dislikes of its own. No one seems to have realized before that a baby has private feelings.

Babies are the most fascinating creatures on earth. Furthermore, they have a delicious sense of humor. One has only to notice the critical and cool stare with which they often greet the egregious grown-up's attempt to be funny, to adapt himself or herself to the baby mind. At other times they double themselves up like crumpled rose-leaves with sheer amusement when they hear a staid matron talking in such barbaric language as "Did-ums, poor ickle sing!" or see some portly and gouty gentleman trying to make "goo-goo" eyes.

It is very amusing to baby when it is not unutterably boring. "Why cannot these idiots be natural?" the infantile optics seem to be saying. "And why do they think it necessary to mutilate the King's English on my account?"

All this, however, will probably soon come to an end, for an anti-kissing campaign has been started in England on behalf of infants in arms, and why not in Canada?

Iron Holders

When doing a large ironing you will find it a great help to have two or three iron-holders ready, so that you can change from one to the other occasionally. This prevents the hand from getting as hot and tired as it would otherwise do.

Hot Potato Salad

Cut six good-sized cold boiled potatoes into thin slices. Put them into a saucepan with a tablespoonful of chopped parsley, the third of a cupful of chopped celery, and a little pepper and salt. Mix to gether two tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar and four of olive oil; add a slice of lemon about a quarter of an inch thick, and put on to boil. When it boils, pour it over the potatoes. Cover the saucepan, and let it stand over a moderate fire until the salad is thoroughly hot. This is a very nice way of serving potatoes with cold meat.

MILLIONAIRE STOKES TELLS HIS SENSATIONAL STORY

His Adventure With Girls in Their Apartment — Was Shot in Ankle.

New York, July 7—That a demand that he retract statements affecting the honor of Lillian Graham's mother and her two sisters was changed to a blackmailing demand for $25,000, and that when he refused to be "bled" the Graham girl and Ethel Conrad deliberately tried to murder him, was the sworn statement made in the Police Court by W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel proprietor and sportsman.

When the two chorus girls faced their accuser in Magistrate Freschi's court there was plenty of sensational evidence from the start. Despite the extreme heat, the police reserves had to be called to control the crowd that wanted to hear the story of the millionaire and his two charmers.

Both girls, daintily garbed in white sat directly in front of Stokes, and listened scornfully as he pictured the events that happened in the apartment at 225 West Eighth street on the night of June 7.

"On that afternoon I received a phone message from Ethel Conrad," said Stokes. "She told me that Lillian Graham had sailed for Europe on the Baltic and had left a package of letters I had written her to be turned over to me. She asked me if I would come up for the letters, or if I would send for them. I told her I would come at six.

WENT TO GET LETTERS

"I got to the apartment at the hour named and the elevator boy told me to walk right in. Inside the door Miss Conrad was standing, and told me to sit down until she could go and get the letters.

"I heard her talking with some one else in the other room. A few minutes later I was surprised to see Lillian Graham coming down the hall She had a revolver in her hand. As she jumped through the door she yelled. "You have told it all over New York that my mother ran an improper house in Seattle, that my sister was an inmate of another in Cincinnati that my sister, Mrs. John Singleton ran one in Los Angeles, and that I was a bad woman. Over there is a desk and a pen and ink. You get over there and sign a retraction and if you move I will certainly kill you."

THREATENED WITH DEATH

"I looked at her in amazement as I had never said anything like that to any one. Then the Conrad female came in and said, 'Now you do as we tell you and you will be all right; otherwise you will be killed.'

"I told them that I was not afraid of them or of their pistol, and Conrad said, 'Well, we will make you afraid. You won't be the first man that has been killed in a New York flat. We can kill you and get away with your body and no one will be any the wiser."

As he accused the girls, the voice of the millionaire was raised almost to a shout, and he gazed straight at them. Neither flinched.

"The girls rangled over what I was to write," continued Stokes. "and I finally interrupted them to tell them emphatically that they could shoot as soon as they pleased, that I had no intention of writing anything.

"I tried to talk them out of their mood. and reminded the Graham woman that I had given her thirty dollars once, two hundred another time. and fifteen only a few days before, and that she had promised to return to me eighteen letters I had written her. I had also warned that I did not like the way she was trying to double cross me.

DEMANDED $25,000

"'I will sign nothing, as I have not made any such absurd statements,' I told them, and then the Conrad woman broke in. 'Yes, you will, and now you will sit down there and draw up a cheque for $25,000. Get a gait on you.'

"I told her I preferred to be killed to giving up money in that way, and warned them I would have them arrested if they persisted. 'Oh, no you won't,' yelled Conrad, 'you see we have it all fixed up. If you won't give us this money we will just kill you. Then I will swear you tried to assault me and I killed you. and I guess there won't be any twelve men found who will blame me for what I did.'

"'I won't give you a cent; I'd sooner be killed.' I told them. and then the Graham woman stepped back and began snapping the trigger of the revolver The first two times nothing happened. and then I saw a flash and felt a stinging pain in my leg. As she shot again I jumped and grabbed her. We fought across the room to the door she yelling, 'Ethel, get your gun, you said if I didn't kill him you would.'

CALLED FOR POLICE

"I saw Conrad open the door of a cabinet and get a gun out. She fired and hit me in the ankle. Then I pulled the other woman around in front of me. As I did so Conrad ran to the front window, yelling, 'Police! Murder! Help!' I told her she couldn't get the police there quick enough to suit me. and she stopped yelling and came back at me just as I managed to open the door into the hall. We rolled through the door, both of them fighting me, and then the door snapped.

"'Why don't you shoot?' yelled Graham as I pulled myself free of them. 'How can I when the door is shut and locked?' was the answer, and then I saw I was safe. A bunch of Japanese ran out of an adjoining apartment and began to beat me, but just then the police arrived and all hands were arrested."

This concluded Stokes' direct testimony, and a recess was taken.

BAR RECEIPTS DROP

A Result of the Early Closing By-law In Montreal

One hundred thousand dollars is a conservative estimate by Montreal Dominion Alliance officials of the amount of money which has been lost by liquor dealers of that city and district since the early closing law became effective May 1st. If anything, it was pointed out, this amount was underestimated, a liberal allowance having been made for the meal and liquor traffic carried on in the hotels and of the carrying home on Saturday nights by working men of the strong drink which they would otherwise have consumed over the bars of Montreal saloons. The population of Montreal is half a million souls, and the estimated per capita expenditure on liquor is placed at $11. This gives a total of $5,500,000 a year, or $105,769 weekly, this sum representing what was actually spent in six days on liquor before the twenty-two hours of prohibition came into force. The lopping off of three hours a day in the liquor traffic on five days of the week and seven hours on Saturday naturally made a very substantial difference in the amount of money taken over the counters of Montreal's saloons. Allowing that there were 114 hours during which liquor could be sold and that the early closing law left only eighty-two, one-fifth of the previous receipts would give a fair estimate of the amount lost during the past month. But the increased trade in the hotels and restaurants has to be taken into consideration. and this conservatively provided for would, as estimated by the Dominion Alliance, leave the amount of money lost by local liquor dealers in a month at between $95,000 and $100,000.

Girls Will Claim They Shot in Self Defence

Extracts From Young Man's Letters to Lillian Graham

New York, July 7.—When the hearing of Lillian Graham and Ethel Conrad, accused of the attempted murder of E. E. D. Stokes, multi-millionaire, was resumed before Magistrate Freschi to-day, it was plain the girls intended to insist they shot in self-defence. The aged clubman still on the stand, was severely cross-examined by Clark Jordan, attorney for the girls, the latter endeavoring to show that Stokes was not sent for by Miss Conrad, to get the letters he had written to Miss Graham, but that he went to the house hoping to see the Conrad girl alone.

That some of these letters are still missing developed to-day, and as effort is to be made to ascertain their whereabouts. Attorneys for the girls want to know why it is that the private detective of Stokes' hotel, the Ansonia, was permitted to enter and ransack their apartments, to take the letters from a tin box in a closet, when the apartment was supposed to be under the guard of the local police department.

On behalf of the girls. Attorney Jordan said just before court opened that he had a number of witnesses who have not yet been mentioned in the case whom he will call, if necessary. He refused to indicate who they were or what they would testify to.

"Before we are done with this case," he added, significantly, "we will make Mr. Stokes sorry he did not follow out his original intention of going to Europe and dropping the case."

ADVICE TO MISS GRAHAM

The following extracts from W. E. D. Stokes' letters to Lillian Graham might be termed "A Worldly Man's Advice to a Young Girl."

"Marry some rich young fellow whose companionship will be worth more to you than all the worthless admiration of a cheap stage or a heartless social life."

"No matter how nice a girl is, let her once go on the stage, and she is spoiled."

"Keep your head. Don't touch wine beers or liquors. They will ruin your complexion."

"Get this little cheque cashed. and when the money comes, blow it on something."

"I am too old, so all I can do is to be polite, and some day I will come across a divorcee or a widow who had had all the matrimonial experience she wants for life, and we can be just good friends."

"I want to talk over with you a Chicago widow. She had a little nose and black hair, and does not like Chicago because the dirty streets, the fogs and such things remind her of her husband."

"I am over twice as old as you, and I advise you to drop all ideas of stage life: there's nothing in it. If you won't take my advice I can't blame you, for I told Maude Adams when she was a little girl that she was sure to make a failure if she went on the stage."

"Keep your head.... The most crushing part of your letters is to give your love to Clarence. I never heard of such a cruel act in my life."

The two defendants and Miss Graham's sister, Mrs John Singleton, wife of a wealthy California mining man, who accompanies them in court, listened to Stokes' testimony yesterday with frequent derisive smiles. All three dress in the daintiest of summer costumes and present a refreshing sight in the torrid court room.

Kryptok lenses have distinctive advantages over all former near and far-sighted glasses, having no line or patch to suggest old sight or to confuse the eye. THIS PHOTOGRAPH SHOWS THE ARRIVAL OF THE KING AND QUEEN AT WESTMINSTER ABBEY BEFORE THE CORONATION CEREMONY. THEY ARE IN THE OFFICIAL COACH OF STATE.

LANDLADY TURNED HIM DOWN; PETROLEA YOUTH SHOOTS HER

Mrs. Frederick King Is Murdered and Her Daughter Wounded by William Moore, an Employe of the Wagon Works—Man Had Asked Mrs. King to Marry Him and She Refused—Had Taken Laudanum.

Petrolea, July 10.—This town was stirred to its depths yesterday when it was learned Mrs. Frederick King, who lives over the Flats, had been shot to death by William Moore, an employe of the Wagon Works Co. The cause of the shooting was a clear case of jealousy. The murderer, who is about twenty years of age, boarded with the King family until about a month or so ago, and was asked to leave the house by one of Mrs. King's sons, owing to the vile language he had been in the habit of using, and also because he had got behind with his board bill. He then went to live with his mother, a Mrs. Perkins of this town, later going to his grandmother's in Oil Springs, leaving there to attend camp in Goderich.

Upon his return from camp be called at the King house and asked to see Mrs. King, of whom, notwithstanding the fact that she was over twice his age, he was enamored. He was met at the door by a daughter of the murdered woman, who informed him her mother was out of the house. He did not say anything at the time, but went away quietly, only to return on Saturday about 11.30 o'clock. He entered the house, which has a front and side door with a verandah running the side and across the front, at the side entrance, without knocking, and found the family preparing dinner. In the room at the time were the victim and her daughter Florence, aged fourteen years, and a married doughter, a Mrs. Hollifield. The latter being nearest to him, asked "What do you want?"

"You stand back," he replied, and immediately pulling a 22 calibre rifle out of one of his pant legs, aimed it at Mrs. Hollifield, who dropped to the floor to avoid the shot, which struck little Florence in the wrist, just at the pulse.

The child screamed and ran out of the house, followed by the sister and mother, the mother turning to the right, the other two to the left, screaming for help.

The frantic mother ran down the verandah, followed by the enraged man and attempted to make for the side door, but was shot in the left side twice before she reached the door, the shots being only six inches apart. In her agony and excitement the terrified woman dashed against the door and fell to the floor of the verandah. She died a few minutes later.

The murderer then threw down the gun and walked into the arms of Policeman Whitlock, who had come up, and who took him to the police station. Here he showed symptoms of opium poisoning. Dr. Dunfield was hurriedly called and washed out the man's stomach and used antidotes to prevent the opium from having a fatal effect. There are hopes of his recovery.

The murdered woman, who was 42 years old, came to Petrolea about a year and a half ago, from Gladwin, Mich. Prior to living in Gladwin, the family lived for a time in Owen Sound and also in Sarnia. She and her husband had not been living together, owing to some domestic difficulty, but the family, which consisted of three boys, a sailor in Montreal, Harry and Sandy in Petrolea, and three girls, Florence, Lizzie and Mrs. Hollifield, also of Petrolea.

When called on by a reporter the girls were sobbing quietly and the house was in perfect order.

"I can't understand why Will would do such a thing," said Mrs. Hollifield. "Poor mother never did anything to him. He appeared to be fond of her and I believe it was a case of jealousy. About two or three months ago he asked mother to marry him, but she refused, saying that she had been maried once and she was not going to marry again even if she could."

He did not say much at the time, but Saturday's sequel explains his silence.

About Moore not much is known: He came to Petrolea last fall from Oil Springs and secured a position in the wagon works. Only a few weeks ago the gas exploded, burning him severely about the head. He was taken to the hospital and since resuming work his fellow workmen say that he has been acting strangely. Only on Sunday night last Moore attended a Salvation Army meeting and seemed to be greatly impressed.

"Oh, it's awful, it's awful," he keeps moaning. "I never thought I would come to this. I've worried; oh, I've worried; oh, why did I do it? I was driven to it."

The murderer will be taken to Sarnia to await his trial.

THE KING VISITS OLD DUBLIN

Plenty of Loyalty in Irish Metropolis Yet.

King Goes to the Poorest Quarters for Ceremony.

Dublin, July 10.—The citizens of Dublin continue to give ample evidence of their affection and loyalty to King George. The King's movements are watched everywhere by enthusiastic crowds. Yesterday morning Their Majesties attended service in St. Patrick's Cathedral, where they were received by the Most Rev. Joseph Ferguson Peacocke, Lord Archbishop of Dublin. The Rt. Rev. Jno. Baptist Crozier, Bishop of Down, preached the sermon.

In the afternoon the royal party motored to Maynooth College, fifteen miles from Dublin, where they were received by the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Aberdeen, and others.

Among other affairs which the King attended was the opening of a play-centre in the poorest and roughest district in Dublin. It was a time of great anxiety for the police, who had several encounters with the crowds, in one of which a sergeant's arm was broken. Troops were brought up, but they were not required.

As soon as the King appeared, the people who are perhaps the poorest of his subjects, were carried away with enthusiasm, and gave him by far the most cordial reception of the day. Men and women, who had been jeering the police and soldiers, broke into hearty cheers, which continued throughout the district. The King and Queen, although tired, showed their great pleasure at this ovation, which was entirely unexpected in that quarter.

EGANVILLE IS HALF BURNED

Only Bonnechere River saved It From Total Loss.

At Least $100,000 Loss Sustained—Fire at Ottawa.

Eganville, Ont., July 10.—Not in the history of Eganville has there been such a dreadful conflagration as the fire which started here at 1.30 yesterday. The Bonnechere River divides the town into two equal parts, north and south, over half of the north side now being in ashes, while on the south side an immense amount of damage is done. The loss will amount to between $75,000 and $100,000. The fire originated in the sheds of Mr. McCann, and as there is no protection here except a bucket brigade, the flames soon spread before a strong west wind, which was blowing.

The Pembroke and Renfrew fire brigades were called upon for help. There was a delay in Pembroke, as the station agent had to get orders from headquarters. In Renfrew the delay was caused by the engine having to get up steam. The fire brigades, however, came as quickly as possible, the Pembroke one by the Grand Trunk and the Renfrew one by the C.P.R. The northwestern part of the town was saved, after a great deal of fighting on the part of Pembroke fire brigade. The Renfrew brigade did heroic work as well, saving many residences. The buildings destroyed were:

The grist mill, the woollen mill, Ottawa Hotel, Presbyterian Church, Methodist Church, English Church, public school, the new high school, which was under construction, and twenty-five fine residences and business blocks. The two newspaper offices were burned, as well as a sash and door factory and a sawmill.

Only for the river the whole town would have been swept off the map.

Lumber Yard Swept.

Ottawa, July 10.—Fifteen million feet of board measure of sawn lumber intended for the United States market was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon in the yards of Ritchie Bros., mill owners, at Aylmer, Que. The cut was valued at $300,000, on which there was insurance of $200,000.

The lumber was owned by the Fraser-Bryson Lumber Co., Ltd., Ottawa; the Hawkesbury Lumber Co., Ottawa; the Pembroke Lumber Co., Pembroke; the Colonial Lumber Co., Pembroke; estate R. Hurdman, Ottawa, and McAuliffe Davis Lumber Co., Ottawa.

The lumber piling yards are located directly to the south of the town of Aylmer, which for a time was threatened by the flames. The Ottawa and Hull fire departments rushed engines and men to the assistance of the Aylmer brigade, and succeeded in confining the fire to the lumber piles. Luckily there was no wind blowing and the flames and smoke shot skyward in a spectacular manner as a result. By five o'clock the fire had about burned itself out.

One woman, Mrs. Smith of Aylmer, was overcome by the fierce heat from the burning piles, and collapsed. Thousands of people from Ottawa and Hull went out to watch the smoke and flames, which could be seen from miles around.

It is thought the fire must have been started by a careless workman lighting his pipe at the noon hour, as the flames were first noticed a few minutes after 12 o'clock.

Nova Scotia Village Threatened.

Halifax, July 10.—Fire late Saturday afternoon destroyed the general store of I. B. Shaffner & Co., at Elmsdale, wiped out three barns and a carriage house adjoining, burned the house on the opposite side of the road, owned and occupied by George Ross, and seriously threatened the whole village of fifty houses.

The Shaffner building is a large four-storey wooden structure with a floor space of 40,000 feet, and a large stock of goods was distributed throughout the building from top to bottom. This building and the five others constitute a total loss. Only a part of I. B. Shaffner & Co.'s stock on the lower floor, chiefly dry goods and boots and shoes, was saved. The buildings and stock were insured, and the loss falling on the insurance companies will he heavy.

The fire, which began in the upper part of the Shaffner building, is supposed to have started by a spark from an Intercolonial Railway engine that passed an hour before. So far as known no one was in the upper part of the building during the afternoon. The wind was from the southwest and blew towards a meadow on the rear of the I. B. Shaffner & Co. Had the wind been in the opposite direction the whole village would have gone; as it was the flames went against the wind to the Ross residence. By the heroic work the station was saved, everybody turning out and keeping blankets soaked with water, and laying them on the side of the house.

There was never any hope of saving I. B. Shaffner's store. It was level with the ground in little more than an hour.

LAURIER WELCOME BY THE LIBERAL NOTABLES OF QUEBEC

Coronation Contingent Is Disbanded and Put on Trains For Home Happy to Be Back Again In Canada—City of Quebec and Liberal Clubs Present Addresses to Sir Wilfrid—To Speak To-night.

Quebec, July 10.—As the stately ocean liner Empress of Britain swung into her dock yesterday afternoon the band of the coronation contingent played "O Canada," and the large crowd of people which had assembled on the dock sent up three hearty cheers of welcome to the soldiers of the Dominion, who have been representing Canada at the crowning of King George. The cheers were answered with a will by the bronzed crowd of the boys as they swarmed all over the forward decks. They looked perfect pictures of physical manhood and seemed to be delighted to be once more in Canada, even though their experiences on the other side have been most notable, and where they have been almost overloaded with kindness and honors.

But the chief interest in the arrival of the Empress, was the presence on board of Canada's Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, returning from the Imperial Conference and from the coronation festivities. With Sir Wilfrid were Sir Frederick Borden and Hon. L. P. Brodeur. The Liberal leader landed immediately after the ship had moored, and he was given an enthusiastic reception. Sir Wilfrid was met by Sir Lomer Gouin, Provincial Premier; Mayor Drouin of Quebec and other notables. He was at once escorted to the carriage of Lieutenant-Governor Langelier, and, accompanied by Captain Victor Pelletier and Major A. DeL. Panet, A.D.C.'s, to his honor, and his worship the mayor, at once drove with the Premier. Sir Wilfrid will address a big meeting to-night, which promises to be an imposing event. The meeting will take place on the terrace, where a special stand has been erected and which is being handsomely decorated with lights and flags. An address will be presented on behalf of the city and another from the Liberal clubs of Quebec. Sir Wilfrid is looking in splendid form, and his sunny smile was much in evidence as he acknowledged the greetings of his many admirers.

The coronation contingent was dismissed on board the ship, and the men at once proceeded to the various trains which are to convey them to their homes in all parts of the country. The men all appeared to be in a cheerful condition, and seem to have enjoyed their trip thoroughly. They had lots of work to do, but they also had lots of pleasure, and were well treated by the people on the other side. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is a guest at the Chateau Frontenac, where he was joined by Lady Laurier.

Toronto, July 10.—Frank Gowan, a hydro-electric lineman, whose home is at St. Catharines, met his death this morning at Sunnyside. He suffered a sun-stroke while at work on top of a pole and fell sixty feet to the ground, being badly burned by live wires before he landed. Gowan lived but a few moments.

HEAVY RAINS DELIGHT WEST; BUMPER CROP NOW ASSURED

Cry Of Help In The Harvest Fields Already Loud and Long.

Winnipeg, July 10.—Hard rains all over the west Friday and Saturday are believed to assure a record crop. Heat had been severe for ten days and a few places needed rain badly. Reports from all sections show there has been no appearance of rust. Harvest will commence about Aug. 10, fully ten days earlier than last year. In a good many districts the crop, owing to the rank growth, will be heavy to handle. Haying has already commenced, and the crop is undoubtedly the largest and heaviest in a decade. The condition of the flax crop is stated to be satisfactory. The area under flax is much greater than in any previous year. In most districts the supply of moisture is considered ample to carry the crop through. In a few instances there has been too much rain, and in a few other districts showers would be welcomed.

In the matter of harvest help the whole west is in agreement that it will be difficult to secure a sufficient number of farm hands to take care of the crop. Thousands of men would readily find employment at the present moment in the western hayfields. The hay will hardly be off before harvest begins. Some districts report that as many as a thousand men could be employed immediately. The scarcity of help is more pronounced in Manitoba and Saskatchewan than in Alberta. The crop in Manitoba is more advanced than in the other provinces, with the exception of the winter wheat districts.

Gas Distended His Stomach

UNION LABEL

RECIPROCITY WITH PANICS

It is almost needless to say that in a growing country like Canada, where the demand for money and men is ever ahead of the supply, financial panics do not arise from within. They come as the reflexion of troubled waters elsewhere. Every big trade depression that Canada has suffered has come from the United States, though in only one or two cases been really severe. As long as Canada has a protective tariff, as long as Canada goes her own commercial and financial way, just that long will Canada remain comparatively free from the great trade depressions of the United States.

Does Canada want reciprocity with a panic such as that of 1907 in the United States, when people with thousands and hundreds of thousands in the banks could not draw a dollar; when commercial institutions went under by the score, and hundreds of thousands were thrown out of work? Does Canada want reciprocity with hard times such as these panics bring? Does Canada want reciprocity in closed factories and idle workmen?

The newspapers of the United States did not tell a tithe of the truth in connection with the 1907 panic. Idle workmen swarmed the streets of Buffalo, but the Buffalo newspapers said never a word about it. Across the border there was peace and prosperity. Why? Because Canadians were separated from the whirlpool of financial disaster by a Chinese wall, and were able to sail calmly and peaceful their commercial bark. They were tossed in no maelstrom; swung in no pitiless eddy; and all because of their separate and distinct identity.

Laurier proposes to have partial free trade with the United States. He would have the Canadian and American market as one big market. We shall be subject to a great degree to all the violent fluctuations; the twists and turns of the American commercial world. If the reciprocity pact goes through, Canada will eventually have reciprocity with some of the greatest modern evils, and which it will in vain try to withdraw from.

A dispatch from Philadelphia is particularly illuminating in showing what Laurier would have Canada seek reciprocity with. It says—

Trade conditions in Philadelphia generally are regarded as worse than they have been for three years. Every industry shows signs of a decided slump. While at this time of year it is usual to find trade dull, the present conditions appear in no way connected with the customary summer "slump." In fact, the present condition of trade has lasted since last winter, only conditions have continued to grow more acute.

"All the great iron and steel companies having their headquarters here, report that their furnaces are shut down. A few furnaces are kept going to use material on hand; but it is a struggle, and the President of one of the largest steel companies said to-day that the business at present may be said to be defunct.

"The railroads entering here have been curtailing since last winter, and are not ordering any new equipment, other than what is absolutely necessary. No improvements at all are being made or started, altho several of importance have been planned.

"The great textile district in Kensington is almost in distress. Such factories as are not shut down are producing less than sixty per cent. of their capacity; and it is hinted that even this soon will be stopped, unless economic conditions change for the better.

TWO POWER SITES

The dam which is being built by the government at Burleigh Falls is a tremendously big and substantial affair, and will provide for someone a most important water-power—the most important on the whole system. It seems a shame that the city cannot get the power rights at this dam, because it would solve the problem in a manner most satisfactory.

The Dickson dam at Lakefield is familiar to most Peterborough people, but at present is in a most anaemic condition. If the city acquired the dam, and wanted to generate a supply of power with a guarantee of permanency, it would have to practically rebuild the present wooden structure, which is in very poor shape. The power may be there, but a large expenditure of money would be needed to make it of some practical use. A price of $200,000 is really outrageous for merely the lease.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Montreal newspaper is advertising the new paper bag cookery. If gas bags could only be applied in cooking in the same way, we wouldn't have to bother hunting for the paper bags.

Sir Charles Tupper has been suggested as Canadian high commissioner in London, to succeed Lord Strathcona. A very nice suggestion, but as Sir Charles is ninety years of age, would it not be as well to let him live a little while yet?

Mr. Borden says:—"I would not destroy a factory in Canada to build a factory in Yorkshire. Subject to legitimate protection of our own interests, I, descendant of men who never lived under any but the British flag, am anxious to throw all our trade as much as possible into British channels. I am for the British empire against all others, and in the empire I am for Cnaada first." Such a declaration as that ought to win the common sense and hearty approval of all real Canadians.

The United States newspapers are joining in the clamor against the execution of the Italian woman at the Soo, found guilty of the murder of her husband. In one way, it is too bad that the Soo case is one deserving of clemency, because it wouldn't do much harm to show the yellow journals that their shrieks and clamors carry no weight with Canadian justice, whatever it might do in their own country. The Soo woman will not hang, because of the circumstances of the case, and the megaphone press will naturally think its protests have carried the day.

LIVERPOOL, July 8.—The market opened steady and unchanged. The strength in America was offset here by more favorable crop reports from Russia, and there was some selling in the way of profit-taking. The weather in the United Kingdom is favorable, and the weather was against holders. Late was free covering by shorts on nervousness, on private reports from America on damage to spring wheat, and the unsettled political conditions. There was a disposition to cover over the week-end, and at the close the market was firm to ¼d to ⅜d higher than yesterday.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Timidity in regard to wet and cooler weather pulled the wheat market down to-day in the last hour of the session. The heavy movement of the new crop was also a big weight upon values. Closing figures were ¼ to ½ under last night. Corn and oats finished unchanged to within ¼c decline. Hog products made a ragged wind-up, varying from 2½ advance to 22½ decline.

Liverpool Cattle Market.

Met Instant Death.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 10.—Charles Dalzeil, 27 years of age, a truckman hauling stone for the foundation of the new Zion Church, met almost instant death on Friday as the result of being struck by a falling derrick. With a number of others he was engaged pilling stone off a truck. One stone larger than any other hitherto lifted by the derrick was being hoisted into place, when the back guy slipped from the excessive weight and the derrick with all its gear came tumbling down. Dalzeil saw it coming and tried to dodge to one side, but was not quick enough to elude the heavy mass, the top end of which struck him with full force on the side of the head, rendering him unconscious. An examination revealed that the neck was broken. He lived one hour.

Caught Between Booms.

Montreal, July 10.—A supposed kidnapping mystery was brought to a sad end yesterday morning when the body of Leslie Kesseler, aged nine, who had been missing from his home on Maisonneuve street, since Thursday evening last, was found caught head downward between two booms in the canal. The boy had been playing in that vicinity Thursday, and it is supposed he slipped and was unable to extricate himself while attempting to run the booms.

Got Homesick.

Kingston, July 8.—Two weeks ago, Wallace Tacon, aged 12, of Windsor, Ont., ran away from home and came to Kingston, where he formerly lived. He got a position in a store, but yesterday got homesick and gave himself up to the police. Mayor Graham gave him a railway pass home.

Died at 106.

Ottawa, July 8.—The oldest inhabitant near here is dead in the person of Mr Wm. McKelvey, of Cascades. McKelvey is said to have been 106 years of age, and was one of the pioneers of the district, having come over from Ireland when a young man.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. Albert W. Kahl, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have used Castoria in my practice for the past 26 years. I regard it as an excellent medicine for children."

Dr. Gustave A. Eisengraeber, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "I have used your Castoria repeatedly in my practice with good results, and can recommend it as an excellent, mild and harmless remedy for children."

Dr. E. J. Dennis, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have used and prescribed your Castoria in my sanitarium and outside practice for a number of years and find it to be an excellent remedy for children."

Dr. S. A. Buchanan, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria in the case of my own baby and find it pleasant to take, and have obtained excellent results from its use."

Dr. J. E. Simpson, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have used your Castoria in cases of colic in children and have found it the best medicine of its kind on the market."

Dr. R. E. Eskildson, of Omaha, Neb., says: "I find your Castoria to be a standard family remedy. It is the best thing for infants and children I have ever known and I recommend it."

Dr. L. R. Robinson, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria certainly has merit. Is not its age, its continued use by mothers through all these years, and the many attempts to imitate it, sufficient recommendation? What can a physician add? Leave it to the mothers."

Dr. Edwin F. Pardee, of New York City, says: "For several years I have recommended your Castoria and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."

Dr. N. B. Sizer, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what ingredients are put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use."

"What's the matter with him?" asked Emma.

"Rather impertinent and"—

"That waiter suits me, and I haven't heard Emma kicking," cut in Joe.

But Mrs. Harris was not to be suppressed by any snubbing from him.

"Still," she persisted, "I think for the money you are paying here"—

"For the money I am paying here," he retorted, "I'm satisfied. It seems to me that that is all there is to it."

"Mother, dear, please don't find fault," urged Emma. "It is all so much better than it has been. I think you should be happy to see things as they are."

"So much better than Emma's had for so long," chimed in Beth.

Brooks scowled at her and, gathering up some more papers from the table, retreated with them to his chair and began to peruse them rather feverishly.

"I never read the papers any more," declared Mrs. Harris. "All they have are scandal, murders and men who steal money from their firms. My—I don't know what the world is coming to!"

"Wasn't it terrible about that man yesterday walking out of the bank with a small fortune?" said Beth.

"I can't understand how a man can deliberately steal," sniffed her mother, "especially when there isn't a chance on earth of getting away."

"He's the man who gave all the money to some woman, isn't he?" Emma wanted to know.

"Yes. He'll have plenty of time to think it over. The penitentiary isn't a bit too good for men like him."

"I felt so sorry for his wife, poor woman," remarked Beth. "She'll have to stand most of the trouble."

"Where's the rest of this paper?" he demanded. "I want the part with the racing chart. It's marked 'Past Performances.'"

"Oh, I know—what Jimsy calls the dope sheet," said Emma. "There it is."

Mrs. Harris looked horrified.

"Joe, you certainly aren't interested in races—horse races?" she interrogated.

"Yes, I am," he snapped. "I don't play 'em, but I like to look 'em over. What of it?"

"Well, dearie, Joe isn't stealing money or playing races, so don't get worried," commented Emma, a little testily.

Mrs. Harris persisted.

"Captain Williams says that the race track ruins more young men and"—

Her son-in-law had been waxing more and more exasperated.

"For heaven's sake," he broke out angrily, wiping the perspiration from his face, "can't you find something better to talk about than ruined men, thieves and fellows who go wrong?"

"Why, Joe, what's the matter?" inquired his wife, gazing at him in astonishment.

He turned his wan face toward her, and there was a look as of entreaty and apology in his eyes, under which the dark circles appeared to have deepened, as he replied:

"I'm tired and nervous. I think I'll walk down the street."

"Oh, but you've got to take us to the theater," Beth told him. "Mother hasn't seen the play at the Renaissance, and you can't get seats—not a single one—even from speculators. I promised to take her."

"Where do I come in?"

Mrs. Harris answered for her:

"You just take us; call for us after the show and put us on a car."

"We simply can't miss this chance, can we, mamma?" said Beth. "You will take us and come for us, won't you, Joe?"

"Oh, I suppose so," he acquiesced, a little wearily.

At that moment the telephone bell rang, and Emma answered it.

"I've got a surprise for you," she said. "Guess who's calling? Some one who wasn't expected for a month."

"Jimsy," cried Beth.

"Jimsy Smith, straight back from Guatemala."

Joe's eyes widened, and the little color in it faded from his face. He was very much startled by this unexpected visit, but kept sufficient control over himself not to make the fact too apparent.

"Is Captain Williams with him?" inquired Mrs. Harris.

"I don't know," answered Emma. "I wonder what brings him back? He wasn't expected for a month or six weeks."

"I suppose the captain's with him," surmised Beth.

Her mother expressed the hope that he was.

"So do I," said Emma. "I want to thank him for Joe's raise."

"You'll do nothing of the kind!" exploded Brooks furiously. "I want you all to understand here and now that my business is my business. I don't want it discussed with either Smith or Williams. What I've got I've got, and it is nobody's affair but mine. Now, if any of you have got anything to say about me or what I do, say it to me or shut up."

"Joe, how can you?" reproached his wife, taken completely aback by this savage and uncalled for display of anger.

"Well, I declare!" ejaculated Mrs. Harris, bridling up. "I've never been talked to so in all my life and"—

Mrs. Brooks opened the door, and Jimsy stood revealed with his winsome smile, his face tanned brown by the sun of the tropics.

"Welcome home, little stranger!" exclaimed Emma heartily.

"Hello, Emma! How are you?" he said, taking her outstretched hand. "Ladies, I salute you. The prodigal has returned from the distant land of chili con carni and fat ladies wearing mantillas to receive his overdose of American grub."

"Look at him! He's as brown as an Indian!" laughed Beth, giving him a cordial handshake.

"Where's Captain Williams?" asked Mrs. Harris.

"All in due time, when I spin my yarn," drawled Jimsy.

He went over to Brooks and shook hands with him.

"Glad to see you, Joe," he said.

"Thank you, Jimsy. Same to you. You look immense."

"I'm better than that. Now, if you folks will sit down I'll tell you the story of my wonderful adventures, lying only when necessary to protect my unsullied reputation. How is that, Beth, 'unsullied reputation?' Pretty good, eh?"

"But Captain Williams and the story?" urged Emma.

"What I want to know," observed her mother, "is, Did the captain come with you?"

"So do I," said Brooks, with hardly concealed anxiety.

"Well, you know it took me two months to do all this, and you can't expect me to tell this story as if it was a journey in the subway."

"Jimsy, you're exasperating," remonstrated Emma.

She stamped her foot imperiously.

"Never mind me. Talk!"

"And please say something," added Beth.

"Stung!" he laughed. "Thank you, Beth! Well, you know cap and I were going to make a trip at every port of call the Latin-American company has, but when we got to Guatemala we found out that a couple of those dons down there, being out of jobs, had concluded to pass the time away by pulling off one of their monthly revolutions and, among other things, were getting very gay with our property."

"You mean war?" demanded Beth, deeply interested.

"Not according to Hoyle. This game was just for conversation. Anyway, things looked a little bad, so we stayed there until one of the dons threatened to put us in jail and burn up our warehouses. We were delayed a couple of weeks, and one morning the army of forty-two generals and three privates saw the United States cruiser Brooklyn steam into port all painted up, with a lot of peevish bluejackets on board, looking for trouble. So they postponed their change of government indefinitely. We had been delayed so long by them fellows"—

"Jimsy," objected Beth. "Don't call them 'them fellows.'"

"No?"

"No. Say 'those fellows.'"

"Well, Beth, I've known those greasers down there for fourteen years as 'them fellows,' and if I called them anything else I'm afraid I'd have to be introduced again."

"But Captain Williams?" insisted Mrs. Harris.

"Yes, where is he?" said Brooks.

"Well, we decided to come home. Captain left on the steamer by the way of New Orleans, and a couple of days later I came direct to New York."

"Then he is here?" said Mrs. Harris in a tone of gratification.

"I suppose he is, unless he was shipwrecked on the way."

"But you haven't told us anything about the war," Beth reminded him. "Was it exciting?"

"Well, as the only things that were shot off were several hundred mouths and as I'm a bad hand at repeating conversations I will have to leave the details to your imaginations."

"I consider that a most uninteresting story," pouted Beth, "and, besides, you're keeping us from the theater."

"All going?" queried Smith.

"No, just Beth and me," explained Mrs. Harris. "Emma and Joe have seen the play, and we've got the last two seats."

When the door had closed upon them Smith's attitude changed entirely. The smile vanished from his face, and he went over to Brooks and placed both hands on his shoulders.

"Joe, you're found out," he announced.

"How found out?" demanded Brooks, jumping up and facing him, very white.

"The money you've taken."

"If you say I've taken money, you're a liar!" retorted Brooks, with an attempt at fierce indignation. But the words came falteringly between his blue, parched lips.

"Joe, Joe," rebuked his friend sternly, "this ain't no time to four flush with me. I'm your friend, and you need one now, boy. Besides, there's Emma to think of."

WELCOME TO LAURIER.

Montreal Liberals Complete Plans For Great Ovation.

Montreal, July 8.—Details of Montreal's welcome to Sir Wilfrid Laurier are now officially complete. The Premier and his party will leave Sorel Monday about four o'clock and proceed up the river direct to Montreal, being met on their way by a flotilla of tugs and pleasure craft. This fleet will include about 150 craft, illuminated and decorated. Illuminations and fireworks on both shores of the river will mark the progress of the Premier's vessel.

The harbor will be illuminated in the most complete fashion. A triumphal arch will be erected at the point of debarkation, and the various vessels in port will be decorated in honor of the occasion.

The City Council will attend in a body, and Ald. Gauvin, acting mayor will read the city's address of welcome. Meanwhile, the Liberal clubs, with bands and thousands of banners, will cross the Champ de Mars, pass down Jacques Cartier Square, and take up a position on either side of the thoroughfare.

Immediately after the reply Sir Wilfrid, the civic authorities and other dignitaries in carriages, will leave the wharf by Commissioners street to Jacques Cartier square, and thence to the platform on the edge of the Champ de Mars.

The ascent of Jacques Cartier square will take place under a dome of light, formed by a series of inscriptions sixty feet long and four feet high, covering the entire width of the street. On each side of the square hanging decorations will be displayed. The Champ de Mars will be similarly illuminated, the chief feature being a gigantic portrait of the Premier outlined in fire, with the inscription, "Je me souviens." On the Champ de Mars platform, Mr. Leon Garneau will read the united address of the Liberal clubs of Montreal and district.

Not Killed by Yaquis?

Toronto, July 8.—James Brown may yet be alive. Although supposed to have been massacred by the Yaquis in Mexico in 1906, C. M. Nutter of the Nutter-Dawson Mining Co., Alaska, declares that he is still alive and in Alaska.

Chief Justice Meredith, a few weeks ago, declared him legally dead, and his niece, Miss Mary E. A. Potvin of Midland, collected an insurance policy of $2,000 from the A.O.U.W.

Owing to the probability that he still lives, Justice Sutherland has now granted the A.O.U.W. an injunction to restrain Miss Potvin from disposing of the money until the matter is cleared up.

YOUNG BUFFALO WILD WEST SHOW

Clever Work in the Saddle by Cowboys

The thousands who flocked to the two performance of Young Buffalo Wild West show on Saturday afternoon and evening, seemed to be highly pleased and interested with the exhibition of western life in its various phases of equestrian skill, markmanship and the scores of daring feats performed by the skilled and practioed experts comprising the chow.

Nearly every available seat surrounding the roped arena was occupied, and the bursts of applause which greeted some unusually skilful and daring feat were of frequent occurrence.

The afternoon exhibition commenced at 2 o'clock and ended about four, and the period intervening was so crammed with nervy and highly dangerous feats of all descriptions that the eager spectators were unaware of the flight of time.

The show company possesses some remarkably able and skilled performers, typical riders from every land, thrilling deeds of horsemanship descriptive incidents of the dangerous Indian days and west and attacks of the latter on vans and settlers caravans, stage coaches, etc., familiar by book and story.

The list of events undoubtedly contained more stellar features than any other show of like nature on the road, and was worthy of the liberal patronage it received from Peterborough people. Men and women who are leaders in their lines of amusement exhibited to the crowds their prowess and training.

Anna Oakley, pronounced to be the peerless female markswoman of the world, was certainly marvellous in her exhibition of markmanship and successively, and with ease was able to find the moving targets and spheres as they came before her rifle.

Underhand, upside down, or reclining on the ground it was immaterial to this wonderful woman sharpshooter and at every crack of her rifle the target was shattered and scattered through her unerring aim.

The game of cross-tag performed on hrosebaack, and many other accompanying equestrian manoeuveres indulged in by the quota of cowboys and cowgirls were heartily applauded. Montana Jack was certainly some rider, doing hand-stands, vaults, somersaults and numerous other startling stunts while speeding around the grassy sward on horseback.

The trained buffaloes, acting bulls, educated mules, Indians, vaqueros, cowboys, militiamen, rangers, etc., were all there and added their part to the interesting spectacle and exhibution of the times experienced in the wild and woolly west.

The side show features were varied and marvellous and attracted their usual large patronage. After the big show perdormance in the afternoon a vaudeville act of eight high-class features was put on.

Altogether the show was greatly enjoyed and was worthy of the immense patronage accorded. In the evening the same perfomance was repeated with similar success.

Come for a pleasant day with St. John's Sunday School on Wednesday, July 12th. Steamer Geneva leaves Wolfe St. at 8 a.m. for South Beach and Stony Lake. Fare:—Adults 60c. Children 30c.

ORANGEMEN HOLD ANNUAL PARADE TO GEORGE ST. CHURCH

The first Orange demonstration of the season was held last evening, when Orangemen to the number of over 300 paraded in a body to George Street Methodist Church, and were privileged to hear a most elevating, broadminded and appropriate discourse, delivered by he pastor, Rev. Isaac Couch on things of value to every loyal Orangeman.

The following Orange lodges were represented in the procession, No. 50 Juvenile, No. 50 Duke of Manchester, 1175 J. W. Bell Memorial Lodge, and quite a number of representatives of Nassau, No. 457 lodge, Downers Corners No. 321, and Lakefield and Keene.

The parade was witnessed by hundreds who lined the streets in the vicinity, and the Orangemen made a splendid showing in their first march out of the season.

The entire middle row of pews in the church were occupied by the visitors, and despite the sweltering heat, the sermon was of such a suitable and timely nature that there was little difficulty in holding the attention of the congregation.

The pastor chose his text from Ex. 19—5 and 6. "Now therefore if ye will obey my voice indeed and keep my covenant, then ye shall be a peculiar treasure unto me above all people: for all the earth is mine, and ye shall be unto me a kingdom of priests and holy nation. These are the words which thou shalt speak unto the children of Israel."

The sermon contained a strong plea for the cultivation of a stronger degree of unity among the people of this country and for more toleration for the customs and methods of thinking of those who view things in other forms than seen by us.

"Annually" said the pastor, "there is coming as a deposit upon our Canadian shores, freshets of people from all parts of the world. It should be our pride to be able to arrive at the time as rapidly as possible, when, liberty, intelligence and religion will have penetrated the people who are coming to us every year. The question is, can we stand the strain engendered by this low soil, coming to our shores. A large majority of them are of the Roman Catholic belief, and it is natural they should seek to disseminate it. Some of them retain the habits of the middle ages and many forms of infidelity. By some of them the Canadian laws are overwhelmed and the Canadian ideals overborne and the sanctity of the Lord's Day encroached upon."

The preacher dealt at some length on the splendid equalizing basis on which the common schools of the land were managed, tending to give the poor boy equally as honorable and helpful benefit as the rich man's son.

The speaker also considered that there could never be any agreement in the Protestant world, if a system were followed which allowed a few to do the spiritual thinking for the remainder, and that method is the vital part of the Roman Catholic Church.

"In things spiritual and mental," a man who simply opens, takes, opens and shuts, is nothing more than a spiritual clam."

"Finally religion must always be the dominant factor in the life of a country, and without it, no country can be at its best."

ICE CREAM! ICE CREAM!

How a Local Enterprise Has Revolutionized the Preparation of the Hot Weather Necessity — Modern Methods and Machinery.

Ice cream is one of the most nourishing and acceptable things one may partake of during this hot weather. It is particularly good for children. Served with bread or other plain food it forms a nourishing and satisfying meal, far better than many of the brands placed on our tables for the sake of variety. But ice cream costs five cents per dish, which is exactly the fee extracted for a five minute glance at the moving picture shows. When a child is the subject and there is five cents to spend, let the show slide and introduce the ice cream to the child. It is better practice and better for the youngster.

A year or two ago each confectioner made his own ice cream. That is he worked at making it. On a hot day it was perspiring work, though it brought cool results which the public ate, and quaffed, and were glad. Making ice cream was a slavish job, and the clerks kicked. The proprietor being man-of-all-work, and having the responsibility of the shop, the public and that note in the bank on such a mind as he had, strove with the crusher and freezer. Earning his money, and gaining confection literally by the sweat of his brow, explains why the purveyor of ice cream sold and dished it out with a solemn and serious air. He seldom smiled.

All this is changed. But how? No longer does the grinding of the mixer permeate Chambers street, for instance. Quiet is the big wheel that revolved beside the tank. Gone is the tow-headed boy, who hung on the handle and reluctantly drove it round while he dodged the debris pelted at him by news boys, who scoffed at his arducus toil. He is a slave no longer. Modern progress and modern methods have made him free. Hence he rejoices.

Some time ago it struck some thoughtful man that if all the cheese and butter could be made in factories, if large quantities of milk could be served from a central station, if pop, soda water and ginger ale could be concocted in one place why not icecream. Good idea. Happy thought. Sure thing. It was adopted, put in practice and the thing spread. It was a conservation of ice cream making energy.

When ex-Ald. G. A. Gillespie took hold of the Peterborough creamery he carried out his idea that an ice cream emporium should arise on Aylmer street. Early in the spring people saw that strange looking structure arising amongst an extension of the factory. It looked, at one time, as an even thing whether he was building a grain elevator or a hose tower, with the odds in favor of the tower. Those who guessed, guessed wrong. It was the aerial working end of the ice cream plant, one end being in the building, the other up in the air. Despite the fact that days will come in which the native climate will have cold to spare, and very glad to spare it, most of the work and whole barrels of expense were incurred to provide cold. To make ice rceam is one thing —to keep it made is the problem.

Ice and salt, when manipulated properly, and in proper proportions, produce cold. First there is a big storehouse for the ice. To make use of the ice it has to be crushed. There is the crusher, a sort of gigantic coffee mill that masticates a block of ice and turns it out in fragments about as big as a piece of chalk. To distribute the ice there is the elevators. The plan is to hoist it up in the airand let her slide. Conveyors carry it to the freezing vats, to the storage refrigerators, maintaining the temperature away down below zero. All the butter made is packed in cold storage until shipped. So is the ice cream, in normal times, but during the late hot week it was snatched away as fast as it was made. The capacity of the factory was over taxed.

The idea in the plant is to do the work automatically, making the machinery handle the successive operations. Not only does this save time, and labor, but it helps to cleanliness. It is not necessary to describe the whole process, but it is only fair to mention the results.

The reporter who went over to see the plant was greatly pleased. While he stood outside beside his bike, looking up at the conveyors towering overhead, he narrowly escaped being run down by a passing automobile. Naturally he was pleased at that. He was further pleased with the big coffee cup of ice cream handed him by Mr. Thos. Hooper, who was bossing things. The cream was fresh from the mint. He was pleased when he absorbed a quart of ice cold buttermilk. Such hospitality was most refreshing and he at once lost the genial austerity of the reporter and became as affable as a ball-player on a winning team.

The caller at the factory is impressed with the absolute cleanliness of the method and practice of making ice cream. Mr. T. Hooper was in charge, and Mr. Gillespie says that Mr. Hooper has a mania for cleanliness. The cream was fresh, rich and fragrant, brought in from the farm under cover early in the morning. Mr. Gillespie says the cows will have to work overtime to keep up the supply if the hot spell keeps up. He has to go farther and farther afield to get a sufficient quality. Then the sugar that sweetens is absolutely pure and specially prepared. The fiction that corn starch, plaster of paris or other thickening material is used is exploded so far as that Peterborough plant is concerned. So soon as a filling of the machine is made and worked it is poured into cans and placed in the cold storage to harden and granulate. Such as is served in the form of bricks is poured into moulds to harden. Such as come diversified with pink and canary layers are colored with a minute portion of edible dye, to give the desired shade.

The factory is running day and night. It takes the work of the night to in some measure catch up with the demand for the next day and evening. The qualities made and sold run into surprisingly large figures, and if the venture proves profitable no one will grudge Mr. Gillespie the just reward of his enterprise.

That the product of the factory is held in popular esteem is shown by the fact that it is on sale at the following shops in the city, while the out-of-town trade is developing very fast;

SUNDAY NIGHT DISTURBANCE ON WOLFE ST.

Police Court Case Follows With Fine of $5

A disturbance occurred on Sunday evening around ten o'clock at 266 Wolfe street, in the house of Alexander Thompson and the particulars of what was shown to be a case of domestic discord, were threshed out before Magistrate Dumble in police court to-day. Thompson was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $8.85, with ten days to pay it in, or the alternative of thirty days in jail.

The police were summoned by phone last evening to the scene of the disturbance about ten o'clock. There they found a crowd of neighbors in front of the house and the principals were ordered to appear this morning.

Mr. Christopher Eaton, the complainant, was the only witness called. He stated that he resided at 166 Stewart street, just around the corner from Thompson, who is his son-in-law, having married his eighteen-year-old daughter two years ago. He was told there was to be "something doing" that evening at his daughter's home, and accompanied by his wife and another daughter, he went over. The defendant ordered Mrs. Eaton and the girl out of the house, the complainant having remained outside. It appeared that the complainant's married daughter, (Thompson's wife) had been crying, and her family went over to take care of her. The defendant then, according to the witness, forcibly ejected Eaton's wife and daughter from his home.

The defendant had also made a raid on him, but was thrown down by him, (the witness). He furthermore stated that his son-in-law gave his daughter the life of a dog, was sometimes unkind to her, and that it was not the first time he had struck her.

His Worship did not care to discuss the domestic strife between the families, but merely imposed the fine for the Sunday disturbance which had been created following the disagreement.

Spare them suffering by using Mother Grves' Worm Exterminator, the best remedy of the kind that can be had.

LEG WAS AMPUTATED

To Save the Life of Mervin Lee

Is Son of Former Local Market Clerk

Mr. J. J. Howden has received a letter from Mr. Thomas Lee, now of Gilbert Plains, and formerly of this city, bearing the regrettable news that Mr. Lee's son Mervin, had had his leg injured so badly in a runaway that it was necessary to have it amputated to save his life.

Mervin was a general favorite while in Peterborough, and his many friends here will learn of his affliction with regret. Mr. Lee, who is well known here, having been market clerk for some time, removed with his family to Western Canada about three years ago and has since engaged in farming. Mervin took a deep interest in his father's farm and for a couple of seasons has driven a team. This affliction will be a blow to the lad's ambitions as well as a loss to his father.

Mr. Howden did not get details as to the time of the accident, but judging from the time a letter would be travelling that distance it must have happened on Monday last.

STORMS WERE BRIEF BUT VERY DAMAGING

Cyclonic Wind With Mixture of Lightning, Rain and Hail

Passengers on a north bound street car at noon were much alarmed when part of a bill board, near the Bethany Tabernacle, giving way before the fierce wind, struck the car and broke the glass in a window. Pedestrians too got a bad scare in different parts of the city, when trees and large limbs were blown to the ground. The heavy rainfall of this morning failed to bring relief from the heat, and the one of this afternoon was also a failure.

At noon the official thermometer stood at 92 and the highest for yesterday was 94 with the lowest drop at 72.

The storm this afternoon was too much fro the weather beaten awning in front of Mr. George Evans' tailor shop, Hunter Street. It is badly torn as a result of its meeting with the wind and hail.

On Aymer Street, between Dublin and Edinburgh, an old tree was blown against the wires and a couple of poles are closer together as a result.

The road is not blocked however as the wires are numerous and are able to hold the weight of the tree and useless poles.

The Review called up a number of rural lines, but in the majority of cases, no communication was cut off on account of trouble. Otonabee reported no storm. An electric bolt knocked out a transformer near the street railway car barns. The plate window of Ocean Blend Tea Co., on Water Street was broken. The fall of hail stones was one of the heaviest ever recorded, and caused more damage than can at present be estimated.

CHIMNEY STRUCK.

A chimney at 640 Sherbrooke street was struck by lightning during the progress of the storm at noon and it was completely demolished.

SMALL BLAZE.

Some broken wires at the corner of Sherbrooke and Reid streets set the barn of Mr. Croft on fire and at 12.28 the firemen were called to duty. No damage.

TREES BROKEN.

Several citizens lost valuable shade trees this afternoon or had them spoiled by the sacrifice of a limb or two.

Stewart and Charlotte street residents were the heaviest losers. Around Dr. Amys' property several limbs are on the ground. The Charlotte street Methodist church property and the parsonage were also sufferers.

A novel experience was the lot of Mrs. Ferguson, who resides at the corner of Stewart and Simcoe street. A short limb was blown against the front door and it had to be given an axe bereavement before the path could be cleared.

The Y.W.C.A. is minus a couple of trees—at least it will be when the fragments are removed.

Aymer street was also visited, a tree at Mr. H. P. Kennedy's losing a limb.

POLE DOWN.

A pole belonging to one of the power companies, in front of Dr. Young's, was broken at the base and thrown against the trees.

Mr. A. E. Micks' awning was broken by the impact of the storm.

A portion of the fire alarm telegraph system was disabled. At the time of going to press the north and east circuits were still out of commission.

FINE TRIP TO SCUGOGVILLE

One Hundred Excursionists Take Trip to Lindsay

The Peterborough and Lake Simcoe Co's fine steamer Otonabee carried one hundred or more excursionists to Lindsay on Saturday, making the long trip through the lakes and the Scugog river under most pleasant conditions. Leaving Peterborough about 8 a.m. the "Otonabee" arrived at Lindsay about half past eight in the evening, giving the Peterborough people plenty of time to catch the Grand Trunk at 9.30 In Lovesick Lake the steamer had to ram a big bunch of logs that blocked a passage, but came through without trouble. The tourist season has commenced in the lakes, and on every hand the cottages were gaily deocrated and holidaying is in full swing. The outing was most enjoyable in every way.

BOWMANVILLE PUT ONE OVER ON PETES WITH 7-5 COUNT

Saturday's Midland league game at Bowmanville between Goodyear team of that town and the Peterborough team will go down into history as a 7 to 5 defeat for the Petes. Technically and correctly speaking, however, the score should read Bowmanville 6, Peterborough 6, with the game unfinished. Scrappy and full of wrangling all through, the contest had an unsatisfactory termination. It happened in this wise. With two out in Peterborough's half of the ninth and Murphy at the bat, Rahmal who had stolen second and third cleanly, got a long lead off the bag and tore for home as Beith, Bowmanville's pitcher, shot the ball to plate. Jones, the Bowmanville catcher, jumped across the plate and in front of Murphy, grabbed the ball without giving the batter a chance to swing and tagged Rahmal as he came in. The Bowmanville team rushed off the field and although the Petes protested vigorously there was nothing doing. It was a clear case of interference on the part of the catcher and Rahmal should have been declared safe and Murphy sent to first. After the game Weeks, of Bowmanville, who umpired on account of the non-appearance of Jack Rosevear, told the Petes that he had made no decision on the play, but that the Bowmanville team had left the field without waiting for the verdict. He agreed that Rahmal was safe at the plate, was very sorry it had happened etc., but there was very little satisfaction in that for the Petes.

Beith who twirled such a masterly game against Peterborough in the game here on coronation day worked for Bowmanville again on Saturday and the big fellow seemed to have the number of some of Peterborough's best hitters. He was in fine form Saturday and outside of the first two and last innings was never in difficulties getting a host of strikeouts with his fast ball.

Ernie Rahmal was on the slab for the Petes and pitched plenty good enough to win, but wobbly support at critical stages lost the contest for him. The rubber men could not hit him with any degree of certainty and had it not been for the errors behind him he would have carried off the game. He had eleven strikeouts to his credit. The diamond was rough and baked so hard that the ground balls came hopping along at any old angle and the Petes infield, used to the velvety smoothness of Riverside Park, did not show their usual accuracy in handling the skippers. Neither were all the errors made on ground balls and the tricky nature of the diamond was responsible in no small measure.

The Petes kicked vigorously on some of the umpire's decisions. Undoubtedly he was trying to be fair, but his mistakes were all against the visitors who objected strenuously. The climax came in the eighth when Bill Shaw drove a liner down the first base line that was good for two bases. The ball struck a foot inside the line and was easily fair as the Bowmanville players admitted, but Weeks called it foul. There came near being a riot in the next few minutes. The Peterborough team, Shaw in particular, stormed around the umpire and in the midst of the confusion Jones the Bowmanville catcher, peeled off his pad and mask and avowed his intention of taking a puglistic part in the affray. Mr. Shaw, of the Petes, had made the same declaration some seconds earlier and the crowd piled onto the field, but the players of both teams tept them back and peace was finally restored. His Umps declared that Shaw would have to get out of the game but relented on his decision afterwards. The occurrence was unfortunate, but the Petes kick was justifiable.

CHAMPS TOOK SECOND GAME

Church League Leaders Defeated by 3-1 Score

While the All Saints team were sweltering in their game with Brooklin on the Brinton Meadows Saturday the C.G.E. champions were registering their second victory over the "Jimmies" in the Stratton cup contest on the exhibition grounds, when the game ended with the score, C.G.E. 3; St. James 1.

The "champs" have clearly demonstrated their superiority over the Church Leaguers, though they received a good battle at each encounter. The heat did not agree with the temperament of the Englishmen and the players at times were rather listless. Only those in the pink of condition were able to hold the fast pace throughout.

From the kick-off the C. G. E. boys forced the play, but the Church Leaguers held them in check pretty well. It was one of the cleanest games played in the city this year, each team being there to play football.

Hull of the C.G.E. and Braun of St. James, the opposing full backs, were the shining lights.

PULLING TEETH IN LABRADOR

Canadians Who Have Gone to Help Dr. Grenfell in that Lone Land

When the old schooner Lorna Doone sailed away from Boston for Labrador, taking supplies to Dr. Wilfred Grenfell's mission stations, she had two passengers aboard. Both were Canadians and both intend to give up the larger part of their lives to helping and teaching in that lone land. They are C. Martyn Spencer and Dr R. S. Catherton. The former is a cousin of Dr. Grenfell and recently was graduated from the MacDonald Agricultural College at Ste. Anne's. He is intending to settle at St. Anthony, in northern Newfoundland, for the purpose of experimenting to learn if it will be possible to raise enough vegetables there to supply the mission. Dr. Catherton is a dentist. He says that previously the most popular method of extracting teeth in Labrador was by tieing a cord around the tooth, one end of the cord being attached to an immovable object, and then flashing a red hot iron in the patient's face. It never failed, he said, for the one with the aching tooth dodges from the hot iron, and the tooth is yanked out.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA

Of 15,836 Danish Emigrants Only 1,114 Came to Canada

During the year 1910 the number of emigrants leaving Denmark was 15,836 (9,635 men, 4,382 women, 1,819 children). Of these 3,382 were Swedes, 3,949 other foreigners, 8,505 Danes. This number is, however, greater than in 1909 when 6,732 Danes emigrated, and the increase is probably due to lack of employment at home. The majority, namely, 13,965, emigrated to the United States, 1,114 went to Canada, to the South American States, 593; 35 to Africa, 41 to Asia and 88 to Australia. The various routes used were: direct to the United States, 7,673; via German and Dutch ports, 837; via the United Kingdom, 7,336.

VERBAL PITFALLS.

Traps That Await English Speaking Tourists In Portugal.

THERE ARE NO TOES THERE.

But, Then, One Has Twenty Fingers to Make Up the Loss, Fingers of the Hand and Fingers of the Foot—Oddities of the Verb "to Walk."

The Englishman or American in Portugal who thinks in his own language and tries to speak in the language of the country he is visiting is a great smile producer.

For instance, you never marry anybody in Portugal unless—strange paradox—you happen to be a priest. You marry "with" your beloved Maria, and the priest marries you both. In the same way you never dream about anybody, but always "with" them.

When the landlady at your boarding house is ladling out your soup you call out, "Arrive." You are telling her to arrive at the stopping point—in other words, that you don't want more than she has put out. When you see a child that you want to fondle at the other side of the room you say to her, "Arrive here." And the child promptly "arrives."

In England when we speak of walking we refer to a certain use of the legs. But the Portuguese verb "to walk" has many more significations. In Portugal not only do the people walk, but also the carts and cars walk, the trains walk, a balloon walks, and a boat walks. Stranger still, the hands of a clock walk round the face! A clock, by the way, never goes; it "works."

Unless you are very intimate or very rude you never say to your fair partner at dinner, "Will you have some bread?" etc. You inquire, "Will your excellency have some bread?" or, "Will the lady have some bread?" the "lady" meaning not some other lady, but your fair partner herself.

In spite of winter you are never cold in Portugal unless you are a corpse. You are "with" cold. In the same way you are occasionally "with" heat, "with" headache, "with" hunger or "with" thirst. When you have occasion to discuss the weather you say, "It 'makes' cold," "It 'makes' fog," etc. On your way home from an entertainment you tell your companion that it "makes" dark.

If speaking of her husband a wife says he is a "tame" man. She merely means that he is a man of peace and justice.

The word "house" means more than with us. Your buttons share your own privilege of living in a house. The buttonholes are called "houses of the buttons." The squares on a chessboard are also "houses." You don't say, "I'm going to shave." You say, "I'm going to 'do' the beard." Neither do you say on the way to the barber's, "I'm going to get my hair cut," but you say, "I'm going to cut my hair."

When you are in Portugal you have twenty fingers, but no toes. If you want to make a distinction you say "fingers of the hand" or "fingers of the foot." Instead of telling the servant to set the table you tell her to "put" it. When you go to the theater you "assist." You don't mean by that that you "come on" nor even that you do a little scene shifting. You mean that you are there.

Residents in flats who meditate taking a holiday in Portugal will be relieved to hear that no one plays the piano there. They merely "touch" it. Neither do they ring bells. They "touch" them also. But they "play" stones, meaning that they throw them, and a ship at sea "plays" when it pitches and tosses.

Be careful how you tell your landlady that you intend to dine out or she may think, with a shrug of the shoulders, that you intend dining "outside"—i. e., in the garden. In answer to the kind inquiries of your friends don't say that you are well; say that you are "good." Be careful in your use of words. Some words similar in form are widely different in meaning, as an American missionary once discovered to his cost when preaching in Brazil, once a Portuguese colony. His subject was "The Prodigal Son," and he gravely informed his hearers that when the young man returned home his father killed for him the fatted beetle! But he had merely made a mistake in one solitary vowel.

A "sleeping" bridge means a bridge that is immovable (not a drawbridge). Stagnant water also "sleeps." So do trucks or trains that wait anywhere during the night. When they laugh in Portugal they "untie themselves to laugh," and when they cry they "unmake themselves in tears." A persistently unfortunate man says, "I am so unlucky that if I fell on my back I should break my nose!"—London Answers.

Hopeful Names.

Two bright looking colored boys about seven years of age laughingly accosted a lawyer on the street. The man stopped and asked the boys their names.

"Johnsing," was the reply. "We'se twins."

"Well, what are your first names?" insisted the amused questioner.

"Mah name," answered one, "is Soda, and his name," pointing to the other, "is Saleratus. Maw done lose all de others, and she give us names she finds successful in raisin'."—Newark Star.

Greatness is its own torment.—Theodore Parker.

Seen at Niagara.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 10.—Antonio Vescio, an Italian who is wanted by the provincial police of Manitoba on a charge of murdering Paolo Di Phillippo, by shooting him at Point Dubois, Oct. 30 last, was seen in Niagara Falls last week, but before an arrest could be made Vescio crossed the river.

Chief Mains and Officer Dowd tracked him to Buffalo, interviewed the police department there and obtained his arrest on Friday. Vescio will probably waive extradition, as he admits his identity and that he killed Phillippo, but claims it was done in self-defence.

Orange Parade at Montreal.

Montreal, July 10—Montreal Orangemen to the number of 600 held their annual church service yesterday, preceding it by a parade along the principal streets of the city. Numerous prominent officers of the order were present and colors and regalia were much in evidence. There was, however, no disorder and no attempt at interruption. The annual picnic of the Orangemen takes place as usual on July 12, at Maple Grove, when at least a thousand are expected to participate.

Roped Him In.

Bassano, Alta., July 10.—Harry Barrett, an old time cowboy and an expert roper, saved the life of a Scotchman who attempted to swim Berry Creek while it was in flood. The Scotchman thought he could ford the swollen current half way and swim the rest, but failed and was about to sink, when Barrett, who could not swim, got a lariat and roped him from the bank, saving his life.

SUFFERED FROM VIOLENT CATHARTICS

The Warning of Mr. Geo. C. Fox Is One That Should Be Heeded by All.

Few men on the road are better known than genial George Fox, whose friends throughout the West are legion. In the following letter he expresses gratitude for signal services rendered by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. He goes on to say: "Until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills and experienced their wonderful mildness and curative power, I estimated the value of every pill by its activity. Talking about this to a well-known physician I met on the train the other day, he explained there are different kinds of drugs that act upon the bowels, the most active being known as drastic. Except in extreme cases where the life of the patient depends upon speedy evacuation of the bowels, pills should never be drastic. Purgatives cause catarrh of the bowels and inflammation; their dose must be increased, causing even more harm. With such a clear explanation I could see why Dr. Hamilton's Pills are curative and not irritating, why they are mild, yet most searching.

"From my experience I recommend everyone that takes pills to give up the old-fashioned harsh, purging pill, and, instead, to use Dr. Hamilton's. They cure headache, biliousness, constipation, bad stomach, and keep the system in perfect condition."

Drowning at Parrsboro.

Parrsboro, N.S., July 10.—A double drowning occurred near Partridge Island Friday afternoon. Two boys, one the only son of Clifford Gilbert, the other the eldest son of his brother, James C. Gilbert, were bathing in the swimming hole, which has been the popular resort of Parrsboro boys for generations. One of the boys got beyond his depth and the other went to his assistance and was drawn into deep water. A younger son of James Gilbert, who was preparing to bathe, ran home for help, but before assistance arrived both boys were beyond aid. Dr. Dyas, who was on Partridge Island when the accident occurred, worked over the boys for a long time, but was unable to resuscitate them.

The boys were each about twelve years of age.

WRITES ABOUT CANADA

An Englishman at Fort William Sends Home Some Advice

E. A. Streamer, Fort William, writes as follows to a London paper:

I am an Englishman of nine years' residence in Canada, and have been nearly all over the country. For several years I have worked on a farm, and found the work very pleasant, especially harvesting and threshing. A good man can get from $2.50 to $3 a day. The work is hard, but a man gets used to that in this country, and, as a rule, Jack's as good as his master. As there are hundreds of Old Country people landing on Canadian soil every week, I would like to make a suggestion to those who are coming over. Earn all the money you can this summer, so that you will have about $60 to carry you over the winter; then, if you do not like to go to the bush for the winter, you can pull through all right. Outside of bush work there is little or nothing doing. A great many come out here with good intentions, but they have not the slightest idea what this country is like. It is very wise for a new-comer to hire with a farmer for a few months, then he will be able to see for himself. Do not hire for the year.

Now, for those intending to homestead. Do not go on a homestead with the idea that you are going to do big things; you might be "left." Here is an incident of what a friend of mine did. He took a homestead 102 miles from Saskatoon, which was the nearest railway station. After paying the office fee of $10, he had only a few dollars left. From a neighboring homesteader he borrowed horses to break ten acres for him, and for these he paid in the autumn. Throughout the summer he worked in Saskatoon, earning enough money to keep him through the winter, and to buy lumber for a shack. The next year he had his crop, which paid all expenses for more breaking. He did the same thing the following summer, and at the present day he is farming his own land, and expects his grant from the Government this year. A railroad is now running within a few miles of him, and to-day he is worth $3,000. He started with $10.

This shows how a man can homestead on a cheap scale, but he must be careful and stay with his home stead.

THE CLAY BELT

The Climate Throughout the Year is Far from Objectionable

There is a pernicious fallacy about the climate of the clay belt of northern Ontario. The fact that the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific is located five hundred miles north of Lake Ontario leads people to suppose that the region is too near the Arctic Circle to make it either a comfortable land in which to dwell or a profitable land to cultivate. It requires a practical demonstration with a map to show that the clay belt as a whole lies to the south of the wheat fields of Manitoba and that Cochrane is at about the same level as the southern boundary of the prairie Provinces. The fact of the matter is that the climate throughout the whole region is far from being objectionable. The winters, it is true, are cold, but the low temperatures are not felt to the same extent as in more southerly lands, where the weather is damper. There is an entire absence of cold, blustery winds. The snow falls about the middle of November and remains on the ground until late in March. It does not come down in prolonged storms, but in a continuaiton of small flurries. There is practically no wind, and snowdrifts are almost unknown. The stillness and dryness of the air and the tempering effects of the large bodies of water and extensive forests tend to keep the temperature even. The settler has plenty of snow on which to do his hauling in clearing the land.

FLOATING DRYDOCK

First of the Kind in Canada to be Built in Toronto

A floating drydock, the first of its kind in Canada, is to be built at the Polson Iron Works, Toronto. It will lift a vessel of 4,500 tons, and it is intended to enlarge it eventually to accommodate vessels 600 feet long. At first it will receive a vessel 350 feet in length. The cost is estimated to be about $1,200,000. If work is begun on this undertaking in the immediate future it will be ready for business in about a year.

The drydock will be a steel structure weighing 2,250 tons. It can be towed to the vessels that are to be docked, if desired.

There are immense quantities of waterpower scattered over nearly all of northern Ontario, and very little of it has been developed as yet.

SOCIAL PROBLEMS

Presbyterian Ministers are Urged to [illegible] to Matters of [illegible]

The necessity of paying close attention to the social problems of the day was emphasized by the Presbyterian General Assembly in the following resolution: "That the General Assembly hereby urge the ministers of the Church to inform themselves carefully regarding the conditions of human life in their own neighborhoods, particularly as these are affected by the conditions of industry; to acquaint their congregations with these facts; to instruct their congregations in the teaching of the Gospel regarding social service; to cooperate in every effort for the attainment of the ends for which the Church has declared itself. That the General Assembly hereby request all who have charge of schools and colleges to make ample provision for instruction regarding the Christian ideal of society; and, further, that it direct the governing bodies and faculties of theological colleges to provide that the students in their care be taught the social principles of the Gospel, and trained in methods of applying these principles to the needs of the localities in which they shall be called to minister; and that the General Assembly hereby urge all the members of churches to give serious study to social problems, and to avail themselves of their opportunities for social service; to bring the sense of justice and righteousness, which is fundamental in Christianity, to bear upon matters of everyday life, in business, in society, or wherever their influence may extend, and to create a Christian public sentiment demanding the removal of wrong wherever found."

FLYING AMERICAN FLAG

Winnipeg People Take Stand Against Stars and Stripes Bunting

The authorities of the city are up in arms against the incessant flouting and floating of the Stars and Stripes in Winnipeg, and so acute has the feeling become, that orders have been issued to managers and owners of theatres and vaudeville houses in Winnipeg that greater prominence be given to the Union Jack, and that only where any certain and specific mention is necessary to America can the flag of the nation across the border line be permitted. Audiences have in many of the theatres made it very plain that they object to the waving of Uncle Sam's drapery on the Canadian stage.

CONDITIONS IN ALBERTA

What an English Exchange Has to Say on the Subject

The Province of Alberta, like the rest of Western Canada, hungers for men and women to fill the idle lands and the posts that are always ready, but, large as the stream of immigrants is, it is by no means large enough. Employment is to be had for the asking. Thus the average Briton who seeks an assured position before going West does not understand Western conditions. An employer has seldom to wait for an arrival from overseas to fill a vacancy, and he finds it cheaper to fill the post with the nearest applicant. One hears the same advice given to all those who write asking for positions—"If you have a little capital to carry you on for a short time, come out and look around." The man who takes the advice has not long to wait before finding work. All that is needed is a little enterprise, self-confidence, and a capacity for hard work. With these endowments a man is sure to prosper in Western Canada.—English Exchange.

CONTINUE COURTING

Rev. A. W. Main's Advice to Married Men

"Continue your courting after marriage," Rev. A. W. Main said in Montreal in a sermon on June Bridegrooms. "Have you ever noticed the change in a woman's face after she is engaged? It is because she has received that for which she hungered; but after marriage, have you ever noticed that she loses that happy expression? Have you never seen the joy go out of her face. It is because she received affection from her lover which she does not receive from her husband. The cause of so many unhappy homes is that the men neglect to continue courting; they neglect their wives."

Never take any man's word for anything that refers to anything about an election.

PROPERTIES

THE TORONTO MILL is well situated on a valuable site of about three acres, and has a capacity of 1,000 barrels of flour and 100 tons of feed per day. It is running day and night, but has been unable to supply the ever-increasing demand for its products.

THE PETERBOROUGH MILL was purchased (May 15th, 1911) from the Central Milling Company. It is well situated, on the main line of the C.P.R., and has a capacity of 400 barrels of flour and 30 tons of feed per day. It is a most valuable addition to the Campbell Milling Co's plant, and it is necessary to run day day and night inorder to relieve the congestion of business of the Toronto mill.

THE MIDLAND MILL.—A site for a new mill has been secured beside the Aberdeen elevator at Midland, Ont., comprising nine acres of land, including a water frontage of 500 feet, on which it is intended to erect the new mill, which will have a capacity of 1,500 barrels a day, with buildings arranged to increase the output to 3,000 barrels per day, without structural alterations or additions. The Aberdeen elevator has a capacity of 1,200,000 bushels, and is one of the most complete and up-to-date on the lakes.

The Tiffin elevator, with a capacity of two and a half million bushels, is within easy reach. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. have centralized in building huge elevators at Midland and Victoria Harbour.

The directors, after full consideration of the many possible locations, have decided there is no better situation in Canada for milling for both export and eastern trade than at Midland, where all the advantages of low freight rates, cheap electric power (hydro-electric), and a low fixed assessment for ten years, have been secured.

ASSETS

The Company has acquired the business of the Campbell Milling Company, which includes the mills and elevators at West Toronto and Peterborough. The mills, real estate, equipment, good will, etc., have been conservatively valued at $525,024, not taking into consideration the valuable site and concessions at Midland, and from the shares now offered to the public, the Company will have about $300,000 in the treasury to carry on the business and build the new mill at Midland, making total assets of $825,024, there being no bonds or mortgages on the real estate or plants.

The Canadian Appraisal Company have appraised the plants.

On the investment of the two mills now running the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, are earning eighteen per cent., after allowing for all expenses, depreciation, etc., and with the same experienced management and advantages enumerated in th prospectus, it is reasonable to suppose that when the new capital is invested it will bring equally good returns.

EARNINGS

We hereby certify that the earnings of the Campbell Milling Co., West Toronto, after allowing for cost of management, depreciation, etc., have been as follows:

12 months ending July 31st, 1910	$41,874.93
9 months ending April 28th, 1911	46,394.65

(Signed) STIFF BROS., Chartered Accountants.

The interest required to pay 7 per cent. on Preference Stock is $45,500. From the above earnings it will be noticed that this amount is earned by the Toronto mill in nine months, and with the added capacity of the Peterborough plant now in operation and the Midland Mill, which will soon be in operation, this will more than double the present capacity, so the earnings will be very materially increased.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS

The mill at Midland will be completed early in 1912, and when the three mills are running, figuring very conservatively by past earnings, the net profits are estimated as follows:—

Net earnings	$100,000
7 per cent. preferred dividend	45,500
	$ 54,000
Showing over 7 per cent. on the common	45,500
	$ 9,000

THE GROWTH OF BUSINESS

The necessity for expansion is shown forcibly by the following figures, which represent the annual gross sales of the Toronto mill:

1908	836,630.17	1909	$1,108,966.00

EIGHTEEN YEARS OF SATISFACTION

The new company receives the benefit of the good-will and business, which has given eighteen years of satisfaction to the purchasers of their brands of flour, such as "Cream of the West," "Queen City," and "Monarch." It is the only large flour mill situated in the City of Toronto, and in eighteen years they have built up a tremendous local trade, besides being well established throughout the Dominion, West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland, and the United Kingdom.

MANAGEMENT

The Management of the Company is in strong, practical hands. The President, the Honourable Archibald Campbell, has been in the milling business a life-time, and associated with him are his three sons, who have been managing the business for six years. The experience of James Playfair, of Midland, and Mr. James Richardson, adds strength to the Board of Directors. The Directors have been looking ahead and have extended all their lines and formed connections, feeling confident that with their present organization and all the advantages enumerated above, they will be able to dispose of the entire products of the new mill, in addition to their present output, at profitable rates.

MARKET

Flour is an every day necessity, and flour ground from our Canadian North-West wheat is finding a ready market the world over, and, with increasing home markets, it is necessary for our established mills to greatly increase their output to take care of the ever-increasing production of wheat.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and will close on or before Monday, July 17th, at 8 o'clock p.m.

The right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and such amounts as may be approved, and to close subscription books without notice.

A GREAT COUNTRY

A Toronto Deputation's Opinion of Northern Ontario

A deputation of Toronto manufacturers and business men who visited Northern Ontario, returned fully convinced that a great country is in the making in that part of Canada. They expressed astonishment at the equipment and evidence of solid worth of the big mining properties. The manner in which the ores and concentrates were handled was a revelation to many, and the solid and permanent character of the underworkings showed them that mining is a regular business, requiring much technical skill, application and courage. At the mines the visitors were given the same fare as furnished the miners, and they found it plain but wholesome, tea from a tin cup not tasting half bad, while meat eaten from an agate plate was just as sweet as from china. In and around New Liskeard the visitors were shown as fine farms as are to be found anywhere in Canada. This is just at the gateway to the great clay belt of which so much is expected. The farmers here are all well-to-do; the most of them have good buildings, the latest machinery, and money in the bank. It was stated by a resident of New Liskeard that in buying machinery the majority of the farmers paid the money down on the spot in order to take the cash discount. Every settler encountered was a booster for New Ontario. In the most of instances they were found to be men from Old Ontario who had withstood the temptations to be stampeded to the West.

AFTER FORTY YEARS

Frank Moberly Tells of the Remarkable Growth of Edmonton

After forty years' absence from Edmonton, Frank Moberly, who last visited the site of the city in 1871 as engineer in charge of the C.P.R. explorations between Fort Garry and the Yellow Head Pass, returned to see the city which has grown up on the site of the fort which he knew. "When I arrived here in 1871," said Mr. Moberly, "the only house outside the stockade of the Hudson's Bay fort was the residence of Rev. George McDougall, the pioneer missionary, who later was found frozen to death in southern Alberta."

Malcolm Groat and Pere LeDuc are probably the only persons alive in Edmonton who were living in that city at the time. In 1871 there was nothing in the direct line between Pembroke on the Ottawa and New Westminster on the British Columbia coast but Fort Garry with 250 population. In all that area there were only three permanent buildings, Lower Fort Garry, St. John's cathedral, and the bastions at Upper Fort Garry.

Mr. Moberly had many interesting stories to tell of his experience in the early days, among them a story of meat which he had in a tepee of Poundmaker, the Indian chief, whose name is remembered in association with the Riel Rebellion. On one occasion he was lost with a companion in mid-winter between Fort Edmonton and the Yellow Head Pass. Both were exhausted and almost hopeless. Before settling down in camp which they had made when they found they were too weak to proceed, Mr. Moberly called at the top of his voice, and the answering bark of a dog revealed that they had stumbled upon the camp of three Montana miners, who had come north to Saskatchewan prospecting for gold.

With the exception of Archibald McDonald, Fort Qu-Appelle, Mr. Moberly is the oldest magistrate for the North-west, having received his commission in 1876.

STRATHCONA'S GIFTS

His Lordship Has Been a Liberal Supporter of McGill

That the $100,000 gift to the Medical Faculty of McGill University by Lord Strathcona will be used for the general endowment of the faculty and not for any particular branch of medical research is the announcement of the Board of Governors. The Chancellor, in cabling to Principal Paterson, did not place any string on his donation, but it was thought by some that certain stipulations might be found to be attached to the gift later on. It has been learned, however, that Lord Strathcona desires the money to be used in a manner considered by the governors of most use to the university as a whole, and it will, therefore, be used for general up-keep—not as spectacular as founding a new chair or department, but far more needful. This is the first bequest to the Medical Faculty for a long time, science having received practically everything of late. The following is a list of His Lordship's gifts to the university:

Towards the construction of the old Medical building....	$150,000
For the construction and equipment of the new Medical building	550,000
For the endowment of the Medical Faculty	100,000
For the endowment of the Women's Department, Royal Victoria College	120,000
For increase of salaries	50,000
Towards the deficit of the University (1879)	50,000
The site and building of the Royal Victoria College, together with the adjoining Learmont and Tiffin lots on Sherbrooke Street.

In addition Lord Strathcona has undertaken to endow the Royal Victoria College and the Chair of Zoology, together, in the sum of one million dollars, the income of which he annually contributes at the present time to their maintenance.

DAMS ON ST. LAWRENCE

An Engineer's Suggestion Regarding Deepening Rivers and Harbors

Dr. Olgar Manheim, advisory engineer on rivers and harbors to the Norwegian Government, put a new theory into the heads of Canadian engineers in regard to summer navigation of the St. Lawrence when he passed through Montreal on his way home after having spent the last four months studying the Mississipi and the St. Lawrence routes. "I do not know whether it has ever been suggested before in this country," said he, "but I believe that regulation or conservation of the water is what your engineers should study instead of pegging away at your everlasting dredging. When I was in Cornwall I took a little motor boat and ran up to the foot of the Long Sault rapids, where, I understand, it is proposed to dam the St. Lawrence for the purpose of providing water power to the towns on the Canadian and American shores. It is a gigantic proposition they have there, and one which might well be followed out all along the river to Montreal. I do not mean that the damming should be done for water power purposes, but for bettering navigation. The dam at the Long Sault will, I believe, make that part of the river a quiet navigable stream, instead of the dangerous passage it is now. It will not divert any water from the river, but will hold it back and thus regulate the depth for miles to the westward. Dr. Manheim described a system of dams used in Norway which conserved the water by opening and closing, thus keeping the channel at a maximum depth in all seasons.

Two Bathers Drowned.

Toronto, July 10.—Two men drowned, one seriously injured in diving and three rescued after a collision of two dinghies, was yesterday's record of accidents by water in Toronto.

James J. Elden, aged 27, an Irishman living at 15 Manitou avenue for the summer, was drowned while swimming in the lagoon off Clandeboye avenue, and David McKibbon, aged 22, also an Irishman, of 75 Don Mills road, met death in the same manner in the Don River by the paper mills north of Danforth avenue. Andrew Angus, aged 35, was diving from a post off Lee avenue when he struck bottom and injured his spine.

MISS SEWARD IS DOING VERY WELL

Peterborough Girl's Musical Progress in Germany

The following letter has been received from Harry Field, the teacher who has in charge Miss Gladys Seward's tuition in Germany, by Mrs. Collins of Mount Forest, who has taken such an interest in Miss Seward's career. It says:

My Dear Mrs. Collins—Many thanks for your kind letter, and I am delighted to see that your pupils are doing so well. I played last week in Bad Elster symphony concert, with a great ovation and magnificent notices. I am arranging for Gladys to play there in August. She is making great strides and has the Beethoven concerti in G nearly ready. She will, I hope, play the Chopin and Beethoven in Dresden, Lipsic and Berlin next season.

I am giving her harmony lessons and McWilliams will take her for composition. I think she will compose. She played the Tocattella in G with Tocatella Adagio (Fieze) 5 pages long at my last afternoon without one mistake. The Fieze is awfully difficult. She has a wonderful gift. She played at the coronation along with Prof. Pewnoy Sherwood. I hope the people in Peterborough will still remember her.

COURT HEARD ROW PARTICULARS

Took Place At Sherbrooke Street Store—Case Dismissed

Frank Roan at police court this morning was charged with having on Saturday night created a disturbance on Sherbrooke street, and of having used abusive language. The trouble occurred between Mr. E. H. Oliver, who runs a grocery store at 464 Sherbrooke street and the defendant. The case was dismissed.

From the evidence the trouble appeared to have commenced when Roan whose house is placarded for scarlet fever, entered Oliver's store to pay a bill. Oliver, according to evidence, ordered him out, but the latter refused to go. An interchange of blows followed, it is alleged, during whhich Oliver struck the defendant on the head with a sugar spoon, the marks of which he bore in police ocurt.

Mr. E. H. Oliver himself when in the box stated that as his wife was in the rear of the store convalescing from an illness, he was fearful for her nerves when he saw Roan come in, looking at him as if ready to raise a racket.

G. N. Gordon acted for the defendant.

RAINS ALL OVER ONTARIO GLADDEN HEARTS OF PEOPLE

Widespread Showers Saving Crops and Cattle—Nearly An Inch Of Rain In Toronto—Hot Wave Fading Away.

Toronto, July 11.—True to the prediction of the observatory officials, rain arrived yesterday. It was no mean shower, either, for the rainfall in Toronto amounted to nearly an inch, or .93 inch, to be exact.

And another comforting assurance from meteorological headquarters is that to-day will be cooler. Not cooler, mind you, from a temperature standpoint, for the mercury will in all probability be as high to-day, as it was yesterday. But from that bugbear of hot weather we all abhor—excessive humidity, we will have relief.

Yesterday was a hot day all over the Province of Ontario, and the thunderstorms were general, particularly in the lower lake region. The rainfall, however, was not quite so heavy as in Toronto, although the observatory officials have not yet been able to judge accurately as to the extent and severity of the showers in different localities. The mercury stood at a high figure in many cities yesterday, 96 degrees being reached at London and 92 at Ottawa.

Ontario is unfortunately situated just at present as regards air currents, and that is why this poor old province has been put through such a gruelling display of torrid temperatures.

Hanging over the South Atlantic coast for some weeks there has been a warm belt of high-pressure air, which has been seeking a means of escape to districts of low pressure. Here is where we got it during the past week. There happens to be a vast area of low pressure atmosphere in the Hudson Bay district and towards this happy place the hot winds of the high-pressure zone forced themselves automatically. Toronto unluckily, was in the path of these migratory breezes from the sunny south and we suffered on account of it. Southwest winds all over the province for the past few days have been the hardest to bear. They are coming directly from the heated area of the Atlantic coast. It takes a long time for this zone of high temperature to collect there, and, unfortunately it will take some considerable time before we again get rid of its meanderings.

The scorching rays have done damage to much of the fruit crops. Farmers in the different districts around Toronto report that their crops are suffering greatly from the hot weather and the scarcity of rain. All the grain and root crops that were planted late will hardly be worth harvesting. Many farmers expect their harvests to be all in the barn this month, which means that the grain has been sown, ripened and harvested in less than three months, which is far too short a time to produce good grain.

Sixty-One Deaths From Heat.

Toronto, July 11.—Fifty deaths were registered at the City Hall yesterday, ten of these being returned as due to heat.

To date sixty-one persons have succumbed to the terrible weather of the hot spell, sixteen of these being children.

The persons returned yesterday as succumbing to the heat were:

Alfred Hearsley, aged 28, 1 Euclid place; Helen Margaret Woods, aged 6, 269 East Gerrard street; Kenn J. Dooley, 10 days, 30 Mackay avenue; Hugh Mulleray, 45, 346 East King street; Maria Wilbur, 5, 361 Pacific avenue; David Smith, 40, 185 Hallam street; Martha Foyston, 36, 108 Palmerston avenue; Dorothea Eva Bemish, 4 months, 326 Sunnyside avenue; Alex. C. Howell, 1 month, 19 Garden avenue; Jane Lister, 72, 169 Grange avenue.

Four In Baltimore.

Baltimore, Md., July 11.—Four deaths and 12 prostrations resulted from the heat here yesterday. The weather bureau thermometer registered a maximum temperature of 97 degrees at 4 p.m.

Washington, July 11.—More than a half score of persons succumbed to the heat here yesterday, but there were no fatalities. In the down town streets the thermometers registered 106 degrees.

Eighteen Victims In N. Y.

New York, July 11.—The death list at 11 o'clock had eighteen victims on it, the count including the entire metropolitan district. Prostrations numbered above 200. With no further relief by showers, the night was proving to be one of the most uncomfortable of the season.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 11.—Upwards of a score of persons were killed, twenty others are believed to be fatally injured, while forty people are less seriously hurt, as a result of the wreck of the Washington express on the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway, inside the city limits, thiis morning at four o'clock. The engine and five cars plunged over a thirty-foot viaduct and were piled in an indescribable heap on the street below. The wreckage took fire, but the flames were subdued. ORANGEMEN WILL PARADE IN HULL IN SPITE OF THREATS

Intend To Assert Themselves As British Citizens—Local Lodge's Invitation.

Montreal, July 11.—Members of the Prince of Wales Loyal Orange Lodge and other Orangemen of Montreal will proceed to Hull to-morrow to take part in the celebration of the 221st anniversary of the battle of the Boyne.

In an interview, A. G. Ellis, secretary of the Orangemen's Association, explained that there was no intention whatever on the part of his associates to hurt anybody's feelings by parading on this occasion, but as the local lodge of the district of Hull had taken the initiative in regard to this demonstration, the members of the order would respond to the invitation of their brethren to join in the celebration.

"There is no reason why we should not parade at Hull, or in any other place in this country, which is free to every faith," Mr. Ellis proceeded, "and I do not see any reason or justification for the Orangemen's decision being misinterpreted just because a large majority of the population are of another faith than ourselves. I am sure no slur is intended. The Loyal Orange Association is incorporated, and we can demand protection there if it should be necessary.

"I would like to emphasize that it is not the association that has picked out the town of Hull as the scene of a parade, but it is the local lodge that took the initiative. The outside lodges will go there simply as visitors."

"We expect a big turnout," concluded Mr. Ellis, "and you may be

VICTORIA COLLEGE TOWER IS STRUCK BY LIGHTNING BOLT

Valuable Mummies, 3,000 Years Old, and Relics Escape Serious Damage—Documents Damaged.

Toronto, July 11.—Victoria College tower was struck by lightning during yesterday's storm, entailing a damage of $3,000. Eight firemen, among whom was Chief Thompson, narrowly escaped death when the charred tiles and timbers of the tower fell, and some of them were knocked to the floor just two feet from the spot where the debris tore a great hole in its descent to the floor below. Valuable mummies, 3,000 years old, and specimens of ancient armor escaped damage. A few old document were damaged by water, but, unfortunately, nearly everything of worth, including many valuable books, had been removed from the building, which is undergoing alterations and repairs. Difficulty was found in turning in an alarm owing to the telephone company's practice of shutting off their service during thunderstorms. The hose in the building, which has not been used for years, was used at first, but soon gave out.

The tower at the southeast corner of the college was struck at 5.30 o'clock. B. Cleveland of the Kew Beach volunteer fire brigade and three other men were sitting on the front steps at the time, waiting to get in to do some painting on the interior. There was a deafening clap, but they did not suspect that the building had been struck until a piece of tile from the tower slithered down the roof and fell in the gravel driveway before them. They went out and saw a thin spiral of smoke curling upward from the tower.

Rushing to the west side of the building they broke a window and hurried upstairs, where they found the college line of two-inch hose, which, under the direction of Mr. Cleveland, they soon got into action. With this they were able to extinguish the burning particle, which fell from the inside of the roof of the tower, and thus kept the fire from spreading downward.

This was not for long, however, as the old hose, which has not been used in years, soon gave out under the pressure of water and, bursting in several places, became useless. By this time, however, the floor beneath the fire was so wet that the falling brands failed to set it alight.

Prof. Horning, who was in the new library to the west of the building, saw the men break the window and make entry. He thought that they were breaking into the place, and, having a key hurried around to the front door. It was not until he was ascending the steps to this that he learned that the college was on fire. Just as he was going up the steps, he was struck on the arm by a piece of falling tile, which inflicted a slight wound on his right arm at the elbow.

When the firemen arrived they had great difficulty in getting their rigs into the grounds. The building is enclosed by a stout iron fence. It is approached by two driveways of soft gravel curving out from a single gateway. It was with great difficulty that the 60-foot aerials and ladder hitches were turned into this and the heavy five-ton trucks came near to sticking fast in the soft gravel of the driveway.

Once inside, Chief Thompson led his men right up to the seat of the trouble. There they worked like Trojans immediately under the burning floor of the tower top. While eight of them were enclosed in this narrow space, the tower roof, weakened by the burning of the beams and joists and bearing the weight of a heavy terra cotta ball, gave way and fell in a smother of sparks right over the eight firemen.

Their escape was little short of a miracle. A hole ten by eight feet was torn in the floor not two feet from where they were standing. Some of them were knocked to the floor by the scattering debris.

The damage is estimated at $3,000. Of this $2,000 will be required to rebuild the tower and the remaining $1,000 is in damage done to the plaster by the water poured into the tower. This damage would have been much greater had it not been that this section of the building was left practically empty when about $20,000 worth of curios and antiques belonging to the Royal Canadian Museum were removed to that place about two weeks ago.

That the fire was not a fast traveling one, is instanced by the fact that half a dozen mummies, aged about 3,000 years, escaped without injury. These, except one, which is owned by the college, are the property of the Royal Canadian Museum. There was also a quantity of old Japanese and other armor, and many valuable books in another part of the building, and all were unharmed. The college bell, which is swung just below the point where the lightning struck, was unharmed.

Montreal Firemen Overcome.

Montreal, July 11.—District Chief Mann and five firemen were overcome by ammonia fumes during a fire that broke out on the top floor of the five-storey cold storage plant of Messrs. Gunn, Langlois & Co., corner St. Vincent and St. Amable streets, yesterday morning. It made an hour's hard fighting for the firemen of four stations, and three streams, an aerial truck and a ladder were used.

Firemen Paul Dugall of No. 2 station sank to the floor on the top storey of the building, and had to be carried out by his comrades. He did not regain consciousness for fifteen minutes, and was removed to the General Hospital.

Foreman Bourcher, Pater Plain, Toutourier and Ladoucier were also overcome. All finally recovered.

Receives King and Queen With Warm Welcome

King Holds a Levee at Castle—Receives Addresses

Dublin, July 11.—Keeping holiday in honor of Their Majesties, most of the shops remained closed yesterday.

Receiving and replying to addresses occupied both King George and Queen Mary during the early morning. The King subsequently held a levee in the throne room of the castle. Later Their Majesties went to the races at Leopardstown.

Replying generally to the numerous addresses the King said:—

"I tender you all my thanks for the affectionate welcome you have given to the Queen and myself. I notice with filial pride and pleasure that in almost every one of your addresses reference is made to the deep affection my father entertained for your country and to the influence he exerted to secure its advancement and prosperity.

"It is my desire, I assure you, to follow in my father's footsteps in the same direction and to do everything that lies within my power to promote the happiness and general well-being of the Irish people.

"I pray that God's blessing may attend all of you and your labors for the health and happiness of Ireland."

Lord Mayor Farrell has accepted an invitation to attend the state banquet to King George.

The King gave a state banquet at Dublin Castle last night, the royal plate being specially brought from London for the occasion. The distinguished guests included the Lord Mayor of Dublin. Afterwards the King held a chapter of the Order of St. Patrick, at which the Earl of Shafesbury and Field Marshal Lord Kitchener were invested as extra knights companions.

WHOLE DISTRICTS NOT IN CENSUS

Officials Skipped Whole Sections of Rosemount

Montreal, July 11.—Complaints as to the manner in which the 1911 census has been conducted are coming in by the score, not only from individuals who have been overlooked, but also from whole districts. "Not a householder in Rosemount has been called on by the census enumerators, as far as I can learn," said Ald. Drummond yesterday.

"No enumerator called at my house, although I represent the ward in the City Council of Montreal. But I was not the only one treated in this way. I have received scores of complaints from residents of the ward that no enumerators called upon them. This is remarkable. In my ward there are some 3,000 houses, so you would think that the enumerators would not have been so careless as to neglect the place. It is most remarkable."

Whole parishes, streets and corners have been similarly neglected. While a canvass of business men shows that in very many cases the enumerators, finding the head of the house away, jotted down what information they could obtain from servants and children, completing their work by the use of imagination.

Ammunition Cargo Confiscated.

Berlin, July 11.—A news despatch from Madrid says: The German consul-general here finds that the seizure of the German steamer Gemma by the Spanish authorities at Corcubion, on the charge that the vessel was carrying war material for Portuguese royalists, was justified, and orders the confiscation of the cargo of 154 tons of

SIR WILFRID EXPLAINS IT

Tells Why He Was Anti-Imperialistic at London

Was Only Consistent With His Former Attitude

Quebec, July 11.—The official welcome home to Sir Wilfrid Laurier from his labors at the Imperial Conference and the coronation festivities, which took place here last evening, was an imposing affair. Thousands of people thronged the Terrace, where the demonstration took place, and the veteran Liberal leader was given an enthusiastic reception. The scene was a remarkable one, the docorations, flags and strings of vari-colored lights, with the masses of people, being most picturesque. Several bands were in attendance and rendered patriotic airs at intervals. Mayor Drouin presided, and seated on the platform with Sir Wilfrid were a number of members of his Cabinet, members of the local Cabinet, aldermen and other people of note. The address from the city, which was read by Mayor Drouin, congratulated Sir Wilfrid on his return, and expressed admiration at the brilliant manner in which he had represented Canada at the coronation festivities and the important part which he took in the Imperial Conference. The address then went on to refer to the action of the conference in regard to the treaties of commerce, due to Sir Wilfrid's perseverance. The address stated that Sir Wilfrid's proposition at the conference to institute a thorough investigation into economic conditions throughout the Empire had been heartily applauded.

After the reading of the civic address Mr. Lachance, M.P. for Quebec West, read an address from the Liberal Clubs of the city. The bands then played "O, Canada," and when Sir Wilfrid rose to reply he was greeted with great applause.

Referring to the Imperial Conference, Sir Wilfrid said that it was the fourth time he had gone to represent Canada at similar conferences, and he might be permitted to say with pride that on his return from each conference his conduct and the propositions which he had succeeded in having passed were received with satisfaction by the Canadian people. He did not say that his conduct had been unanimously approved, because there was always that class of Imperial jingoes who could never be satisfied, and he could say on this occasion without false modesty that he returned with new laurels on his head. He had also succeeded in bringing upon himself the maledictions of the Nationalist jingoes, who, with their Imperialist allies, reminded him of the cat and the dog, and he predicted that after the elections they would devour each other.

He had taken the same attitude in 1911 as he had in 1907, in 1902 and in 1897: the revindication of his countrymen's rights as British subjects and Canadians, the policy that each country shall govern itself according to the public opinion of the nation.

He had returned to Canada, the Premier said, to complete his interrupted work. He returned in excellent health, ready to take up the fight on reciprocity with Canada's neighbors in the United States.

In 1896, he said, Canada was merely a geographical expression. It was now known in all the countries of the world, and wherever Canadians might travel a warm welcome awaited them.

THREE DROWN IN STEAMER'S WRECK

Collision Above the Soo Has Tragic Results

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., July 11.—While seven miles above Whitefish Point at midnight Sunday the steamer John Mitchell, Capt. John Massey, was struck amidship on port side by the steamer W. H. Mack. Capt. George H. Burnham, and sunk in 175 feet of water. There was a heavy fog at the time.

Mitchell carried a crew of 27 men and had six women passengers and a little boy.

The wife and daughter of Steward Clemens were also aboard as helpers in the kitchen. All were saved, with the exception of Archey Causeley, the second mate, whose home was in Detroit. Al. Clemens, steward, of Rochester, Ind., and George Austin, watchman, who shipped from Cleveland, while several of the crew and passengers were badly bruised and shaken up by the experience. Mrs. Clemens is the only one seriously injured. She had a broken leg and was otherwise injured about the body.

Catarrhal Bad Breath

Corrected Quickly by the Use of

Catarrhozone

Catarrh is an inflammation. Where there is inflammation there is always more or less offensive secretion. Inflammation may be of the very active sort, but it is often of the slow kind, and this is the particular form in which the breath is rendered offensive and the presence of the sufferer becomes an offence to every person of delicate sensibility.

Bad breath is in itself sufficient to urge you to correct it, because one dislikes to be unpleasant to their friends, but this form of catarrh is dangerous because it supplies a hotbed for the development of Consumption or of other diseases of the throat and lungs.

Bad breath is an evidence that the microbes have found a good resting place and are carrying on their evil inroads into the health of the body.

Catarrhozone acts at once and destroys these minute organisms, but it does more—it heals the inflamed surfaces in which they found a nesting place and consequently removes both cause and effects of their action.

If we only highly estimated the value of prevention and used Catarrhozone at the beginning of a cold or just before it becomes well seated, the deadly ravages of Consumption would be stayed and the terrible agonies of sufferers of Asthma or Bronchitis completely abolished.

There is no remedy as effective for bad breath, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, etc., as Catarrhozone. Besides being healing and soothing it is germ destroying. Nothing ever offered to the public can compare with it in its promptness, efficiency, and permanency of action. And you can buy it from any dealer in medicine throughout the Dominion of Canada, 25c, 50c, and $1.00 sizes. By mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

A SEPTEMBER ELECTION

So we are to have a real general election by September, according to the semi-official announcements in the chief Liberal organs. Well, September is a pleasant month. Many of the farmers, who are said to favor reciprocity, will be busy at their harvest then, while the industrial section of Canada will not be too busy to take its usual keen interest in the elections.

The government evidently does not intend to see the redistribution through before appealing to the country. It would cheat the west out of its representation for the added population of a decade. Has Mr. Borden's tour in the west been so effective that the government does not want to give the west added members this parliament?

The Liberal organs say that unless Mr. Borden lies down, and consents to pass supply—and reciprocity—there will be an election almost immediately. Mr. Borden has declared his determination to oppose reciprocity to the last ditch. Therefore—an election!

KITCHINER'S MISTAKE

The "colonial" troops to the coronation feel immensely slighted over their treatment by Lord Kitchener, who put them on sentry duty, lined a few others up around the Victoria memorial to act as policemen, and allowed only forty to appear in the big procession.

K. of K. may be a great soldier, but he is certainly not a politician, or a soft-soaper. Imagine the temerity of the man—be he English or otherwise—who would put the Canadian coronation contingent on a side track, while the home troops got the plaudits of the crowd. See what an advertisement Canada missed, through her representatives being carefully concealed from the view of the millions lining the streets.

Kitchener should have seen that the Canadians had places of honor in Westminster Abbey, on the ground that there is nothing too good for the Irish.

"Bobs" saw that the over-seas troops got a conspicuous place in the Jubilee procession, and each man of the contingents came home telling of what "me and Bobs" did in that procession.

Kitchener lacks the imperial spirit, the sense of what the "colonials" really are—representatives of the supports of the empire. It would have been a compliment to the over-seas nations if their carefully selected representatives had been [illegible] in spite of the crush of detail, the work of picking and selecting; instead of doing duty that any ordinary Tommy Atkins might have performed. Kitchener has missed the great opportunity to have his name inscribed on the colonial roll of fame, all right, but apparently—and this is the saddest part of it—Kitchener won't lose much sleep over it.

JUSTICE INTERVENES

The sentence to hang imposed on Mrs. Neopolitano for the murder of her husband at the Soo, is to be commuted. We will now get a respite from the wails and the weeps the slush-muckers have been daily getting rid of. Canadian justice is no longer the hideous dragon stalking abroad seeking whom it may devour.

Mrs. Neapolitano was convicted of the murder of her husband, the crime not being in the slightest doubt. The jury brought in a verdict of murder, the only one possible in the case, and the sentence to hang was of course, immediately imposed. The date of the execution was set for August 9th, and it is expected that in two weeks Mrs. Neapolitano will become a mother.

Hence the shrieks about Canadian justice, giving the woman just time to bring her child into the world, and then decapitating her, and leaving the new born babe motherless. Since the law could not take the two lives for one, time must be given for the birth, and then the execution. The cold vengeance of it all offered a theme not often run across in the dog days for the paragraphers.

But as was expected from the beginning sentence will be commuted. The law did not rush to commute the sentence, but took up the case in due course, and there will be no hanging. There is no real reason for delay in commutation, as the pre-natal influence on the child should have been considered, but to rush a decision would have been undignified as to delay it unduly would have been merciless.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Has anyone seen Candidate Kerr going to the East Peterborough sewing circles yet?

If anyone would like to know how it feels to be a candidate against the wishes of the powers that be, let him write to Winnipeg, to a certain legal gentleman, and get an eloquent reply

The origin of the Glengarry shooting case seems to have been the Ne Temere decree. Religious discord caused the marital separation. All of which goes to show that a mixed marriage will in nine cases out of ten result in trouble and unhappiness.

The Conservative convention is only a week away. Every township and every ward in the city should be thoroughly represented. Don't forget the date, Conservatives, next Tuesday night in the Conservatory of Music Hall.

The census men did not call on many people in Toronto and Montreal. The Review would like to know of families missed in Peterborough because evidence is piling up that the job was botched from beginning to end. The jobs were given to political friends of the patronage peddlers, with the usual result that the business was scandalously performed.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury

as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucuous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten-fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 10.—The foreign demand for spring wheat fell away to nothing to-day, but there was an active demand for oats from European sources, there being orders in the market for fully 500,000 bushels, but as the prices bid were out of line with values here no business was done. The local market was stronger for oats and prices advanced ¼c per bushel, in sympathy with the strength in the western market. A fair volume of business continues to be done in flour for local account, and prices are well maintained. The tone of the market for rolled oats and millfeed is firm under a good demand.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 41¾c to 42c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 41c to 41¼c; No. 3 C.W., 40¼c to 40½c; No. 2 local white, 39½c to 39¾c; No. 3 local white, 39c to 39¼c; No. 4 local white, 38¼c to 38½c. Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.30; seconds, $4.80; winter wheat patents, $4.60 to $4.75; strong bakers', $4.60; straight rollers, $4.10 to $4.25; in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled oats—Per barrel, $4.55; bag of 90 lbs., $2.15. Corn—American No. 3 yellow, 65c. Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $21 to $22; Manitoba, $20 to $21; middlings, Ontario, $22.50 to $23; Eggs—Fresh, 17½c to 18c. Cheese—Westerns, 11⅜c to 11⅝c; easterns, 11c to 11¼c.

TORONTO, July 10.—Receips of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 130 carloads, consisting of 2610 cattle, 187 sheep and lambs and 96 calves.

Exporters.

Export steers for London sold at $5.90 to $6.10, or an average of $5.96.

Butchers.

Best butchers sold at $5.60 to $5.85; medium to good butchers, $5.30 to $5.55; common, $5 to $5.25; cows, $3 to $4.80; bulls, $4 to $4.50.

Milkers and Springers.

Veal Calves.

The market for veal calves was firm at $5 to $8.25 per cwt., or an average of about $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Prices for lambs were firm at $7.50 to $8.25 per cwt.; sheep were steady at $3 to $4 per cwt.

Hogs.

Prices for hogs were quoted unchanged at $7.10 for selects, fed and watered, and $7.75 to drovers for hogs f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, July 10.—At the Montreal Stock Yards, West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending July 8 were 2800 cattle, 1590 sheep and lambs, 1350 hogs and 600 calves. The supply on the market this morning for sale consisted of 800 cattle, 725 sheep and lambs, 700 hogs and 800 calves.

In spite of the very warm weather which continues to prevail and the weaker cable advices received from European sources on cattle, which noted a decline of ½c per lb. in prices since this day week, the undertone to the local market this morning was stronger. Prices, as compared with those realized last Wednesday, show an advance of ¼c per lb., which is attributed to the small supplies coming forward and the scarcity of really choice beeves. In a few exceptional cases butchers stated that they paid as high as $6.40 per cwt. for steers, which were dearer than stock they paid 6½c per lb. for a week ago, on account of the poorer quality.

The gathering of buyers was fairly large and as they were all pretty well cleaned out of stock the demand was fair notwithstanding the heat and a moderately active trade was done. Choice steers sold at 6¼c, good at 5½c to 5¾c, fairly good at 5c to 5¼c, fair at 4¾c to 5c and common, at 4¼c to 4½c per lb. Cows brought from 3½c to 5c, and bulls from 4¼c to 5¼c per lb., as to quality.

A stronger feeling developed in the market for hogs and prices since last Wednesday show an advance of 50c per cwt., which is due to the light receipts and the keener demand from packers for supplies on account of the heavy demand at present for hams and bacon. An active trade was done with sales of selected lots, at $7.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars, and mixed lots brought $7 to $7.25.

Supplies of small meats were larger than usual, for which the demand was good and an active trade was done with no change in prices to note from last Wednesday. Sheep sold at from $3.50 to $4; lambs, at from $3.50 to $5, and calves at from $2 to $6 each, as to size and quality.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, July 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 2500 head; market slow and steady to shade lower; prime steers, $6.50 to $6.60; butcher grades, $5.25 to $6.10.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 900 head; market, lambs, steady; sheep, slow and lower; choice lambs, $7 to $7.25; cull to fair, $5 to $6.90; yearlings, $5.25 to $5.50; sheep, $2 to $4.25.

Hogs—Receipts, 11,050; market fairly active, 5c lower; yorkers, $7.10 to $7.20; stags, $5 to $5.75; pigs, $7; mixed, $7.10 to $7.20; heavy, $7.10 to $7.20; roughs, $6.25 to $6.50.

Chicago Live Stock.

"That story of a revolution was a lie," explained Smith. "Williams has been home three days. He has had the books looked over at night. He seemed to know what you were doing from the time you took the first dollar. I've reason to think he went away simply to give you a free rein and get even with you for what you said to him that night at the flat. Joe, we've got to pull together now, and you've got to be on the square with me."

"What shall I do?" he moaned.

"Sit tight and saw wood."

"But they'll send me to jail, won't they?"

"You took that chance, Joe, boy. But we will have to fight and fight hard to get you out of it. You can't run away. You're watched," interrupted his friend. "Detectives are downstairs, and if you make a false move they'll nab you and spoil every chance."

"I'm your friend, and you need one now, boy."

"Jimsy, I'm done; I know I'm done!" he almost whimpered, plunged again into the bottomest depth of despair.

"Keep your nerve. What have you told Emma?"

"She doesn't know."

"Of course she doesn't. I mean, where did you say you got all the money?"

"I told her my salary was raised, and some back pay"—

"I'm on. Now brace up. You look all in. Here come the ladies."

"They are ready, Joe," announced Mrs. Brooks.

"Come on, my boy, and take the family to the show," ordered Mrs. Harris.

"I'm ready," he replied, pulling himself together with great effort. "Jimsy, wait till I come back."

Emma and Smith accompanied them to the elevator.

"Hurry back, Joe," was Emma's injunction to her husband as the car disappeared from view.

CHAPTER X.

TULLY is credited with being the first to remark what essayists have pointed out ever since—that friendship improves happiness and abates misery by the doubling of our joys and dividing of our griefs. This was the sort of friendship that animated Jimsy Smith. His regard began in love for Emma Harris, but when he found that this love was not requited he did not for that reason withdraw his interest in her. Accepting the cold reality with his usual philosophy, he thrust deep down in his heart the passion that never could be eradicated, and his sterling, unflinching honesty transformed it in time into a fraternal affection as self sacrificing as it was loyal, which he extended to the man Emma had chosen for her life partner. With his keen perception he had soon seen that that man was morally weak, irresolute of purpose, incompetent in business and that his love for his wife was not of that kind which counted sacrifice for her as a privilege and forbearance, indulgence and unfailing consideration for her gentler and purer nature as a duty. But it was not for him to judge or to condemn. That Emma was satisfied was sufficient. No other consideration mattered a particle. And he esteemed himself happy in being admitted to the little household on terms of the intimacy of an elder brother. In all the world there was no one else he cared for or who cared for him.

When Mrs. Brooks and he re-entered the apartment and she turned to him and told him that it was good to see him back she meant it.

"It is good to me to be back again," he admitted, "if only for a few hours."

"Why a few hours, Jimsy?"

"Williams expects me to take the midnight train for Boston. There is some legal tangle about our dock lease there."

"Oh, I see. Did Joe tell you about our good fortune? Of course you can see the change," and she made a gesture that took in the whole room.

"You mean the raise in salary and back pay?"

"Yes. Wasn't it splendid of Captain Williams?"

"It certainly has agreed with you," he responded evasively. "Never saw you look so well."

"Did the captain tell you about it?"

"No; he never mentioned it."

"Why not?"

"Captain Williams has a habit of keeping a whole lot to himself."

"It came as a complete surprise—at least to me."

"Seems to have done your mother a whole lot of good. She never did shine up to that Harlem flat."

"In all the years I've known you, Jimsy, you've never spoken of your mother or father. I suppose you don't care to."

"No; it ain't pleasant," he confessed.

Mrs. Brooks was sincerly sorry for her rather thoughtless remark.

"Forgive me, Jimsy. I wish I hadn't said that. Could I help to make it more pleasant? I'd like to," she said sympathetically.

He gazed at her with a queer look and for a few moments did not speak. He appeared to be debating something in his mind.

"My mother, as near as I have been able to find out, hiked out into Colorado when it was a territory. There wasn't much law and, I guess, no conventionalities. Everybody kind o' drifted along the best or the worst they could, the majority voting the straight ticket for the worst. A shake of the hand was as good as a bond, and there wasn't any law in the land except that between man and woman. Some of them out there yearned as much for the sanctity of the marriage vows as an Arab in the Sahara does for a sun bath. It was a loose country, full of loose people. My mother fell in love with a roving miner, and he promised to marry her, but before the parson wandered into the camp to make a little loose change tying matrimonial knots pa got into an argument concerning alcoholic capacity and got plugged with a 45."

"Killed?"

"Yes. He passed on. Later I was shoved into the midst of an unsuspecting public. My coming into the world without the usual legal credentials hit my poor mother awful hard, and before I could open my eyes she died. Then there was an awful argument about where I belonged."

"How?"

"Two cities claimed me. Denver said I was born in Omaha, and Omaha blamed it on Denver. Those that looked after me when I was a kid got a little careless about my education, and finally the city of Denver adopted me as a favorite son. Father's only known name was Jim. I grabbed it. I had to have a last one on the handle, so I chose Smith, feeling tolerably certain it would pass the scrutiny of an inquisitive world without raising a storm of curiosity."

He paused, then concluded, with a wan smile:

"You see, Emma, I am some shy."

"I'm awfully sorry, Jimsy, but it doesn't make a lot of difference, does it?" she said consolingly.

"No, only that's why I came east. The west ain't conducive to pleasant recollections."

"It's nothing you could help."

"No. I figure you can't always blame people for what they can't help. If a fellow comes into the world shy, he's shy, and the chances are he's doing the best he can the very time he goes to the bad."

"How? In what way?"

"You seem puzzled," he said, moving his chair so that it brought him squarely facing her. "Well, for instance, out in Denver I knew a fellow who married a girl who'd had pretty much what she wanted, but he'd been in hard luck. It was a love match all right, both parties being clean foolish over each other. Well, he didn't get on, and she had to work pretty hard. Finally he thought her health and spirits were about busted up on account of the work, and he commenced appropriating other folks' money—got 'way in, and the harder he tried to get out the deeper he floundered. Finally the big exposure came off. He was a thief. Now, what do you think about him, Emma? Do you think because he was long on love and short on honor he was all bad, eh?"

She hesitated, pondering the question as something so utterly beyond ordinary cogitation that it could not have presented itself to her and was not to be lightly decided.

"I don't know what to think," she mused. "I've always loathed a thief and a liar. I know there's an awful lot of dishonesty—in business. Father always declared that a man to drink or gamble or dissipate might be weak, but that a man who stole or lied to injure people was vicious. Somehow I think that too."

"Maybe you're right, but I wondered if you'd been in his wife's place you'd sort of forgiven the man and helped him get right."

"Perhaps—I don't know," she replied doubtfully. "But I think if anything like that ever happened it would almost kill me."

Her thoughts were diverted from the subject by the ringing of the telephone bell. She answered it.

"Captain Williams calling," she said to Smith, then through the phone:

"Ask the gentleman to come up, please."

Jimsy, anxious and much troubled, regarded her thoughtfully.

She turned from the telephone and advanced to him, holding out her hand. He took it hesitatingly and wonderingly.

"Jimsy," she said earnestly, "I've never quite understood you before."

"No?" he interrogated.

"But after what you told me tonight," she went on, "I've had a little peek behind the curtains. You are a good man, Jimsy—a good man. That means everything."

For the second time in his entire life—the first having been when he proposed to her—Smith displayed trepidation.

"Now, Emma, be careful," he reproved. "There ain't no celestial medals pinned on my coat signifying an angelic career, and don't you start tossing bouquets in my direction."

The doorbell rang as he settled himself in his chair again.

"Ah! There's the old sea dog," said Mrs. Brooks, hastening to let the captain in.

"Good evening, Mrs. Brooks. Glad to see you."

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The U. S. Senate is voting down all amendments to the reciprocity bill.

C. N. Smith was nominated for the Commons by the Liberals of West Algoma.

Five men were killed and two probably fatally injured when a traveling crane bearing a 14-ton steel girder collapsed at Meyersdale, Pa., yesterday.

It is authoritatively, although not officially announced that Sir Frederick Borden will succeed Lord Strathcona as High Commissioner for Canada in London.

Toronto will have an aviation meet in the middle of August that will equal all attempts in the flying line in Canada, according the present indications.

During the progress of a fierce electric storm at Brantford, yesterday, Mrs. W. Hall 29 Park avenue, was found in an unconscious condition, but recovered when assistance arrived.

Motherhood Class.

In an English school they have added to the curriculum a class which may be called "mothering, practical and theoretical." A real, live baby has been engaged as the "subject," while a trained nurse from one of the hospitals explains to the pupils the best way to bathe and clothe it and generally how to be a good mother.

Girls must be seventeen or over to enter this class. Each girl takes her turn in looking after the baby, a plump little girl aged thirteen weeks. Every little duty which the careful mother has to attend to in the home is taught the girls by the trained nurse.

A LESSON IN TAKING CARE OF BABY.

How to bathe the baby, how to cut out and make clothes for it, how to mix foods, scientific feeding and hygiene, cooking for the home and how to detect illness. They are taught to distinguish the "teething" cry from the "stomach" cry, the "pin" cry from just plain temper.

That all this is valuable training even the old fashioned ones must admit. Our schools are turning out thousands of girls every year that are in no essential fitted for matrimony. Every woman should know about the care of babies, whether their own or those of some one else.

Storm This Afternoon Went One Better. Must Be Great Damage.

What damage the electric storm of this afternoon caused in the city and country could not be ascertained on account of all communication by telephone being cut off.

The system at the Bell Telephone Co. was not in operation, and if the Electric Power company has anything on the quality of juice handed out by the storm king we're all from Missouri and the company will have to show us. The fire department had a pleasant trip to east city about 2.30 when the alarm was rang in.

Visitors to the lakes must have received a good dose, as the storm, before it broke over the city, appeared to be kicking up high jinks up north.

In districts eighteen miles from Peterborough visited by electric Peterborough visited by electric storms have practically amounted to nothing, and in some places farmers are losing cattle, which are being actually starved from want of pasture. Crops are of little value, and on some farms pea vines are without a sign of a pod.

And we're likely to get some more.

FIRST POTATOES OF THIS DISTRICT

J. M. Montgomery Claims Honors for This Season

Mr. J. M. Montgomery, a genial Scotchman and farmer, whose farm is on the Gravel Road, is the authority for saying that his new potatoes were the first of this district to be marketed in Peterboro, and were sold by Mr. J. R. Bell, the Hunter Street grocer, on Saturday at 50 cents a peck. On June 28th he had good new potatoes for dinner, which sold 15 cents a quart.

When asked about the prospects for potatoes this year, Mr. Montgomery replied that the crop would be a poor one due, he remarked, to the intense heat experienced lately.

New potatoes have been selling in the stores at 20c per peck. Small measure.

EFFECTS OF A FIVE GALLON KEG

Residents Didn't Like Efforts of Would be Vocalist

Neighbors complaining of the sounds of hilarity, singing, shouting and general "high jinks" in the locality of the house of Alexander Ross on Murray street, on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of last week, were responsible for his appearance, accompanied by Hector Baker, in police court yesterday morning.

The two men had a five gallon keg of beer at the Ross house and things reached a most glorious state of exhilaration, which revealed itself in efforts to imitate Caruso and other noted vocal exponents.

Both gentlemen promised to let the beer alone if they were dismissed and the magistrate leniently allowed them to go with a warning.

THE REIGN OF THE SHIRT WAIST

Generally speaking, man hates to adopt suggestions from feminine attire, but there are times when this indifference might be well set aside.

Take the hot spell, which we take whether we wish or not. Ladies go about enjoying the airy coolness of the shirt-waist and bare arms. Both the waists and arms are pretty and agreeable to gaze upon. Man, scorning these helps to coolness, puts on his coat that he wore in winter and perspires.

Why not make a break. Why not shed the coat and go about in shirt sleeves. True, man can part with money and buy a lustre coat, but that is money spent that should be devoted to purchasing gasoline or wild west tickets or some other really necessary thing.

Who will be the first to start the vogue? Brave soul. Who will defy the conventionalities? His name shall be honored, or his name shall be Dennis. Who is the leading citizen who shall lead?

But a word of caution. It is not seemly to appear in shirt sleeves and retain the gallasues that hold up ones breeks. They should, the gallusus, be discarded. They bunch a fellow's shirt up behind his neck and the effect is not pleasing. So let us take up a hole or two in our belts, discard our coats, roll up our sleeves and walk about in comfort.

Names of those who will brave public opinion will be arranged in the paper in order of merit.

RESERVE OF POWER ALWAYS AVAILABLE

A Call for Twelve Hundred H. P. Is Met Promptly and Easily

At other points throughout the province statements are made from time to time of the amounts of power available, and that small grists of from 25 h.p. to 50 h.p. are held on tap, and more coming on. This is very well and shows that power is to be had where no power was in sight years ago.

Some of our people are disposed to fly off the handle and affirm that all our power here is in use and that no more is to be had. This is all wrong. This district could easily take in calls for blocks of power up into the thousands and meet the demand serenely.

For instance, the big power house of the Canadian General Electric Co. is silent. The power plant is having a well earned rest, for the company is rebuilding their power transmission line from Warsaw to the factory. As a reasonable precaution every pole on the line is being critically examined, and anything with a suspicion of defect replaced. The insulators and line attachments are being overhauled to ensure stability and an uninterrupted service.

Then the new power house at the waterworks dam is coming into the service arena. There is a big block of power that will be poured into the company's lines, beginning the end of this week, and the two new circuits are being constructed to carry this power. Rather than have the inconvenience of doing all this work and keeping their own power plant running, the Electric Company turned in a call to the Peterborough and Seymour Co. for a cool 1200 h.p. and got it. This is in addition to the burden the generators of the system have been carrying, and shows that almost any emergency can be met.

When the new power house at Auburn is completed there will be another 3000 h.p. available, and the future will show that under no adverse condition of service can the power and light services of the city and district be even temporarily ...

RELIGION IN SCHOOLS

To the Editor of the Review:

Sir—The Conventions are coming on for the selection of candidates for the Legislature. Those who heard Rev. Mr. Couch last night must have been impressed with his statement to the effect that it is better that religion should be taught in the church, the Sunday-school and at home, and not in the public schools than that it should give cause for trouble and be made a stumbling block there. The present School Act and its supplemnetary departmental regulations are the case in point. They must be changed so that no religion shall be taught in public schools which will then give offence to no one. It should not all be left to the will of Sir James Whitney. The candidates should be required to state thay they are in favour of an immediate change in the Public School law in this respect. It was a wise and timely sermon.

Yours truly,

Sons of Rest Receive County Organizer

On Saturday night last, the Sons of Rest of this place were favored with the presence of county organizer Ellison of Hastings. After President Legget opened the meeting, he very courteously invited Organizer Ellison to come forward and take the chair, as he was a superior officer of the order. Ellison made his way to the front and after divesting himself of his coat and vest took the chair. He then addressed the brethren as follows—

Dear Brethren—It is needless for me to tell you that it is a pleasure for me to stand before the brethren of Keene, as I have always had a high regard for the Keeneites. It is not my intention to take up much of your time to-night as my time is very limited, I have many duties to perform. I am under obligation to visit every society in the county at least twice a year, and report my work done for the order. Allow me to report to you to-night that I have been very successful in every town and village which I have visited with the exception of the village of Hastings. Two weeks ago I undertook to organize a society in Hastings with the following persons as charter members — Paul Spillman, Sunny O'Neil, Toothy Wilson, Red Elmhurst, Waxy Runnels, Farmert Stickles, Boss Upton, Barber Dodd, Major Howard, Fishy Hess, Mudcat Gibson, Pepper Warner, Spicy Oakman, Greasy Tyler, Porky Chapman, Travelling Larmouth, Squire Huycke.

"After calling out their names I asked them to come forward and pay the initiation fee of five cents, but lo and behold, every head dropped and believe me, every mothers' son of them backed up and would not pay the fee of five cents. Now brethren I had no patience with them and decided then and there that I would visit some other burgs where the inhabitants displayed more generosity. I am now on my way to Mathers Corners where I am informed I can locate a strong society.

Thanking you for your kind attention, I will now give way to your honored president to close the meeting. Positive Legget then asked Tom Decackey and Mumbling Elliott to sing the closing ode. The meeting was then declared closed until next Saturday at 8 o'clock sharp.

Members of Peterboro Coronation Contingent Report Good Time,

Sergt. Lavelle, Sergt. Succee and Sergt. Brightman, the local members of the coronation contingent, returned to Peterborough last night on the 5.03 G.T.R. train. They report a good time on their trip and are highly pleased with the sights which they had the pleasure of viewing.

The contingent arrived in Quebec Sunday after a rough passage on the Empress of Britain. They had been delayed two days in Liverpool on account of the strike which was prevailing. The contingent at last volunteered to load the baggage, and they got under way.

In England they were treated royally, the officials there forming a committee to arrange for the sightseers.

Sergt. Brightman says that the two prettiest sights he saw on his visit was the naval review, at Spithead and the iceburgs about Newfoundland.

ALL SAINT'S WON SEMI-FINALS BY MARGIN OF TWO GOALS

Meet C. G. E. Champions Tomorrow Night in First of Home and Home for Championship.

All Saints' defeated Brooklin 3—0 on Saturday and won out in the semi-final of the Midland Football League by three goals to one.

Brooklin started out strong and Moraity was called on to stop several hot shots which he handled with great judgment. The Saints broke away with a goal kick and after many shots Tooley put one in which opened the scoring for the blue and white. The first half ended with the score 1 to nil for the Saints.

The second half started out by the blue and white pressing and inside of ten minutes scored two more goals. Brooklin saw that the game was lost and so lost heart, while the Saints had the game won and were satisfied with shooting from any old place as they could not run around much in the terrific heat.

Mr. Geo. James, of Bowmanville, refereed and gave good satisfaction.

The Saints' team was;—Goal, Moraity; backs, Gamble, James; half-backs, Vickers, Summonite, Edwards; forwards, Sharman, Gash, Monk, Tooley and Downes.

The Saints meet the fast C. G. E. team to-night on the Brinton meadows at seven o'clock, in the first of home and home games for the J. R. Stratton cup and championship of the Midland league.

Every lover of good clean football should turn out and see this game.

THE LATE DR. TEEFY

A Well-Known Preacher, Platform Speaker and Public Reader

The late Dr. Teefy, former rector of St. Michael's College, was one of the more prominent Roman Catholic divines of the Dominion of Canada. His clerical career was from first to last a noble example of that whole-hearted and self-sacrificing devotion to her services which that Church seems more able than any other to command from its members. In comparatively early manhood he deliber- [illegible] secular career [illegible] ship in one of the several religious orders that hold out no hope of earthly reward for a life of exhaustive work for the promotion of religion. He was the son of Matthew Teefy, of Richmond Hill, who survives his distinguished son. He received a thorough education in the High School of that village, and he subsequently took a brilliant arts course in the University of Toronto. Dr. Teefy was noted in his day as a preacher, a platform speaker and a public reader. He was popular with his fellow-graduates, and also with the undergraduates, who showed their appreciation by electing him for one term as President of the Literary Society of University College. For a few years past, on account of declining health, he was retired from public view, but his passing leaves a vacancy in educational circles that will not easily be filled. He died in his sixty-second year.

CANADIANS IN BIG DEAL

Paid Million Dollars for White Pine Timber in Michigan

Canadian lumbermen were the principals in a deal of over a million dollars in Michigan, when the largest tract of standing white pine timber in the State was acquired. The lumbermen were W. D. Lummis, of Toronto, Henry J. Bartlett, of Orillia, and George Gordon, M.P., of Sturgeon Falls. The property is situated at Sheldrake, Michigan, and was the property of the famous Calumet & Hecla Copper Mining Company. They decided that the timber was of too high a quality to use for mining purposes, in which way they have been using some thirty million feet per year. Therefore they looked about for a purchaser.

CANADIANS ARE READERS

No People in the World Equal to Them in This Respect

John Lane, head of the great publishing house of John Lane & Company, London, during his recent visit to Canada stated that the people of Canada, in proportion to population, read more books than any country in the world.

"When I was in Algiers last winter," he said, "I found that few books are read. A sale of one hundred volumes of a book is considered quite remarkable. The people of the warmer climates apparently have not the energy to read or to think."

INSTRUCTION FOR TEACHERS

Kingston Medical Association's Plan to Have Pupils Examined

The Kingston Medical and Surgical Society passed a resolution urging the Minister of Education to appoint qualified medical men, who are experienced teachers, to give instruction in the Model Schools, the Normal Schools, and the faculties of education to the teachers in training, on how to make a simple physical and mental examination of the school children. The Society is of the opinion that the training of teachers in elementary medical science is the best way of inaugurating an economical system of medical inspection in rural schools.

CORONATION CONTINGENTS

Canada and South Africa are the only overseas nations of the Empire sending their soldiers at the public expense to participate in the Coronation celebration. In the case of both Australia and New Zealand the Parliaments refused to vote any money for the sending of contingents. The necessary money was raised by private subscriptions. In addition, there are troops from India, from the British West Indies, and from Mauritius, from East Africa, from West Africa, from the Straits Settlements, from Bermuda, from Ceylon, from Fiji and from Hong Kong.

GOOD CHANCES IN NEW ONTARIO

Sir George Ross Predicts that Prosperous Farmers Will Soon Occupy the Clay Belt

Pioneer life in Northern Ontario has few of the handicaps that usually prevail in a new country, says Sir George W. Ross. The settlers have hard work for a few years, but know [illegible] suffered by the people who go to more remote districts. One of the chief attractions of the Temiskaming country is its wood growth. The region is covered for the most part with valuable forests, containing merchantable timber and pulpwood in enormous quantities. Among the trees are spruce, tamarac, cedar, pine, poplar, birch and balm of Gilead, with an undergrowth of hemlock, maple, ash and alder. Its lumbering industries are of considerable magnitude, and for years to come will be an important source of wealth. This timber growth provides the settler with a first crop which more than pays him for the labor and expense in clearing the land. It moderates the climate, provides moisture for growing crops, makes possible the lakes and rivers and waterfalls that are among the finest in the world. It places inexpensive and suitable building material ready at hand. These fascinating forests add beauty to the landscape and appeal most strongly to the aesthetic eye during the spring and autumn months. They are carpeted with luxuriant colored mosses, and during the summer season the woods are full of song. The prospect for the home-seeker in this country is far more conducive to happiness and contentment than it can be on a bleak and wind-swept prairie. The farmer finds solace in the woods. They are his source of supply for fuel, for revenue and for game. The attractiveness of the country is so great that its never-ending charms must remain undescribed and unpictured until the visitor or settler beholds them with his own eyes and experiences them for himself.

Nearly all the settlers in the Temiskaming country are doing well. Many of them were without capital, and knew nothing about farming when they took up land. Their difficulties in making their first clearings were great, but after securing some experience they learned how to clear the timber and to remove the stumps expeditiously and cheaply. Wages are high in the northland, and the settlers in calculating the expense of clearing have estimated their labor at current prices. The result is, they claim, it costs from $5 to $50 an acre to prepare the land for the plow. The cost varies, according to the kind of timber, and also according to the urgency of the work performed. As soon as the land is cleared and plowed all kinds of crops suitable to the climate may be grown. In most districts the land is rolling, and affords natural drainage, or can be sufficiently drained by open ditches. When the clay soil is plowed in the fall it becomes exceedingly friable and easy to work. Clovers grow luxuriantly, and where clovers can be grown in such quantities all kinds of cereals may be expected to yield excellent results. The winters are slightly longer than in southern Ontario, but the hours of sunlight in the summer give the northland a corresponding advantage, and vegetation makes a rapid growth, so that crops may be harvested practically at the same time as in more southern districts. The yields are phenomenal. For example, forty bushels to the acre for wheat, eighty bushels of oats, and from 200 to 250 bushels of potatoes per acre are not uncommon. Cultivation pays in the northland as elsewhere. The quality of all classes of cereals is exceptional, and it is probable that as the country develops the farmers will make a specialty of seed production. For vegetables, field roots and potatoes, the conditions are ideal. It is certain to be in the near future the great potato-growing area of the Province. The form of the tubers, their smooth skin and excellent table qualities, make them exceedingly attractive to the buyer. It is proposed by the Ontario Department of Agriculture to secure each year a large quantity of northern Ontario potatoes for distribution for seed purposes among the farmers in the southern counties.

It is, however, in live stock raising, in dairy products, in the manufacture of meat and wool, that the greatest future for the northern Ontario farmer lies. This means that the soil fertility will be conserved and only the product of the farmer's skill sent to market. Live stock raising is more profitable than grain-growing. New Ontario, because of its abundance of pure water and its facility in growing fodder crops, will provide stock feed in prodigious quantities, its great waterpowers will make possible the milling of other than home-grown grains, and the by-products of the mills will in time be available for stock feeding.

The combinations of soil fertility and a favorable climate make for the prosperity of the farmer, but in addition to these he has an exceptionally attractive local market. For the present and for many years to come the increasing mining population, the lumber camps and the growing towns will require all the farm produce that it is possible for the settlers to supply. The prices for everything the farmer has to sell are exceptional in these localities. The country is so conveniently located that if there should be a surplus the markets of the large cities of the east are within easy reach. But the present local market is so profitable that it is not impossible for a farmer on less than a hundred acres of cleared land to secure for his annual crop a gross return of between $2,000 and $3,000.

It does not require much imagination to see in the not distant future the settlement of the great clay belt with prosperous farmers, having comfortable homes and stately outbuildings lighted by electricity and supplied with cheap power from the numerous waterfalls with which the country abounds.

There is a potato famine in Nelson and district.

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" WILL ALWAYS CURE THIS TROUBLE

Neuralgia is really blood poisoning. To treat it with opium, morphine, cocaine, "headache powders" and other "pain-killers" is a crime.

The only possible way to cure Neuralgia is to purify the blood by making the Kidneys, Bowels and Skin do their proper work in nature's own way.

This is the way "Fruit-a-tives" cures Neuralgia. "Fruit-a-tives" prevents the formation of Uric Acid—keeps the whole system strong and active—and will always cure Neuralgia, Rheumatism and Headaches due to poisoned blood.

"Love, Laughter and Life"

FOR MARRIED GIRLS

When you are married to him don't irritate him by petty questions of household matters in the early morning. It annoys him.

If he should have business disappointments, don't grumble if he has to curtail your dress allowance. Take it in the spirit in which you said the words, "For better, for worse."

Should he achieve some success, great or small, don't fail to tell him how proud you are of him, and give him every encouragement to do better still. He will value your praise more than anyone else's.

If he buys you an unexpected gift, thank him sweetly. But don't dismiss the subject after one demonstration of thanks. Refer to his present frequently, and tell him how his gift delights you.

Don't answer back and be snappy when he is irritable, as that will only make matters worse. Soothe him as you only know how, or leave him alone.

SMART DIRECTOIRE COAT

The original model illustrated in the sketch is developed on Directoire lines and is made of cream tussah, with black and white satin striped tussah forming the trimming. The sash is a very attractive feature of the costume, and the sleeves are in the favored three-quarter model. A rather dressy effect is gained by the introduction of heavy cream lace on the revers and cuffs. The model would develop well in dark blue tussah, with striped blue and black silk for the decorative note.

A NOVEL PRESERVE

To every four pounds of rhubarb, allow two pounds of prunes; cut up the rhubarb, wash and soak the prunes, with enough water to cover them, for twenty-four hours. For the same time leave the rhubarb in a dish sprinkled with a pound of sugar. Now place the prunes with the water in which they were soaked, rhubarb, and two lemons, cut in halves, into a preserving pan, and simmer gently for an hour. Then add two pounds of lump sugar and boil all for another half hour. Remove the pieces of lemon before putting into jars.

TO SAVE STEPS AND TIME

A strip of wood four inches wide and the length of the kitchen table, fastened to the wall above the table within easy reaching distance, and on cleats, so that it stands about one-quarter of an inch from the wall, is a convenient place to keep cooking-spoons, knives and forks. The strip should be just far enough from the wall to hold the spoons, knives and forks without their slipping through.

SOILED LINEN

It is a common but most unhealthy arrangement to stow soiled clothes, etc., in the closets of bed-rooms, or other parts of dwelling houses. All soiled linen should be put into linen baskets and set in an unused room, where there is plenty of ventilation. Where no baskets can be had, put the soiled articles in bags.

HAVE A GOOD LAMP-LIGHT

Give the burners a good boiling once a month. Dissolve a little lye in the water, and let them boil for about fifteen minutes. The accumulation of smoke and soot will be removed by the action of the lye. New lamp wicks, if boiled in vinegar and dried thoroughly before using, will not smell bad when burning.

NEW SAUCEPAN

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water, allowed to come to the boil, and then to cool, you will find that they will last much longer without cracking or burning than if they are used straight away.

Chinese laundries are greatly on the increase in Winnipeg.

PRETTY MOUTHS AND ROSY LIPS

If You Have Not These You Must Undergo Some Beauty Treatment

"If you want to be really beautiful, you must have a pretty mouth, and if Nature has not bestowed this upon you, then you must undergo a little beauty treatment," was the advice given by an expert. "Never sleep with the lips compressed, as you will awaken with lips that are too thin. Practise falling asleep with the mouth slightly relaxed, as that will keep lines away from the corners.

"If the mouth is too wide, the cheeks must be fattened in order to make it look smaller. Rub some good cold cream in the centre of the hand, and then apply it on the cheek, going round and round in a rotary movement. It is quite astonishing how the cheeks will plump out with this treatment if practised for some weeks.

"People who are too fat in the face should only eat one thing at a meal, as it is variety of food that often plumps out the cheeks. Thin-cheeked women should eat things made of butter and cream, and should also drink plenty of milk.

"Perhaps you have never considered the fact that the voice has an influence upon the mouth. When a woman speaks habitually in a loud voice, her lips will become ugly. Watch yourself in the glass when you speak, and you will notice that hard rough lines come round your mouth when you speak loudly. Now, by speaking gently, these lines will be replaced by soft, pretty curves.

"Of course, the teeth must be attended to if one wishes to have a pretty mouth, and it is better to economize by going without a summer hat than doing without a visit to the dentist.

"Pretty, red lips are always an added charm to a woman. When you wash your face in the morning, give the lips a sharp pinch to make them glow. If they are too thin, bend them back a little, and give them a little curling twist, which promotes the circulation. Never press your lips together, but keep them just a little apart. Do not sit with the mouth open, but let the lips merely touch, as this will prevent you from acquiring a hard and set expression."

REFRIGERATOR FOR BABY

Metal Can Keeps Milk Cold and Supplies Drinking Water

A small refrigerator, designed primarily for nursery use, has been invented by a New York man, but it has advantages which will commend it to families who have no babies, especially if they live in apartments where there is no room or necessity for a regular refrigerator. The device shown here consists of a metal can divided into two compartments. One compartment has a cross section with perforations in it, adapted to hold small bottles of the baby's milk and to keep the bottle from upsetting when the ice box is carried around. The other compartment holds the ice and has a spigot by which the melted ice can be drawn off and used for drinking water by the adults of the family. If there are no babies in the household the cold-air compartment can be used for the storage of butter, eggs, etc. The whole contrivance takes up little room and can easily be moved about.

Some History About Typewriters Modern and Ancient

CHAPTER EIGHT

FOR example we sold a firm two special Underwoods.

IN addition we devised and installed for them, without charge, an Underwood system by which they save $5,000 a year.

HUNDREDS of smaller firms save just as much proportionately.

THAT is what we mean by service. And that is why we have expert simplifiers of office methods to show customers how to use the Underwood to the best advantage—how to make it work for them at its highest efficiency.

THE service is free. You can't get it with any other typewriter at any price, because the Underwood makes it possible.

A Tour of Inspection

"Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of Interior and Mr. Howard Douglas, Commissioner Dominion Parks returned to Edmonton, June 27th from a trip over the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to the Rocky Mountains and an inpection of Jasper Park, the new five thousand square mile National Bank. He expressed himself as highly pleased with the reserve which embraces some of the finest of the magnificent scenery for which the Canadian Rockies are famous throughout the world. Speaking of Jasper Park, Mr. Oliver stated that the scenery was of a grandeur and ruggedness similar to that of Banf, the only difference being that it is on a larger scale. The valley of the Athabaska, is very wide, and compared with the Bow River at Banff, and the mountains are higher, and from a tourist point of view, there is evertyhing to attract. The rails of the Grand Trunk Pacific have now reached the confines of the Park"

MILLS TAXED TO UTMOST

The Future of the Milling Industry in Canada

Canadian wheat makes the best flour produced in the world. The millers of other countries, in order to meet the situation, endeavor to obtain Canadian wheat, but the users of flour, the bakers and housewives, are finding out that the best flour is not only made from Canadian wheat, but is milled in Canada. The demand for Canadian flour is so great that the mills are taxed to the utmost to satisfy the demand. There is nothing in the commercial world of a greater certainty than the future of the Canadian milling industry. This being the case, an opportunity to secure stock in a well-managed and favorably situated flour milling company, is one that the careful investor will be quick to appreciate.

The Campbell Milling Company, of West Toronto, and Peterborough, has found it necessary to enlarge its outfit and for this purpose has organized the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, which will take over the entire existing business and erect new mills at Midland.

Campbell, Thompson & Company, 43 King street, west, Toronto, are offerings $300,000 seven per cent. commercial preferred stock in the new company at par, which carries with it a bonus of twenty-five per cent. commercial stock.

This stock is unusually attractive, and intending investors are advised to communicate with Messrs. Campbell, Thompson & Company. A prospectus will be mailed on request. Prompt action is desirable as the stock is being subscribed rapidly. The books will be closed not later than July.

The management of the new company will remain the same as in the Campbell Milling Company.—Advertisement.

PRESENTATION TO SCHOOL TEACHER

Miss Josephine Howson Honored at Salem School

Upon the occasion of school closing the pupils of Salem school presented their teacher with a handsome mirror and the following address:

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of this school, desire to extend to you our sincere regret that you are so soon to discontinue to be our teacher.

We thank you for the kindness which you have shown us while here as a teacher.

We shall all miss you, not only as a teacher, but as a friend, and we wish for your pleasure in your new sphere of labor, and we are sure that your sympathetic way will make friends for you wherever you go.

We ask you to accept this mirror as a slight token of our esteem, and it may reflect to you some of the we trust that as you look into it it may reflect to you some of the pleasant times we have had during the past two years. Signed on behalf of the school.

Florence Sargent,

Miss Howson, in reply, thanked her pupils for the gift, accepting it as an emblem of their constant thoughtfulness for her during the term of their association.

Fined $30,000, He Faints.

New York, July 11.—Jules Rosenburg, who, with his brother Hugo, has been a fugitive from justice for over a year, came from Montreal yesterday, and unexpectedly appeared in the criminal branch of the United States Circuit Court, and pleaded guilty to undervaluing importations of millinery and dress goods.

Although District Attorney Wise made a strong plea for a prison sentence, Judge Archibald fined Rosenburg $25,000 and costs, amounting to $5,000. Rosenburg fainted, but revived and paid the fine.

Divided Keg of Powder.

Pittsburg, July 11.—In the effort to divide a keg of powder in a fair and square manner, Vendering Goolish was blown to atoms, and John Semenich is dying of terrible burns in a local hospital.

Goolish took out a handful, and placed it on the table beside him. Semenich did the same. After a discussion how to divide a final handful, it was decided to set it off. The larger piles of powder also exploded. Goolish was blown through the roof.

Marion, Ohio, July 11.—As Miss Flora Spicer, aged 20, and her guest, Miss Mary Rogers, aged 22, of West Mansfield, were returning home from church at 10 o'clock Sunday night, they were accosted in the street by a man who struck both girls over the head and picking up Miss Spicer, who was unconscious, carried her away.

Miss Rogers summoned the help of a number of men who searched the railroad yards a block distant, where they found Miss Spicer with her face bruised, and clothing torn, crawling along the tracks, and unable to speak. Her assailant escaped.

Leaders of Bay City League to Play Here

The fans are looking forward to the best game of the season when the Grand Trunk team undefeated leaders of the Belleville City League hook up with the Petes at Riverside Park, Saturday afternoon.

The Grand Trunks defeated the locals last season by a 11-6 score, and they will undoubtedly prove the classiest team the Petes have connected with this season. Their line up is composed of players from all along the line and Ashton, who received a try out with the Montreal Eastern Leaguers team last year, is billed for the slab.

Those who have seen the locals in action expect a battle royal, and that is what they are going to see.

The Petes are out to win and are practicing three nights this week in preparation for the game. Manager Quinlan expects every player out to practice to-night to-morrow night and Thursday night.

RAVENOUS WALL OF FLAME LAYS NORTHERN ONTARIO IN RUINS

Villages and Mining Camps For Three Hundred Miles Beyond North Bay Are Being Destroyed by Ravening Walls of Flame — Cochrane Has Only a Few Houses Left, South Porcupine and Pottsville Are Gone.

North Bay, July 12.—A terrible disaster has overtaken Northern Ontario as a result of heat and lack of rain. The whole country is burning up with bush fires everywhere, which have been blazing for over a week and reached their climax yesterday, licking up in their fiery path everything before them. Fanned by a terrible gale of wind, the flames swooped down on villages and mining camps of the north country, and the loss of property will run into immense figures, while the death roll must be great, as the Porcupine district, where the fire is at its worst, contains thousands of prospectors, whose camps are scattered over a wide area of country heavily timbered.

From North Bay northward for three hundred miles and covering a wide section east and west, the flames are busy in their work of destruction and death, and miners, prospectors and settlers are in desperate plight, if they even escape with their lives, for supplies, buildings and equipment are being wiped out of existence by a roaring wall of fire which illuminates the sky for many miles.

The town of Cochrane, at the junction of the T. & N. O. Railway, and transcontinental, which was nearly wiped out the other day by fire, was leveled to the ground yesterday, and the inhabitants are in a bad way for food and shelter, and asking assistance from neighboring towns to the south.

South Porcupine and Pottsville have been wiped off the map, while Golden City was visited by fire, but the best part of the town was saved, thus far only the outskirts being burned.

The south part of Tisdale has been swept clean, and other townships have suffered severely.

All the mining camps from Dome to Whitney Township have been burned. Hundreds of people, men, women and children, were forced to rush into lakes and streams to seek refuge from the intense and blistering heat of the conflagration, an inferno of terror with immense clouds of smoke darkening the sky, illuminated by sheets of flame, as the fire leaped from tree to tree with frightful rapidity and a terrible roar.

A report has come in that F. Flynn, A. Yuill, and W. J. Fletcher, have been burned to death, while Billy Moore and three foreigners lost their lives by drowning, near South Porcupine town, while running from the flames.

The flames swept down on South Porcupine town and Pottsville yesterday and wiped out both towns so quickly that the inhabitants were driven into the lake, as no living thing could withstand the fierce heat and fire, which burned the very ground.

Gasoline boats removed refugees from both towns to Golden City, across the lake, where they were cared for, although the outskirts of that town were in flames, and a desperate fight was being waged to save the place. The provision supply is only sufficient for several days at Golden City, and relief is being asked for from outside points.

At the town of Cochrane everything is burned except the Transcontinental Railway office, the T. & N. O. agent's house, Johnston's poolroom, the Imperial Bank, McKinnon's office, the T. & N. O. Railway's new passenger station and freight shed; all the rest being wiped out clean, including the Bank of Ottawa, a handsome brick block; T. J. McManus' store, the Rothschild's block, the Dempsey Hotel, King George Hotel, Pelnagio block, postoffice, Hudson Bay Co. store, Whan drug store, A. R. Springer's store and C. H. Lloyd's store. Only five buildings are left standing in this prosperous town of 2,050 inhabitants.

TO FORM NEW FRENCH CABINET.

MONS. CAILLAUX. MONS. DELCASSÉ.

To Mons. Caillaux, the Minister of Finance in the Monis Ministry, which recently retired, has been given the task of forming a new Cabinet for France. The new Premier hopes to retain Mons. Delcassé, the Minister of Marine.

Cochrane inhabitants are without food, as nothing could be saved but the clothes on their backs. They are also without sleeping accommodation and are being housed in box cars, railway stations, Foley, Welsh & Stewart, contractors, offices, the railway round house and freight shed. Appeals have been sent for assistance to New Liskeard, Haileybury, Cobalt and North Bay, and the mayors of these towns called special meetings of councils last night to arrange succor.

All construction camps on Ontario Government's new Porcupine railway from Golden City west were swept out of existence, and the men had to run for their lives.

Kelso, which lost a number of buildings as the result of bush fires Sunday, is again threatened and in grave danger.

Hollinger mining plant is supposed to be all right, as it was fire-swept some time ago, and is now surrounded by large clearings and comparatively safe.

At times the wind velocity was 70 miles an hour. South from Cochrane the fire was spesmodic more or less along the entire line of railway, approaching North Bay as close as Widdifield, only fourteen miles away. Porcupine is cut off from the outside world, and the fire is still raging there.

T. & N. O. train No. 2 ran off the track at mile post 152, which is about 12 miles south of Swastika. The train consisted of engine, tender, two baggage and two first-class cars. Heat is supposed to have spread the rails. The train was placed on the tracks again about 9 o'clock.

The loss of life to prospectors and settlers must be great, and will not be known for days, as the survivors will find great difficulty in getting out, the trails being obliterated and corduroy roads destroyed.

Supt. Black and staff of the Ontario Government Railway will remain at their posts all night, arranging and sending relief trains to the stricken towns.

The North Bay Town Council will send $300 worth of provisions to Cochrane on the first train. Blankets, tents and other supplies are required and being collected to go forward on relief trains.

Damage of $20,000 was caused. The following places was burned: A fine new house of Mr Menard, Jos. Dore's house and stable, Mr. F. Pellier's harness shop and dwelling and outbuildings, Jos. Gannault's dwelling, butcher shop and stables, Wilfrid Loiselle's house and outbuildings, Gilbert Emard's house partially damaged.

RECORDER WEIR WILL STOP ASSAULTS ON THE BLUE-COATS

Will Punish Severely all Found Guilty of Interfering With Policemen.

Montreal, July 12.—"I will protect the police when they are assaulted while in the performance of their duty. I shall be very severe with any such cases that are brought before me in the future," said Mr. Recorder Dupuis in the Police Court yesterday.

These remarks were caused by an epidemic of assaults upon the police Monday night. Adelard Lesperance was charged with being drunk on St. Lawrence street at 2 p.m. Constable Lavoie claimed that Lesperance accosted him and asked him to have a drink. When the constable refused Lesperance began to abuse and fought with great vigor the constable's effort to take him to the station; $10 or one month.

Hermenegilde Arpin, drunk and disorderly on Montcalm street, put up such a beautiful scrap that Constable Berthiaume had to secure the help of outsiders to take him along; $20 or two months.

Z Boisvert's fight was a little tamer and $5 or 15 days was considered enough for his rather poor exhibition. Contsable Pilon had no trouble in

R. L. BORDEN SAYS HE INTENDS TO FIGHT TO THE BITTER END

Both Sides Are Busy Preparing For a Contest.

Mr. Borden on Arrival In Ottawa Gives Out an Interview, In Which He Says Reciprocity Will Be Fought to Bitter End—Premier Intends to Take Up the Challenge—Members In For a Dreary Session.

Ottawa, July 12.—"I am satisfied that the more thoroughly the Western farmer understands the true report of the reciprocity contract the less he will approve of it. It is needless to add that we shall maintain our position to the end."

The above statement was made by R. L. Borden to the press on his return to Ottawa yesterday morning, from his three weeks' tour of the west. Despite the fact that he had spent his 21st consecutive night in a sleeping car, he looks well and fit. He, however, left yesterday afternoon for George H. Perley's fishing camp at Thirty-One Mile Lake.

No one doubts the power of the Opposition to compel a dissolution by the simple process of holding up supply when the House resumes. The Premier and the members of the Government have already clearly intimated that the Opposition's challenge will be accepted.

Both sides anticipate and are preparing for an early election. The only question now is as to the probable date. Probably no definite or authoritative forecast can be made as to this until after the House has been in session for a fortnight or so. There will be party caucuses on both sides shortly after the House meets, and questions as to political expediency in regard to plunging at once into an election and getting through with the agony quickly, or as to continuing in session for a couple of months or so while the remaining business of the session is put through and a redistribution bill brought down will then be thrashed out

Meanwhile, if the present hot wave continues, the prospect ahead of the members, already weary of this long-drawn-out session, is not a cheerful one. When the House adjourned tempers were none too good. There will doubtless be some lively rows

WELCOME TO SIR WILFRID AT MONTREAL WAS ENTHUSIASTIC

Addresses From Various Bodies Assuring Him of Their Regard—Sir Wilfrid Deals With Reciprocity and the Manufacturers.

Montreal, July 12.—Both banks of the river were ablaze with light as the Government steamer Druid, bearing Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his party, passed up the channel. Sir Wilfrid's admirers did not wait until the vessel docked at the wharf here before commencing the reception, but pressed every available tug and vessel into service and met the Druid miles below the city with a flotilla of boats gaily bedecked and illuminated. From dozens of points fireworks added brilliance to the scene. The dock at Victoria Pier was the climax in the way of illumination. A towering arch outlined in incandescents had been erected, and everywhere were banners and bunting. Huge streamers bearing mottoes, were stretched on high, the inscriptions being: "Welcome, Sir Wilfrid," "Nestor de la Conference," "Long live the Premier," etc.

On landing at Victoria Pier Sir Wilfrid was presented with an address of welcome by Acting Mayor Gauvin, to which Sir Wilfrid replied very briefly, expressing his pleasure at being once more in Montreal. The Premier, accompanied by his Cabinet Ministers and members of the City Council, then drove through densely packed streets to the Champ de Mars, where an address of welcome was given by Mr. L. Garneau, representing the Liberal Clubs of the city, to which Sir Wilfrid replied.

Replying to the address of the Liberal clubs, Sir Wilfrid spoke along similar lines to what he did on Monday night in Quebec. He acquitted Canadian manufacturers of the charge that they were at the bottom of the opposition to reciprocity. "They are sensible men, and would not be so foolish as to arouse opposition to that measure," said the Premier. He declared that the real source of the opposition to reciprocity was traceable to the Imperialistic jingoes of Canada and Great Britain. "These Imperialists and Nationalists both attack me from opposite sides. After the present fight is over, you will find them devouring one another, and the Imperialists will swallow the Nationalists."

Rurales Fought Maderists.

Puebla, Mexico, July 12.—Four rurales and two Maderists were killed and twenty-four other persons wounded at Tienda de Raya, near Metepec, on Saturday, when forty-five rurales stood off 1,000 Maderists.

The engagement resulted from a misunderstanding of the motives of the Maderists as they approached the town.

Sent For Trial.

Petrolea, July 12.—Wm. Moore was yesterday afternoon committed for trial for murder at Sarnia at the fall assizes. His mother collapsed in the court-room.

Out of the Frying Pan.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 12.—After lingering for a week, Isaac Friedler, millionaire planter from Natchez, Mississippi, died on Monday night, as the result of a sunstroke.

He and his wife came to St. Catharines, as they have done ever since they were married thirty-eight years ago, earlier than usual this year in order to avoid the exceptionally hot weather down south.

Township Clerk Dead.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—J. J Jones, bailiff of Stamford Township clerk, one of the most prominent men on the frontier, died at his home here yesterday, after a prolonged illness. To Receive Decorations.

Montreal, July 12.—On the occasion of the annual fete of the Union Nationale Francaise, which is to be held at Dominion Park from July 13 to 16 inclusive, the French Government, through its Montreal representative, will distribute decorations among seven members of the local French-Canadian community, in recognition of their services to their countrymen. Messrs. J. R. Genin, president of the Union Nationale Francaise; H. Barbier of the French consulate; Sheriff L. J. Lemieux, L. Perron, architect; Eugene Lasalle, P. N. Breten, Georges Gauvreau of the Theatre Nationale, and Louis Guyon, inspector of public buildings, will participate The first five will be presented with the title of officers of public instruction, while the two last named will become officers of the academy.

Sir Joseph Ward's Imperialism.

London, July 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Interviewed before leaving for New Zealand yesterday, Sir Joseph Ward said he had the strongest feeling that the future of the old world and the newer portions were tending in the direction of closer and more practical unity. "I am anxious to see," he said, "closer association of Great Britain and the Dominions with a view to the preservation of the scattered Empire as one in reality. The fact of oceans dividing us does not diminish the necessity of our coming together. I am very proud to recognize that this sentiment is growing both at home and abroad."

POOL ROOM AT FALLS.

Many Suckers Said to Have Been Relieved of Their "Rolls."

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—In a poolroom at Lewiston, frequented by many Toronto men since its opening a month ago, William Burnham of Williamsport, Pa., a business man, was yesterday trimmed for $660, according to the police on the American side. The operators of the poolroom are said to have runners in Toronto as well as the American cities. Many suckers are said to be brought from Toronto to be buncoed.

According to Burnham's story, he was approached by a stranger in Prospect Park on Monday and told of easy winnings on the ponies. When the stranger offered to take him to the poolroom he swallowed the bait and was willing. Several other suckers have been trimmed at the same time.

The poolroom is in the basement of a building near the landing of the Toronto steamers, and many men coming from Toronto never get nearer the Falls than the spacious room where the betting is done. Some fat rolls of Canadian bills have been left in the hands of the operators, who are said to come from Buffalo, Toronto and Hamilton. No arrests have been made as yet.

Tax on Secured Debts.

Albany, N.Y., July 12.—New York State is facing a deficit in its treasury of over a million dollars at the close of the present fiscal year.

Declaring that the situation demands serious attention, Governor Nix sent a special message to the Legislature yesterday recommending the passage of a bill providing a tax on secured debts.

The measure is in substance an extension of the mortgage recording tax law, and its passage is expected to add materially to the revenue.

U. S. Holding Aloof.

Washington, July 12.—The State Department denies that any representations have been made to Germany in regard to that country's activity in Morocco. The United States is still holding aloof from the present embroglia, adhering strictly to the reservation with which this country signed the Algeciras convention, in which is was stated that America was not concerned with the policy of the African empire.

MR. JOHN WEIR WILL NOT MARCH AT COBOURG TO-DAY

Has Been Member of Orange Lodge for 71 Years

Mr. John Weir of Otonabee and an Orangeman for seventy-one years, came to the city this morning but did not take the train to Cobourg for the celebration. Mr. Weir is 87 years of age, and did not like to make the trip because of the large crowds, and also on account of his eyesight which is not of the best. Mr. Weir is a member of No. 80 L.O.L., a Canadian born and bred in this locality and has only missed several celebrations since joining the order when sixteen years of age.

It might perhaps be interesting to note here that Mr. Weir picked berries on the present site of the Orient-

SMASH COSTS MANY LIVES

Twelve Dead and Many Injured Near Bridgeport, Conn.

Train on New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Leaps Over Twenty Foot Embankment While Traveling at a Rate of Sixty Miles an Hour—Forty-Four Persons In Hospital—One Man Goes Mad.

Bridgeport, Conn., July 12.—Twelve battered corpses in the morgue, forty-four sufferers in the hospitals, and a mountain of junk at the foot of a twenty-foot embankment at the western end of the city, tell the tale of the worst wreck in fifty-eight years' history of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. Although it occurred just before dawn, the coroner's office has had one man all day long doing nothing but answering telephone and telegraph queries from all parts of the country. Four of the dead, two men and two women, remain unidentified. The others are:

C. W. Christie, Philadelphia.

George E. Saunders, Norwich, Conn.

Mrs. Gwendolin F Rogers, wife of Sergt. G. F. Rogers, Coast Artillery, U.S.A.

May Louise Rogers, 7 months old, daughter of Mrs. Rogers.

Mrs. Helena B. Walcott, Washington, D.C., wife of C. D. Walcott.

—— Hartmann, 7 years old, son of Mrs. Louis Hartman, Newfield, N.J., who is in a serious condition at the hospital.

A. McMurty, New York, engineer of the train.

W. A. Ryan, New York, fireman.

When the Federal Express from Washington to Boston leaped from the embankment yesterday morning, a day coach next to the baggage car was caught at the bottom of the heap and smashed into matchwood, and not a person inside escaped death or serious injury. The heavier Pullmans, five of them, that crashed down after it, held together, and the sleeping passengers inside, although badly shaken, for the most part suffered no worse than broken bones and bruises.

With one or two exceptions, all those in the hospitals to-day were expected to recover. Several, however, are in a critical condition. Among them are Daniel Kissmer, head brakeman, whose home is in New York. His skull and several ribs are broken, and he has internal injuries. John F. Vonpfeiffer of Readville, Mass., and Mary McSweeny and Miss Loretta McCrohan of Philadelphia may not survive. Mrs. McCrohan received several broken ribs and internal injuries.

The wreck will be responsible for two more deaths if Mrs. Sarah Calabra of Philadelphia succumbs, for she is about to give birth to a child. Three of her children, aged from two to five years, are at the hospital with her, none of them badly hurt.

All the patients are covered with bruises and cuts, showing the manner in which they were thrown about their cars when the train rolled down the embankment.

In a private ward at St. Vincent's Hospital is W. A. King, a young machinist, who recently came to Bridgeport from Kansas City, and who went to Philadelphia Monday to meet Geo. H. Kirby, who was coming from Kansas City to get employment in a local factory. Although King shows hardly a scratch the accident drove him stark mad. He raved and shouted continuously for his "pal." "When they were dragging me out I saw two legs under the wreckage," he said in one of his lucid moments. "The trousers were the same King George wore."

Kirby has not been found here, although Bridgeport was his destination, and it is feared he may be one of the two dead men still unidentified. The other is a negro whose ticket read from Philadelphia to Boston, and whose trunk was checked from Westchester, Pa.

Wanted Sun Put Out.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—When the mercury was nearly at the top of the glass yesterday the firemen were called out by an alarm from Box 21. When they arrived on the scene, five-year-old Harry Simms explained that he wanted them to put out the fire in the sun, so that his baby brother could sleep.

No Action Yet.

Ottawa, July 12.—The capital case of Mrs. Angelina Neopolitano will not be dealt with until the end of this week, when a Cabinet council will be held, with Sir Wilfrid Laurier present. Sir Alan Aylesworth is preparing his report.

Dropped Dead From Heat.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 12.—Chas. Aldous of Chippawa dropped dead in Buffalo yesterday as a result of the heat. He was 28 years of age. The burial will be in Chippawa.

Horse Distemper

Prince Edward Farmer Solemnly Declares "Nerviline" Is a Specific.

"After fifty years' experience in raising horses I can safely testify that no remedy gives such good results for an all-round stable liniment as Nerviline." Thus opens the very earnest letter of J. J. Evanston, who lives near Wellington, P. E. "I had a very valuable horse that took distemper a month ago, and was afraid I was going to lose him. His throat swelled and hard lumps developed. His nostrils ran and he had a terrible cough. I tried different remedies, but was unable to relieve my horse of his pain and suffering till I started to use Nerviline. I mixed a bottle of Nerviline and sweet oil and rubbed the mixture on the throat and chest three times a day and you would scarcely believe the way that horse picked up. Nerviline cured him. I also have used Nerviline for colic in horses and cows, and earnestly recommend it to every man that is raising stock."

Nerviline CURES QUICKLY

For strains, sprains, swellings, colic, distemper, coughs, and colds, no liniment will prove so efficacious in the stable as "Nerviline"—it's good for man or beast, for internal or external use. Wherever there is pain, Nerviline will cure it. Refuse substitutes. Large bottles 50c, trial size 25c, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

MASSES AND CLASSES

The appeal of many Grit newspapers and platform orators on the reciprocity question has simmered down to an effort to make the people believe that Laurier is the great and only friend of the masses; that he has cut adrift from the classes; from the manufacturers, who are called "the interests"; that he will relieve the hard lot of the workingman, and make his path one of roses and blossoms.

The hypocrisy of this line of talk is so apparent that only ignorance can swallow it without making a face like a lemon. In the first place, the ordinary legitimate manufacturer is not the oppressor of the workingman, and as a rule seeks to carry out his responsibilities in a fair, honorable way. The manufacturers of Canada have contributed just as much to the growth of Canada, and perhaps much more, than the graingrowers, who seem to be the agitators of the class appeal. And the manufacturer is entitled to equally good treatment from the country as any other class of citizens, seeing that he has a lot of capital invested, and carries a big responsibility.

There is assuredly a dividing line where the manufacturers' privileges stop, but Laurier, the friend of the masses, the foe of the classes, has no hesitation in helping his combinistic friends to a good slice of the things over that dividing line.

Does anyone suppose that Laurier will suffer the duty on cement to be reduced? It is now about 50 per cent. or an increase of nearly 10 per cent over the 1896 figures. Will Laurier try to help the struggling farmers by taking the duty off agricultural implements, and thus injure his friend, Senator, the Hon. Sir Lyman Melvin Jones? Does anyone suppose that Laurier, to assist the masses, will refuse to help capitalistic friends to fat things, in order to raise his big campaign fund, needed to satisfy the maws of his hungry following?

Who does, anyway?

Mr. Borden does not play up such hypocritical cant as this. Mr. Borden says that if put into power he will have a permanent tariff commission to see that in the matter of duties the manufacturer gets justice, so that he need not be afraid of ruinous penny-labor, yet he will not do as so many of the combinistic friends of the present government are doing—permit them to reap great profits on watered stock under the shadow of the tariff wall. Mr. Borden will give justice to the manufacturer, not privileges. He will give justice to the workingman, and preserve for him the prosperity that he is entitled to; and for the farmer Mr. Borden proposes that his wants shall in every case receive special attention, both from a tariff and other standpoint.

Sir Wilfrid runs with the hare and hunts with the hounds. Everyone knows where Mr. Borden stands.

MR. STRATTON'S RETIREMENT

The Examiner officially announces that Mr J. R. Stratton wants to retire from the active political arena, and would gladly give his support to any other candidate. It says, editorially;

"As to a candidate for the House of Commons little difficulty should be experienced, and in this connection it may be said that Mr. Stratton, the present representative, would not object to being relieved. He has served West Peterborough in the capacity of both Provincial and Dominion representative many years, and these duties have necessarily encroached upon his private affairs, which have to some extent been neglected in the public interests. He would, therefore, welcome retirement, and would be glad to give his support to any other candidate that might be selected."

Mr. Stratton has had a long public career, and if he wishes to retire from the stage, to a well-earned rest, we do not think that the Liberal party can accuse him of not playing the game to the limit for it. Years and years of political warfare will weaken any man, and certainly interferes a great deal with his private affairs. If Mr. Stratton has in mind retirement from the fighting line, the present is a most suitable time.

GET A REPORT

The city council will make an effort to have a report by an independent engineer on the Dickson dam proposition and when that report is available, the citizens will have an opportunity of studying a concrete proposition.

While opinions might differ as to the advisability of paying the price that is demanded by the owners of the lease, some other facts must be considered in conjunction with it. The Dickson site is probably the only one that the city can secure. If the city wants to get into the power business itself, it will probably have to come to the terms of the option. The question is not altogether what is the intrinsic value of the Dickson lease, but under the circumstance that it is the city's one chance, is it not worth more than its mere intrinsic value? The few shares in a big company that carry the control are often of enormous value. They are just the same as ordinary shares in themselves, but it is the surrounding circumstance of control that gives them their great value. So with the dam lease. We think that all citizens will agree that the city council should have an independent report on the proposition, giving estimates of the cost of a complete generating plant, transmission system, etc., for the people to consider and possibly vote on.

SUNDAY CAR MORALITY

The street car company in Kingston gave a service on Sunday afternoon to Lake Ontario Park, carrying children up to twelve years of age free. Many of the prominent ministers of the city were interviewed as to their opinion of the inauguration of Sunday street cars on this particular route, and some of them were, of course, decidedly against it.

Rev. Dr. MacTavish said that good as Kingston people were, they were not good enough to be trusted with Sunday street cars. Isn't that a rather narrow view to take? Sunday street cars must be something very deadly to moral principle, something of a noxious nature to the tender moral fibre of Kingstonians. And coming down to the question of Sunday street car morality, why should riding street cars on Sunday be any more detrimental to character than on any other day? The wheels go around just the same, the fares go into the box just the same. It is no more harm to ride in a street car—that is, the act itself—than to read a novel in the house, as some virtuous Sawbath observers do. In fact, it is a great deal better for health and character this weather.

The objection to Sunday street cars is not one of moral influence, but of the introduction of the tendency to loosen up in our regard for Sunday as a day of complete rest. The Canadian Sunday is not merely a holiday for amusement seekers, where half of the people work to provide means of gayety for the other half. It is well observed. But there is danger in trying to nail down the lid so hard that everyone must feel coffined up for the day. Open air in the parks and on the shore of lake or river never hurt anyone on Sunday, though it might perhaps interfere with church attendance, to the pastoral displeasure.

Religion that is not marked by breadth and comprehension, and a recognition of common-sense application of moral and utilitarian principles, does not command much respect. Puritanism cannot be enforced on the body of the people.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Remember the Conservative convention to select candidates for both Dominion and provincial houses, next Tuesday night, in the Conservatory of Music Hall.

An election in September will be rushing things so much that the Hallites and the Kerrites in the east riding had better sharpen their knives right away.

The Americans have been encouraged to butt into Canadian affairs through reciprocity, and now they butt into the administration of Canadian justice in the Napolitano case. Its a habit that should be encouraged.

Up to the time of going to press we had not heard that young Mr. Kerr had decided not to benefit by those seventeen extra ballots at the Norwood convention and had resigned the candidacy? "What we have we'll hold" seems to be a motto of more than John Bull. But wait until the cohorts line up under the direction of the powers that be.

Not long ago J. A. Sexsmith had the undoubted honor of having his reciprocity speech go in the United States senatorial records. The Americans took his utterances as those representing best the farmers' anti-reciprocity case for Canada. Mr. Sexsmith is undoubtedly one of the best posted and most energetic farmer members of parliament. Does East Peterboro an agricultural riding, want an outsider—and an inexperienced one—as its representative? Hardly!

Novelized From Eugene Walter's Great Play . . . .

Captain Williams grasped her hand as his eyes wandered over the comfortable room, and he added:

"Hello, Smith! Meet you every time I come here."

"One of my hangouts," agreed the superintendent genially.

"Sit down, captain," invited Emma, motioning him to a chair.

"Thanks," he said. "Where's your husband?"

"He's just gone out. He'll be back in a little while. Jimsy has been telling us about your eventful trip."

"Eventful trip?"

He echoed the words with a bewildered air.

Smith pushed his chair back so that Mrs. Brooks could not see him without turning in his direction and, unobserved by her, motioned warning signals to his employer, who did not understand them.

"Spinning a yarn about that little revolution down at Guatemala," he prompted.

"Eh? Guatemala—oh, yes—the revolution—very bloody affair—very serious," replied Williams, who had suddenly realized that he was expected to confirm a story that Smith had found it expedient to relate to Mrs. Brooks.

"Jimsy said there wasn't a shot fired," she told him.

Smith, seeing that the captain understood, drew his chair forward.

"Emma, don't you let the captain fill you full of yarns. He can lie faster than I can," he laughed.

"No," protested Williams; "there ain't nothing can beat you, Smith. Well, Mrs. Brooks, how have you been?"

"Splendid. When did you get in?"

"When did I get in? Let me see. Smith, when did I get in?"

"You look as if you had just got," suggested the superintendent.

"Today—yes. But what time? I should say at 10, maybe 11 o'clock."

"That's probably why Joe hasn't seen you," observed Emma. "He's just taken mother and Beth as far as the theater. I don't know what keeps him. He should be back before this."

"I guess he ain't run away," opined the captain, with a suspicion of grimness. "I'll wait."

"You know, Emma, that's one of the best things the captain does," said Smith.

"What?"

"Waiting. When it comes to patience and persistency he's got most Indians beat a dozen city blocks."

"Don't you mind what Smith says, Mrs. Brooks," grinned the captain. "The years he's been working for me he never showed any special signs of hurry or nervousness. How's your husband?"

"Fairly well. I think he seems a little worried over business."

"That so! What's the matter?"

"You see, in his new position he feels his responsibility."

Williams looked surprised.

"Has he any special new responsibility?" he asked, his eyes wandering inquiringly to Smith, who did some more warning signaling unobserved by their hostess.

"Well, since you raised his salary, captain, and gave him his extra work naturally he's anxious to make good," again prompted the superintendent.

"Anxious to make good? Well, he'll have a chance, and soon at that."

Mrs. Brooks rose, hand outstretched, and went to him, with a happy, grateful smile.

"Now that it's out I want to thank you ever so much," she said.

"Thank me?"

"Yes, for Joe's raise and that six months' back pay."

"He told you that?"

"Sure he did," put in Smith.

"He has forbidden me to speak of it to either you or Jimsy," Emma told him, "but since you mave mentioned it first I can thank you, can't I?"

He did not return a direct answer, but rubbed his chin dubiously as he said:

"So I raised his pay, eh? And dated it back six months?"

"Of course you did," asseverated Smith with emphasis. "Don't let him fool you, Emma."

"You don't know how happy it's made us all," went on Mrs. Brooks gratefully. "I feel like a new woman, and mother appreciates it."

"Well, seems that I done all these things"—

He stopped abruptly as the door opened and his eyes rested on Brooks.

The latter's underjaw dropped, and he turned livid with fear at the unexpected presence of the captain. He was, in fact, so startled that he nearly collapsed.

"Anxious to make good? Well, he'll have a chance."

"Ca-captain Williams!" he stammered, advancing tremblingly toward him. "W-will you shake hands, captain?"

"Sure!" replied Williams in a firm voice. "How are you, Brooks?"

"I—I'm all right, I guess."

"You know, Joe, you told me not to thank the captain. But he brought it up—the raise and the money," said his wife, still full of the subject and her gratitude.

"No, I did, Joe," corrected Smith. "You see, the captain feels"—

Brooks turned upon them, snarling like a wolf at bay.

"What are you trying to do—make fun of me? Don't you think that's it"—

"Now, Brooks," interrupted the captain authoritatively, "you sure are nervous. Your wife has just been telling me—how she enjoys your new income."

Mrs. Brooks, startled and alarmed, gazed at her husband.

"Why, Joe, are you sick?" she demanded.

"No, no! Maybe it's the heat," he replied weakly, passing his tongue over his dried lips.

There was a moment of general embarrassment, during which Captain Williams took stock of the room.

"You are fixed up mighty snug here, Mrs. Brooks," he commented, breaking the awkward silence.

"Yes, it is pleasant," she answered, now seriously worried.

Williams rose. "Well, I must go," he remarked.

"Do you want me to go with you?" asked Joe.

"No; tomorrow morning will do to see you. You know my lonely little quarters ain't more'n half a block from here, and I like to hang out there."

"The captain," added Smith, "lives in a little south sea island nook moved into his flat. He keeps it so dirty that some say it's attractive."

"That's what you get for being a bachelor," laughed Williams.

He moved toward the door, and the others rose.

"I'm glad to see you so happy, Mrs. Brooks," he observed, pausing and looking about him again.

"Thank you," said she.

"I never did know before what a little money meant to a woman."

"Perhaps that's because you don't know women."

"Oh, I know women—one kind, anyway. But Brooks is lucky in having a girl like you for a wife."

"Emma, he's giving you a little south Pacific blarney," put in Jimsy.

"Maybe I am and maybe I'm not," said the captain. "But," he continued emphatically, "it's a sure thing that if I had a girl like you I'd knuckle down and earn enough money to make you happy—eh, Brooks?"

"I suppose that's what you'd do," assented that individual.

"Yes, I'd work pretty hard without kicking to please you, Mrs. Brooks, if you looked to me to make good for you."

"Emma," declared Smith, with his quiet smile, "if you were single I'd suspect captain of getting a little soft."

"But I'd earn the money," went on the captain, pursuing his train of thought. "That's the only way to get along. Well, I'll say good night, Mrs. Brooks."

"Good night, captain. Thank you again."

"Good night, Smith."

"I may drop over later," remarked the superintendent by way of reply.

"Wish you would," the captain assured him with some eagerness.

"I'd like to smoke a pipe and talk awhile. Good night, Brooks."

"Good night, sir."

Brooks went forward and opened the door.

"Try to get down to the office by 8 in the morning," recommended the captain, gazing at him with sinister contempt.

"Yes, sir."

"There'll be some gentlemen there who may be anxious to meet you."

"I'll be there."

"Didn't know but what you might oversleep now that you're so prosperous. Good night."

Brooks shut the door and stood leaning against it, clutching the handle for support. The muscles of his face were twitching, and he gazed with frightened, haunted eyes from his wife to Smith.

"Have you told her, Jimsy?" he demanded.

Smith raised his hand in protest.

"No, Joe; it ain't the right time yet, and"—

"Why isn't it the right time? I'm trapped, and Williams"—

"What is it? What do you mean?" demanded Mrs. Brooks, very pale.

"There's just been a little trouble, Emma," he said evasively. "Joe here is all worked up—excited."

"I'll tell you what happened!" cried her husband in a choking voice, staggering to the table. "You think I got a raise. I didn't. You think that man Williams gave me six months' back pay. He didn't. All this money you've been living on—all of it—I stole. I took it from the company! Williams trapped me. He wanted me to steal. Now he knows—now he knows, and I'm done for!"

He fell into a chair and doubled forward, burying his face in his hands.

For once Smith was at a loss what to say.

Mrs. Brooks, paler than ever, stood rigid, as though turned to stone, staring at her husband.

"You mean," she articulated in low, slow tones, "you mean that you"—

"I'm a thief," he moaned brokenly without raising his head. "They know it. Detectives are downstairs watching—watching. Tomorrow—tomorrow—I'll be in jail."

Another long, awkward silence ensued. Smith ended it.

"You see, Emma, Joe here ain't so much to blame. He"—

"And you didn't let me know?"

There was cold reproach in her voice and in her gaze.

"It wasn't time," explained Jimsy uneasily. "There's a chance things can be squared—there's still a chance."

"Still, you didn't let me know?"

"The thing to do is to sit down quietly and talk this over. To begin with"—

"No, Jimsy. Please go home. I—I want to be with Joe—alone."

"Just as you say, Emma—just as you say," he said. "I'll do all I can tonight and let you know. Maybe it'll be all right."

"I know, Jimsy. Good night."

"Good night."

IT TELLS ABOUT THE SANE HEATING OF HOMES

"Comfort & Health" tells about a heating system.

It goes into the question of healthful heating and shows how important a part the furnace plays in the health of your family.

It explains the principle of warm air heating; how the furnace draws in fresh air, warms it and circulates it moist and pure to every room in the house.

Then it tells about the perfect warm air furnace—the "Hecla." The furnace that cannot leak gas. The furnace that gives heat without dust. The furnace that is easy to run, and what is more important, how that furnace—The "Hecla"—saves you one ton of coal in seven.

"Hecla" Furnace

Cannot Leak Gas

Gas in the house is disagreeable. Often it proves dangerous to the health. The "Hecla" is so constructed that gas cannot get into the living rooms. The places where gas leaks occur in the ordinary furnace are fused in the "Hecla" so that gas cannot possibly find an outlet.

Saves 1 Ton in 7

The "Hecla" uses only six tons of coal where others use seven. It is the steel ribbed fire pot that makes this saving. How flanges are of steel plate placed close together and welded into the fire pot get more heat from your coal is told in "Comfort & Health."

Investigate The "Hecla"

BIG CROWDS OFF TO COBOURG

Anniversary of Battle of the Boyne Being Celebrated To-day

Trains to Cobourg this morning were taxed to their utmost by the large crowds of Orangemen and their friends intent on taking part in the Battle of the Boyne and sufficient accommodation was not available on the regular G.T.R. for those who wished to take that train. The local and district lodges attracted much attention as they marched to the station to the music of the Orange tunes. The 57th band in sections headed three of the lodges. With the fine weather prevailing, the prospects for a most successful celebration in Cobourg are very bright.

ENNISMORE FARMER LOST HIS BARNS AND CONTENTS

Misfortune Visits Michael Perdue—Rainfall Was 2.17 Inches.

Jupiter Pluvius was not a bit stingy yesterday afternoon. The fall of rain during the two hours registered 2.17 inches. The accompanying lightning and thunder gave many people a bad scaring and at the same time the lightning caused considerable damage about the city and country. Wires of the power companies were broken in many places, but fortunately no accidents of any account occurred.

A blaze started at the Central school and this with trouble at a transformer at the corner of Rubidge and Wolfe streets, brought out the fire department.

Farmers were, in some cases, heavy losers. Vince McCarthy, who resides about three miles east of Keene, lost a large barn and contents, including a number of pigs, and Michael Perdue, near Mud Lake, had his barn destroyed. The greater part of the roof on Milburn's barn, on the Chemong road, was blown off and a building on the Bert McKee farm was also struck, but not fired.

Mr. Perdue suffers a loss of $2,000, with insurance of $1,000. The building was struck about twelve o'clock when the storm just came on. The family was in the house at the time and at first thought that it was their house that had been struck by the bolt. Looking out, however, the barn was seen to be in flames. Only one horse was in the stable and after much difficulty it was taken out to safety, the frightened animal refused to be lead and had to be beaten out of the burning building. There were about eleven ton of hay and some implements burned. Mr. Perdue lives on lot 2, concession 3, about two miles from Mud Lake.

HOUSE LIGHTING RATES TO BE FIGURED ON A ROOM BASIS

Company Claims To Be Making Reductions Of About Eighteen Per Cent On The Average House Lighting Prices—No Change In The Price Of Power—How The Charge Works Out In Some Places.

An important announcement was made by Sales Manager Snider of the Electric Power Company and Manager Munro of the Peterborough Light & Power Company this morning, relative to the institution of a new system of charging for house-lighting.

"We are making what we think will work out to about an eighteen per cent reduction" said Mr. Snider, "but of course it will be optional with the people of Peterborough, who are using current for house-lighting to take the new system or keep on under the old."

The new system of charging is the one being standardized in the towns served by the Electric Power Company and its subsidiary concerns. It is based on the room system, with a meter charge of 3 cents per kilowatt hour for all current used. The company will charge 10 cents per room, flat rate, this serving instead of the minimum of 75 cents a month as charged under the old system.

The rooms to be counted are the parlors, dining-rooms, libraries, kitchens, bed-rooms, and any other living rooms, but not halls, cellars, bath of the real estate man who talks about a five, or six, or seven-roomed house—only the chief rooms being included.

The change means that the charge for current used in cellars, bathrooms, halls, stables, attics, or lighting other than in the living rooms will be at 3 cents a kilowatt hour, instead of 7 cents net. For instance a man in a five roomed house can use 15 kilowatt hours in a month at a cost of 95 cents, instead of $1.05. A man in a six roomed house can use 20 kilowatt hours for $1.20 instead of $1.40.

A couple of sample residences were considered, one of 9 rooms in Water street would show under the average monthly consumption of 60 kilowatt hours, a charge of $2.71 a month, whereas the old charge would be over $4.00 at 7 cents net. A five room house on King street, using an average 24 kilowatt hours would show a cost of $1.22 as against $1.72 under the old method.

The new rates will go into effect about August 1. There are no changes in power rates. The new system encourages the use of electric toasters electric irons, electric cooking ranges,

MRS. JOHN KING TOOK PART IN EARLY ORANGE PARADE HELD IN PETERBORO'

With Her Husband She Walked in Procession Fifty-five Years Ago To-day — Relates Many Interesting Facts of Early History

Mrs. Jane King, wife of John King, 610 Bethune street, for sixty-eight years a resident of Peterborough, has related some interesting details regarding the development of this city to a Review reporter.

Mrs. King, who is 72 years of age, and is badly crippled with rheumatics, still performs her household duties, though often with considerable suffering. She has a remarkably good memory and has had some novel experiences during her time in Canada.

Born in Yorkshire, England, the eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs Joseph Spenceley, she migrated to Canada when she was four years of age. in company with her parents, brothers and sisters. Mr. Spenceley paid five pounds each for the children's passage, and seven pounds for himself and Mrs. Spenceley.

Mrs King remembers her father's description of the voyage, which was made in a sail boat in eighteen days. One night during a storm part of the baggage was thrown overboard to keep the boat from upsetting.

When the little band arrived at Peterborough the father had twenty-five sovereigns, and he placed his hoard in the Robert Nicholls bank, which was the foundation of the Nicholls estate, from which Peterborough has benefitted to such a large extent.

HOUSE STILL STANDS.

Their first residence was the house on Aylmer street now occupied by Mr. J. Cobb, the florist, and there were only five other houses at that time in what is now Peterborough. They were occupied by the families of Messrs. Ford, Lynn, Laskard, Winch and Stocker, Mrs. King and her brother, Mr. Martin Spencely, being the only survivors of the settlement.

There were three stores owned by Mr. Marshall a baker, Chas. Perry and Mr. Morrow, general merchant.

CLEARANCE IN FOREST.

The houses were built in a clearance in the forest and the site was chosen because of the river which offered a means of transportation. Two new settlers at Bridgenorth by the name of Milbirn and Sanderson, had to cut a road through the forest wide enough for their ox carts.

FIRST FACTORY.

The first factory in Peterborough was operated by Mr. Jonathan Newton. He had a woollen mill on the site now occupied by G. Walter Green's foundry and manufactured dress goods.

Mrs. King remarked this point that the ladies of the early fifties did not have fancy dresses and several kinds to choose from, but were quite satisfied to get a flannel gown. They did not have have go-carts in which to push their children along in but the infants were carried in baskets or strapped to their backs.

A few years later Mr. Edward Greene, who was market clerk for a number of years came from Port Hope, in company with his brother Benjamin, and started a candle factory. The property now occupied by the Peterborough Protestant home was built for a brewery and called the "Ship Brewery." There was a model tin ship on the end of a pole to emphasize the name. After the company failed the building was utilized by Messrs. Hood and Ogilvie, Toronto, who also started a brass candelebras were in vogue. Later the side-lights on the walls took their place. The kerosene lamps put the candles in the background and now the electric lights are used where power is available.

PIONEER RESIDENCE.

The first doctor here was Dr. Hutchinson, and he resided in the house now occupied by Mr. Peter Connal, Brock street. There have additions made to the house at different times, but part of the original still stands.

IMMIGRANTS DIED.

When Mrs King was quite a small girl the ships carrying the Robinson immigrants sailed up the Otonabee and landed behind where the Canadian Canoe Company is now situated. The passengers had contracted the yellow fever and no fewer than twenty died before they could be properly cared for. Little curly headed tots were left lying under the trees to fight their own battle with the dreadful plague, and as one one doctor could not abate the fever in so many bodies several were left to die without receiving any help.

CRUDE BURIAL.

After everyone had had a chance whose shop was on the Peter Hamilton site, came along and buried the unfortunate ones in a cemetery where the armory now stands.

The coffin was a rough box and the hearse was a two-wheeled cart, drawn by oxen. The cemetery was a wild sort of place, as there was no one retained to look after it.

All the villagers and survivors who were able, turned in to help bury the dead, and then the boat was fumigated by the doctor.

CHURCH WORKERS.

The Spenceleys were among the early church workers. Mr. Spenceley was choir leader, organist and general utility man around the church, which was a frame building on the site of Mr. Powell's butcher shop. The first service was held by Rev. Mr. McFadden in his parsonage, but afterwards the church was built.

Mrs. King has been a member of the Methodist church since she was fourteen years of age, and has always been interested in the welfare of her church.

SINGULAR INCIDENT.

Mr. Joseph Spenceley passed away on July 12th, forty years to a day after coming to Canada. He was a strong Orangeman and was in the first parades held in Peterborough. In the early days the wives joined in the procession with their husbands.

Fifty years ago Mrs. King walked with her husband, and there was not more than twenty in the line. On Sunday last there were over three hundred Orangemen in the church parade.

The grand marshall on that date was the late Dan Hopkins, father-in-law of George A. Cox. He rode a grey horse and carried a sword, as well as his decorations. There was one fife and one drum. The late Dan McDonald, of East City, who passed away some years ago, was the lone fifer.

WAS AFFLICTED.

Three years ago Mrs. King was stricken with pneumonia, and when she recovered was troubled with rheumatism. She is badly crippled at present, not being able to go through the town on foot. She takes a drive through the city every year and notes the developments.

Mrs. King claims that she never was out of Peterborough three months altogether in the past sixty-eight years. This is certainly a record achievement.

Mrs. King is one of the oldest subscribers of the Review.

LANG'S STORE OF MANY BARGAINS

Ten Days Sale Gives Extraordinary Chance to Buy Cheaply

The immense ten day sale taking place at J. T. C. Lang's clothing store is a boomer and the results so far are greatly in excess of the most sanguine expectations. The store on the opening day of the sweeping clearance sale was densely patronized, and would easily have required the services of a score or more of additional clerks and salesmen. The bargains are exactly in accordance with what was promised and every customer departs highly satisfied with the result of his or her visit. Many of them continue to come back and bring their friends with them. The selections of goods are in every respect up to a worthy standard and the most particular connoisseur of all grades and styles of clothing necessities could find nothing to object to in the attractive offerings.

The reductions in price are in every case genuine and the bargains bona-fide. Fine splendidly finished ties, hosiery and gents toggery are away down at most inviting prices, and all with the original sale-price ticket attached. The inducements to buy gentlemen's and boys suitings are extremely alluring and the exchanges are in every case bound to give satisfaction.

Men's special suits marked $15 are selling at $11.50 and other numerous sinilar reductions hold good.

The sale will last ten days.

MANY PEOPLE HEARD CONCERT

Program as Expected Was Very Much Enjoyed

The wedding concert of the Salvation Army Band, given in Victoria Park last night was attended by a large number of the music-loving citizens. The program as usual was of a very high order and called forth much favorable comment.

The band may give a concert on Friday evening of next week when the 57th band will be in Toronto.

Favoured the Small Investor

The success of the Canadian Locomotive stock flotation was not remarkable. So many subscriptions were received for the stock that it has been found necessary to make a proportionate allottment. All subscribers to shares of from 1 to 10 will have them allotted in full. Those who have subscribed to 11 to 30 shares, will receive 50 p.c. All subscribers to 31 and over will be given about 25 p.c.

This indicates that the public looked upon the issue as a very safe investment and the result is most gratifying alike to the company and to Aemilius Jarvis & Company, who made the flotation.

THE CAMPBELL FLOUR MILLS COMPANY, LIMITED.

Toronto, June 29th, 1911.

Messrs. Campbell, Thompson and Company,
Toronto.

Dear Sirs,—Referring to your purchase of $300,000 preferred stock of the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, I beg to say that the additional moneys now being provided will be used for the erection and equipment of the new mill at Midland and for working capital.

The company has no bonds, and there is no mortgage upon any of its real estate or plants.

When the new mill is completed, the company will have an output of [illegible] barrels of flour per day, and 130 tons of feed, with facilities to increase at a comparatively small expense to 4,500 barrels per day. Our brands, such as "CREAM OF THE WEST," "QUEEN CITY," and "MONARCH," have long been established, and are well-known to dealers, not only in Canada, but also in the West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland, and the United Kingdom, and I feel confident that we can readily dispose of our entire product at very remunerative prices. The wheat from our Canadian North-West is known as the hardest and best wheat in the world, and the production thereof is rapidly increasing and the flour made from this hard wheat is in great demand. Our transportation facilities and freight rates are favorable for exportation to the seaboard, and we therefore have considerable advantage over mills not so well situated.

The new company will be under the same management as the old one, and taking our past experience as a guide I think the profits of the new company will be sufficient, within a short time, to provide not only the cumulative dividends on the preferred stock, but a substantial amount available for dividends on the common.

Yours faithfully,
(Signed) ARCHIBALD CAMPBELL,
President.

The above is a copy of a letter received from Senator Campbell in reference to our underwriting $300,000 of the preferred stock.

We would call your attention to specially the last paragraph.

We are offering the 7 per cent. cumulative stock at par, carrying a bonus of 25 per cent. common stock. The books will be closed not later than Monday, July 17th.

Prospectus on application.

MINORGAN ON THE GRAND TRUNKS

Belleville Ball Tossers Will Likely Work Him at Short

Manager Quinlans men did not have a workout last night on account of the damp condition of the diamond after the rain, but to-night and to-morrow night a full turnout is expected.

Quinlan will do the twirling Saturday, and the rest of the team will be practically the same as has been playing all season. The only changes which have taken place since the first game were in the battery and short-stop and the boys are working together nicely.

The game Saturday will undoubtedly be the fastest of the season. Minorgan, of last season's West Enders, may figure on the Grand Trunk's line, and the fans will enjoy seeing him in action in his old position at short.

There are two strenuous games ahead of the Peces the Bowmanville team being billed for Saturday, July 15th. The fans have not seen the locals in action for three weeks and are looking forward to the encounter Saturday with anticipations of a good exhibition of baseball.

SOME EARLY MILLING HISTORY

Wheat in the early days was crushed by stones, and Senator Campbell and the Campbell Flour Mills Company was one of the first millers in Canada to introduce rollers. He attended a convention of millers in Cincinnati in the seventies, and returned to his home in Chatham, Ontario, filled with the idea that rollers must be installed at once in his mill instead of stone. This progressive step soon brought in splendid results, and after running mills in Chatham and St. Thomas successfully for many years he decided to sell out and build a mill at Toronto Junction.

This move also proved to be a wise one, and in the past eighteen years, by keeping his plant modern in every respect, and with the rapid growth of Toronto, he built up a very large local and export trade.

The mill at West Troonto has been running setcadily day and night for over two years, and they find it necessary to greatly increase their output. The senator's three sons have had the management for the past six years under his supervision, and no doubt this expansion of building a mill at Midland will prove as profitable as the other moves they have made.

The spirit of progress which has always permeated the Campbell business is again demonstrated in their latest mvoe. They have arranged to erect a new plant at Midland. The Campbell Milling Company, Limited has been organized, which will embrace in one company the existing business and its extensions. Campbell Thompson & Co., 43 West King st., Toronto, are offering $300,000 7 per cent. preferred stock in the new company at par which carries a bonus of common stock. It is being subscribed for liberally, and intending investors should communicate with them promptly, as the books will be closed not later than July 17. A prospectus will be mailed on application.

PETERBORO' IN GOOD HEALTH

Very Little Sickness in the City Despite Trying Conditions

Peterborough has been very fortunate during the hot wave and storms of the past two weeks. There have been no deaths caused by such conditions, while on the other hand there have been daily reports from other cities and towns of sudden deaths and critical illness.

There is very little sickness in Peterborough at the present time, and the doctors are having a comparatively light practice. Only three cases of scarlet fever are reported from the Queen Mary hospital, and the list of patients at Nicholls and St. Joseph's hospitals is normal.

The water, says Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., is not as good as it might be, but no alarming features are connected with this report. The water is naturally affected by the hot weather. Peterborough infants, too, are in good health, and taking everything into consideration, citizens have just cause to congratulate themselves.

SPRIGS OF SPORT

GREAT FOOTBALL IN FIRST CONTEST FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

All Saints and C.G.E. Tied Up at the Half and Neither Team Could Break 1-1 Score.

The best game of the season was the popular verdict on the C.G.E.-All Saints' game on the Brinton meadows when the teams played to a draw, 1—1 last night.

The "Saints," after defeating Brooklin Saturday, were billed with C.G.E. for home and home games for the championship of the Midland League, and they put up a grand fight last night.

THE GAME.

The footing was rather uncertain after the rain, and individual stunts were often checked by a slip. The play ranged from one end of the ground to the other, but C.G.E were getting the most shots. Moriarity, in goal for the "Saints" played a sterling game, as did his backs. Gamble and Hawthorne, and the champs were unable to score until they had played about 25 minutes.

After a nice passing rush up the field, Miller scored on a neat drop from Dawson.

All Saints' 1, C.G.E. 1.

SECOND HALF.

The second half was finished in the twilight, but both teams were working like demons, though neither could score. The champions had the better of the play, but the "Saints'" sterling defence saved many well-meant ones. The C.G.E. forwards were always in the limelight and the halves relieved nicely.

The "Saints'" forwards did not seem to be able to solve the C.G.E. defence, and in the last period did not get it into their opponents' territory very often.

Line-ups:

C.G.E.

Goal—Hull.
Backs—Evans, Hooper.
Halves—Allen, Padgett, Dawson.
Forwards—Corless; Mason, Miller, French, Dawson.

ALL SAINTS'.

Goal—Moriarity.

Halves—Harde, Simmonite, Edwards.
Forwards—Smith, Gash, Marsh, Vickers, Sharman.

TIGERS TOOK MEASURE OF MACKMEN BY HARD HITTING

Detroit, July 11.—The first of the important Tiger-Athletic four-game series saw the Mack men not only defeated, but humiliated. With the visitors leading 7 to 1 in round four, the Tigers began the long tuf, and in round eight succeeded in getting seven runs on five hits, a hit batsman and three passes. Coombs was derricked in this innings after plugging O'Leary and Stranage had singled. Summers, for the Tigers, was pounded from the mound in the fourth. Sensational plays on both sides, along with Delehanty's batting, featured.

Acute Dyspepsia

Restoration of Stomach Power Comes Quickly With the Right Medicine.

"My food seemed to decompose in my stomach," writes Mr. Ralph Clemmons, of Newbridge, P.O. "I had a stomach that failed in some way to perform its work. Digestion seemed more or less arrested and I grew thin, yellow, nervous. The stomach became distended and impeded apparently the action of the heart; [illegible] at night it would do great stunts. At times I would vomit a mucous mass, and at these times my head ached most terribly. A friend, who had been cured of a similar condition, advised me to take Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly, which I did. The result in my case was simply marvelous. Dr. Hamilton's Pills removed the cause, strengthened the stomach, excited the liver to normal action, the kidneys were released of excessive work. Health soon glowed within me. I can now eat, sleep, and live like a live man."

Be advised—Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they are sure to do you good. 25c per box, at all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Canada.

PUPILS IN TWO CLASSES FAILED

Disappointing Results in School at Bobcaygeon

Bobcaygeon, July 11.—The result of the promotion examinations just published is somewhat disappointing. In two whole classes the senior 2nd and senior third, not a pupil passed, and in one or two others only two or three. It is a poor time to complain now, when the teachers are gone, but we are reluctantly compelled to admit that our scholars are either deficient in intelligence from those of our neighboring schools or else there has been a laxity on the part of the teaching staff. We sincerely trust the new staff which will man the schools in September will result in bringing the standard of our schools to a high state of efficiency.

BAD SCALPS

What Parisian Sage Will Do

A bad scalp is no credit to anyone, especially when it can be remedied by consistent use of Parisian Sage, the great scalp and hair tonic.

The cause of dandruff is a germ. Parisian Sage will kill these pests in a few days and thereby remove the cause of baldness.

Falling hair is caused by the dandruff germ. By killing those Parisian Sage at once restores vitality to the hair roots and commences a vigorous growth.

If the roots are not gone, Parisian Sage will grow hair. It strengthens thin, scraggy hair and makes it healthy and luxuriant. Stops itching scalp after one or two applications, in fact is guaranteed by Wm. Madill to do this or your money back. Fifty cents a large bottle.

MONTREAL, July 11.—There continues to be a steady demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat, and as the prices bid for the lower grades and samples wheat are in line a fair amount of business is passing, but the prices bid for the higher grades are still out of line with values here. A fair export trade is also doing in oats, there being a good demand from European sources. There was also an increased demand for spring wheat flour for export account, and sales of several thousand sacks were made at an advance in prices. The local trade is fair.

STARVING MISSIONARIES

Superintendent Allen Says They Are Not Paid Enough for "Food and Raiment"

A vivid picture of the miserable recompense accorded missionaries in the Canadian home field was given at Montreal by Rev. James Allen, superintendent of Methodist Home Missions. He pointed out that young shop clerks could earn two and a half times as much as a single unordained missionary, twice as much as a single ordained man, and a third more than a married ordained man. And this despite the fact that the Missionary Society had last year an income of $600,000, the greatest it had ever had, but the needs, owing to the immense immigration, had exceeded the funds. To improve the lot of the home mission worker it had been decided to try and raise a fund of $1,500,000, the income from which would be devoted to city missions and increasing the salary of workers. Under present conditions many workers were forced to go into debt, a condition which utterly ruined their influence, and he argued that missionaries should be paid at least sufficient to provide the Scriptural "food and raiment." It had been found necessary to curtail the work, with less territory and fewer workers, in order to pay a decent living rate.

COINS UP TO STANDARD

Successful Test Made at the Canadian Mint, Ottawa

An official test of the coin at the Canadian Mint at Ottawa shows that it is up to standard. The process for the test was an elaborate one. First, the coins were counted and certified. Then from each package was taken one coin, amounting to 8 fifty-cent pieces, 34 twenty-five-cent pieces, 17 ten-cent pieces and 20 five-cent pieces. These were weighed to the ten-thousandth part of a grain, then melted and tested for fineness. Then the remainder of the silver coins in the packages were weighed in bulk. Next the experts took two each of the fifty, twenty-five, ten and five-cent pieces and weighed and assayed them separately. In every test the coins came within the "remedy" or limit of variation from the standard of weight and fineness. No gold coins have been minted yet in Canada.

NO GAMBLING AT FAIRS

Ontario Government Determined to Suppress Gambling Devices

J. Lockie Wilson is on the trail of gambling machines, wheels of fortune, and all that sort of amusement. He has got a fully equipped roulette wheel at his office in the Parliament Buildings that you can't win on, no matter how you try. This wheel has given Mr. Wilson an idea as to the system on which the majority of these money-making devices are being run.

It is also authoritatively stated that any agricultural society having these roulette wheels, or gambling devices of any kind, on their grounds this year, will lose their grant from the Government. Heretofore this clause has oftentimes not been adhered to, but this season it will be strictly enforced.

COBALT BEER IN QUEBEC

As a result of the Early Closing law which went into effect in the Province of Quebec on May 1, all sorts of subterfuges are being resorted to by saloon-keepers and others to sell drinks to the thirsty ones and still remain within the pale of the law. The greatest innovation so far has proved to be "Cobalt Beer." It is claimed that this beverage inebriates sufficiently to make it attractive, but still does not contain enough alcohol to bring it under the ban. John H. Robarts, secretary of the Dominion Alliance, is having the brew analyzed, and if found too stimulating will call upon the authorities to have its sale after hours prohibited.

KINGSTON LOCOMOTIVE WORKS

The stockholders of the Canadian Locomotive Works Company, Limited, of Kingston, have decided to accept the offer of an English syndicate for the sale of the works. The company will be reorganized, the capital stock increased to $5,000,000, and the works doubled in capacity. At present the company's capital stock is $500,000. Between 500 and 600 men are employed.

ROBBERS MAKE $50,000 HAUL

PROPERTIES

THE TORONTO MILL is well situated on a valuable site of about three acres, and has a capacity of 1,000 barrels of flour and 100 tons of feed per day. It is running day and night, but has been unable to supply the ever-increasing demand for its products.

THE PETERBOROUGH MILL was purchased (May 15th, 1911) from the Central Milling Company. It is well situated, on the main line of the C.P.R., and has a capacity of 400 barrels of flour and 30 tons of feed per day. It is a most valuable addition to the Campbell Milling Co's plant, and it is necessary to run day day and night inorder to relieve the congestion of business of the Toronto mill.

THE MIDLAND MILL.—A site for a new mill has been secured beside the Aberdeen elevator at Midland, Ont., comprising nine acres of land, including a water frontage of 500 feet, on which it is intended to erect the new mill, which will have a capacity of 1,500 barrels a day, with buildings arranged to increase the output to 3,000 barrels per day, without structural alterations or additions. The Aberdeen elevator has a capacity of 1,200,000 bushels, and is one of the most complete and up-to-date on the lakes.

The Tiffin elevator, with a capacity of two and a half million bushels, is within easy reach. The G.T.R. and C.P.R. have centralized in building huge elevators at Midland and Victoria Harbour.

The directors, after full consideration of the many possible locations, have decided there is no better situation in Canada for milling for both export and eastern trade than at Midland, where all the advantages of low freight rates, cheap electric power (hydro-electric), and a low fixed assessment for ten years, have been secured.

ASSETS

The Company has acquired the business of the Campbell Milling Company, which includes the mills and elevators at West Toronto and Peterborough. The mills, real estate, equipment, good will, etc., have been conservatively valued at $525,024, not taking into consideration the valuable site and concessions at Midland, and from the shares now offered to the public, the Company will have about $300,000 in the treasury to carry on the business and build the new mill at Midland, making total assets of $825,024, there being no bonds or mortgages on the real estate or plants.

The Canadian Appraisal Company have appraised the plants.

On the investment of the two mills now running the Campbell Flour Mills Company, Limited, are earning eighteen per cent., after allowing for all expenses, depreciation, etc., and with the same experienced management and advantages enumerated in th prospectus, it is reasonable to suppose that when the new capital is invested it will bring equally good returns.

EARNINGS

We hereby certify that the earnings of the Campbell Milling Co., West Toronto, after allowing for cost of management, depreciation, etc., have been as follows:

12 months ending July 31st, 1910	$41,974.93
9 months ending April 28th, 1911	46,394.65

(Signed) STIFF BROS.,
Chartered Accountants.

The interest required to pay 7 per cent. on Preference Stock is $45,500. From the above earnings it will be noticed that this amount is earned by the Toronto mill in nine months, and with the added capacity of the Peterborough plant now in operation and the Midland Mill, which will soon be in operation, this will more than double the present capacity, so the earnings will be very materially increased.

ESTIMATED EARNINGS

The mill at Midland will be completed early in 1912, and when the three mills are running, figuring very conservatively by past earnings, the net profits are estimated as follows:—

Net earnings	$100,000
7 per cent. preferred dividend	45,500
	$ 54,000
Showing over 7 per cent. on the common	45,500
	$ 9,000

THE GROWTH OF BUSINESS

The necessity for expansion is shown forcibly by the following figures, which represent the annual gross sales of the Toronto mill:

1908	836,630.17	1909	$1,108,966.00

EIGHTEEN YEARS OF SATISFACTION

The new company receives the benefit of the good-will and business, which has given eighteen years of satisfaction to the purchasers of their brands of flour, such as "Cream of the West," "Queen City," and "Monarch." It is the only large flour mill situated in the City of Toronto, and in eighteen years they have built up a tremendous local trade, besides being well established throughout the Dominion, West Indies, South Africa, Newfoundland, and the United Kingdom.

MANAGEMENT

The Management of the Company is in strong, practical hands. The President, the Honourable Archibald Campbell, has been in the milling business a life-time, and associated with him are his three sons, who have been managing the business for six years. The experience of James Playfair, of Midland, and Mr. James Richardson, adds strength to the Board of Directors. The Directors have been looking ahead and have extended all their lines and formed connections, feeling confident that with their present organization and all the advantages enumerated above, they will be able to dispose of the entire products of the new mill, in addition to their present output, at profitable rates.

MARKET

Flour is an every day necessity, and flour ground from our Canadian North-West wheat is finding a ready market the world over, and, with increasing home markets, it is necessary for our established mills to greatly increase their output to take care of the ever-increasing production of wheat.

Subscription books are now open at our offices, and will close on or before Monday, July 17th, at 8 o'clock p.m.

The right is reserved to allot only such subscriptions and such amounts as may be approved, and to close subscription books without notice.

WILL SPRING AN ELECTION IN FEW WEEKS AFTER THE HOUSE ASSEMBLES AGAIN

No Doubt As To Intended Course Of The Government—Laurier Dosen't Want To Wait For Re-distribution, Fearing Loss of Seats—Caucuses Starting.

Ottawa, July 12.—A general election, and in short order at that, is apparently the watchword of the government and its supporters, and the word has gone out all along the line to get candidates in the field, look after the organization and generally to prepare for an appeal to the country.

All along it has been thought that the contest would come soon. Now it looks as if it would be sprung over in the middle of the harvest season, and also when half the population of the cities are away on the holidays. The house will resume its sessions next Tuesday, and it is expected that reciprocity will be broached at once. An attempt will be made to sidetrack everything else and to try and accuse the Opposition of obstruction. There is a vast difference between legitimate discussion and obstructions, and, so far, it has been the former alone.

OBSTRUCTION ONLY IF NECESSARY.

The Conservatives have insisted and will insist upon a complete analysis of the agreement, in principle and in detail, knowing as they do full well that the more it is talked about the greater the hostility it will arouse. When all this shall have been disposed of obstructive tactics may be necessary, but they are a good way off. The opposition will likely insist upon introducing many matters on the motion to go into committee. For one thing there is the imperial conference. Laurier's unpatriotic stand deserving attention, just as it has aroused the most hostile criticism at home and abroad. There is also the question of redistribution. To deprive the west and also many centres of population in the east of their proper representation will beam outrage, but while attempting to blame the opposition that really is what the government proposes. It may stand to gain on redistribution a few seats in the west, but it will lose the extra ones in British Columbia, in Winnipeg, in Toronto, in Montreal and those that are cut off in Nova Scotia. So the government is not anxious to facilitate the measure.

MR. BORDEN'S POSITION IS CLEAR.

The blame, however, will be placed, if possible, on the opposition. This cannot be done. Early in the year Mr. Borden advised that the census be hurried and in the west his position has been made clear. In the house the party again will put itself on record that the country be not fooled.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier returns to-morrow and there will be daily cabinet councils next week. The members will be here and there will be caucuses. The heat in Ottawa is appalling and it is not desired to stay here long, especially when nothing is coming in the way of indemnity.

PLAN IS TO SPRING ELECTIONS.

The plan, therefore, is to spring on the elections, and to attempt to secure, in the heat of summer, with its distracting influences, a snap verdict. Weeks ago this warning went out from Conservative headquarters here. Present developments fully justify it. Reports received here all point to the Conservative party being ready for the fray and perfectly confident, despite all the Prime Minister's craftiness and cunning. In the next few weeks the political situation here should be of such a

INDUCTION OF REV. MR. McCORKINDALE

Local Presbyterian Minister Will Take Part in Service

The Peterborough Presbytery at its meeting yesterday transacted some very important items of business.

After the election of the new moderator a long docket was presented by the clerk, which the Presbytery managed to overtake during their meeting. Details of the arrangements for the induction of Rev. T. McCorkindale, M.A., into the charge of Lakefield were announced. Rev. James Rollins, of St. Andrew's, will preach the sermon, and Rev. H. J. Keith, moderator, will preside and induct Rev. Mr. McCorkindale. Rev. Mr. Brown, of Campbellford, will address the congregation, and Rev. Mr. Brown, of Warsaw, will address the minister.

The induction will be held Friday, July 21, in the Presbyterian church at Lakefield. Rev. Mr. McCorkindale came from the church of Scotland and was received into the Canadian church at the last General Assembly.

The committee which attended the General Assembly was requested to postpone the report until the next meeting of the Presbytery in Campbellford, when an evening session will be held.

The Presbyterian church at Cordova, which has not been used for some time, was disposed of at yesterday's meeting, and the amount received will cover the mortgage on the property.

The Presbytery adjourned, to meet at Lakefield, July 21, and the next regular meeting will be held at Campbellford in September.

FRIGHTFUL TOLL OF DEATH IN THE NORTHERN ONTARIO FIRE

Porcupine District Littered With the Dead and Dying—Forty Bodies in Two Mile Stretch of Road—Two Hundred Drowned in Porcupine Lake Seeking Refuge From Flames—Mines are Fire Swept—Relief is Being Rushed Forward—Prospectors Caught Like Rats in a Trap and Burned to a Crisp—At Least Three Hundred Dead

North Bay, Ont., July 13.—A thousand people lined the station platform last night when the Cochrane train came in with refugese from the fire, besides several survivors from Porcupine. Most of the passengers were women and children, who had been rendered homseless by the fierce fire which swept down on the town of Cochrane yesterday.

Three men from Porcupine, en route to Bracebridge, were on this train, each one bandaged from head to foot, having been burned in the fire which destroyed the plant of the United Porcupine Mines. They were J. L. Flynn, J. H. Flynn and Gilbert Gibbs, all of Bracebridge, who passed through a terrible experience, and, though severely burned on their arms and heads, feel grateful that they escaped with their lives.

J. L. Flynn's story of the fire was very thrilling. Fire was seen coming miles away, and traveling very fast, but the men at the mine thought it would pass the property. Instead, the wind veered and the flames leaped down on the mine buildings. In an instant sleep houses, cookery, office, storehouse and two blacksmith shops were a mass of flames. All attempts to fight the fire were unavailing, and the men were soon surrounded with a wall of flames. Six men who were on the property, and a Colorado mine operator named Dwyer, who sought refuge from the advancing flames were cornered like rats in a trap. The men rushed from one place to another in the maddening heat, with their clothes burning, and finally decided to try to rush through the flames to higher ground. Seven men started, but only three passed through the fire, gaining the rocky eminence burned and blistered, but safe.

When the fire passed and the heat became less intense, the two Flynns and Gibbs rushed back and found the bodies of their companions, burned and blackened, lifeless on the ground. The dead men were the manager of the mine, Andrew Yuill of Wilton avenue, Toronto; Joe Fletcher, Toronto; Frank Flynn, Bracebridge, and Dwyer, the American. Frank Flynn was the brother of the two Flynns who escaped, and Yuill was their brother-in-law.

The fire was swept in a tornado of wind, which nothing could withstand, and the flames rose 200 feet in the air, swirling and roaring like a million live devils.

The fire traveled twelve miles in less than four hours, and, despite the five acres of clearing of the United Porcupine property, jumped the gap and licked up the buildings.

Flynn met a man coming out, who said he had counted forty-eight dead bodies of men and eight dead horses on two miles of road, and they voiced belief that the dead would number hundreds, from their knowledge of the country and the prospect of population.

Fifty coffins were sent in to Porcupine but it is believed many more will be needed.

Scores will be suffering from burns and heat prostration.

A. S. Wright, master mechanic on the Transcontinental at Cochrane, came out with his wife and child and told a vivid story of the fire there. The wind was blowing a gale and the fire swept down so quickly that there was no time to do anything but run for safety. Box cars were run into the town on a contractor's spur and women and children were hustled to safety. Wright returned for an old lady neighbor after getting his own family out, and had to carry her.

Passing a building, an explosion wrecked it and threw him and his burden heavily to the ground. The heat was so intense that he had to dig a hole in the sand with his hands to get breath, keeping his face close to the ground. His face was burned severely, but he managed to get the old lady to safety.

Mrs. Ashbee, who came out from Cochrane yesterday morning, was taken from the train at Englehart, where she gave birth to a child. The sad feature is that the husband was suffocated in a well during the fire. She was kept in ignorance of his death.

A large number of injured are coming out from Porcupine on special trains and will be cared for at various hospitals in the north country.

Fires are still burning and passengers report that Matheson is surrounded by flames and will have a hard time escaping.

The Warren Lumber Co. at Sellwood burned out yesterday with heavy loss, much lumber being destroyed. Insurance of $90,000 came into effect yesterday.

T. & N. O. Railway Brakeman A. Lefebvre, killed at Latchford yesterday, leaves a wife and nine children.

Men worked hard rescuing children, who ran to and fro, frantic from the fire and flying pieces of wood and tin shingles wrenched from roofs by the gale. All the children were saved, but grave fears are felt for the safety of men in the bush, some saying that fifty may have perished.

Special constables were sworn in and efforts made to keep whisky from the thirsty ones. This was only partly successful, and one man was shot by a constable for persisting in an attempt to get at liquor under guard. The bullet passed through his neck and the wound is not serious, but the effect was salutary.

Martin Roche, jeweler, took out most of his stock and placed it in a canoe on Commando Lake, hiring a man to watch. The watchman was repeatedly driven from his post by the flames, but tied the canoe to the bank and returned when he could, the stock being intact in the morning.

THE KNOWN DEAD

The Names of Some of Those Who Succumbed.

Englehart, July 13.—Deep gloom pervades the entire camp, as one of the blackest fire calamities in the history of Ontario is gradually unfolded in official correctness with reports gathered from every quarter where messengers can travel. A total of 38 deaths by fire and suffocation and eight by drowning, so far as now known, with nearly fifty still missing and unaccounted for is the harvest of one of the most disastrous forest fires yet experienced in Porcupine. Men and women crazed with fear and driven to desperation by heat, flung themselves into the raging swells on the lake to be carried under and lost on water as well as on land.

The situation was horribly intensified by the exploding of dynamite, blinding sheets of flame cut off their retreat, and death stalked in whatever path they chose to take.

The death list so far as reported from all the prominent mines shows as follows: Burned or suffocated, Porcupine United Mines, Manager Andy Yuill, British Columbia; Frank Flynn, Bracebridge; Joe Fletcher, Bracebridge; Consulting Engineer M. Martin, Thoringey, Los Angeles, badly burned; one other employe burned about the ankle and lost the foot. Philadelphia-Porcupine: C. E. Adams, suffocated, with three others missing. West Dome: Manager Weiss, Miss Weiss (daughter), Mr. and Mrs. Bert Carpenter and wife, and eighteen workmen, all going down into a shaft. Mr. Tracey of New York crawled out of the shaft when suffocation started and is badly burned. Dome Mines: H. L. Silinan, son of President Silinan of the British Metalurgical Society, Mr. King, watchman; Johnson, workman, colored man; Machinist J. Whatough, Toronto, student of Toronto University, one unidentified workman. The list of injured is large. Capt. Meek, Engineer Myles and Dr. McLean, suffering from smoke and

GIVEN TO THE WELSH PEOPLE

KING'S SON IS INVESTED AS PRINCE OF WALES

Special to the Review.

Carnarvon, Wales, July 13.—With all befitting ceremony Edward, the seventeen-year-old heir to the British throne, was invested as Prince of Wales to-day. Royalty was largely represented and the young prince was loudly cheered as he drove to and from the ceremony. It was during coronation week that he celebrated his seventeenth birthday and throughout the ceremony to-day he gave every evidence of being aware of the deep significance of his investure. That he is immensely popular with the Welsh people was shown by the enthusiastic reception he received.

FREE LIST IS SNOWED UNDER

Not even Roll Call is asked for this time.

Reciprocity Pact made headway in the Senate.

Washington, July 13.—Senator Bailey's free list amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill was defeated in the Senate late yeterday by a large majority. So evident was the margin against it that Senator Bailey did not ask for a roll call.

Pursuing the policy of forcing the opponents of reciprocity to proceed without delay, Senator Penrose urged Senator Bailey to introduce his wool tariff amendment at once. The latter did so, and the Senate adjourned with the amendment pending. It is a modification of the wool tariff bill recently passed by the House, and places all duties on raw and manufactured wool at a general average of 30 per cent.

The consideration of the reciprocity bill is expected to move with rapidity from now on. The wool amendment will probably be disposed of to-day, and Senators Lafollette and Brimstow are ready with their amendments and their speeches against the bill.

"Semi-Democrats," "Borrowed Democrats," and like terms were applied to the Republican Senators supporting the bill by Senator Heyburn of Idaho in a speech against the measure. He declared that when the vote on the bill is taken, all real Republicans in the Senate will be opposed to it, while "he semi-Democrats," will vote for it, along with the "fee simple democrats."

Michigan Fires.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—Early reports yesterday from the fire-swept district of Northern Michigan say that several settlers' families and lumber camp crews near Wolverine, and several families near Gaylord are missing.

Of the two towns of Oscoda and Ausable, with 1,800 inhabitants, only a school and two dwellings in the south end of Ausable are left standing.

The high wind was general throughout northern Michigan Tuesday night, and from all over the district came reports of heavy fires fanned to huge proportions by the breeze which is reported at from 40 to 60 miles at various points.

The burned bodies of three men and a woman are reported to have been found yesterday near the railroad tarcks at Ausable, according to an unconfirmed report reaching The Detroit News. The four had apparently been heading for the open fields when they were overcome.

Alpena, Mich., July 13.—The towns of Tower and Onaway are reported to be partly destroyed by forest fires, with heavy losses, also at Millersburg, Metz, Posen and Laroque. Frenchtown, a thickly settled portion of Onaway, is said to have been wiped out.

Pilot to Blame.

Montreal, July 13.—The formal investigation into the grounding of the steamer Stormount near Longue Point, on May 6 last, was concluded yesterday afternoon and judgment was given, placing the whole responsibility of the accident on Pilot Rivard, who was in charge of the vessel, when the grounding occurred. The pilot was punished by the suspension of his pilot's certificate for the balance of the year, and was given a severe reprimand. His apprentice pilot's certificate was returned to him, "so that he might acquire the knowledge which all pilots should possess."

Cabby Was a Bruiser.

Montreal, July 13.—Because she would not give him an extra quarter which he demanded, an infuriated cabman seriously assaulted Mrs. E. W. Bird and her maid, Kathleen Hayes, on the steps of Mrs. Bird's home, 341 Dorchester street west, yesterday afternoon. The man made good his escape before the women recovered from the effects of the blows he had dealt and is now being looked for by the police.

New Direct Line.

Galway, Ireland, July 13.—Sir Edward Morris, the Premier of Newfoundland, speaking here on Tuesday night, announced that his Government was ready to subsidize substantially a direct line of steamers between Galway and Newfoundland.

CONTROLLER STARTS SUIT

Montreal Journalist Defendant in Libel Action.

Allegations Were Made About Civic Contracts.

Montreal, July 13.—A fifteen-thousand dollar damage suit against Oliver Asselin has been entered by Controller L. Wanklyn, who alleges that the defendant has made and caused to be published certain libelous statements concerning the methods of the controller in conducting the business of the city. The statements in question appeared in L'Action, a recent entry into the field of French-Canadian journalism, and were later published in the form of an interview in La Presse.

They are to the effect that Controller Wanklyn showed favoritism in giving out certain civic contracts, notably those for street paving, and that he used his official position to forward personal ends, allowing himself to be moved by personal considerations rather than by a desire for the welfare of the city. La Presse publicly retracted the statements and Mr. Wanklyn is now suing Mr. Asselin for $15,000 unless he agrees to make public retraction. Interest is added by the fact that Mr. Asselin, an ex-journalist, is the secretary of the Hassan Paving Co., one of the disappointed tenderers for civic paving contracts.

Degree For Dr. Reeve.

London, July 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Dr. J. A. Macdonald and Dr. R. A. Reeve, Toronto, have been invited to accept from Birmingham University the honarary degree of LL.D. on July 27.

PORCUPINE SURVIVORS

Party From burned District in Toronto

Many Escaped Death by Taking to Water.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, July 13.—First refugees from Porcupine reached Toronto at 7.30 o'clock this morning and among the party of a dozen people was MacDonald Watderope, of Hamilton, who is a nephew of Lieut.-Governor Gibson. He saved himself by taking to the water along with five hundred others. Two brothers named Ridge, whose home is in Kansas, say they saw thousands of persons neck deep in the water at Porcupine, and many becoming numbed sank to a watery grave. Others lost their heads and dashed into the woods where they perished.

Two steamers brought in 700, and 800 boxes of whitefish into Winnipeg on two successive days recently.

At the S.M.R.C. meeting the Canadian cadets secured the Lee Challenge Cup, and in the Earl Grey Cup, H. Lawson was equal first. Lord Cheylesmere has arranged for a Bisley competition in which the Canadian cadets may participate.

Made Break For Liberty.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 13.—While being taken to police headquarters early yesterday to be locked up on a charge of train riding, Charles Davis, colored, assisted Policeman Farrell to recapture Harry Fox, arrested with Davis, who broke for liberty when in sight of headquarters. Fox is thought by the police to have escaped from the western asylum.

Montreal, July 13.—Robert Meighen, president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, died this morning.

GLORIOUS TWELFTH LOYALLY CELEBRATED BY ORANGEMEN

Ne Temere Decree Attacked on all Platforms—Hull Parade Takes Place Without Trouble.

Toronto, July 13—Strong resolutions condemning the "ne temere" decree, bi-lingual schools, and the proposed measure of home rule for Ireland were carried with enthusiasm by the assembled Orangemen of Toronto district in Exhibition Park yesterday afternoon, following the Twelfth of July parade, in which nearly 6,000 participated. The weather was ideal and the speeches were full of even more than the accustomed vigor of Glorious Twelfth flowings of oratory.

Robt. Sellar, editor of The Huntingdon Gleaner of Quebec, in the opinion of many, carried off the oratorical honors of the day, and his utterances on the "ne temere" decree were especially trenchant.

"I am surprised and disappointed at what the Protestant Churches have said in this matter," he said. "They have rolled the words "ne temere" easily under their tongues, and have mingled it with religion and sectarianism. They should not. Marriage is purely a question of civil right. You have suggested all sorts of remedies for the 'ne temere,' but you are not going at the problem in the right way."

He then proceeded to show that the right way of going about it was to block every effort of Popish government in Canada.

Four Thousand Visitors In Barrie.

Barrie, July 13.—This town was ablaze yesterday with flags and bunting, while enthusiastic drummers of Orange lodges from many towns and villages around gathered here to celebrate the Battle of the Boyne.

At the grounds speeches were delivered by Haughton Lennox, M.P., W. A. Boys, K.C., and a number of clergy.

Some Hot Talk.

St. Catharines, July 13.—Two thousand visitors from Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and many surrounding points attended the Orange demonstration here yesterday. Four thousand more attended in the park, where speeches were given by prominent members of the order. Resolutions were passed condemning the "ne temere" decree and Roman Catholic interference in the public schools.

Two Thousand In Line.

Napanee, July 13.—The County of Lennox and Addington Orange celebration at Napanee was a great success. The parade was nearly two miles long and took nearly an hour to pass. The chair was occupied by Rev. C. W. Demille, county master. Speeches were delivered by Rev. Bro. R. H. Steacy of Ottawa; W. J. Paul, M.P.P.; Rev. Bro. W. E. Kidd of Napanee, and Bro. Geo. McCartney, grand organizer.

Big Crowd at Cobourg.

Cobourg, July 13.—One of the biggest crowds ever seen in Cobourg assembled yesterday for the big Orange parade. Nearly all of the towns and villages of East and West Durham, Northumberland, East and West Peterboro, Victoria, Ontario, Hastings and Prince Edward were represented.

Celebrated Right Royally.

Cornwall, July 13.—The "Glorious Twelfth" was right royally celebrated by the Orangemen of Stormont at the Village of Newington, yesterday. The brethren of the City of Ottawa, together with the Orange Young Britons to the number of about 700, came in by special train.

Quiet at Hull.

Hull, July 13.—The Twelfth passed off very quietly here. A thousand Orangemen were in line and thousands of Catholics watched them without making a disturbance.

Lots of Business.

Montreal, July 13.—The statement is made on the authority of the president that by the time the Canadian Northern Railway is completed from the St. Lawrence to the Pacific Ocean, there will then be freight to the amount of two million tons annually controlled by Mackenzie and Mann, ready to be sent over the Canadian Northern rails from Vancouver to Montreal, and thence to be transferred to the company's steamers, either here or at Halifax. It was stated that Sir William Mackenzie had personally made the calculation.

Artificial Camphor

There is now in operation in New York State an artificial camphor factory, the product of which is intended to compete in the market with the natural substance. It is maintained that it does not differ, except in the manner of its origin, from that extracted from the camphor trees of Formosa.

LAW DOESN'T MENTION TAXIS

Driver Couldn't Legally Collect His Bill.

Montreal, July 13.—That the police have no power to arrest a man for refusing to pay his taxicab bill, was the judgment rendered yesterday by Judge Lanctot, when Thomas Davis, 46 Victoria street, was arraigned on a charge of being drunk and refusing to pay for a taxi.

Judge Lanctot explained that while a man was compelled to pay for cab hire as a consequence of a civic bylaw, there was nothing in either city bylaws or the criminal code referring to such up-to-date vehicles as taxicabs, and as a consequence allowed Davis his liberty, although recommending that he settle for the taxi at once.

Davis told the court that he had $70 in his pocket. When he returned to his hotel, he was presented with a bill of $11 for the taxi, and when he put his hand in his pocket, his money was missing, and it was for this reason that the taxi bill went unpaid.

CRIPPLE FROM RHEUMATISM

NOW IN PERFECT HEALTH THANKS TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

VANCOUVER, B.C., Feb. 1st. 1910.

"I am well acquainted with a man, known to thousands in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, who for nearly a year was practically a cripple from Rheumatism. He was so troubled with the disease that he found it difficult to even turn over in bed. His heart appeared so weak that he could hardly walk up stairs.

Last June, he received a sample of "Fruit-a-tives". He used them and dates his recovery from that time. To-day, there is no man in Vancouver enjoying better health.

He was building a house this fall and shingled a good part of the roof in a driving rain, without suffering any bad effects". JOHN B. LACY.

Mr. E. E. Mills, (assistant postmaster at Knowlton, Que.,) also writes:

"I honestly believe that "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest Rheumatism cure in the world". Try it yourself.

A NAVY AGROUND

The whole Haitien navy lies aground off Gonaives, about 30 miles from Port au Prince, and had it not been for a Hamburg-American liner the whole Haytien army would be languishing aboard the whole Haytien navy.

A few days ago the president of the republic ordered the army out for a spin in the naval manoeuvres, but he ordered his private yacht to hover in the offing, to make sure that the army wouldn't throw him overboard. The chief engineer of the navy, which was a rebought tub something like our own Niobe knew when he went to sea, that something was sure to happen, because he was used to schooners only, having been a bar-tender. And it did.

But the wisdom of the president showed when he immediately betook himself and staff off in the yacht after the navy went aground, and left the army—which was composed of forty-two officers and four privates—to hold down the ship lest the breakers should carry it away. The rank and file were, however, taken off the navy, and saved for future grand demonstrations and possibly revolutions. Vive le Hayti!

LAURIER'S PROSPECTS

The Montreal Gazette, one of the old line Conservative organs, sums up the Laurier political prospects in the coming campaign very cleverly and thoroughly. It feels what Mr. Borden feels, and every other Conservative leader who knows conditions generally feels; that Sir Wilfrid Laurier is going to have a tussle this time, such as he never had before. Backed by a weak and corrupt cabinet, Sir Wilfrid has lost strength from his associations and were it not for a personal regard for himself as the survivor of many scarring battles, the Liberal ship would break to pieces in short order. Even Sir Wilfrid's generalship however, is not likely to save him from the general opposition to the reciprocity that he is determined to put through.

The Gazette says: "Sir Wilfrid Laurier, to hearten him for the work which he must face at Ottawa next week, will need all the encouragement that can be worked up by the fireworks and displays of flags his friends can arrange. The situation for him and his party was not over-promising when he somewhat unwillingly went away to the conference at London; and in the intervening weeks it has not improved. It is nearly eight months since Parliament met and practically not half of its business has been done. Not even the money the Government thinks necessary to carry on the administrative and other services for the current year has been voted. Many Government measures important in their scope and character, have only been introduced. Then there is the bill to give effect to the Taft-Fielding reciprocity measure. Indeed three or four months of ordinary work would not be too much to deal with the mass of business that Parliament will face when it re-assembles. The situation, as it is, is also the result of the clear incompetence of the ministers. They showed no capacity in pressing forward the business they devised or had devised for them; and now they are in a mess and at the mercy of the Opposition, to whose good will, indeed they owe the fact that they have money for their current needs. It may well be that in the knowledge that nothing can make their position worse they have thought of a dissolution of Parliament as the readiest way of getting out of their difficulties. They have behind them a strong political machine and the means of making it go, and they may think that it has brought them through elections in the past it can do the trick once again. They may find, however, that their machine as well as their capacity for public business has broken down. The machine was strong in Alberta. The little that has been disclosed of its workings indicates that it was impelled by one of the biggest funds ever raised to corrupt an electorate. In connection with one effort, Mr. Frank Oliver one of the ministers, appears to have received from some one in the United States and disbursed over $69,000 in seven constituencies, and only won four of them. Incidentally he split his party in two, and now in the city which owes most to his political efforts in its behalf he only ventures to address a meeting when the doors have been tyled and two sets of sentries have approved of those in attendance as faithful to their salt. It is no wonder that people are making contrasts between the ways of the ministers and those of Mr. Borden, with whom they have lately become acquainted. British Columbia seems to have been abandoned by the Liberals, so strong are the Conservatives locally and so weak the ministerial lead. In Manitoba the Conservatives are eager to get a chance of repeating their late experience and taking for themselves at least four-fifths of the seats in the House of Commons. Instead of the West being solid for Laurier it looks more as if it was solid against him. As for the East Ontario shows every sign of being more pronouncedly against the Government than it was in 1908. It, like the rest of the country, got a big issue when Mr. Fielding made his reciprocity agreement in Washington, and neither the ministers who used to be thought men nor the boy scout of the Cabinet can make headway against the rising tide of opposition to what President Taft says is designed to take Canada's trade away from Great Britain. In Quebec the virulence of the ministerial attacks upon Mr. Bourassa show that the party leaders fear that an abler man than Laurier is working to dissolve the solidity of the province which gave Laurier power. In the Maritime provinces it was lately seen in connection with the Nova Scotia provincial elections that a special distribution of federal money at the rate of fully a quarter of a million dollars to a constituency could not maintain the Murray ministry in its old strength. Not since the days of the Mercier ministry in Quebec have there been in two years such an apparent change in opinion in regard to a successful Government. Fireworks and flags will not make the leader responsible for the change feel in his heart that they make the situation politically bright for him.

HOUSE-LIGHTING

The change in the system of measuring house-lighting and making the charges instituted by the Peterborough Light and Power Company will in some cases work out to the advantage of the consumer. It cheapens the price of current in the houses where lighting is used extensively, but the difference to the small-house resident, who keeps close to the minimum charge will not be so noticeable. The room and meter system of charging is being widely adopted, rather than on a straight meter charge, as it provides current for the lighting of places in the house outside of the ordinary living rooms at a low figure. It is in these halls, bath-rooms, verandah that the house-holder exercises his economy under the present system, and the lower rate will probably encourage the better lighting of the out of the way parts of the house. It is likely that when it is found that the new system cheapens the cost of current, more lights will be installed, and the result will be, not so much the dropping off of the company's receipts, but more house-lighting. In the evening power is not used for any other purpose and there is current to burn (no pun intended) and at present, at least, any increase of consumption would be welcomed by the company officials.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Of course in counting the rooms for house-lighting charge purposes, no account is taken of rooms in the upper storey.

When a woman is using an electric sad iron, and the power goes off, as it did Tuesday, some ironical remarks might be expected.

Everyone seems united in prophesying an early election. We may split on reciprocity, but there doesn't seem to be division in this.

Now, that Mr. Stratton proposes to retire, will the Liberal convention in West Peterborough select the machine candidate, or break over the traces and put up an East Peterborough man?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier isn't so certain of "sweeping the country, now." At Montreal he said that if the Conservatives and Nationalists were successful, they would scrap it out afterwards. The Conservatives can well afford to take the chances, as they have no connection even now, with the Nationalists.

Those of us who live comfortably, peacefully and happily in the settled parts of Ontario won't envy the pioneers in the Northern Ontario woods who had to run for their lives before the onrushing flames. We sometimes envy the prospectors when they strike it rich, forgetting the risks and the dangers to which they subject themselves.

CHAPTER XI.

FOR a long time Mrs. Brooks stood gazing in silence at her husband, her heart rent with conflicting emotions. Her happiness of the past few months, then, had been built upon the precarious foundation of peculation. Oh, the horror! Oh, the shame of it! On the very morrow the name she bore would be held up to disgrace and derision. He would be cast into prison. The misery of their struggles with poverty was as nothing compared with that of their sudden downfall.

Numbed though her heart was with the shock, shrunk by the terror of their ghastly position, it was yet not impervious to pity, and the hopeless wretchedness of her husband inspired it. She thought of how he had lavished his stealings upon her, how he appeared to be moved by the one desire to make her comfortable and happy.

"Oh, Joe! Oh, my boy!" she said brokenly. "How could you do it? Didn't you know sooner or later you'd be found out? Now I know why you've been interested in the races—you've been betting on the horses."

"I—I wanted to get the money back," he sobbed.

"But didn't you know you couldn't? Oh, why didn't you leave things as they were—the flat, the struggle and all that? Why did you bring me here and show me all this—this happiness—with money that you stole?"

His sobbing ceased, and he pushed her away and rose.

"That's right. You call me a thief! If there was one person in the world I thought I could turn to it's you, and you turn on me."

"Joe, you mustn't say that. I haven't turned on you. Only I can't help but think"—

"What? That man Williams drove me to taking money."

"Drove you?"

"Yes, he did. He went away so I could take it. I expected you to stand by me. Do you know the hole I'm in? There are three central office men downstairs watching. If I make a move I'll be nabbed. It's all very well for you to stop and preach—you always were so d——d saintly—but what of me? That's the question—what of me?"

He thumped his breast violently.

She drew back, hurt by his reproaches.

"If I thought you were yourself I'd never forgive you for saying that to me," she declared.

"I'm not asking your forgiveness, nor your mother's, nor your sister's. What I want now is somebody to help me out. I don't want to go to jail. It would kill me."

"Do you think I want you to go to jail? Do you think I want the disgrace"—

"The disgrace—that's it! I knew that would come sooner or later, but I didn't think it would come from you. There's always somebody to hammer that into a fellow when he's down."

"I'm not trying to hammer anything into you. What I want to know is what can be done, what are we going to do?"

"I don't know—unless"—

"Unless we can get the money to pay back. There's Jimsy."

"That won't do. It's too much. He hasn't got it. Besides, it's too late Williams means business. He wouldn't take the money. He's not that kind."

"Oh, if I only knew a way—if I could only help!"

She wrung her hands and sank hopelessly into a chair by the table.

Brooks paced the room restlessly, like a wild animal in a cage. Now and then he shot a peculiar, furtive glance in the direction of his wife. Finally he sat opposite to her, leaned toward her on the table and said in a low, intense voice:

"If anything is to be done it's got to be done tonight, Emma. Williams is the only man. You can square it with him."

"I can?"

"Yes, and no one but you."

"What can I do?"

He looked at her meaningly.

"He likes you."

Startled, she returned his gaze inquiringly.

"Yes, he does," he went on. "He always did. Women are his weak point. He's liked you for years. That's why he hangs around. I've seen it and heard what he said tonight about what he'd do for a girl like you. He meant that, Emma. He'll do anything you ask him if—if you go to him right."

Beginning to understand what he wanted of her, she rose slowly, incredulous horror in her eyes. He rose also and went toward her.

"He's home now," he urged eagerly. "You can go. No one will know but just Williams, you and me. And you can do more than that—you can make him give us money, more money, to keep on living like this, and there won't be any risk."

She recoiled from him, consumed with rage and shame, her eyes blazing.

"I hope I don't understand aright!" The words came in quivering gasps. "You mean me to go to his apartment tonight to see him—and—and"—

"No one will know the difference," he coaxed softly. "You can handle him all right. Besides, you know how far you can let a man go—all women know that."

"Oh, I can't believe I'm listening to you! A husband to ask a wife"—

"Then you won't do it?" he cried angrily. "You won't come to the front? I suppose you don't think I ought to ask. Why shouldn't I? Who did I steal the money for? I did it because you made me!"

"That's a lie!"

"You know it's the truth. When I married you your father was to help me, and he died, and then you had to and complained."

"That's another lie!"

"Oh, you never said so in so many words, but I saw it—for four years around the house. I saw you sighing and moping because you didn't have enough to live on. Then there were that mother of yours and your sister—they never stopped. You tried to make yourself a martyr. Every moment of your life was a mute protest against our poverty—yes, it was, and you know it. Do you remember that night when you said you couldn't go to the theater because you didn't have clothes? That was the first time I took money. That's when I began."

"You knew I wouldn't have gone if I had known."

"But you did go—you kept on going, and I kept on stealing for you. God, how I've suffered for you, for the clothes on your back. Every night has been a nightmare. Now I'm going to jail, you know that. I'm going up there on the river for years because you won't do your part!"

"I can't do what you want."

He became satantically persuasive again.

"Why can't you?" he urged. "Other women have for less reason—one to get control of a transcontinental railroad for her husband. I've risked everything for you. If you go there tonight I won't go to jail; I won't be hauled into court; no one will know but the three of us. No one will think the less of you. I've gone through to the limit for you; it's up to you to go through for me."

"Then if you go to jail you mean that I've sent you there?"

"Yes, and down in your heart you know you have."

Every instinct of her pure womanhood, every fiber of her flesh, revolted at this cynical exhibition of his vileness. She contemplated him with loathing.

"Now that I see you naked in all your nasty meanness, your contemptible viciousness, I wonder how I ever made the mistake of thinking you even half a man," she said.

This scathing denunciation made no impression on his deadened sense of honor and decency.

"You can't dodge the responsibility with fine speeches," he replied, shrugging his shoulders. "I've gone wrong for you. What are you going to do? Be square with me and take this chance—an easy chance—and you know you're safe."

She did not answer, but stood there, her face set in its expression of abhorrence and indignation, deliberating as to the best course to pursue toward this unspeakable villain to whom she was bound and who watched her with anxious, cringing mien.

She addressed him finally in cold, harsh tones:

"Whatever I may do or promise to do, I promise simply because you blame me."

"Emma, I knew you'd"—

"Don't make the mistake that I care for you. Whatever I felt for you, and I thought it was love, you've assassi-

"You can make him give us money."

nated in the last ten minutes. But I don't want you to go to jail pointing a finger of accusation at me."

"Then you'll be square—you'll help—you'll—

"You understand that if I bargain with Captain Williams for your freedom I make the bargain."

"I know. I'll never ask."

"It will be my business alone."

"Yes, just yours."

"Is he home?"

"Yes, I think so. He said he was going there."

"Telephone and ask him if he can see me—now—alone."

He jumped to the instrument, but as his hand grasped the receiver he hesitated, and a flush suffused his white, drawn cheeks, brought there by the first true consciousness of the enormity of his crime. He looked around guiltily at his wife. She was standing rigid, her back toward him. He took down the receiver.

"Seven-six-eight-four Bryant," he called.

Sir Eldon Gorst Dead.

London, July 13.—Sir Eldon Gorst, British agent and consul general in Egypt, whose administration was attacked by Theodore Roosevelt in the latter's Guild Hall speech, died yesterday from a complication of diseases.

Sir Eldon Gorst, K.C.B., was appointed British agent and consul-general in Egypt, in succession to Lord Cromer, in May, 1907. He was forty-nine years of age.

WOMAN AND MARRIAGE

"Modern Society" Makes a Few Observations On the Topic

The question has been asked, "Why are many of the best women unmarried?—women who could be persuaded to marry if only so many fairly able men would stop falling in love with 'pink and white geese.'"

When a very good woman, who is mentally, morally, and physically fitted to be an excellent wife remains unmarried, it is rarely from choice. She would not be a normal woman, worthy of being called among "the very best," if she preferred going through life alone.

One in a score of such cases will be found who is clinging to a memory of a vanished dream. But for the other nineteen women who have remained single various explanations can be made. Some of them have been loved and wooed by the wrong men, while the right man has passed by on the other side of the road. But most of them have been too good, or too well educated, or too accomplished to think of the art of fascination.

Some women—many—are born with this knowledge. It is a talent, like any other which brings success in its own line.

"Pink and white geese" are specially gifted in the arts of fascination. They know how to win men, but they do not all know how to keep them in love after they win them. The wiser a man is, the more studious; and the more serious the more likely he is to be attracted by a "pink and white goose." She leads him into a new realm—and all men love new realms. A studious and wise man does not feel drawn toward a studious and wise woman unless she knows how to hide her erudition under a charming guise of frivolity. One thing is certain—mere goodness and refinement do not attract mankind, unless they are associated with charm.

Good and efficient wives are excellent possessions; but the good and efficient and self-sufficient girl does not attract unless she has other qualities which appeal to the masculine mind.—Modern Society.

SYMPATHY FOR IRRITABILITY

Don't Neglect to be Kind and Sympathetic

Once in a very great while you may grow cross, tired, and all "out of sorts," and may run with your woes and your weary self to a quarter where you hope to find sympathy, or, at least someone to listen.

But the attitude of that someone may assure you just as plainly as words that she has troubles of her own, and all of a sudden you find yourself listening to an unfamiliar, unwelcome strain, with your own little story side-tracked and neglected.

And then you wish that the divine gift of sympathy was not quite so rare, and perhaps you realize with new force the great truth that it is the little things in the intimate relationships of life that savor the days and lift us out of depression and away from discouragement.

Remember to be kind and sympathetic yourself. You will value this bright jewel all the more when you receive it.

POINTS ABOUT SALADS

1. Never allow green stuff to soak for hours in water or it will become sodden. Place it in the coolest place possible—say, on the larder floor—until about half an hour before it is needed, then put it in cold water with a little salt in it.

2. Never pour the salad dressing over it until the last possible moment, for if it is allowed to stand long after the dressing has been added, the salad will become sodden, and almost tasteless.

3. Never use inferior oil for the dressing, for nothing can disguise its disagreeable flavor. Buy the best olive oil, and get it in small bottles, as the oil does not keep well after it has been opened.

4. Never cut lettuce with a steel knife, tear finely with the fingers.

5. Unless a very strong flavor of onions is liked, merely cut an onion in half and rub it all over the inside of the salad bowl. This will impart a very delicate flavor of onion only.

Before skinning tomatoes for salad place them in a basin, and pour boiling water over them. The skin will then peel off without any trouble, and the tomatoes be far nicer than if they were added to the salad without being peeled.

CELEBRATION OF ORANGEMEN AT COBOURG ENTHUSIASTICALLY OBSERVED BY BIG CROWDS

Sixty Lodges Took Part in Mammoth Procession — Speeches at Victoria Park—Port Hope Lodge Won Prize as Best Dressed Organization—All Local Lodges Well Represented.

All trains ran to Cobourg yesterday. What was the reason? Well Cobourg yesterday celebrated July 12th, the 221st anniversary of the battle of the Boyne, in a style that could scarcely be excelled. Characterized by excellent and praiseworthy order, under ideal weather conditions, and with a vast influx of visiting Orangemen from surrounding districts, the celebration had no alternative to being such a magnificent success.

The town was literally jammed, but the masterly and well managed method used in handling the crowds was very noticeable. In addition to the visiting Orangemen, hundreds of their friends accompanied them to witness the scene of jubilation, and it is safe to say that no one was disappointed with the spectacle. The brilliant regalia, the striking costumes, and lively music that was abundantly dished out, all contrived to present a most animated scene, and one, that those who were present will long remember.

The immense procession formed undoubtedly one of the biggest attractions of the day's proceedings. The representation of lodges from the five or more surrounding districts was particularly large and the throngs, who lined the streets to witness the march past, had nothing to bestow upon their appearance but praise. In fact the procession and its attendant enthusiasm was a significant revelation of the tremendous and spreading strength that the Orange organization continues to assume.

Special trains from Peterboro and points in the vicinity contributed to swell the quota of visitors. All along the line large parties were taken on, and many failed to find even standing room on the earlier trains, being compelled to await those coming later in the day. The last train to reach Cobourg, was a special which arrived about one o'clock, leaving Peterboro at 11 a.m.

The various lodges scattered and satisfied the inner man, after which they formed in parade order, and to the music of the Cobourg Citizens' Band who previously however met the visiting delegations coming from the station and escorted them down George Street; they marched to Victoria Park. Here about 1.30 they left on the big procession, the following streets being traversed, up Park street to Queen, along Queen to D'Arcy, along D'Arcy to King, down King to Henry street, up Henry to University Ave, along the latter street to William, along King to Church, and down Church back to the Park again. At the park the immensity of the crowd was particularly noticeable. The large area was completely filled, and the general view extremely attractive. The harmonious conglomeration of colors delighted the eye.

At the head of the immense procession were two carriages which contained the following gentlemen: John Hughes, G.M., Bro. Joseph Batten, P.G.M., of Grand Black Chapter, Peterboro. J. Jones, P. County Master; Peterboro; S. J. Campbell, P.P., Peterboro; John Davis, C.M., Captain S. Stalker, P.G.M., Mayor Gummow, of Cobourg; C.J. Thornton, M.P., for Durham; Major J. McCoughey, E.H. McLean.

Orono, L.O.L.

At the conclusion of the parade the crowds began to assemble around the grandstand in the park, the platform of which was occupied by a large number of representative citizens and visitors. Besides Mayor Gummow, of Cobourg, the following gentlemen were noticed:—Mr. David Ewing, of Cobourg; Rev. J. A. Posten, of Bethany; Dr Montgomery, of Newcastle; Col. John Hughes, G.M., Ont. East; Captain Stalker, of Orono, Ont.; John Rosevear, Port Hope; D. B. Collins, Millbrook; Ex-Ald. Batten, of Peterboro, and Rev. Mr. Le Claire, Rev. Ben Oliel, Rev. Mr. Pollock and Rev. Mr. Beatty.

Mr. G. B. Collings, of Millbrook, acted as chairman most acceptably and introduced each speaker in appropriate style.

THE SPEECHES.

Mayer Gummow when called upon expressed the great pleasure and satisfaction it gave him to extend to the visiting Orangemen and their friends, his most hearty welcome and greetings. He always was delighted to welcome strangers and hoped in future to have the pleasure of meeting together in Cobourg again. His few words were cheered heartily.

REV. MR. BEATTIE.

Rev. Mr. Beattie, a Cobourg clergyman, was called upon to say a few words. He recalled the visit of the Orangemen to Cobourg twenty years ago, and expressed the hope that it would not be twenty years more before a celebration was again held in Cobourg. One of the most important things in Orangeism, he considered was not all the outward show, of regalia, procession and music, but was the fact that on the banner at the head of every lodge was a picture of the open Bible. On the banners he read the inscription, "Remember the deeds of our Fathers." These same deeds had their inspiration in the conflict for religious liberty.

"Two of the principles of the order of Orangeism should be first, "Incapable of intolerance" or persecution, secondly, "No Surrender." Orangeism does not exist for the purpose of persecuting other creeds, but to maintain civil and religious liberties everywhere. All we want is to be allowed to worship in our own way, and let the Roman Catholics worship as they wish."

He was glad to see even some Roman Catholic brethren helping in the demonstration.

"Orangeism should not and does not mean a "To Hell with the Pope" demonstration nowadays."

"The principle of 'No Surrender' means that we should be ready to emulate the deeds of our fathers who fought, bled and died for liberties we enjoy to-day and which we must always maintain." Mr. Beattie was enthusiastically cheered.

Rev. Mr Pollock said that although not an Orangeman, he was thoroughly in accordance with the views of the preceding speaker. His address was short and to the point.

Rev. Ben Oliel was the next to say a few words. He was glad to say he was an Orangeman and hoped his brother ministers would be soon. The more he learned of Orangeism the more respect he regarded the order with. (Loud cheers.) There should be no bitterness in their feeling, however, but, a large, more comprehensive interest in all men. "Orangemen stand on the ground of "no surrender" that the privileges we glory in may be given to others."

D. B. Collins, P.G.M., of Eastern Ontario, gave a short well received address winning much applause.

Mr. C. D. Thornton, M.P., for Durham, in a short, pithy address, denied the accusation which some have made that all there was in Orangeism was regalia, colors and outward shhow. There was a sounder basis than those things and it was the Bible. Orangeism had its foundation in the Bible. It would be successful just as long as the precepts of the Bible were lived out in the order. Every Orangeman should aim to make his life an example for all other Orangemen. His address was also well received.

MR. JAMES WORRELL.

Mr. James Worrell, P.G.M., of Picton, gave a splendid address, in which he made a most effective and well-rewarded plea for funds to be used in caring for the orphaned children of Protestant parents, instead of allowing them to be cared for by the Roman Catholic orphanages. In commencing he stated that he was glad to be privileged to speak to them concerning a work which he and every loyal Protestant must assuredly be deeply interested in, namely, that of rescuing the orphaned children of Protestant parents in the Dominion of Canada. Over 306 of these were housed in walls of Roman Catholic orphanages. The Royal True Blues he hoped would set about and give the support needed, so that hereafter such should not be the case. While it was kind of the Roman Catholics to look after these children, still the True Blue should never allow it to occur. As an indication of the practical side of their natures he asked the assemblage to show their willingness to assist in the movement by subscribing whatever they felt inclined. The splendid sum of $46.50 was forthcoming as a result of the telling appeal.

Mr. E. H. McLean of Newcastle, another gentleman on the platform was called upon.

"We have assembled here," he remarked, "not only to celebrate the glorious 12th, but for the purpose of taking stock of what we have accomplished towards the furtherance of Orangeism during the past year," he said. "The Orange order has a great practical use and more than mere processional merit.

The reason for gathering together was not to consign the Pope to a warmer climate than that in which he lives in Italy, or either to dare Roman Catholics to tread upon our skirts (Loud Laughter). The meeting was for the purpose of renewing past and present conditions."

In regard to the school question, he stated that in a great many schools which were once strongly Protestant the Roman Catholics' children have crept in and flooded them to such an extent that the Protestants are in the minority. He referred to a certain decree promulgated by the Roman Catholics that no mixed marriages could be consummated before a Protestant clergyman, and that those so married unless re-married by a Roman Catholic clergyman, were living together in a state of adultery. It was through the exertions of the Orangemen that protests against such evils had been aroused. He implored every loyal Orangeman to put his shoulder to the wheel and work for everything that was Protestant.

Mr. McLean proceeded in much the same strain and that his sentiments found a re-echo in the hearts of his patriotic listeners was clearly revealed by the frequent burst of delighted applause.

Col. John Hughes, G.M. of Ontario East, gave an exceedingly patriotic and stirring address which concluded the list of speeches.

PRIZE WINNERS

The names of the winners of the prizes offered at the celebration were then announced from the platform.

Cobourg Band would have captured the prize for efficiency had they been allowed to compete, but the

INFANTS BODY IN WATER AT LIFT LOCK

Was Badly Decomposed And Police Had It Buried --- Found by Men at Lift Lock.

A gruesome discovery was made by the gate employees of the Peterboro Hydraulic Lift-Locks, about eight o'clock this morning, when they came upon the decomposed body of an infant in the culvert beside the gates of the lock. A considerable portion of the remains were missing, preventing recognition of any kind. The body was discovered when five boats and a drive of timber were being looked through this morning.

BODY BURIED

Immediately after the find, the employees notified coroner Dr. Greer and the police, who went over and viewed what remained of the body. Judging an inquest as useless he ordered the police to have the body properly interred which was done. By all appearances it was judged to have been in the water for a very considerable length of time, to effect such an advanced state decomposition.

SEEN BY BOYS

The two young sons of Hugh Gillespie, east city, the Review was informed, were said to have seen the body in the canal while in the vicinity fishing yesterday afternoon and returned home, where they told that they had seen something in the canal which resembled the body of a baby. Only the skull and one arm were preserved Dr. Greer was of the opinion that it was the remains of the body of a new born infant, whose sex he could not tell.

TWO MEN INJURED IN SENSATIONAL RUNAWAY

One of the liveliest runaway accidents for some time, occurred shortly after twelve o'clock to-day, when the Calcutt Brewery delivery wagon was upset on Hunter Street, in front of Long's Hotel, and the driver, Frank McGee and a companion, Robert Graham received serious but not dangerous injuries.

The team of horses which were attached to the wagon, took fright when being turned rather sharply, causing the wagon to upset and turn completely over. Several cases in the cart were thrown out, and the wheels damaged the front of D. Belleghem's boulevard. When the cart turned turtle, the driver, Frank McGee, was thrown underneath and received a very severe gash on the left side of his face which bled profusely until medical attendance reached him. The other man Robert Graham, pluckily grasped the reins of the startled horses which in their fright broke away from the wagon, taking the front two wheels and the tongue with them. Mr. Graham was jerked down onto the tongue and in that highly precarious situation, crouched down, and in constant danger from the flying heels of the desperate horses, he held tenaciously to the ribbons and was rewarded by halting the team at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer street around the corner at R. P. Carey's grocery.

The team was led back in a very docile mood, and Mr. Graham was able to return to Long's Hotel, without aid. He was very much unnerved, however from the shaking up and excitement and bore some bad cuts and bruises on his legs.

Dr. Frederick, who was called, conveyed Mr. McGee home in his auto. It is not expected that any serious outcome from the injuries will ensue.

Spectators stated that it was a wonder both men were not killed.

WHO'S COMING AND GOING

Richard Reid, Inspector of the Economical Fire Insurance Co., of Berlin, Ont., is in the city on business.

The many friends of Mr. Fred Hickey will regret to learn that he is confined to his bed with typhoid fever.

Dr. and Mrs. Clarke, of Pontypool, spent yesterday visiting Mrs. Clark's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dartnell, Pearl avenue.

Mrs. Robert Wells, Brunswick avenue, announces the engagement of her eldest daughter, Ehrma, to Mr. Claude H. Rogers, of Peterborough, the wedding to take place the first week in September.—Toronto Star.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Butler, with Miss Helen and Master Bud, of Denver, Col., are guests at the Oriental for a few days. Mr. Butler was formerly on the editorial staff of the Review, while Mrs. Butler was also a former resident, being Miss Gertrude Clunan.

Mrs. John Comstock, of Charlotte street, was in Chatham on July 12th to be present at the Mason-Robertson nupsials. Mrs. C. H. Moore and Miss Estelle Knox were also guests.

A card received from Mr. W. B. Warne says that the party are doing Paris for the second time, and will leave for home on the 19th. They have been through Switzerland, Italy and the lower part of France and have enjoyed the tour very much. It is expected that Mr. Warne will bring back a decidedly French accent, and that he may introduce several innovations in masculine costume that have appealed to him as worthy of adoption for Canadian wear.

COMMUNICATE WITH THE CHIEF

If Leaving Your Home and Police Will Watch

During the summer months when so many householders close up their houses and spend the summer out of the city it is by means and unknown occurrence to have found on their return that their houses have been entered unlawfully during their absence. To counteract and preclude the possibility of this happening, Chief Thompson desires all who intend closing their houses for the summer to leave at the police station the street and number of their residence and during their absence he will have a police officer mounted on a bicycle visit each closed house, twice every evening, first about ten o'clock and the second time early in the morning and try the doors and windows to see that everything is all right. As this is a new innovation in Peterborough and a decidedly good move, all to whom it may concern should not fail to grasp this means for the safeguarding of their residences from furgiarious entry.

Mr. Ford Turner Was in the Porcupine District

Mr. Ford Turner returned yesterday at noon from a trip up the Montreal River where he was on a business tour for the C.G.E., where he is employed. When asked about the fire in the Porcupine district he stated that he only passed through about twenty miles of the burned area on the train and as the bush was cut back from the road bed the smoke was the only inconvenience experienced.

MIDLAND LEAGUE FINAL TO-NIGHT

C.G.E. and All Saints Play for Championship—Game Called for 6:45.

In the second game of the Midland League finals to be played on exhibition grounds to-night the C.G.E. will line up as follows against All Saints;

C. G. E.

Goal—Hull.
Backs—Evans, Hooper.
Halves—Allen, Padgett, Dawson.
Forwards—Corless, Mason, Miller, French, Dawson.

Players are asked to be on hand early so the game can be finished in daylight. It promises to be the best game of the season. The round now is even, and a win for either team means the championship of the Midland football league. The boys deserve a hearty hand at the game this evening. The receipts this season have been on the wrong side. Considerable expense has been incurred in securing grounds, and outfits and the players have been displaying a splendid spirit of sportsmanship in all the games.

The ball will be faced at 6.45 o'clock and with first-class weather conditions prevailing the contest should be a hummer. The All Saints' line-up will be;

ALL SAINTS.

Goal—Moriarity.
Backs—Gamble, Hawthorne.
Halves—Harde, Simmonite, Edwards.
Forwards—Smith, Gash, Marsh, Vickers, Sharman.
Referee—Fred. Harris.

FANS SHOULD WITNESS GOOD BALL GAME ON SATURDAY

Grand Trunks of Belleville Will be Strong in Heaving Department.

Manager Quinlan and his ball-tossers had a work-out last night and they are rounding into shape admirably. The boys will go at it again to-night.

That they will have their work cut out for them when they meet the Grand Trunks of Belleville, they fully realize and are not taking any chances about being in shape.

With Ashton, who received a try-out with the Montreal Eastern League team working on the slab for the Grand Trunks, and Quinlan serving for the Petes it promises to be a pitcher's battle from start to finish.

The visitors are highly tooted as a classy aggregation of ball players, picked from all along the line and as practically the same team defeated the T.A.S. last season 11-6, they expect to duplicate the count Saturday. The Petes are a much strengthened team however, and will be there all the time.

The fans will appreciate the bringing of a strong team here for a game and the "noble three hundred" should be greatly strengthened in number.

Only in the Bowmanville game was Quinlan called upon to go the limit, when he barely escaped a defeat by Beith & Co. Poor control then had his goat, but he will be in better shape for Saturday.

The usual prices of admission will prevail with the ladies taking the grandstand free of charge.

George Minorgan of last season's West Ends, and who is working at short for the Grand Trunks, is in city on a visit. George says the team is very strong, and will give the locals a great game. Here are the batteries.—Ashton and Brown, and Connelly and Smith. The infield are Giroux O'Connor, Minorgan and Connely, and the outfield O'Neil, Brennan and Coyne.

Detroit, July 12.—The Philadelphia world-beaters did a little ballooning to-day, and when they came to earth discovered that Wild Bill Donovan had plastered them over with a nice coat of whitewash, the score being 9 to 0. Three hits were all they could gather, and not a man saw third base only at a distance. Cobb, after being passed in round one, stole second, third and home on the next three balls pitched in the first innings. Cobbs, after gathering a pass, stole second, third and home.

PENSIONS OF PEERS

Some Sums English Taxpayer Pays to Aristocracy and Others—Interesting History

For more than 200 years the heirs of Lord d'Auvrequerque have been drawing comfortable pensions for something an ancestor did 217 years ago. It was in 1694 that William III. granted to Henry de Nassau, Lord d'Auvrequerque, his heirs, and assignees for ever, the sum of $10,000 a year, in consideration of "his many [illegible]," which, in fact, were those of a purely nominal political nature. Lord Cowper, to whom the four-fifths of this yearly sum was paid, commuted a portion of it in 1853 for $200,000 down, but his heirs still receive $1,875 annually.

There is the case of the Schomberg pension, granted also by William III. He burdened the State with the sum of $20,000 a year to the Schombergs; and, though portions of this have been commuted by descendants, England still pays out $3,600 annually to people who, it is alleged, are not in any way connected with the original Schomberg family.

Earl Nelson gets $25,000 a year through holding the Nelson title and representing the famous admiral's family—in the indirect line. In a like manner Lord Rodney gets $5,000 a year, but he is the direct descendant of the gallant seaman who defeated De Grasse.

The largest of the perpetual pensions is that received by the Duke of Richmond. It amounts to $65,000 a year. The story of this pension takes one back to the days of Queen Elizabeth, who got a duty of one shiling per chaldron on all coal exported from the Tyne and burned in England. Her successor held this duty until the reign of Charles II., who granted it to the first Duke of Richmond. He and his heirs received it for over a century, till in the time of George III. it was changed to the present annual pension, which is known as the Richmond Shilling.

The Duke of Norfolk obtains $300 a year from the Exchequer for what are known as "ancient fees," and the Duke of Rutland $100 under a like heading. These sums are nominal, it is true, yet the recipients do nothing whatever to earn them.

The first Duke of Grafton was granted by Charles II. a certain import duty known as "prisage and butlerage" upon wines. In 1806 the then existing duke commuted this duty for the annuity of $34,350, and his heirs still receive yearly this handsome income.

But it is not to be supposed that it is only the aristocrats who have been granted free pensions on the national Exchequer. Seventy thousand dollars odd is paid out on account of the Courts of Justice for compensation to those whose offices have been abolished. One old man is still alive who obtains $275 a year because through the operation of a new Act he was deprived two generations ago of the privilege of selling forms in court. Laundresses who lost their work some twenty years ago through the Law Courts being removed from Westminster to their present site opposite Temple Bar still receive from $400 to $550, according to their status. A "Preacher at Rolls," formerly of the old Chancery Division, is paid $500 annually, though not a sermon has he preached for innumerable years; and there are many other instances in which the taxpayer is called on to pay every year.

CELEBRATION OF ORANGEMEN

prize of $15 went to the Canton Brass Band.

The best fife and drum band on parade was conceded by the judges to be the Fraserville aggregation, which was awarded the prize of $10. Oshawa and Campbellford fife and drum bands were tied.

The best dressed lodge in the procession was from Port Hope, and the prize-money accordingly aviated their way. Campbellford lodge captured second money.

The cheers for the King and the hearty singing of the National Anthem very fittingly brought a most successful day to a conclusion.

The 57th Regimental Band attended the celebration and were out in almost full strength. Their playing was plainly popular with the crowds. By dividing into three sections interspersed through the parade, they lent valuable and appreciated aid in sustaining the musical end of the proceedings. Band master, Rupert Gliddon was in charge.

The town was beautifully decorated in honor of the event. Flags, bunting and Orange colors were profusely hung out and the town presented a gala appearances. The appetites of the crowds were ably catered to by numerous open air lunch counters, refreshments, stands, etc., and splendid meals were provided. Some places did a record business in this line.

General good will and good nature ruled supreme. Only one or two small little squabbles occurred and no damage as far as was learned occurred anywhere.

TWEED FARMER WAS FOUND DEAD

Isaac Carscallen Had Bullet-Hole Through Brain

Tweed, July 12.—Isaac Carscallen, a bachelor farmer, was found dead with a bullet hole through his brain yesterday morning.

It looks as if he had shot himself while sitting on a stone pile under a tree in the lane, for blood was found there, and a 32-calibre Smith and Wesson revolver lay about three feet away. Death was not instantaneous, for he appears to have walked in a semi-circle to about thirty feet away, where he fell. The bullet passed into the head near the right temple.

Some of those who knew Carscallen declare that if he shot himself it was the first time he ever had a firearm of any kind in his hands. One of the young men is reported to have said that Carscallen wanted to borrow a gun from him not many days ago. The dead man has no near relatives any-

CHICAGO, July 12.—Corn prices soared to-day to the topmost point so far this season. Buying, credited largely to a noted speculator, furnished the greater part of the motive power. Highest figures were touched in the last fifteen minutes, and there was a frantic close at an advance of ⅞c to 1⅝c net. Latest figures showed wheat ⅛c up to ⅜c to ⅛c off; oats with ⅜c to ½c to ⅝c, and hog products varying from 2½c decline to a rise of 10c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d to ⅜d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ⅛d lower on corn. Wheat at Berlin closed ⅛c lower, at Antwerp ⅝c lower, and at Buda Pest 1⅝c lower.

MONTREAL, July 12.—Owing to the brilliant weather for harvesting in the United Kingdom and the continent, cable advices on Manitoba spring wheat came weaker and the prices bid showed a decline of 4½d per quarter, as compared with yesterday's, which were away out of line with values here and no business was done. The foreign demand for oats continues good and early in the day sales of several loads were made, but at the close of the market in Winnipeg bids were out of line on account of the sharp advance in prices. The local market was strong and prices advanced ¾c to 1c per bushel, with a good demand for round lots, but there were none offering and no sales were made. American corn is also very strong and holders of No. 3 yellow are now asking 71c per bushel for car lots, ex-store.

There continues to be a good enquiry for spring wheat flour for export account and further large sales were made. The demand for bran from American buyers is good, but as millers are pretty well sold up for the present no new business was reported.

Oats, Canadian western, No. 2, 42½c to 43c, car lots ex store; extra No. 1 feed, 41¾c to 42¼c; No. 2 C.W., 41c to 41½c. Flour, Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $4.80; winter wheat patents, $4.60 to $4.75; strong bakers', $4.60; straight rollers, $4.10 to $4.25; in bags, $1.85 to $2. Rolled oats, per barrel, $4.50; bag of 90 lbs., $2.15. Corn, American, No. 3 yellow, 65c. Millfeed, bran, Ontario, $21 to $22; Manitoba, $20 to $21; middlings, Ontario, $22.50 to $23; shorts, Manitoba, $23; mouillie, $25 to $31.

Dressed hogs, abattoir, $10.25 to $10.50 per cwt. Beef, Plate, half barrels, 100 lbs., $7.50; barrels, 200 lbs., $14.50; tierces, 300 lbs., $21.50. Lard, compound-tierces, 375 lbs., 9½c; boxes, 50 lbs. net (parchment lined), 9⅝c; tubs, 50 lbs. net, grained, two handles, 9⅝c; pails, wood, 20 lbs., net, 10c; tin pails, 20 lbs. gross, 9⅛c. Pork, heavy Canada short-cut mess, barrels, 35 to 45 pieces, $22.50; half barrels, $11.50; Canada short-cut and back pork, 45 to 55 pieces, barrels, $22.50; Canada clear pork, barrels, 30 to 35 pieces, $21;

ONTARIO THEIR MODEL

Americans Say the Canadian Province

"Follow Ontario's lead," was the slogan of Mr. B. Ball Secretary of the Council of North American Grain Exchanges, at Niagara Falls, N.Y., in dealing with the question, "How to get more and better wheat." He presented gratifying returns from nearly every State in the Union, but frankly declared that the Province of Ontario led the continent in advanced and scientific development of agricultural possibilities. "The closer the various State organizations follow Ontario's lead the better the results they will achieve," was his dictum. Mr. Ball, however, did not propose to be limited by Ontario's achievements. It was the purpose of the Grain Exchanges to go further. In some of the States a procedure had been adopted under which the school teachers would be required to pass an examination in elementary agriculture. A "primer in wheat" was being issued which would be placed in the hands of all the school children. The co-operation of railways, bankers, agricultural implement manufacturers and millers had been secured, and State and national organizations were being drafted. The agricultural writers on the leading newspapers in the various States had promised co-operation, moving-picture shows were being supplied with films illustrating crop production, "and even preachers," added Mr. Ball, "are being asked to use texts about seed sown on good ground." The proposal of the organization was to put a salaried expert in the various towns, "the same as they are doing in Ontario, but much more completely," and make him the agricultural centre of the county. In Arkansas this expert travels from farm to farm in an automobile, meeting and assisting the farmers at their farms in grappling with individual agricultural problems confronting them.

CANADIAN ASBESTOS

It Constitutes Eighty-two per Cent. of the World's Supply

According to an official report Canada produces 82 per cent. of the world's supply of asbestos. The companies operating asbestos quarries and factories in Canada are capitalized at $124,290,000. In 1880 only 380 tons of asbestos were produced in the Dominion, valued at $24,700; in 1909 the output was 63,300 tons, valued at $2,[illegible]0,000. In 1909 2,000 men were employed in the asbestos industry, and received wages amounting to $1,350,000. In the Black Lake quarries, in the Province of Quebec, there are 45,000,000 tons of asbestos rock in sight. The Russians are the only real rivals as regards extent of asbestos resources, but are heavily handicapped by the excessive cost of transportation of $35 to $40 per ton from the Russian mines to London. Serious competition is feared by the Canadian companies on this account. The asbestos slate or shingle industry is being developed by the plants in Canada, and predictions are made that in a short time 75 per cent. of all the asbestos produced in the Canadian quarries will be used for asbestos shingles. The asbestos slate business is only five years old, but during that time the demand for this article has increased enormously, and large factories are being established to supply the demand for this new roofing material.

TWO WONDERFUL COWS

In a Year Produced Six Thousand Pounds of Butter

During the visit of the census enumerator to a gentleman's farm in Saskatoon and while he was taking the census of live stock and products raised during the year of 1910, he ascertained that there were two cows of the common or garden variety of milk dispensers kept there. Then came the products, and when the question was asked, "How many pounds of butter did your two cows produce during the entire year of 1910?" Farmer John stood for a moment scratching his head. After much cogitation, he produced a stub of pencil and a well-thumbed note-book from an inner pocket, and proceeded to set down many columns of figures, which were laboriously totalled to his entire satisfaction, when the good news was imparted to the inquisitive one that during the year those two wonderful cows had produced 6,000 pounds of butter, or over eight pounds per day each, besides providing the family with milk and cream.

See Prof. Hersey's report which says that analysis shows St. Lawrence Sugar "to contain 99 99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever."

Look at the sugar itself—its perfect crystals, its sparkling clearness. Test its matchless sweetness; then you will understand why St. Lawrence Granulated has no superior for purity and quality.

BATHTUBS IN MEXICO.

Made of Cement, They Are a Real Luxury In a Hot Climate.

"Unless you have been in the tropics," remarked the man who had just returned from a trip to Mexico, "you can't possibly realize how great a luxury a cold bath can be. It's not that the climate is necessarily warmer than a New York summer, but the natives have worked out the problem of bathing to its ultimate conclusions. They have invented the ideal tub.

"On the great private estates in Mexico baths are in use today which were hewn out of the solid rock centuries ago by slave labor. They are located for the most part in the vicinity of running water and are fed by bamboo pipes, but in many cases they have to be filled by the old fashioned method of carrying a bucket to and from the spring.

"In the cities the so called stone baths are made of cement. The residences of all well to do people are provided with them, and they are a feature of the native hotels. They are usually about ten feet long by four deep—baby swimming tanks, in fact.

"The tropical custom is to fill the baths late at night. By the following morning the water will have acquired a limpid coolness that acts like a tonic upon the body. When one remembers that near the equator it is almost as warm in the morning as it is at noon and that water taken direct from the city mains is always tepid the advantage of the stone or cement bath is evident."—New York Sun.

RULE OF THE ROAD.

Several travelers were seated in the hotel lobby discussing the difference in customs of the various countries they had visited. "What struck me as most peculiar abroad," said one, "is the custom of keeping to the left instead of the right, as we do here. Why is the rule reversed?"

"I think I can explain that," said a reserved looking man in the corner. "In medieval and later periods abroad men were in the custom of wearing swords. The sword was worn, as it is now, on the left side. Consequently in drawing their weapon it was done with the right hand, and to get quickly upon guard a man had to have his right side to his opponent; hence the custom of keeping to the left.

"In America when every man carried his life in his hand on account of savage Indians all men carried guns. The easiest and most natural way to carry a gun, either afoot or mounted, is over the left arm with the muzzle pointed outward, and it takes but a very slight movement to throw the butt against the right shoulder. For that reason the early settlers kept to the right of the road so their weapon could instantly be brought to bear on any mark that was necessary."—Philadelphia Times.

Workmen Had a Treat.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 13.—Work in factories along the American side of the river between the upper and lower bridges progressed very slowly for two hours yesterday because the workmen were engaged in watching a mysterious woman swimmer sporting about in the treacherous waters at the foot of the two-hundred-foot bank on the Canadian side. What caused such interest in the woman's sport was the fact that she failed to wear the conventional bathing suit, preferring Eve's costume.

BELMONT CLUB REGATTA

The regatta and flotilla held on the Otonabee River in front of the Belmont Club sumer house last-night, under the auspices of the Belmont Club was a decided success.

The regatta provided much pleasure for the large number of people which gathered to see the events run-off. Most of the events were open and this allowed for keener competition and a widespread interest. The launch owners who persisted in running along the course hindered the progress of several of the participators and often the best paddlers did not win.

The crab race was the cause of much amusement, five of the seven who entered falling into the water.

The flotilla was a new departure among the events in connection with a regatta in Peterboro, and it was awaited with pleasurable anticipation as the canoes and launches were prettily decorated. The canoes, lighted with Chinese lanterns were towed past the club house by Mr. Cochrane's launch.

The first prize in this went to Mr. H. Burns, whose canoe was decorated with the club colors, mauve and purple pennants and Chinese lanterns Mr. Burns went to much trouble in preparing his canoe.

The winners were as follows—

Crab Race, open—Percy Stock; prize paddle.

Mixed Doubles, 250 yds.—Miss J. McMartin and James McMartin; prize belt and box of Gilbert's chocolates.

Club Single—C. Lech; prize, club pin

Ladies' Doubles, 250 yds.—Miss A. Cavanaugh and C. Merrill; prize, box Gilbert's chocolates.

Club Doubles—Messrs. L. Fitzgerald and E. C. Boswell; prize, cigars.

Ladies' Single—Miss M. O'Dette, prize, Gilbert's chocolates.

Gents' Single, open—J. McMartin, prize, pipe.

Shortly after nine o'clock, dancing commenced in the club house, with a large attendance of young people who thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

STREET PAVEMENT AT LINDSAY

Being Destroyed for Want of Proper Care

Lindsay Warder:—That portion of Lindsay street between Glenelg and Russell street, which is in bad condition will be repaired as well as other streets in town.

Ald. Babcock thought that it would cost about $200 to repair the block on Lindsay street, mentioned above.

Ald. Clarke wished to know from Ald. Babcock what he proposed to do with Kent street in the way of repair, and it was acknowledged that the street was badly in need of repairing.

Mayor Beal—"Before this town gave any more streets a sweeper should be bought for William street. It is going to the dogs for the want of being cleaned. It won't last long unless it is cleaned."

Ald. McClory—"Better trade the steam roller for a sweeper."

Ald. Naylor—"Trouble is we do not use road roller enough—it is all right."

RAILWAY COMPANY AND MEN AGREE

On Area of Section and Wages to be Paid

Mr. W. H. Noyes, chairman for the Grand Executive for the maintenance of way employees on the C. P.R., on his return from Montreal, stopped off at Peterborough Tuesday to visit his father, Mr. Chas. Noyes. He has been attending a meeting of the Board and the C.P.R. officials to consider the wages matter. There was a full attendance of representatives from the Pacific to the Atlantic and a settlement was effected Monday.

The Conciliation Board of the company was dissatisfied with the ruling given by the arbitrators. The men did not like the proposition of increasing the sections from six miles to eight miles as it would throw so many men out of work.

It was agreed Monday to put all the sections back to six miles each and to take fifteen cents per day off each foreman's wage, as awarded by the arbitration board and ten cents per day off each man's wage.

The western division goes back to six miles to a section, but the schedule of wages remain unchanged.

The old hands are all to be given work again.

FRIGHTFUL TOLL OF DEATH IN NORTH ONTARIO

burns in the eyes. South Porcupine: Bodies recovered, Capt. Dundas, employed at Kennedy's store; Mack Smith, bartender, and Tom Gillies, formerly of Toronto. Many are burned and several are missing yet.

By drowning in the lake: Porcupine Lake—William Moore, Armstrong-McGibben; Mirvin Strain, barber; Wm. Ogilvie and several foreigners went down in a canoe and have not been seen since. Women were swept into the lake by the waves as wash to either shore. Many are not accounted for. In Pearl Lake—C. Taylor, late of England, and running a shoe shop. The flames cut through from the middle line of Tisdale and swept a path more than ten miles wide, the wall of fire varying in height only as the length of the trees varied.

The following mines are swept clean: Dome, West Dome, Crown Chartered, swept clean at No. 2 camp; Vipond, Imperial, Standard, Philadelphia, Preston. Foley-O'Brien lost camps only; Eldorado Porcupine United, North Dome and a large number of operating companies through the south centre of Tisdale. Northern Whitney mines are undisturbed. Aura Lake settlement was burned; but no mine north of the McInyre or Rea are injured. All bodies being buried where they fell.

Places It at 270.

Toronto, July 13.—Two hundred men, women and children drowned in Porcupine Lake, forty bodies strewn along the corduroy road to the Dome mines, twenty men either burned or suffocated at the West Dome mines, and eight more at the Dome, is the terrific toll of fire slaughter, according to a telephone message received last night by Weldy Young of Cobalt, at present staying at the King Edward, from his partner Carlton. In order to reach the phone, Carlton had to crawl from Porcupine Lake, where over 600 people had gone for protection from the flames, and reach Haileybury by train, nearly 100 miles away.

Of the 600 people who went into Porcupine Lake to escape the flames, Carlton is sure at least 200 must have perished in the waters, newcomers continually forcing out those who had waded out to their depth. The fire raged right to the water's edge, and by burning up the oxygen in the air probably suffocated many more.

Relief Funds Begin.

Toronto, July 13.—With a common impulse, the Ontario Government, Board of Control and Board of Trade moved in the direction of affording relief to the stricken area. The Ontario Cabinet was hastily summoned together and authorized arrangements made in Cochrane to organize a committee to administer for the general good whatever funds and supplies are despatched to the north. The Government will, it is understood, contribute $10,000 as a direct grant.

The Board of Control had no hesitation in voting $5,000 as the city's contribution, and more may be given later as the situation becomes more clearly known. The Board of Trade proved itself in earnest in its desire to promote the interests of the northland by voting $1,000 with a spontaneity that spoke volumes.

Endorses Laurier's Idea.

London, July 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Referring to Sir Wilfrid Laurier's statement that he had stood at each conference for the right of each nation to govern itself, The Westminster Gazette says that is the true basis of Empire, though it may lead to difficulties, none of them insuperable. We have to start on this basis and built upon it, and are convinced we will be able to rear a satisfactory and enduring structure by loyal, affectionate co-operation between the mother and the dominions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Review does not hold itself responsible for opinions expressed by its correspondents

A DEPUTATION.

To the Editor of the Review,

Dear Sir,—A deputation from the infernal regions visited the city in the forenoon of the glorious twelfth in the form of two full grown human animals, who undertook the enormous task of driving three cattle through a portion of the city. On arriving at the corner of George and Perry-sts., they drove the cattle up onto the lawns on the east side of George-st., north of Perry-st., and probably thinking they could do more damage there than anywhere in the immediate vicinity, and of course the cattle put the finishing touches on the diabolical act of those fiends who satan appears to have let loose for a season. It is certainly time that the long talked of by-law be passed and enforced whereby all cattle taken through the streets of the city, should be led instead of driven, and that some intelligent person or persons be employed to look after them,

BORDEN IN THE WEST

Glenella, Sask., July 10, 1911.

Editor of Review.

Dear Editor,—I am getting old and I pen these lines with difficulty, but I hope you can make out my chirography. I could not let this opportunity go by without telling you about the successful trip that Mr. Borden is making in the great West. He is gaining many friends by his gracious manner, his logical speeches, and the display of broad-minded statesmanship. Our party of four met him at Gladstone on Friday, July 7th, We went down about 6 o'clock in the morning in our "automobilly," The meeting took place about nine o'clock in a large hall, which was crowded to the doors. Much enthusiasm was invoked by the logical and pointed addresses delivered by good Conservative leaders. The impression left among the people was most satisfactory and encouraging. I am sure if the political outlook is as favorable to the Conservative party elsewhere as it is here at the next general election our side will go in with flying colors. It will be Protection, Borden and Victory.

There is an aggregation of people here known as the Grain Growers Association. They sail in a poor kind of boat—unseaworthy—kind of top heavy, and overcrowded with officers who talk too much and are very fussy. They are something like the "Grangers" and "Patrons of Industry" down east. My impression is that they will not last long, but go down to posterity as failures and humbuggers of the most ill-fated kind.

Mr. Editor, my days may be very short in this mundane sphere, and before I gather in my spoiles to go up yonder, I must say that one part of my golden text has always been, keep the Conservatives together; do not let it get into a state of fungusity. It will be nice for every Conservative editor in the country to write praiseworthy things about the good old Conservative leaders, that have bled for their country—that have died for their party. If every mother's son of us do our duty it will not be longer there will be a change, for the better down at Ottawa.

Crops are looking good this year, there was a good rain just at seeding time, and the oats, wheat and barley got a good start. The downpour of last week was worth millions to the country.

The mosquitos have been very troublesome this year. They light onto a fellow in clouds, bite viciously and a person is kept busy night and day fighting the pesty creatures.

May be Mr. Editor if you were here you might be tempted to say something worse than "goshdarned."

Yours truly,

NICHOLAS MINTRIN.

SURELY NOT!

A large sized mud-turtle, weighing about six pounds was brought in to the Review by Mr. Bert. Arnott, of North Monaghan, it presumably having fallen from the clouds in the heavy downpour of rain which occurred on Tuesday. The reptile was uninjured and was found crawling along the road in front of the Williamson farm.

There will be no rehearsal of St. John's church choir to-night.

PORCUPINE DISASTER GROWS IN HORROR; DEAD MAY NUMBER 500

Refugees Pouring Out of the Great Cemetery---Worst Disaster in the History of Ontario---One Prospector Says a Thousand People Have Perished--Carload of Coffins Gone North---Worst Yet to Come.

North Bay, July 14.—With an entire carload of coffins on board, a relief train left North Bay yesterday afternoon for Porcupine. The train also carried provisions, blankets, tents, etc.

The latest estimates of the dead vary from 150 to 500, while many think the death roll will reach larger figures. Dome mines, with 300 employes, can account for only about 20 saved, while other mines in the vicinity with smaller payrolls, are in a similar position.

Refugees coming out yesterday from South Porcupine tell a horrible story of being forced into the water of the lake by the fire and waiting hours for succor. A terrific gale was blowing and the waves dashed mountains high, so that very few boats could venture out, but the women and children were taken away, while the foreigners were kept back by a determined young man with a revolver, who threatened to shoot any man attempting to board a boat until the women were taken off.

Billy Moore, a well-known mining man, got in a canoe with Jack McMurchy, Barrister Brooks of Montreal, and George Green, and without paddles tried to breast the waves with short sticks. The canoe was overturned and Moore was drowned, the others escaping.

Survivors from Porcupine tell sorry tales of lying in swamps, besides lakes, and escaping with scorched lungs and burned bodies. Many women and children stood chin deep in the water at South Porcupine for five hours and survived the terrible heat, while many sank beneath, to rise no more.

The actual casualties will never be known, as many lakes and rivers are tombs of prospectors and miners.

Survivors coming out tell of terrible conditions, with a dense pall of smoke hiding the trails, and everybody taking chances. Swedes, Pollocks and Italians, laborers at the mines, rushing through the bush in all directions, many being overtaken by the flames and burned.

A gruesome sight at North Bay yesterday was the loading of the car of coffins which went forward on the relief train, in charge of General Passenger Agent Parr.

Word has been received from the stricken town of Cochrane to stop all people going in there, as great difficulty is experienced providing for those who have remained since the fire.

Eight deaths are already reported in the Redstone district.

Campbell was the only man to escape from the West Dome. Thirty human beings having sought refuge in the shaft from the fire. The Vipond mines were swept clean, Manager W. H. Davidson and twenty-two men, fighting desperately for their lives and property, escaped. Capt. Dunbar, a well-known mining man, had a trying experience, but escaped. Two young men named Strain lost their lives at South Porcupine. Capt. Yost had a hard fight at Goose Lake, and lost seven men.

Special trains on the Government railway are rushing supplies to Porcupine and Cochrane, and tents and provisions will be there in plenty after the first night.

Fire swept clean the townships of Langmuir, Elorado, Shaw, Deloro, Ogden, McArthur and the Cripple Creek district, and how many of the thousands of prospectors escaped cannot be estimated, as only a small percentage could have saved their lives. The Hudson Bay Co. are forwarding supplies to the stricken, and everybody will be cared for.

A party of Queen's University students, who have been touring the mineral belt, escaped with their lives by a narrow margin. The include Wilmer Campbell, Charles Spearman, William Battersbee, Shorty Huff and Oulette. They had to run for miles with the fire all around them.

Manager Meek of the Dome mine went through yesterday morning with his mother to Copper Cliff, both suffering tortures in the shaft. Both are blind, temporarily at least, while the mother may die.

C. T. Young, ex-mayor of Haileybury, is chairman of the emergency committee at South Porcupine, and doing wonderful work in caring for the sufferers. Jack Munro, pugilist, is also chairman of a committee and doing good work.

Every man coming out reports seeing many dead bodies on the trails and roads, indicating that the death roll will be very heavy.

The scene at South Porcupine beggars description, hundreds of men, women and children standing in water, while the flames raged above and behind them, and the waves dashed over their heads.

Official Death List.

Toronto, July 14.—The following official list of the dead was received at the Legislative Buildings to-day from Golden City. It represents only the known victims.

The following were drowned: Jules Metager, Paris, France; Andre Le Roux, Montreal; Arpila Mondoux, Cobalt; Chas. E. Adams, Phoenixville, Pa.; — Taylor, address unknown; Wm. Moore, Ottawa; Melvin Strain, Porcupine; Nathan Haas, Spokane, Wash.; Stanley Nicholson, Guelph.

The burned are: Mack Smith, New Liskeard; R. A. Dwyer, Idaho; Frank Flynn, address unknown; Andy Yuill, Toronto; Joe Fletcher, Cochermouth, England; Pat Dwyer, address unknown; Wm. Ghore, Porcupine; T. R. Geddes, address unknown; Harry Hardy, Bath, England; Fritz Manse, address unknown; John Whatmaugh, Toronto; Thomas John King, Copper Cliff; Henry Jackson, address unknown; Archer Johnston, Sudbury, Ont.; Lee H. Sulman, London, Eng.; Stanley Fitzmaage, Mubourne; Robt. Weiss, wife and child, Butte, Mont.; James Rennie, Toronto; Jas. Welch, Cache Bay, Ont.; John McLaughlin, address unknown; William King, Boise, Idaho; Angus McDonald, Turner street, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Burt, Cobalt, Ont.; Jack Taylor, address unknown; John Destern address unknown; Mr. and Mrs. D. M MacQueen, address unknown; John Walle, address unknown; Harry Brookline, address unknown; John Saunch, address unknown; Hugh McLeod, Glencoe Mills; Lester Henninger, Cape Breton; J. W. Granshaw, Inverness, N.S.; Wm. McLean, address unknown; J. Paulin, address unknown; J. Orr, address unknown; W Besita, address unknown; A. J. Ryan Lewry, Mass.; Capt. Thomas Dunbar of Kennedy & Dunbar, address unknown, and a man named Alhod of Kelso, Ont.

Capt. Jack Hamilton, West Dome mine; Dan Smith, clerk, South Porcupine; twenty-seven others known to be dead in the West Dome shaft names to hand; thirty foreigners known to be dead in one of the Dome shafts; — Liek, burned in bush; Arthur Aho, Copper Cliff, Ont., West Dome; Fritz Manse, workman at Dome mine.

The dead at Cochrane are: A. W Ashley, painter, drowned; unidentified man, helping Ashley, drowned; French woman and her baby; woman and three children, burned; seven unidentified persons.

Some of the known missing are Mr. Cartwright and his son, of Ridgeway, Penn., one of the owners of the Pearl Lake mine; and H. A. Sherman, mechanical engineer, Boston.

Survivors of the fire horror came into Toronto on every train from North Bay yesterday. Men from the Dome mines, prospectors, townsmen and mine owners, all came to their homes here, while others who had no homes to go to, stayed at the various hotels.

All brought tales of horror, but there were differences of opinion among the refugees as to whether the reports of the dead were exaggerated or not. One man, hatless and dressed in the best he could pick up in his flight for life, declared that the blazes had not touched the section where most of the prospectors were. Others declared there could never be any official count of the dead.

R. Lingdren, a prospector, reached the city yesterday afternoon being the first man to arrive in Toronto from Porcupine, since the great fire. He estimates that at least a thousand persons have perished, saying that there are 200 dead at the mines and four times that number of prospectors lost in the outlying townships. The fire has raged in four or five townships where thousands of prospectors were operating. Mr. Lingdren discredits the story that 200 persons were pushed into the lake at South Porcupine and were drowned. He says that the most serious drownings were caused by the capsizing of overladen launches and by the burning of a corduroy wharf, on which fifteen

PETERBOROUGH SHOULD HELP

We who stay at home in Peterborough can scarcely appreciate the devastation and loss caused by the fires in the Porcupine country. Thousands have been rendered homeless and penniless,and are in urgent need of at least food and clothing. It is the duty of old Ontario to go to the succour of the new. The citizens of Peterborough want the city council to immediately contribute something towards the relief fund while the money will do the most good. Brantford, St. Catharines, Guelph and the bigger cities are all doing something. Why should not the city council vote $500 to be spent in purchasing needful supplies, and rush them north? Let the council meet and do something to help—now!

Scaffold Collapsed.

Montreal, July 14.—A rail of the scaffolding on No. 2 elevator, shed 13, at noon yesterday, collapsed with a crash, and nine men, who were pulling up cement, fell a distance of fifteen feet. Three ambulances were hurried to the scene and seven men were hurried to the general hospital None were seriously hurt.

MAY ARREST FEDORENKO

Privy Council Allows the Russian Appeal.

London, July 14.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Privy Council has allowed the appeal of the Attorney-General of Canada v. Fedorenko.

As a result of the appeal being allowed Fedorenko may be re-arrested.

The appeal to the Privy Council in the Fedorenko case is really at the instance of the Russian authorities. They pursued Fedorenko, who was charged with murder, and he was arrested in Winnipeg. After some time he was released on technical grounds. The Russian Government took up the matter with the British authorities, who in turn communicated with Canada, and advised that, as a matter of justice, Russia should be allowed to appeal. In the name of the Attorney-General of Manitoba, the case was consequently inscribed. The Fedorenko case has excited widespread interest. The Russian authorities claim he is a dangerous criminal, while friends of the fugitive maintain he is a victim of tyranny. The appeal incidentally should clear up some abstruse points respecting tradition.

WALES CELEBRATES DAY OF ITS PRINCE'S INVESTITURE

Canarvon in Gala Attire to Mark Event—Albert Edward is Now Prince of Wales in Fact, Receiving the Insignia of the Office—An Ancient Ceremony.

Carnarvon, Wales, July 14.—In the old and well-preserved castle of Carnarvon the young Prince of Wales was invested yesterday with the insignia of his high office.

The quaint town in festal attire made a holiday, and drew within its borders thousands of Welshmen from the surrounding country. The weather was matchless, and two hours before the arrival of their Majesties with the prince great crowds had gathered along the route from Griffith's Crossing, where the royal party alighted, to the castle gate. The buildings on all the streets were lavishly decorated. Troops, bluejackets and marines kept open the way through which the procession passed. In the vicinity of the castle a thousand London police and firemen held an open place.

The scene within the castle was picturesque, the vast enclosure within the towers and battlement walls forming an ideal setting for the ceremonial. The outer and inner baileys were lined with stands, enabling several thousand persons to obtain an excellent view. Their Majesties and the prince received an enthusiastic reception.

On a platform in the centre of the castle square the mayor and corporation received the royal visitors and presented addresses. From castle square to the first entrance into the castle there were two processions, that of the Prince of Wales preceding that of Their Majesties by a few minutes. The prince entered the castle at the ancient watergate on the seafront. As he passed in the standard was hoisted on Eagle Tower, while the royal Welsh choir of 400 voices sang.

The King and Queen followed in the open air the choir sang "God Save the King." This was followed by the singing "God Bless the Prince of Wales," as the prince appeared and approached his parents, who had taken their places on the dais. The prince, in his surcoat, cloak and mantle of crimson velvet, presented himself before the King, who placed a crimson velvet cap ornamented with ermine, and a coronet on the head of his son as a taken of principality. In the hand of the prince, His Majesty placed a golden verge as the emblem of government, and a ring of gold on his finger.

VETO BILL IN THE LORDS HAS REACHED THE REPORT STAGE

One Peer Counsels the House to Let Commons Determine the Money Bills.

London, July 4.—The House of Lords entered yesterday upon the report stage of the veto bill. The advocates of a compromise have been to some extent pushed into the background during the last day or two by the "No surrender" faction.

The period of acute crisis will be reached with the week beginning July 24, when the Commons will reject the Lords' amendments, and the peers will have to make the final decision.

Lord Courtney yesterday afternoon moved an amendment reinstating the Speaker of the House as the judge of what constitutes a money bill, instead of the joint committee of the two Houses substituted by the amendment lately adopted.

Lord Courtney, who is out of sympathy with the general trend of the veto bill, warned the peers that the Commons would insist on its rights in all financial matters so in the interests of the powers of the Upper House in general legislation, it would be wise for the Lords to yield on this point.

Courtney's amendment was lost without division. Lord Cromer then moved an amendment which the Opposition carried without division, making bills imposing taxation subject to section two of the veto bill if in the opinion of a joint committee, the main governing purpose thereof was not purely financial in character.

FOREIGNERS SHOW POOR SPIRIT

Wanted Pay for Assisting Women in Water.

Special to the Review.

Toronto, July 14—Miss Earle, a member of a theatrical company, which was playing at Pottsville, told a harrowing tale of her experiences on her arrival here. She said that while standing neck deep in the water with many others, the majority of whom were women, a man named Stout called upon a group of men to help some women and children to safety, and the foreigners shouted "Any Pay In It?"

ALL TRAINS CROWDED

With Fire Sufferers Returning to Former Homes.

Relief Committee at Cochrane Having Trouble.

Special to the Review.

Kelso, July 14—Every train coming from the north is crowded with fire sufferers, many of them returning to their homes in Old Ontario. One or more bodies are being carried on each train. The Relief Committee at Cochrane complains of the practice of lazy foreigners taking advantage of the free distribution of food, and it has been decided that until a larger amount of provisions arrive, only men with families will be given provisons.

Not much sense is required to write poetry, but a man who understands it must know a great deal.

BOY BURGLAR CAUGHT IN ACT

Kingston, July 14.—Caught in the act of ransacking the home of Capt. McGladne in broad daylight, a 12-year-old lad at police headquarters has already admitted one theft, and it is believed several other robberies which have occurred in the city can be traced to him.

Members of the family heard a noise in one of the upstairs bedrooms, and when one of the girls went to investigate, found the lad ransacking the place in true burglar fashion. She held the boy until a telephone call was sent to the police station, and handed him over to Constable Mullinger.

The youngster had a bunch of thirty keys in his possesion and admitted having stolen them from different merchants.

RAIDERS ON THE McRAE HOME WERE ARMED WITH REVOLVERS

Inquest Brings Out Facts in Connection With Shooting Trouble Over the Child of Separated Couple.

Cornwall, July 14.—The inquest into the death of the late William Shaw of Carp, who died in the Cornwall General Hospital on July 7, of a bullet wound received at Bridge End, Glengarry, on Dominion Day, was concluded last evening after an all-day session.

The jury brought in a verdict that W. Shaw came to his death from a bullet fired from a rifle in the hands of Farquhar McRae at Bridge End, Glengarry, July 1, 1911, dying from the effects of his wounds at Cornwall on July 7."

The first witness was Herbert Arthur Tomkins, chauffeur, who drove Dr. Magee and his brother, J. M. Magee, along with the ill-fated Shaw to Bridge End on Dominion Day, picking up Constable Uren at Bainsville.

Dr. Magee told how, along with his brother, Shaw and Constable Uren of Bainsville, he had attempted to recover possession of his six-months-old child. He and Shaw carried revolvers, and after the shooting he took possession of Shaw's gun. He had not applied to the courts for possession of his child, believing that the method he followed was more expedient. He knew his action was illegal, but he took the chance. The party arranged to surround the house on all sides and the move was successful, but his father-in-law, D. C. McRae, was notified of his coming and Mrs. Magee and the child were hidden in a field. He denied that any of his party had threatened or struck any of the McRaes. This was the second time he had attempted to get the child by force.

When he was searching the field, D. C. McRae pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot. Both D. C and his hired man, Albert Rosser, threatened to shoot on the road, and when they finally started, F. D. McRae dropped on one knee and aimed at the witness. Bad roads gave the auto a jolt, causing the witness to drop into his seat at the moment of the firing. This, he claimed, saved his life, as McRae was aiming at him.

Under cross-examination Dr. Magee denied writing threatening letters to his wife. This led to the production of a letter by Dr. Pringle. Dr. McGee admitted the authorship, and when the coroner had examined the letter, he asked the ladies present to retire while it was read. The letter was turned over to the jury unread.

John Uren, the Bainsville constable, told how he had met the Carp party by appointment and accompanied them to Bridge End. He denied having a revolver or holding up D. C. McRae, but afterwards admitted keeping him cornered while Dr. Magee searched the house. He also swore to seeing F. D. McRae aim and fire at the auto party as they were leaving.

Albert Rossen, an Englishman, employed by D. C. McRae, swore that when they started back, Constable Uren had a gun in his hands. Farquhar McRae fired hurriedly. He would have tackled Uren in the house, had not Mrs. McRae told him that Uren had a gun.

UNION LABEL

LET US GIVE AID

The city council should act immediately in giving help to the thousand sufferers in the great fire in the great fire in the Porcupine district. Thousands are homeless and penniless, hundreds are badly burned and in great extremity, hundreds are beyond the need of all human aid or sympathy. The people of Peterborough would heartily approve of a grant of $500 to buy such provisions as are most urgently needed, and send them to the stricken area for distribution. Let the council act now while the need is greatest.

TWO CONVENTIONS

The East Peterborough Conservative convention has been called for Thursday afternoon, July 27th, at Norwood, when candidates for both Dominion and Ontario houses will be nominated. It is regarded as certain that the Dominion nominee will be the popular member for the riding, J. A. Sexsmith, M.P., who is relied on by the Conservatives to again put East Peterborough into the Borden side of the Ottawa house. East Peterborough Conservatives should take note of the date. The convention will be called at 1.30 p.m. and there will be some special speakers.

The West Peterborough Convention of the Conservatives will be held on Tuesday night next, in the Conservatory of Music Hall. Every accredited delegate should make it a prime consideration to be present, and the rank and file of the supporter of the party are urged to attend. With candidates in the field, and the prospect of an early election, the organization should be completed as quickly and as thoroughly as possible.

STEAMBOATS ON SUNDAY

Now that ice-cream may be sold without interference on Sunday, and bands may give concerts without restraint, the Toronto-Hamilton steamboat companies propose to run steamboats between church hours on Sunday. This is the result of trying to secure a more reasonable interpretation of the law regarding Sunday observance—it leads someone to an effort to get more than should be granted. We do not sympathize with the view that street car services must not be given where there is a public demand, especially in the hot weather, but to open up the question of Sunday navigation is a serious step towards the Americanization of the Canadian Sunday of rest.

Street cars are often necessary as modes of conveyance, even on the Sabbath. Ice-cream being a food, we do not think that the cause of religion is materially harmed by its consumption on Sunday. Anyway, the law cannot and should not be concerned in restricting the liberties of people in order to force them to be religious, or even go to church; the people who take up church work or attend religious gatherings without the proper spirit are a harm rather than a help. But it is in the interest of the preservation of the Sabbath as a day of quiet and rest, and not as merely a day of pleasure-seeking and amusement that steamboat excursions—pleasant and convenient as they might be to the public—should not be allowed.

FIRE PREVENTION

Drawing lessons from the disastrous and most lamentable fires that swept the Porcupine district, in which hundreds and perhaps a thousand prospectors and miners lost their lives in terrible manner, the newspapers are busy pointing out the necessity of adequate fire protection in the northern timbered districts. They assert, and with reason, that the present fire ranging is woefully inadequate to the needs, and that apart from the great loss of life, much valuable timber is lost that should be conserved.

Admitting all this to be true, will some one please tell us in what practical manner regulations or men can be used to prevent such a terrible conflagration as that of Tuesday? Human hand or brain cannot stop the dry, burning weather, that makes the brushwood and timber like tinder. Human hand or brain cannot prevent the high wind that fanned the flames once started, into a huge roaring furnace, carrying all before it in dreadful effect. No man or army of men could fight back that wall of flame as it blazed two hundred feet high, and licked up even the ground in sweeping along. Once started under such weather conditions, no system of fire ranging or fire prevention could possibly be effectual in stemming the onrushing tide.

When thousands of square miles of standing timber is so dried out that the slightest spark is sufficient to start an uncontrollable blaze, it is rather far-fetched to talk of fire prevention that will conserve the timber. If there were no railways in the district; if thousands of prospectors were not scattered throughout the district each careless and unthinking until a blaze had been started, and it is too late; if the timber could be kept damp as after a heavy rain, there might be some hope.

But none of these is possible.

We all would like to see the danger of forest fires minimized, and both human lives and timber preserved. We all would like to see the flames confined to their proper uses of heating and cooking, and consuming waste matter. But fire is a servant of man that, once out of bounds, is his greatest enemy, an uncontrollable fiend raging in mighty force. Fire in an almost virgin forest dry as matchwood is not controllable, if atmospheric conditions propagate it. It is a shame that settlers and some prospectors are so careless about starting fires, and letting them get out of bounds, and heavy penalties might help. But penalties won't restore original conditions after the immense fires have wiped everything out.

A lot of the criticism of the fire-ranging conditions is based on the wish and hope, rather than on the grounds of practicability. Let the critics come forward with some real ideas and help save the northern country.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Mr. Stratton announces his probable retirement from the political stage. R. I. P.

Young Mr. Kerr has joined the Amalgamated union of Hand-shakers and Oil-Spreaders.

They do say that Peterborough wasted money in oiling the streets now that Candidate Kerr is moving "in our midst."

There was no trouble in Hull on the Twelfth, and this is well. The Orangemen had right on their side in this case, in exercising British citizenship, and trouble would have only fanned the flames of religious discord.

The gossips from Ottawa say that while Mr. Stratton used to be the big show with the late lamented Ross administration, he cannot break into the charmed inner circles at Ottawa. Hon. Mr. Pugsley doesn't know valuable material when he sees it.

We haven't been told of the East Peterborough ladies' aids, sewing circles, Epworth leagues, Christian Endeavors, etc., making Mr. Kerr an honorary life member. A year ago we would have heartily recommended him as a worthy member—but now, after the Norwood ballotting we aren't so sure that he is innocent enough to mingle in select circles.

Well, if Mr. Stratton doesn't mean what his organ says about him wanting to retire, he merely wants to be coaxed. The notice to Liberals in reference to a convention invites them to consider the names of other possible candidates. This is one way of trying to bludgeon a divided support into line, and it has often been worked successfully. The "going to retire" game is an old favorite with those who feel that they need some "moral support" with the party.

After New York Ice Trust.

New York, July 14.—The district attorney and the city police yesterday began investigations of the Knickerbocker Ice Co., which does by far the largest ice business here. The charge is that the so-called "Ice Trust" has withheld ice from independent dealers during the recent prolonged hot weather.

At the present time milk dealers must depend solely on the daily output from dairy farms and are unable to allow for any sudden increase in demand or falling off in supply.

CHAPTER XII.

When Jimsy Smith had told Emma and Joe that Captain Williams lived in a little south sea island nook moved into his flat and that it was dirty the description had done justice to the place in a general way. It was in a hotel not far from that in which the Brookses had so recently taken up their residence, and the living room was a curious combination of natural history museum and ship's cabin.

A wooden capstan in the center did duty for a round table, and on it, in addition to an electric reading lamp, an untidy litter of papers and magazines, some writing paper, envelopes, pens and ink, were a huge tin box of tobacco and a rack containing pipes of wood and meerschaum of all sizes, shapes and colors. Remarkable among the few chairs of rattan or rush was one, a large rocking chair, partially constructed of two small anchors, the flukes forming the rockers. In a corner over a comfortable lounge was a canopy made of a piece of sail canvas supported by south sea island spears and decorated with leather shields, warclubs, boomerangs and other native weapons, together with necklaces and various ornaments of sharks' teeth. Covering the walls were stuffed fishes of weird shape. Over the entrance door was a ship's wheel and on the mantel a model of an old time trading schooner with all sails set. Among other objects on the mantel also was a faded daguerreotype showing Captain Williams as a young man, in uniform. On each side of the capstan was a dirty cuspidor. The carpet also was dirty and spotted, and dust had settled thickly everywhere. In this queer abode Williams lived alone, save for Sato, a Japanese valet, who had served him for many years.

The massive form of the captain himself, minus his coat, might have been descried in the light of the lamp through the cloud of tobacco smoke that enveloped him as he sat reading a magazine some time after his departure from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks. He was rather annoyed when the telephone bell rang and had he not been expecting Smith would not have troubled to answer it. As it was, he swore a little and rose lazily to respond.

"Hello! Yes, this is Captain Williams," he said in his usual stentorian voice. "What, Brooks? I won't talk with you over the phone—no—what? Mrs. Brooks? What, here? Well, well! Yes, I'm at home—yes. Right away, you say? Yes, I'll wait."

Williams could hardly believe what he had heard. He turned it over in his mind for fully three minutes figuring out just what it could mean.

"Going to send his wife here! What a skunk he is!" he grunted.

He ambled to the telephone again and instructed the hotel clerk that if any visitors called to see him they were to be shown right up. From there he went to the door of an adjoining room and roared for his valet.

"Any beer on ice?" he demanded when the Japanese, who evidently had been asleep, presented himself.

"Yes, saar."

"Got limes and rum—the kind I brought up from the West Indies?"

"Yes, saar."

"Plenty ice?"

"Yes, saar."

"That's all."

He could not get over the wonder Brooks' telephone communication had caused him.

"Told her he'd got a raise of pay, eh? What a skunk he is! And what a fine girl she is!"

He gazed abstractedly at the model of the schooner on the mantel opposite to him and became buried in thought so deep that he actually stopped smoking and let his pipe go out. Presently he roused himself, fished a sheet of writing paper from among the reading matter on the capstan table and wrote something upon it, after which he folded the paper carefully and hid it between the leaves of a magazine.

Then he shouted again for his valet.

"Sato," he ordered, "bring my slippers and smoking jacket. There's a lady coming to see me."

The man grinned knowingly.

"You might as well take a walk, Sato."

"Yes, saar."

"And you needn't come back right away."

"No, saar."

"Here's a couple of dollars for you. Take 'em and get to blazes out of here. Sabe?"

"Yes, saar."

"And stay out," he recommended as the Japanese prepared to obey.

When the valet had vanished the captain took a survey of his domain rather anxiously.

"It's a little dirty—a little dirty—but it'll have to do," he muttered.

There was a knock at the door. Williams wreathed his physiognomy in the most amiable smile of which it was capable, felt his tie to assure himself that it had not slipped round toward his left ear, as it had a bad habit of doing when not hauled taut and clamped in place, and went to let his visitor in.

The caller, however, was only Smith.

"Come in, but make your business short," was Williams' blunt greeting. "I'm expecting an important visitor."

"All right, captain," responded Smith tranquilly, entering and helping himself to a chair.

"Have a pipe?" invited the host, pushing the tobacco tin toward him.

"Too hot," was the laconic declination.

"Well, how did you leave the Brooks family?"

"She knows."

"You tell her?"

"No; Joe did."

"Didn't think he had the nerve."

"He hasn't."

"How's that?"

"It was because he lost it that he told her. Busted right out the moment the door was closed on you."

"Did they have a row?"

"Don't know. She took it like a major and asked me to leave 'em alone."

"That's natural."

"Have you got the exact figures?"

"What figures?"

"Of how much he took."

"I guess so—to the penny," said Williams, reaching for a memorandum book and consulting it. "It was just $16,850 three days ago."

"Any more now?"

"Not that I know of. Guess that covers it."

Smith shook his head moodily.

"That's too bad—too bad," he murmured.

"That's right, it is too bad," agreed the captain.

Smith thought for a minute, looked straight at the captain, who was regarding him curiously and said firmly and more quickly than his employer had ever heard him speak before:

"Williams, I don't think it'll take three minutes for you and me to come to an understanding about Brooks."

"What about him?"

"I want to square this thing for him."

"Where do you come in, Smith?"

"In plain words, Williams, that's my business. But I want to square it."

"How do you think you can square it, Smith?"

As Jimsy prepared to answer the question he fell back into his old familiar drawl.

"Well, Williams," he said, "you ain't got any callous on your fingers from handing out coin to the folks who've worked for you, but I've always been treated about right."

"You were always worth treating right, Smith."

"Thanks."

"Always found you a fair man—doing things you said you'd do in a fair way."

"I ain't never been much of a spendthrift, Williams. I've saved and been a little lucky in investing the little I've had. I can raise about $14,000 by noon tomorrow, and I'll give you my note for the rest, with security—I mean collateral."

"So it ain't none of my business why you do this?"

"Exactly."

"Smith, I don't think you can square this little matter for Brooks."

"Don't think my note's good, eh?"

"'Tain't that. You couldn't square this, Smith, if you had a million right in your clothes this minute."

"Why not?"

"To tell the truth, I'm going to open negotiations with another party."

"That so?"

"Mrs. Brooks."

"How?"

"She's coming up here to see me soon. Maybe she and me can come to some mutually pleasant arrangement that will keep Brooks out of jail."

"When is she coming?"

The captain puffed at his pipe and scrutinized Smith's face closely as he replied:

"Expect her any moment."

"How do you know?"

"Telephoned."

If Williams expected to see any sign in his visitor of the utter amazement, the profound consternation, the imparting of this information caused, he was doomed to disappointment. Smith remained as unreadable as the sphinx. But it was sixty seconds before he spoke.

"I suppose that's a hint for me to be on my way?" he interrogated.

"That's about the meaning I meant to convey," admitted the captain, without circumlocution.

Jimsy rose slowly, took his hat and went toward the door. Before he reached it he turned.

"Williams," he said, "you know I've known Emma—Mrs. Brooks—ever since she was in short clothes and used to come down to the office to go home with her daddy."

"So I've heard."

"She's always been able to look into my face with them big blue eyes and smile. Some time—some day—if I get back—I'm going to make it my business to see her."

"All right."

"And if she shouldn't happen to look up into my face and smile I'm going to find you, Williams, and I'm coming heeled."

BURGLARS' MESSAGES

Scotland Yard Detectives Never Solved a Certain One

It is a fact not generally known that professional "crooks" frequently use cyphers of their own invention in order to communicate with their confederates. Quite a number of these are preserved in the "Black Museum" at Scotland Yard, and all of them have been deciphered—save one.

This solitary exception, which has baffled all the experts, was found on a burglar named Macdonald, who was sentenced some time back at the Old Bailey to twenty years' penal servitude for the attempted murder of Detective-Inspector Hooper and other officers by shooting at them with a revolver while he was being taken in a four-wheeled cab to Euston Station in custody.

The Foreign Office, the Secret Service, and the Home Office experts, have all in turn tried their hands at it, but without success. Yet it is known to be a genuine cryptogram, and not a mere meaningless jumble of signs and letters.

Its construction must be very elaborate, for many of those that have been deciphered are of exceedingly intricate construction. One took six weeks to unravel. It was worth the trouble, however, for it revealed the clue to the hiding-place of $18,000 worth of stolen jewellery.

A FIGURE FREAK

Here is a little freak in figures which will interest you, and help you to entertain your friends:

Put down the number of your living brothers.

Double the number.

Add three.

Multiply result by five.

Add number of living sisters.

Multiply result by ten.

Add number of dead brothers and sisters.

Subtract 150 from result.

The right-hand figure in this total will be the number of deaths.

The middle figure will be the number of living sisters.

The left-hand figure will be the number of living brothers.

DAMS ON ST. LAWRENCE

An Engineer's Suggestion Regarding Deepening Rivers and Harbors

Dr. Olgar Manheim, advisory engineer on rivers and harbors to the Norwegian Government, put a new theory into the heads of Canadian engineers in regard to summer navigation of the St. Lawrence when he passed through Montreal on his way home after having spent the last four months studying the Mississipi and the St. Lawrence routes. "I do not know whether it has ever been suggested before in this country," said he, "but I believe that regulation or conservation of the water is what your engineers should study instead of pegging away at your everlasting dredging. When I was in Cornwall I took a little motor boat and ran up to the foot of the Long Sault rapids, where, I understand, it is proposed to dam the St. Lawrence for the purpose of providing water power to the towns on the Canadian and American shores. It is a gigantic proposition they have there, and one which might well be followed out all along the river to Montreal. I do not mean that the damming should be done for water power purposes, but for bettering navigation. The dam at the Long Sault will, I believe, make that part of the river a quiet navigable stream, instead of the dangerous passage it is now. It will not divert any water from the river, but will hold it back and thus regulate the depth for miles to the westward. Dr. Manheim described a system of dams used in Norway which conserved the water by opening and closing, thus keeping the channel at a maximum depth in all seasons.

INQUIRING INTO VICE

Important Investigations Undertaken by the Methodist Church

The department of Moral and Social Reform of the Methodist Church in Canada has commenced a "vice" inquiry" to ascertain the moral conditions prevailing in various cities in Canada. Toronto has not yet been investigated, but will be in the near future. Work has already started in Montreal, and some horrible circumstances have already been reported. The investigations are being held along the lines of those held in Chicago prior to the publication of the now famous Chicago Vice Report

LOCAL MAN IS IN HOSPITAL AT COBOURG

Harry Mitchell Fell from Train at Station

Was Injured About the Head and Body

Mr. Harry Mitchell, 1023 Water street, who is employed at the gravel pit, at the north end of Water street, met with a serious accident at Cobourg on the evening of July 12th. Mr. Mitchell went down to Cobourg to witness the Orange celebration. In the evening he attempted to board a train returning to Peterborough, while carrying a large watermelon in his arms. The coach which he tried to enter was at the rear of the train and was just moving out. The unfortunate man missed getting a secure grip on the railing and swung backwards until his hold loosened and he fell back on the steel rails, receiving a a painful injury on the head, besides other injuries not yet known here.

His father and brother George, residing here, became alarmed when he did not return and to-day applied to Chief of Police Thompson to see if he could obtain information about the missing man. The chief phoned to the Cobourg chief of police and was informed that a man named Harry Mitchell had been conveyed to the Cobourg hospital suffering from serious injuries received by falling from a train at Cobourg.

Mr. George Mitchell, his brother, left this morning for Cobourg, to learn more of the accident and is expected back either to-night or in the morning.

WM. LePAGE WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY

Met His Death at Grand Union Hotel Lindsay

William LePage, a resident of Lindsay, and well known in this city, met his death yesterday morning by falling down the steps at the Grand Union Hotel, Lindsay. He was thirty-two years of age and some years ago was regarded as one of the best fancy skaters in the province. He had held the junior championship of Canada for several years. On numerous occasions he visited Peterborough and many friends here will regret to hear of his death.

LePage had been about the bar of the hotel on the previous evening and was told on several occasions to leave. About nine o'clock, in leaving the hotel, he apparently lost his balance and fell striking his head on the pavement. He remained unconscious after being carried into the hotel again, but through some misunderstanding, it appears, doctors, who were summoned, did not put in an appearance. The man remained in the hotel during the night and about five o'clock in the morning was found dead by the hostler. One son, Verne, and two brothers and two sisters, with his parents, survive.

CONVENTION IN THE EAST RIDING

Conservatives Wil Choose Candidate on July 27

The East Peterborough Conservative executive at a meeting held recently, decided to call the convention for Thursday, July 27, at 1.30 p.m. to select candidates for the riding, at the Norwood hall.

There will be some speaking at the afternoon session, but no night meeting, one to be arranged for later, with prominent speakers. It is very probable that only name to be mentioned for the Dominion house will be that of the present energetic member, J. R. Sexsmith, M.P. It is understood that James Thompson, M.L.A., the present member of the legislature will allow his name to go before the convention again. His course in the legislature during the past term has greatly increased his strength with the electorate.

HOSE DRILLS AT CENTRAL PARK

Water Will be Thrown Onto the Grass

Ald. Morgan, chairman of the fire water and light committee, has issued an order that Chief Howard conduct his hose drills in Central park during the months of July and August. The object of the order was to give the park the benefit of the water that is used when the firemen are conducting hose drill. This will be done at 4 a.m. when required. In addition to the benefit derived by the men from the drill, the water used will tend to beautify the park by keeping the grass green. The object of holding these drills at such an early hour, is to eliminate any annoyance to the citizens.

The first drill on Central Park was held this morning at 4 o'clock.

FINE OF $2 IN ASSAULT CASE

Albert Crouter Was Struck and Laid Low

A North Monaghan farmer appeared in police court this morning and was fined $2 for assaulting Albert Crouter on July 12th, in Montgomery's hotel.

Crouter went into the box and stated that the farmer struck him twice and the second blow laid him low. He bore a large patch of court-plaster on his forehead over the left eye as a proof of the blow. He told the magistrate that he and the farmer had always been good friends, and the only reason he knew for being hit was that he had in a joking manner made a proposal to the farmer which the latter resented.

The defendant when in the box said that he and a friend were sitting on the window sill of the hotel lavatory when Crouter entered and tried to begin a conversation to which they at first paid no attention. Finally Crouter made such an indecent and objectionable request of the farmer that he told him to "take a walk quick or he would give it to him." The other persisted and repeated the request, whereupon the defendant struck him, induced as he said, by the fact that CCrouter raised his hand as if to strike him. The bartender then interfered.

Acting Magistrate Armstrong considered that while the defendant had certainly great provocation in the matter, still he was not justified in taking the law into his own hands. The remark that Crouter had made was, however, certainly disgusting, he considered, and the defendant should have brought the matter to court instead of striking him. He therefore imposed the nominal fine which was paid.

CAMPBELL FLOUR MILLS CO. WILL BOOST LOCAL PLANT

Central Milling Co. to be Operated Again Next Week on More Extensive Scale.

Mr. D. A. Campbell, secretary-treasurer of the Campbell Flour Mills Company, whose head office is in West Toronto, was in the city last evening and was seen by a Review reporter in connection with the taking over of the Central Milling Company by the Campbell Flour Mills Company.

The Central Milling Company was purchased by the Toronto Company on May 15th of this year. It is the intention of the Campbell Milling Company stated Mr. Campbell, to operate the lately purchased Peterboro mill on a thoroughly up-to-date and extensive basis. The mill for the past ten days has not been in operation, thus allowing first class machinery to be installed and additional equipment to be placed in the mill so that when the mill is again in running order, it will in every respect be conducted in a modern business manner. The machinery is almost all in position and Mr. Campbell expected work to be resumed next week. "We have enough work on hand" said Mr. Campbell, "to go right ahead for three months, night and day, without a halt."

He expressed himself as being highly pleased with Peterboro, and with the location of the mills here. "One does not see all Peterboro's advantages at first glance," he added.

The new branch of the Campbell Flour Mills Company here will have a capacity of 400 barrels of flour and 30 tons of feed per day.

When asked if there was a likelihood of employment for more hands at the mill, Mr. Campbell said that it was very probable. In perhaps a year from now he thought they would build an addition to the mill, as there amount of work would have to be done here, to relieve the congestion of business of the Toronto mill.

PETERBORO' PEOPLE IN THE FIRE-STRICKEN COUNTRY

Arthur Tompkinson Lost Lost Everything at Cochrane — "Pete" Campbell Up North.

The fire horror of the north country, which has brought about so many deaths, suffering and desolation, has made many Peterboro people fear for the safety of relatives and friends who at their last writing were in the district which has been visited by the fire.

Word has been received from Mr. Arthur Tompkinson, who was identified when here with the Richmond studio on Hunter street, that he lost everything in the fire, which wiped out Cochrane and barely escaped with his life. He was in business in Cochrane and his studio with all contents was destroyed.

Mr. Gordon Campbell, son of Mr. Peter Campbell, manager of the Bank of Toronto, after a short visit here about two months ago, went to the north country to take a position with a mining firm at Golden City, and no word has been received from him since the fire. The damage at Golden City however, is comparatively small and the chances are that "Pete" only had the experience of safely, passing through one of the greatest horrors of New Ontario. Jack Maynard, the Varsity rugby star accompanied Mr Campbell, but is with a firm located some distance away.

Mr. Dave Porter, had property interests at Cochrane and is leaving the city on Monday for that place. He is a loser to some extent, but expects to make good his loss by rebuilding as soon as possible.

DICK O'BRIEN SAFE

Word has been received from Mr. Dick O'Brien, son of Mr. Michael O'Brien, Gilmour street. He is safe and uninjured, but his partner lost his life. "Dick" is prospecting in the Porcupine district and visited here this spring.

Mr. A. H. Stratton has received a telegram from Mr. Campbell who with Mrs. Campbell is in Glasgow, Scotland inquiring as to the safety of his son. Mr. Stratton however, has been unable to get in touch with "Pete" on account of trouble on the telegraph lines.

WITNESSES TELL OF TROUBLE WHEN MANLEY WAS STRUCK

Alfred Cooney Committed for Trial in September—Bail Renewed

The preliminary examination of with the Cooney assault case, of June 22nd, occupied the attention of County Magistrate Edmison at county court this morning and the evidence was sufficient to have Alfred Cooney committed for trial before the High Court the second Tuesday in September.

A large number of witnesses was present, but only a few were called and the evidence submitted was generally corroborated.

Mr. Arthur Wood, son of Crown Attorney Wood, acted in the interests of the Crown and G. N. Gordon conducted the defence.

DOCTOR'S EVIDENCE.

Dr. Harrison, of Keene, who was first called to attend Mark Manley, the victim of the assault, told of the condition and extent of the injuries which he found upon being called to attend Manley. He was summoned on the 22nd of June, he said, to see Mr. Manley and found him in a condition of shock. On examining him he found the back of the skull exceedingly tender. He also discovered an injury to the spine which manifested itself in the patient by a numbness and an inability on the part of the victim, to feel a pin inserted in his side. He considered it a case of contusion. It was the result of having been evidently hit with something hard.

AN EYE WITNESS.

Roland Dixon, a fourteen-year-old lad, living in Otonabee, was another witness. He was at Mr. Manley's gate between eight and nine o'clock, about dusk, when the affray occurred. He said he saw Mr. Manley leading two horses and Cooney crossing a field in his direction. When he came up he saw Cooney hit Manley over the head. He couldn't say what it was he struck him with, but it looked long and loose. Manley was in front of the horses, and between them Later he heard Manley yelling. He saw him later lying in a ditch at the top of the hill on the road, where he had crawled. When witness arrived on the road he saw Cooney holding the horses.

To Mr. Gordon witness said that Manley was taking the horses to pound.

SAW THE BLOW STRUCK.

William Carey, fifteen years of age, was called. He said he was standing with Rolly Dixon at the time of the fight. He saw Cooney approaching Manley waving something in his hand and over his head. He saw him swing it when he reached Manley. He and Rolly Dixon saw Manley afterwards lying in the ditch.

Redmond Carey, the boy's father, was called and told of helping to carry Manley into the house after the row.

No more witnesses were called, the magistrate considering sufficient corroborative evidence having been heard to warrant the prisoner being committed for trial. Bail was renewed on the same terms as before.

C.G.E. CHAMPS PUT ON STEAM AND KALSOMINED ALL SAINTS

Electric Eleven Take Midland League Championship for Second Time, With 7-0 Score.

The C.G.E. football team out-classed the All Saints aggregation in the final game of the Midland League, on the exhibition grounds before a large and enthusiastic group of spectators, last night, when time was called the score standing C.G.E. 7, All Saints 0

The "Saints" play was a dissappointment to the spectators as they were expected to give the champions a hard run for their money after the tie game on the Brinton grounds, Tuesday night. They did not seem to be playing the same game last-night—at any rate—and they were clearly outplayed. The exceptionally fast teamwork and headiness of the champs, made the game a burlesque one, so far as any opposition was concerned. However it is worth a jaunt to the Driving Park, to see the C.G.E. boys in action as they certainly have a fast team.

The decisive win last-night gives the C.G.E. a chance to send the team after the Ontario championship and it is to be hoped that such a good team as the champs have proved themselves to be, will not be allowed to disband without a chance at higher honors.

The Church Leaguers are finished for this season, but expect to be out in larger numbers than ever next year The league have been fairly successful during the past season, and it has accomplished in part at least, what it was organized to do; to promote clean sport in the city and develop the available material. As to developing the material, the C.G.E. has called upon several of the Church League teams at different times, and nearly all those who have made the jump into the faster company have made good.

THE PLAY

The game last-night started with the champs pressing Moraity but they failed to connect for fifteen minutes when Robinson, All Saints, full back scored on his own goaler by a kick in the wrong direction. He probably forgot which side he was playing for, the shots were coming so fast.

There were some beautiful combination rushes by the champs, but Evans did not have much to do as the "Saints" forwards did not seem to be able to penetrate their opponents defence. The C.G.E. forwards were passing unselfishly, but Moraity was pulling off everything that came his way until W. Dawson passed to centre and E. Dawson headed the ball just under the bar for the second counter.

In fifteen minutes more E. Dawson added another handshake to his already lengthy string of the season, when he beat Moraity again. The half ended without anyone tallying for All Saints. C.G.E. 3, All Saints 0.

When the players got into action for the last stage, All Saints seemed to shove on a little more speed, and the spectators began to think they were going to see a close finish. The spurt only lasted a few minutes as the electric men were there to whitewash the Church Leaguers.

E. Dawson was laid out for a minute and Gash bit the dust for a short time. After the play had been going for some time, Corliss, who had been playing a lightning fast game, at outside right, got the fourth counter.

Padgett had his leg injured but was back in a couple of minutes.

Miller got the credit for two more tallies, which made the list 6-0.

W. Dawson landed the seventh and last and the game ended with the count 7-0.

LINEUPS FOR SATURDAYS BALL GAME AT RIVERSIDE

Dan McCabe to Call Game at Three O'clock Sharp

Everything points towards a grand game of ball at Riverside park tomorrow afternoon, when the locals and Belleville Grand Trunks start away at three o'clock with Dan McCabe, as umpire.

It is not a hurriedly picked up team which the visitors will bring, but a real live nine that is going to try all the time to take the measure of the Riverside crew.

"Prunes" will be on the firing line, with Stan Cresswell ready to take a hand at any stage. Rahmal and W. O'Brien are billed for the middle field, but the former will likely hold down the job.

Belleville will bring two batteries, but Ashton and Brown will make an effort to carry off the honors. Ashton is the twirler who was tried out by the Montreal Eastern league team. Brown will be remembered as the backstop who was seen in action here last season.

The fans will be glad to welcome George Minorgan back to Riverside, where he was one of the best performers in the city league last year. He will work at short stop.

The usual prices will prevail, and with fine weather, which is promised, the game should draw a bumper house.

DETROIT TIGERS TOOK THIRD GAME FROM THE ATHLETICS

Giants and Phillies Now Tied for Top Position—Toronto Won.

Detroit, July 13—The Tigers made it the third straight from the Athletics to-day, but had to play into the ninth inning to do it. Four runs were scored in the eighth by the Mack men who then led by three runs. The Tigers got three hits in this round, which put over two tallies, and the winning count came in the ninth, with one out when Cobb singled and scored from first when Delahanty came through with a single to Lord

SPORT TALK

There would be joy in the hearts of the officers of the athletic clubs in the city was to take over Riverside park. The school boys would be in their glory. The owners of the grounds at the present time have to charge a rather stiff rate to sporting organizations for the use of the grounds, and as a result, only those who can really afford to meet the bill will run off their sport program there.

People talk about sport being at low ebb in Peterborough, but rarely ever take into consideration the expense which is incurred by those at the helm. Last season the city baseball league didn't draw sufficient gate receipts on several Saturdays to pay for the grounds, and double header clubs generally lost $3 each on balls which went into the river.

It costs the city considerable each year for advertising purposes, and yet as an advertising medium a winning baseball, lacrosse, rugby football or hockey team is hard to beat, and that was shown to be a fact not many years ago when Peterborough was to the front in almost every branch of sport.

Perhaps the youngsters, were they assisted by having a playground, such as Riverside park would make, might revive the good old game of lacrosse or break into the rugby game.

The Collegiate boys, who are a rare bunch of sportsmen, would appreciate such grounds. So would the public and Separate school boys, who take great interest in sports and are ably upheld by their teachers. Then there is the Y.M.C.A. athletes who would be greatly assisted.

Jerry Edmunds is continuing to play great ball for the Winnipeg Maroons. The former local backstop is having his best season and is landing on the ball hard.

The C.G.E. team with their win from All Saints' last night, won the championship of the Midland football league for the second time. The boys have been playing consistent football and well deserve the honors. Congratulations are due Manager Bill Milburn, who is also secretary of the league.

The neck and neck races in the three big baseball leagues is being followed with much interest locally. Some of the dopesters have it that the wily manager of the Athletics is working Jack Coombs too frequently, and he will be found wanting in the pinch. Many favor the Tigers to win out and have placed added confidence in the Jennings outfit since the performance of Wild Bill Donovan when he shut out the Mackmen. Donovan has been held in reserve, and his work of Tuesday should be repeated during the remainder of the season if the weather remains to his liking.

Although the bowling season is well advanced no local tournament has been heard of, and it is up to the Brookside knights of the jack to get busy and not let old Sol be alone in his work of burning up the grass.

The fun is beginning to break in the Canadian ball league, the umpires having to bear the brunt in many cases, and Bobby Robinson will soon have to have a messenger staff if complaints continue to come in as they have of late. Dubbie S..., who has worked at almost every position on the Brantford team, has been released, and Bobby McWhirter, the

BIG ATHLETIC CLUB

Calgary Plans to Have a Fifty Thousand Dollar Building

The biggest athletic club in Western Canada, if not in the whole Dominion, will be located at Calgary within the next few months, if the plans of the promoters who are behind the deal carry it through. An application for articles of incorporation under the laws of the Province of Alberta are now being prepared. The club will be incorporated with a capital of $75,000. A... more than a half of the stock has been subscribed, and the remainder will go like hot cakes just as soon as the stock is put upon the market. The men who are behind the deal are not willing to have their names announced as yet. Some of the richest and most prominent men in the city are behind the project.

It is the intention of the promoters to supply Calgary and Western Canada with a place where the best boxing experts of the world can be matched. A $50,000 building is included in the plans of the club. This building will be one of the best equipped athletic club buildings in the world. A big gymnasium will be one of the principal attractions. The gymnasium will be planned so that tiers of seats can be installed whenever a boxing-bout is to be pulled off. Downstairs a spacious swimming-pool will be provided. The swimming-pool will be the largest artificial plunge in the West.

FURIOUS BATTING OF A CRICKETER

Terrific Hitting of Edward Alletson, a Professional Freak of the Nottinghamshire Team

The English cricket season is at a very early stage yet, but it has already provided many sensations. The most remarkable happening so far has been the terrific hitting of Edward Alletson, a protege of the Duke of Portland, and a professional member of the Nottinghamshire team. Gilbert Jessop has done some remarkable things in the way of hard hitting and rapid scoring, but nothing like the tremendous performance of Alletson has ever been achieved even by "The Croucher," as Mr. Jessop is sometimes designated by reason of his stooping posture at the wicket when waiting for and watching the ball. When Alletson went in a little before lunch on the final day of the match the position of Notts seemed about as hopeless as anything well can be in cricket. Eight wickets were down in their second innings, and they were only 84 runs on. Aletson at once set about the bowling, and scored with freedom; but it was not until after the luncheon interval that he commenced to lay about him in the terrific fashion which, whatever he may accomplish in the future, will make his name famous in cricket history Killick and Leach were the bowlers. In one over from the first-named he hit 22 runs, and another soon after for 34, made up of three sixes and four fours. There were two no-balls in the over. Leach suffered in only a slightly lesser degree. Alletson made 50 runs in a quarter of an hour, and, pursuing the same fierce tactics, notwithstanding changes in the bowling, he knocked up 142 runs in 40 minutes after luncheon—115 of them in seven overs. At last, having made 189 in an hour and a half, he attempted another huge drive, and was caught on the boundary by the Sussex captain, C. L. A. Smith. This heroic achievement completely chagned the complexion of the game. Sussex was set 237 to get to win, with three hours and a quarter left to play. Robert Relf and Vine started so well that there seemed a reasonable probability that the runs would be made. At 112, however, Relf was caught, and at 139 three disasters befell the batting side, whilst with another five runs added the fifth man was out, so that with half their wickets down and an hour remaining for play, Sussex still wanted 93 runs. A useful stand of 50 for the next wicket revived their hopes, butt hey were not destined to win, and only narrowly escaped defeat, for when time expired they still wanted 24, and had but two wickets to fall.

TRIUMPHANT TECUMSEHS

Could Hardly Lose the Championship So Easy is It to Hold

So far the N.L.U. race has been a procession, with Querrie's Indians in the lead and the rest fighting hard to beat the distance flag. Should they keep up their present gait the Hanlan's Pointers look safe for a trip to the Coast next fall. But they'll fall off soon. They always do. However, even a temporary slump will not ruin their chances, for all the other N.L.U. teams are of such poor calibre this year that the "Big Chiefs" could hardly lose the championship unless they handed it to somebody on a platter.

HOUSES SHOT FROM GUNS

The cement gun is an invention designed to do away with the whitewash and kalsomine brush, the cement and plaster trowel and a few other things of a similar nature. It is the very latest method of applying coatings of cement, lime gypsum and other plastic materials to structures in need of repair, and of putting up the original walls of such structures entire, if need be. In other words, the cement coated or concrete house of the future seems destined to be literally "shot" from a gun. The idea of shooting a house, not to pieces, but together, may sound absurd, but it is well to remember that this is an age of scientific miracles, which come almost as fast and as thick as the flowers that spring up after an April shower, and we really should not be surprised at anything that happens.

There would seem to be an almost unlimited field for the practical use of the cement gun, foundation work and waterproofing below grade should be well adapted to this process. As a means of coating steel to prevent rust and corrosin it should prove superior to the ordinary method of painting, for a cement coating will wear much better than one of paint. The pipe line of the New York aqueduct from the Catskill mountains is now being lined with a two-inch coating of cement and in this manner. The inside diameter of the pipe is eight feet, eleven inches, so that a man can easily walk through it and perform the spraying process. Smaller pipes can be similarly treated in sections.

Suppose you have old and crumbling walls, sidewalks or leaky roofs that need repairing, or a wooden building that you want made fireproof in anticipation of a visit from the fire insurance examiner. There will be no need of having one's premises littered up for a week or more with a lot of mortar, boards and mixers, scaffoldings, and similar eyesores, as in times past. You simply send out a hurry-up call for the cement gun man, who comes around with his little renovator, and—presto, everything is made spick and span "while you wait." It is something like sending one's clothes to the cleaner, only in this case the cleaner comes to you.

Tree surgery is another thing that seems destined to undergo a revolution if all that is claimed for the cement gun proves practical. There are hundreds of torn, cracked and decaying trees in the private yards, on the streets and in the public parks, of every city that could have their years of usefulness and ornament doubled if they were given proper attention. The trouble is that it doesn't pay to go around and patch the mud with handmade cement or plaster, as it might be termed. Besides, this is an instance wherein it especially necessary that the plastic product should be applied with the least possible delay after mixing on account of its subsequent constant exposure to the elements. With the cement gun this work can be done so quickly and cheaply that its use in this connection should become very general.—From "Houses Shot from Guns," in August Technical World Magazine.

HOW JEWELS ARE SET

Four Distinct Methods of Setting a Diamond—Art is Simple

Few people outside the jewellery trade have any idea how the brilliants they buy and wear are fastened into their settings, and a great many retail jewellers who have sold jewellery for years are equally ignorant. The art of setting jewels is comparatively simple, the skill of a setter depending upon his knowledge of the strength of the material and the delicate touch required, which can only be gained by years of practice.

There are only four distinct methods of setting a diamond, though mountings are made which involve two or more of these methods. The most common is the clamp or claw. The operator imbeds this mounting, whatever it may be, in warm shellac on the end of a stick (six inches of broom handle is generally used), leaving the setting exposed. This cools and holds the delicate piece of jewellery firm in all parts. He then, with a thin file, files all the clamps, bringing them up to sharp points. Then, with a scraper or graver shaped like a chisel (all his cutting tools are miniature chisels of different shapes) he digs out a bearing or shoulder for the edge of the stone on the inside of each clamp.

He now, with a pair of sharp-pointed pliers, bends the clamps inward or outward, as they happen to require, until the stone will just squeeze into the circle of clamps. Then the stone is pressed firmly down until the edge rests squarely on the bearing of each clamp. This leaves the ends of the clamps sticking up past the edge of the stone. The next step is to push all these ends over the edge and burnish them tight. A piece of soft steel about three inches long is used for this, filed to a small square end, and fitted in a round handle. When the clamps are all firm in their places, they are bright cut, as the term is. The clamps are trimmed to a point with three cuts, two on the sides and one on the top.

The setter cuts away from the stone and must be careful not to dig too deep into the gold, or he will push the whole clamp away from the stone; then, to make a good job, the stone must come out and the clamp bent forward again. Some who manufacture the finest goods do not believe in bright-cutting clamps on rings, as the sharp edges left are very severe on gloves worn over them. A setter employed by these firms merely sets the clamps to a point, and the polisher buffs it round on top, when the work gets the last finish.

RULES THE RICHEST MAN

Rockefeller's Secretary, Miss Adam, is a Vigorous Woman

The only person on earth that John D. Rockefeller, the Oil King, takes orders from is a woman, and that woman is not Mrs. John D. Rockefeller. She is his secretary, Miss Adam. She is a clear-cut, precise, strong, vigorous woman, like Katherine Harrison, who was H. H. Rogers's secretary for many years.

Miss Adam looks after the Oil King's correspondence, makes all of his engagements, and is his remembrancer, so that he forgets none of them. She goes through his correspondence every morning, and picks out the letters she thinks worth while for him to see. The rest of them she either mentions, or else she answers them without asking his advice, because she knows his wishes so thoroughly.

Sometimes Mr. Rockefeller, who is getting to be quite a mild and tolerant sort of man, is inclined to follow the suggestion of some of his correspondents, or to do as he is requested by an acquaintance or a friend. Miss Adam has been with him so long and knows him so well, and has his confidence so absolutely, that she does not hesitate to take a stand against him, if she does not believe in the wisdom of what is suggested. Nine times out of ten the man of many millions bows to her will.

GAS ENGINES V. STEAM ENGINES

The Newest Means of Propelling the Great Dreadnoughts

In the future it is practically certain that the gas-engine will take the place of the steam-engine as a means of propelling our great ships through the water. Several of the warships in the British Navy are now fitted with oil as well as steam-engines, and their success has been astonishing.

The introduction of oil fuel is of great value from the naval standpoint. In the first place, it gets rid of the great difficulty of coaling at sea, and, in the second place, it enormously reduces the number of stokers carried. All the toil and strain of stoking is removed, and between an oil-fired and a coal-fired stokehold you have all the difference between an inferno and a holiday trip. No fires have to be cleaned out at short intervals. All the stoker has to do is to turn on or off his valves, supplying oil to the burners.

In the engine-room the change is as great. These gas-engines operate like the well-known petrol engine used to drive most motor-cars, the gas being mixed with air, and exploded in a number of cylinders. No smoke is given off, and there will be no funnels needed to carry off the fumes. Thus there will be no obstruction to the range of the guns and no vulnerable spot at which an enemy can aim.—Horners' Weekly.

WHAT IS MADNESS?

Never use the words "madness," "lunatic," or such obsolete terms, as they convey an entirely different meaning to what I hope to be able to show you is the real meaning of mental disorder. There is really no distinction between mental disorder and physical disorder. The distinction which has been made in the past is purely an arbitrary one, and one which, no doubt, has its basis upon superstition.

The prettiest woman in the United States many men believe has her face

JAP'S IDEA ON WIFE QUESTION

He Classifies Wives Into Foolish, Stupid, Unruly, Sagacious and Good

When it comes to the wife question the Japanese have their own standard. Kaisiki Matsumura, widely known in Japan as an essayist, presents the Japanese view very clearly in a recent issue of the Tokio magazines.

He says that a wife comes within one of the following five classes: (1) a stupid wife, (2) the foolish wife, (3) the unruly wife, (4) the sagacious wife, and (5) the good wife. By a stupid wife, he explains that he means one neither a sloven nor a shrew.

"She is a stupid woman by birth," he says. "She does not know that when there is a visitor she ought in accordance with Japanese etiquette to serve tea and cakes quickly, nor at meal time to invite the visitor to partake of food. She is never punctual, and will keep her friends waiting at her door while she is leisurely putting more paint on her face. These are her salient features.

"A foolish wife is one who is uselessly secretive and talkative by turns. If you think her good natured you are mistaken. At times she will be found taxing her feeble mind with some sly thoughts. She cannot be taught. She may be popular with her visitors and neighbors, but she is capricious, wayward and moody. She gives with the utmost freedom to one she likes, and yet grudges even to move a finger for one she dislikes. She can be saint or a fury at a moment's notice. When she is happy she will babble endlessly. When she is sullen she will not even respond to your call.

"One morning she will rise early and next day she will sleep till noon. She does not mind if by her forwordness she shall place her husband in an awkward or embarrassing position with his friends or relatives. If he frets, she frets the more. If he goes to his club she would go to the theatres. If he spends money she will decide to spend more. Quarrels and a divorce is the old story of such a union.

"A sagacious wife is neither foolish nor forward. She is shrewd and capable, knows how to manage other people and has her own opinions. She is respected by her friends and admired by people generally. She is methodical in her work and knows what is wanted before she is asked.

"People may say that a man would be of little use in the world save for such a wife, but the truth is that while such a wife is indispensable for an incapable man she may prove only an obstruction to a man who is able and more experienced than she is. Her conceit will make her believe that without her advice her husband can not blunder.

"The ideal wife is the good wife. She is of course not stupid, having in reality more wisdom than the sagacious wife, but she makes no attempt to display her cleverness. She may be educated, but she is not the sort that is determined to impress the bystander with her education. She has her own opinions, but is chary of expressing them unless there is a sound reason for doing so.

"She knows that love conquers everything and that only good can result from loving her husband, so that even in matters of which she more or less disapproves she is sympathetic and encouraging. In this respect she is a sort of philosopher, and in such a marriage it is the husband who seeks her advice, because he can be sure of help and sympathy no matter whether he accepts her advice or not.

"Such a wife makes even a stupid husband seem wise in the eyes of the world. People will not say that he would be of little account save for his wife. No doubt she has great ability, but it is invisibly cloaked beneath her womanly virtues."

HANDSOME STRIPED SUIT

Some History About Typewriters Modern and Ancient

CHAPTER NINE

A few years ago typewriters were used almost entirely for letter writing. It is different to-day. Their field of usefulness has increased many fold.

THE Underwood introduced typewriter bookkeeping, and the application of the typewriter to many special recording purposes.

THERE are over a score of special models of the Underwood for special uses.

MANY firms use four times as many Underwoods for accounting work as they use for correspondence.

THE modern office uses Underwood systems—billing systems, order systems, bill and charge systems, etc., planned for their particular needs.

PORCUPINE DISASTER GROWS IN HORROR

persons had taken refuge.

"It is getting worse," was Chairman Englehart's response to inquires yesterday, as to the latest reports from the fire-swept areas.

"The country is still in flames," he continued, "and with no indications of wearing out.

"Everyone that we could take or that wanted to come out of Porcupine are already out of there," continued the chairman. Mr. Englehart received a wire from Chief Engineer Clement, who is in Porcupine at present, stating that plenty of food of various kinds, and sleeping accommodation were on hand for those who remain. There was, however, a shortage of bread, but an ample supply was on the way.

Last Night In Porcupine.

The sights of dying men are pitiful. Twelve empty canoes on the shores of the lake make the outlook horrible. Dynamite has been used in the lake, but no bodies have risen yet. It is estimated that forty were drowned. One man was drowned at Pearl Lake.

Men from McArthur Township report a hard trip. All the townships near here have been completely swept. Pearl Lake, Bewick-Moreing and McIntyre are the only big mines saved.

Met With Serious Accident.

Chatham, Ont., July 14.—Acaud Martin, son of Eugene Martin of Dover, while drawing grain at a threshing on Tuesday, met with a serious accident. The horses ran away and Mr. Martin ran out on the tongue to grasp the lines, which he had lost. He found he could not control the animals and jumped from the tongue over one of the horses. In his fall he broke one of his legs above the knee.

Japanese Grateful.

Ottawa, July 14.—The Japanese Government, through its consul-general, Hon. Mr. Nakamaura, has presented to Fred Cook, former mayor, a set of three beautiful silver cups.

This gift is in appreciation of Mr. Cook's services to Japan in 1905, when he organized in Ottawa and managed as honorary secretary, the fund for the relief of the sufferers by famine in the northeast prefectures of Japan.

Killed By Ice Wagon.

Ottawa, July 14.—John Morris Nolet, aged two years and six months, the son of Joseph Nolet, 213 Cathcart street, was run over and almost instantly killed by a civil service ice wagon yesterday morning. The little lad was crossing Cathcart street to buy some candy at the corner grocery store, in company with his broth

CRESSMAN'S EMPLOYEES INVADE HIGHLAND PARK

Fourth Annual Outing Down the River Provided Jolly Good Time.

The fourth annual outing of the Cressman company was the best yet. The Rainbow, with 75 employes, left Wolfe street wharf at 1.30 o'clock bound for Highland park, where a full program of sports and games was run off. The trip down the river was a pleasant one, and every minute was enjoyed with singing and music. It was a jolly good time on board the Rainbow. On leaving Wolfe street wharf a slight shower put in an appearance, but didn't long enough to dampen the faiths of the merry half-day crowd.

After the games and races were over all sat down to supper. The ladies supplied the refreshments, and in this line as well as in every other, did themselves proud. As all sat down to supper Miss Olive Edney presented Mrs. Cressman and Mrs. Henderson with a beautiful bouquet of American beauties, with the compliments of the employes. In a well-worded address Mr. Cressman, on behalf of the two ladies, thanked the employes. The spirit of comradeship and good-fellowship that prevails throughout spoke eloquently of the harmonious feelings existing between Mr. Cressman and his staff.

The outing, which was a grand one, will long be remembered as the most pleasant ever enjoyed by the 75 employes, who thanked Mr. Cressman for his kind thoughtfulness. Devey's orchestra supplied the music, which was immensely enjoyed.

Mr. Edney, captain of the winning baseball team, is a happy man today.

Mr. Patterson, in record time, won the 50 yard dash.

Mr. Dean captured the running long jump.

Miss Stillman and Miss Phillips won the three-legged race.

The boot and shoe race went to Miss Long.

Max Schueter won the fat man's race.

The Henderson challenge race was won by Mr. Henderson, who, though not as young as he used to be, as usual managed to put it all over the younger men, who tried hard to win the big prize.

Mr. Patterson, captain of the tug-of-war, was winner.

Miss Wesley captained the ladies' tug-of-war and won after a hard fight. Miss Emerson's side worked hard, and it was only after ten minutes of the hardest work that that Miss Wesley was successful.

Miss Kelly carried off the pennant for the football match. The ladies proved to be great kickers.

After supper the merry crowd started for home, tired, but happy. The expense of this outing is shouldered by Mr. Cressman, and it isn't necessary to say that the staff appreciates the kindness he always has shown them, "For he's a jolly good fellow."

SACRED HEART CHURCH LAWN SOCIAL WAS A BIG SUCCESS

Provided Pleasant Time for Very Large Attendance of Friends.

The spacious lawn of the Sacred Heart church was the scene of a monster gathering last night, when the annual lawn social of the Sacred Heart parish was given. The popularity of this event with the citizens was evidenced by the large number present. The excellent supper, provided by the ladies of the parish, was well patronized, as were the various refreshment booths, which were located at different points upon the grounds.

There was plenty of light as several arch lamps had been placed about the lawn for that purpose. Under the direction of Mr. R. Giddon, a section of the 57th regimental band supplied excellent music. The weather was cooler than usual, and the change was much enjoyed by the pleasure seekers.

The receipts will go towards the building fund of the new Sacred Heart church and will make quite an item. They were very large, but the complete returns have not yet been made.

KING LIKES THE CHANGED VERSE

In the National Anthem — Let There be Peace

London, July 13.—A change has been made in the National Anthem. In these days, when the main thought throughout the civilized world is peace, one of the old verses of the anthem is said to have struck the King as sounding a somewhat discordant note. It runs:

"O Lord our God arise,
Scatter His enemies,
And make them fall;
Confound their politics,
Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On Him our hopes we fix,
O save us all."

That verse has now been replaced by the following written by Dean Holt, and breathing a more peaceful spirit:

"O Lord our God arise,
Scatter His enemies,
Make wars to cease.
Keep us from plague and dearth,
Turn thou our woes to mirth,
And over all the Earth
Let there be peace."

The alteration has been specially sanctioned by King George, and is therefore of national importance, seeing that it is now likely to be universally followed.

FINE PICTURES OF OCEAN LIMITED

Intercolonial Railway Sending Them to Ontario

The Review takes pleasure in acknowledging the receipt of a very attractive picture, one of a series issued by the Intercolonial Railway for distribution in Ontario and the west.

The picture shows the Ocean Limited at full speed rounding the shores of Bedford Basin, near Halifax. It is a beautiful scene and the coloring is a very faithful representation of the true loveliness of the verdure, and the shimmering hue of this picturesque ocean inlet.

The "Ocean Limited" is the Intercolonial Railway's summer train, which leaves Montreal at 7.30 p.m. daily, except Saturday, for Quebec, the lower St. Lawrence resorts, St. John, Halifax and makes direct connection for Prince Edward Island and the Sydneys. Grand Trunk trains arriving in Montreal use the same depot, the Bonaventure, so that transfer across the city is avoided.

Prominent display is being given these picturesque hotels, public buildings, telegraph and express offices, and in many places where the travelling public is most likely to notice them and be charmed accordingly.

They should play a prominent part in calling the attention of travellers to the attractions of the Maritime Provinces, and the advantages of the route traversed by the I.C.R., and form another important link in the chain of publicity which the Intercolonial has in recent years given to Eastern Canada.

"A COWARD WHINE"

(Catholic Register.)

It is rather ridiculous to hear the wail of Protestant protest and remonstrance here in Ontario, because we have been telling some plain truths to them about their religion, and the sort of mental pabulum their ministers have been serving up to them. We, indeed, are telling the truth, but let them put themselves in our places and think for a moment of the campaign of calumny and slander waged against Catholics here for the last forty years! The vilest of so-called "ex-nuns" and "ex-monks," and Margaret L. Shephards, have been brought here into Protestant churches and given free scope to utter the foulest libels against the fair fame of the Catholic Church and its members. The ministers have not hesitated to expose their congregations to hearing the most lying and obscene of stories, well content if by doing so they had done harm to the cause of Catholicity in these parts. Catholic citizens had to listen to, or read in the press the filthiest of insinuations and charges made against communities and convents where their sisters and daughters whom they knew to be the purest of the pure, were domiciled!

Catholics have stood this storm of filth and obscenity in the past, and are standing it at the present day. The Cobalt Nugget, of June 30th, reports a raw and uneducated minister, Rev. T. M. Dodson, of Orillia, as saying: "The Catholic Church has been using all kinds of craft for the power of political machinery and intrigue. In Quebec every kind of vice was practiced with impunity. They had the whole Bible to take to Roman Catholics. They did not have to leave out any portion of it. He appealed to them on behalf of the Grand Ligne Mission."

Another minister at the same meeting said that in South America "where there were most Romanists there was most vice."

So the campaign of diabolical slander goes on even at the present day, and Protestant audiences hear its belchings without shame and without protest.

And yet we cannot make a plain exposition of Catholic truth or doctrine, or point out the falsehood of ministerial accusations against our Church or people, but Protestants—and be it said to their shame some spineless Catholics, too,—hold up their hands in horror at our "strong language!" In God's name, how long will this unhealthy and one-sided state of public opinion be allowed to continue?

INFANT MORTALITY AT MONTREAL

Montreal, July 13.—The effect of the recent heat wave on the children of Montreal is shown by the startling infant mortality figures, the compilation of which for the first twelve days of the month was completed to-day. Ninety-six per cent. of the deaths which have been reported since July 1st, are those of infants under five years of age, the actual figures being: Total deaths, 473; infants, 454.

For the first eight days of the month 432 deaths were reported, including 324 children under five years, or just 75 per cent of the total.

Since Saturday there have been 171 additional deaths registered at the City Hall, and of this number no fewer than 130 were young children, bringing up the infant mortality to the disquieting proportion of 96.12 per cent. of the total death rate for July as far as the month has advanced.

There are so many useless things the world that I sometimes think that the Lord made some things just to be mischievous.

TALES FROM NORTH ARE EXAGGERATED

Hon. Frank Cochrane Says Reports Are Too Sensational Fifty-Two Dead Have Been Accounted For—Details of Fire.

Toronto, July 15.—Reassuring reports came to the Parliament Buildings and offices of the T. & N. O. yesterday regarding the loss of life in the Porcupine fire.

Hon. Frank Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, who has shared with Mr. Englehart a large part of the anxiety and responsibility of controlling the situation the last few days, was rather severe in his criticism of what he termed exaggerated reports of the casualties. He said:

"While we don't want to minimize this terrible affair, reports coming in are grossly exaggerated. Our Mr. Clements, chief engineer of the T. & N. O. Railway, says that only 52 people have been accounted for as dead. We have it directly from the Dome people themselves that their death list is nine only. In a number of instances where bodies have been reported as lying on the ground, investigation by Mr. Clements has failed to find anybody who had seen any. Wild rumors are caught up and they are spread to an incredible extent. We want to check these wild rumors, and feel from the reports we receive and the questions asked that people are unnecessarily alarmed. What the people want is cooking utensils. There is plenty of provisions on the way for the present."

Subsequently Mr. Cochrane deplored the effect of these reports on relatives and friends of those in Porcupine. The loss of life was bad enough without stampeding the people into alarm. It was much better to comfort the people and inspire confidence than to excite the feelings of those already on the verge of panic. "The fact is," added Mr. Cochrane, "every person who wanted to come out of Porcupine could come. Two cars on the train which left Thursday were unoccupied. There is no real suffering. They have food, tents and covering against the weather. Everybody from Cochrane, Porcupine, Matheson and other affected districts could come out on the railway without expense, but many refused and preferred to remain."

Another point cleared up at the Department of Lands yesterday was that the fire which destroyed Cochrane was not the same fire that devasted Porcupine. The Porcupine fire was confined to Whitney and Tisdale Townships. There have also been fires in other sections of the country.

The trains from the northern country have now brought from the fire-swept districts nearly one hundred persons. Every train from North Bay has from one to fifteen people whose stories of escape thrill with human interest.

hen the truth of the big fire is known the wonderful self-sacrifice and heroism displayed by many of the men who undertook to save the women and children first will be equalled by that shown by the women themselves. Returned sufferers state that the women as a rule were cool and self-collected, and that many heroic deeds were performed in the course of what they took to be the call of duty and self-sacrifice.

The vastness of the north country, the wide area destroyed by the numerous bodies of water into which men have plunged, the flames and the number of prospectors, miners and laborers scattered in all directions, makes the task of listing the dead an impossible one, say refugees, who shudder as they tell of the dangers through which they have passed.

"There are bodies lying at the bottom of Porcupine Lake, which no one knows of," said E. R. Henderson, proprietor of the Lyric Theatre, at Golden City, last evening on his arrival in Toronto.

Both Mr. Henderson and a friend, Mr. Whittam, were of the opinion that at least one hundred people had perished in Porcupine Lake alone. They said at least 60 went down in full view of their own eyes.

It appeared that the fire had been raging near South Porcupine and Pottsville on Sunday and Monday the wind rose and without a moment's notice carried the sparks from the wood to the rear of South Porcupine over to the waterfront, setting the buildings there on fire. The inhabitants, in less than five minutes, were hemmed in by fire on all sides.

Messrs. Henderson and Whittam said the damage to the mines is very slight, in fact the clearing away of the trees makes the work of prospecting very much easier, and the works of mining will also be made lighter.

Orders have already been placed for mining machinery and other supplies. The work will not be dorment for more than a few weeks at the most and will then go on with greater activity than ever.

One Estimate Gives 500.

North Bay, July 15.—Refugees are pouring out of the north country and all gave cries of suffering and death along the trails and roads. The estimate of dead now reaches over five hundred and may be more. One prospector tells a story of seeking refuge in a mud hole, where a black bear snuggled up beside him until the fire passed over. It is hard to say which was most frightened, the man or bear, but bruin skedaddled in the bush after the fire passed and the prospector got out to the steel.

George Connolly is dead.

At the Big Dome an Italian woman who was about to be confined was in serious danger, but was cared for and gave birth to the child after the worst was over.

Reports coming in from Night Hawk Lake indicate great loss of life.

Dr. McLean, a graduate of Toronto University, reported dead, is all right. At the Dome the scene was terrible. When the shaft house succumbed to flames, the air was shut off in the shaft, and Mrs. Burd managed to reached the surface, but fell back to her death, exhausted. She must have had a hard fight as the cage was not in operation and the woman must have crawled from timber to timber only to see the daylight and fall back dead in the shaft.

Reports are coming in of fires along the line of C.P.R. and other railroads. Sellwood is wiped out, with great loss but no casualties as far as known.

Fires are burning around Lake Nipissing, but conditions are good to save lives and property.

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE GETS A NEW LEASE OF LIFE

Sir Edward Grey and Count Kato After Conference In London Sign a Renewal of the Treaty With an Alteration Excluding the United States From Britain's Possible Enemies—To Last Six Years.

London, July 15.—The Anglo-Japanese alliance has been modified to exclude the United States from Great Britain's possible enemies, and the life of the alliance has been extended nearly six years by the new version of the treaty which Sir Edward Grey, the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, and Count Kato, the Japanese ambassador at London, signed on Thursday. The original agreement, which was signed August 12, 1905, included eight articles and a preamble. The only practical difference between that and the new versions is embodied in article 4, which reads:

"Should either high contracting party conclude a treaty of general arbitration with a third power, it is agreed that nothing in this agreement shall entail upon such contracting party an obligation to go to war with the power with whom such treaty of arbitration is in force."

The preamble states:

"The Government of Great Britain and the Government of Japan having in view the important changes which have taken place in the situation since the conclusion of the Anglo-Japanese treaty of 1905, and believing that a revision of that agreement responding to such changes would contribute to the general stability and repose, have agreed upon the following stipulations to replace the agreement above mentioned."

Then follows the objects of the alliance as set forth in the previous draft. These include the consolidation and maintenance of general peace in the regions of Eastern Asia and India, the preservation of the common interests of all the powers in China, and the maintenance of the territorial rights of the contracting parties in the regions of Eastern Asia and India, and the defence of their special interests in those regions.

Articles three, four and six of the treaty of 1905 are omitted in the revised version. Article three of the old version stipulated that "Japan, possessing paramount political, military, and economic interests in Korea, Great Britain recognizes Japan's right to take such measures for the guidance, control and protection of Korea as she may deem proper and necessary to safeguard and advance those interests, providing the measures so taken are not contrary to the principle of equal opportunities for the commerce and industry of all nations.

Article four referred to the recognition by Japan of Great Britain's rights to safeguard her Indian possessions. Article six specially referred to the war between Japan and Russia at that date, and Great Britain's neutrality.

This version of the treaty is known to be largely the result of the discussion of foreign affairs at the Imperial Conference, and was responsible to the wishes of the colonies, particularly Australia. That it was consummated so soon was a surprise to the diplomats. The extension of the time of the alliance is another surprise

Dockers Are Arrested.

Antwerp, July 15.—The dockers employed on the Red Star steamers struck yesterday, under the leadership of Strike Agitator Chapelle. Chapelle was finally arrested and placed in jail. The police are now protecting the stewards of the Finland, who are loading that vessel. The authorities are determined to brook no interference, and will resort to drastic measures if necessary to put down all disturbances.

The Finland, which is scheduled to sail to-day, will probably not leave port. The strikers are boycotting the Red Star Co. because of its long resistance to their demands.

"Death to Congress."

Lima, Peru, July 15.—The opening of the preliminary sessions of the Chamber of Deputies was made the occasion of a demonstration, in which two persons were killed and several wounded.

The Government failed to send a guard to keep order, but several secret police acted instead. When the deputies were leaving the chamber there were cheers for the Government and cries of "Death to the Congress."

Hundreds of revolver shots were fired. None of the deputies were injured.

AVIATOR IS HURT BADLY

The Bird-man, Who Once Carried the King of Siam as a Passenger, Dashes to the Ground From an Altitude of Several Hundred Feet—Biplane Falls on Top of Him—He Is the Seventy-Fifth Victim.

Erie, Pa., July 15.—"Bud" Mars, the well known aviator was probably fatally injured in this city yesterday afternoon when he crashed several hundred feet to the ground. The heavy biplane dropped on top of him. His injuries are of such a nature, it is said that there is practically no hope for his recovery.

The aviator's wife witnessed the accident and last night her condition is serious, due to shock.

Mars had made one successful flight earlier in the afternoon. He was in the air for the second time when the accident occurred. Several thousand spectators were watching him. He circled the field a number of times at a height of several hundred feet. Suddenly the machine made a dip downward and Mars was seen to jerk at something in an effort to regain control. It was a futile attempt, however, and an instant later the machine struck the ground. The biplane was completely wrecked and Mars lay under it. He was covered with blood, and at first it was believed he was dead. His wife ran towards him screaming, but she collapsed before reaching the wreck.

Doctors, who were present as spectators, were soon at the side of the injured man. The serious nature of his injuries was evident and he was rushed to a hospital. Last night, Dr. Broughton, one of the physicians attending Mars on the field, issued a statement from the hospital to the effect that the aviator's chest was badly injured, and that he had sustained concussion of the brain and suffered internal injuries, while he is also bruised from head to foot.

James C. Mars is well known for his daring in the field of aviation. At the age of fifteen he learned parachute jumping as a pupil of Captain Tom Baldwin, the aviator, and though only a young man he has been a circus rider, lion-tamer, high diver and balloonist. He took up aeroplaning with Glen Curtiss a year ago, and on his second day's practice made twenty-five flights. He left San Francisco last December and came back last month laden with trophies of 250 flights in Honolulu, Manila, Sumatra, Japan, Korea, Siberia, Russia, and on one occasion carried a royal passenger, the King of Siam.

He has had several narrow escapes. Last August he fell into lower New York Bay and narrowly escaped drowning. A few weeks later he crashed down at Memphis, Tenn., on top of an automobile, and was in bed for ten days. His young wife, who accompanies him everywhere, has been his companion in many of his flights.

Should Mars succumb he will be the seventy-fifth victim to the science of aviation, the first being Lieut. Thomas E. Selridge, U.S.A., Sept. 17, 1908. In 1909, four lives were lost, in 1910 thirty-four fatalities occurred, while so far this year thirty lives have been sacrificed.

Erie, Pa., July.—Bud Mars, the aviator, who fell while making a flight here yesterday, is not so seriously injured as at first supposed. Doctors expect he will be fully recovered with-

U.S. SENATE WILL REACH A VOTE ON RECIPROCITY SOON

U. S. Senate to Consider Reciprocity on July 22.

Washington, July 15.—The Senate will vote on the Canadian reciprocity bill July 22, on the wool tariff revision bill, July 27, on the free list bill August 1, Congressional reapportionment bill Aug. 3, Statehood bill for Arizona and New Mexico on the legislative day of Aug. 7 and will adjourn, according to general understanding, quickly thereafter. This voting program, decided upon after prolonged conference yesterday, and resulting from conference that have covered many days, was agreed to by the Senate.

The agreement is now specific regarding adjournment, but it is understood generally that adjournment will follow immediately the disposition of the statehood bill. All the measures mentioned have passed the House. President Taft was quickly acquainted with the Senate's action and expressed his gratification, particularly over the precedence given to the reciprocity bill in the program.

The understanding forecasts the end of a long struggle in the Senate over the reciprocity and the Democratic tariff measures. The final votes will not be taken on the bills named until the dates fixed, but amendments can be disposed of from time to time.

The Bristow amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill, proposing a reduction of the sugar tariff and the abolishment of the "duties standard" basis of assessing tariff on imported sugar, was defeated yesterday afternoon 38 to 8, after Senator Bristow had made an exhaustive speech on the subject. Senators Bourne, Bristow, Brown, Cummins, Clapp, Dixon, Gronna and Nelson voted in support of it.

I have noticed that when a man is economical and saves money for a rainy day, Providence usually sends Destroyed by Curse of God.

Au Sable, Mich., July 15.—"The curse of God destroyed Au Sable and Oscoda."

Rev. L. Bird, B.D., of the Oscoda Methodist Church, vehemently makes this statement, and refers to his prophecy of the holocaust which he made from his pulpit last Sunday morning in a sermon on the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah.

"I knew it was coming, because of their shortsightedness," declared the clergyman, with tears in his eyes.

Mrs. Neapolitano Not to Hang.

Ottawa, July 15.—Mrs. Angelina Neapolitano is not to hang. The case was considered and decided at a largely attended Cabinet Council yesterday morning, and on the recommendation of the Minister of Justice the commutation of the sentence was agreed upon. This decision goes to the Governor-General's deputy for approval.

The Seat Is His.

BEQUEST IS IN GOOD FORM

Mayor Guerin of Montreal Investigate Meurling Legacy.

Montreal, July 15.—Mayor Guerin, who has been in London investigating the bequest of over $100,000 "to the poor of Montreal," by a certain Gustave Meurling, unknown here, explains in a letter the unusual gift, which he discovers to be absolutely genuine.

Somewhere about fifteen or twenty years ago the morganatic son of one of the kings of Europe lived in Montreal under the name of Meurling. Among his acquaintances was the late Senator Forget, who befriended him in a very marked manner. He had at that time only $10,000, which, on the advice of Senator Forget, he invested as directed, and made over $75,000. He went away from Montreal later, and no news has been heard of him until the City Council of Montreal received a notice that a Mr. Gustave Meurling had left $100,000 to the poor of Montreal in memory of courtesies and kindnesses received from its citizens. There are also estates in France and Germany, and American securities, the value of which have not yet been determined.

According to details supplied Mayor Guerin in London by Messrs Stibbard and Gibson, the London firm that drafted the will, Mr. Meurling was married many years ago to a French countess of considerable social prestige, but several years later they were divorced. Five years later he married another French lady, who died in three years. He himself died at the age of seventy.

Deceased was without children, and consulted with his London solicitors as to whom he should leave his money. He did not take their suggestions, but eventually decided in favor of Montreal, in memory of a courteous and kind people.

Mayor Guerin has gone to Mentone, France, to instruct the French lawyers as to the disposition of the property there.

LUNG TROUBLE

Mrs. Biny Brown, of Tenecape, N.S., Was Cured by Catarrhozone of Lung Trouble and Catarrh, After Hundreds of Other Remedies Failed

If your lungs are weak; if there is consumption in your family; if Colds, Catarrh, and Bronchitis bother you, be sure to use Catarrhozone. It is especially adapted for these diseases and cures every time.

Mrs. Brown took cough mixtures, but they made her sick. Then she used an atomizer, but after resorting without benefit to poultices, she tried Catarrhozone.

"I used Catarrhozone Inhaler," writes Mrs. Brown, "five minutes every hour, and soon recognized that it was going to cure me. I could feel the soothing medicated air spreading through the air passages of the throat, and it touched the sore spots in the lungs that other remedies failed to reach. Catarrhozone seemed to go just where it was needed most, and soon put a stop to my cough. It restored me to perfect health, and I am convinced that no cough, cold, or catarrh can exist if Catarrhozone is used."

No treatment is so clean, so pleasant, so certain to cure as Catarrhozone. By means of the Inhaler, the local symptoms, such as coughing, inflammation and congestion are speedily corrected. Ferrozone tablets which are taken after each meal purify and cleanse the blood of all poisons, and build up and strengthen the system.

This local and constitutional treatment is always effective, and cures cases that have been given up as hopeless. Money can't buy or produce anything better, and to get cured it is absolutely necessary to use Catarrhozone.

UNION LABEL

THE ORANGE PLATFORM

Whatever may be said of the Orange order, it will not be denied that it serves a good purpose in watching public affairs on behalf of those who are indifferent to encroachments on public rights and privileges. It is a good thing to have such an order as the Orange order, for were it not for an active body like it, we would be too prone to let things drift, in a national way, not caring until we were personally touched by encroachments.

Religious ill-feeling is to be deprecated in no uncertain manner, but while the fullest liberty should be accorded to all in the exercise of their religion, with interference from none, it is important that all religious bodies receive equal treatment under the state.

At the Toronto Orange celebration a "platform" was laid down stating the attitude of the order on various public questions, and he is indeed a biased citizen who cannot subscribe to the fair and moderate principles enunciated. Its keynote is equality to all, and special privileges to none, beyond those guaranteed by the British North America act. This platform is;

"Entire separation of church and state.

"Freedom of the different provinces in legislation relating to education.

"No discrimination of any section of the Dominion, either on account of race or religion, and the elimination of special privileges.

"Opposition to extension of lingual privileges beyond those conferred by the British North America act.

"Maintenance of British connection and furtherance of Imperial relations.

"A federal marriage law recognizing the validity of marriages conducted by qualified clergymen of every denomination.

"Close supervision of immigration.

"Government inspection of all religious, educational and charitable institutions, and the inspection of the books of all institutions receiving aid from the public treasury."

HURTING ONTARIO

Those Ontario farmers who imagine that under reciprocity they will be able to retain a market in the western provinces for their small products and fruits, such as apples, should think twice before they approve of the pact. The long haul to the prairies that we hear so much about is sure to militate seriously in favor of the small farmer and fruit-growth of the United States. Chicago expects to get the benefit of reciprocity, with Minneapolis district a good second. The St. Paul Pioneer, one of the ardent reciprocity advocates of the United States, sees in the pact great gain for the United States at the expense of Ontario. It says;

Hay is almost invariably higher in Canada than in this country. Last year we shipped 7,680 tons of hay to Canada. We sold Canada 215,000 bushels of potatoes; 60,000 bushels of apples; 215,000 pounds of cheese; 750,000 dozen eggs, and a vast quantity of other vegetables and fruits. Canada's purchases of fresh vegetables from us last year alone amouned to $625,000. The removal of existing duties on these products will make a big market in western Canada for Minnesota, Dakota, and other Northwestern States in vegetables, fruits and dairy products. Ontario now supplies western Canada with these products, but they can be advantageously obtained from the United States.

Further the same paper says;

The provisions of the reciprocity agreement must be accepted, too, as but the opening wedge for the removal of other tariff schedules between the United States and Canada, and it is a safe prediction that within another four years the schedules will be changed until the commercial, jobbing and manufacturing houses in St. Paul and Minnesota will be doing business in Canada practically without any restrictions in the way of a tariff. When that is done Mr. Hill's prediction of the growth of the Twin City will probably fall far short of the actual results.

EDITORIAL NOTES

They say that if Bob Hall had let out his pent up feelings at the Norwood convention, youthful Mr. Kerr would have been Hall-marked.

Dear reader, can you inform the waiting public how old is Anne? But that's a chestnut. Here's a modern one;—Can you tell how to extract 202 votes out of 185 delegates, with each man giving only one vote? For solution, ask F. D. Kerr.

The Conservatives will hold a nominating convention in East Peterborough on July 27. You may safely bet a dish of ice-cream that there won't be 17 more ballots cast than there are delegates. That sort of thimble-rigging is patented by the Grits.

We are still waiting patiently for the Examiner or Mr. Kerr to tell us where the seventeen ballots came from. Were they marked in twos or threes, or were the seventeen marked beforehand by one man and slipped into the bunch?

If F. D. Kerr could capture the Grit convention against the party nominee—there being seventeen ballots cast that cannot be accounted for—what would he be able to do when it came to an election protest? We hesitate to prophesy. Evidently history might repeat itself in a louder way than ever.

Surgery has made some remarkable discovering in grafting. The latest is the grafting of a man's skin bone on to a woman who was suffering from cancer of the leg, saving the limb to her. The man has been accidentally killed. If some arrangement could be made for changing heads, the poverty stricken men of brains ought always to find a good market among the more wealthy classes.

The latest reports of the Porcupine disaster show that the estimate of the number of dead, both by being burned and drowned, is greatly exaggerated. The total will not be over one hundred and everyone is being cared for. This is good news. The monetary losses to the mines are of no importance compared with the loss of life.

The judicial committee of the privy council has refused the United Shoe Machinery Company leave to appeal against an inquiry as to its operation as a combine. The audacity of the defendants might well be described as astonishing. If any company could by means of injunction or otherwise prevent an investigation into its affairs under the anti-combine act, the country would indeed be in a strange condition. Such corporation methods as this will do more to create an antagonistic public opinion than anything else.

RULES OF LACROSSE

The rules of Lacrosse which have come up for considerable ill-considered criticism, are by the deep-thinking lacrosse experts, being favorably regarded. President James Murphy states that as soon as the game shows benefit from the adoption of the new legislation he will introduce important amendments to still further improve the game and make it faster. Drastic alterations he considers are unwise, but he has improvements which will be generally introduced as opportunity affords, and which he calculates will bring the game of lacrosse back to its former position of pre-eminence in the summer sports of Canada.

CHEAP ELECTRIC LIGHT.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—The Peterborough Light & Power company in their recent announcement of reduction of rates for house lighting, state it will be a saving of 18 per cent. to the consumer.

This is partly misleading, as the plan they propose, while a saving to the large consumer, means an increase of cost to the small consumer.

As the plan is optional it is only fair that the point where it would be unwise to adopt this new scheme should be indicated.

As a rule any customer whose light bill for the year is $15.00 or under had better stay on the old plan.

Take a 7 room house for example. On the new plan the company collects 10 cents per room per month, or $1.20 per year for each room, which means you pay $8.40 per year room rate, even if no light was used. How much does this leave for the additional charge of 3 cents per kilowatt?

A large number of small families run on $10.00 and $12.00 per year on the present rate of 7 cents per kilowat. Take a 7 room house where present cost is $12.00 per year; under the new system the meter charge would be 3-7 of $12.00, or $5.14, plus $8.40 room rate, a total of $13.54, increased cost $1.54.

Similarly a 5 room house running on the minimum charge of $8.00 per year on the new plan would cost $9.43. To determine which plan is best, multiply your present yearly cost by 3 and divide by 7. This gives the meter cost on new plan. Add to this $1.20 for each room, and this gives total cost by the new system.

A. B. CUNNINGHAM.

Lafollette on Reciprocity.

Washington, July 14.—Two important insurgent speeches against the Canadian reciprocity bill were made yesterday, when Senator Lafollette of Wisconsin and Bristow of Kansas introduced their amendments to that measure and spoke in favor of them and against the specific features of the pending bill.

Senator Lafollette excoriated President Taft's administration, not only with reference to the tariff legislation proposed, but also on his conservation policies. Senator Bristow renewed his fight against the present sugar tariff and urged the repeal of the "16 duties standard" test on imported sugar, which he declared operates entirely in the interests of the American Sugar Refining Co.

Novelized From Eugene Walter's Great Play . . . .

BY John W. Harding

Copyright, 1908, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

The captain puffed his pipe placidly.

"Well," answered the always deliberate Jimsy, "if you should consult particular shoemaker who furnishes them he'd describe that heel as 45 caliber."

"Good night, Smith," said the captain dryly.

Smith did not reply.

Williams gazed in the direction of the door after his superintendent had closed it. There was an enigmatical smile on his face. It slowly died away, and his pugnacious underjaw protruded ominously. Reaching round to his hip pocket, he brought out a revolver. It was a formidable looking weapon, with a long barrel. He broke the breach, examined the cartridges and replaced it in his pocket.

"Darned if he wouldn't do it, too," he muttered.

CHAPTER XIII.

REMORSE may be the least active of all the moral senses. Still, there is no heart absolutely without it. No sooner had his wife passed from his view than it became active in Brooks, having been fired by the flicker of shame that the full realization of his villainy had provoked as he took down the receiver of the telephone to call Captain Williams.

In forcing Emma to deliver herself into the hands of his employer he had not actually believed that it would be necessary for her to make the supreme sacrifice. "You can handle him all right," he had told her. "You know how far you can let a man go—all women know that." But he had been willing to take the chance that this sacrifice would be exacted, and, knowing only too well the brutal sensuousness of Williams, his notorious depravity and that he had cast what he had taken to be longing eyes on Emma, he now had no doubt whatever that it would be. The captain was not the man to give anything for nothing, to part with money without receiving full value. With his great physical strength and his will that overbore and wore down all opposition, how would the gentle, submissive nature of Emma be able to hold out against him? Reduced to helplessness by his all dominating power, with the alternative of compliance or their ruin held out to her, she would have to submit.

Brooks pictured the scene as though it were being enacted before him, and he went hot and cold, and a sweat of agony broke out all over him.

"No, no, no!"

He uttered aloud the protest wrung from his writhing soul by his half resuscitated manhood. He clutched his throat, struck himself in the mouth with such violence that his teeth cut his underlip and the blood dyed his chin, seized his hat and dashed wildly for the door. Fear met him there and held up a restraining finger. Downstairs were the three central office detectives. On the morrow, in a few hours, at the office where he had worked for five years, these men, at the behest of his employer, would place their hands on his arms, and he would be under arrest. He saw himself being led out, handcuffed, under the mocking eyes of his fellow clerks and the customers.

He closed the door again and turned from it, cowardice at his heels, whispering sophistic prudence, counseling the poltroon's discretion, throwing specious sops to his conscience. Something had to be done. No other course than that he had taken had been possible under the circumstances. Between him and state prison stood Emma. She alone on earth could save him, if salvation were possible. Punishment and immunity at that moment perhaps held the balance even. The giving or withholding of a kiss would turn the scales either way. The giving of it would brand him with that particular stamp of infamy which when recognized by men caused them to draw away with rising gorge and spurn the bearer. But none would know of the sacrifice—no one save the victim, Williams and himself. Other women had done as much in pressing emergencies to save their husbands from public dishonor. Some had bargained their favors to insure office or advancement for husbands or sons, some for dress and jewels their husbands could not give them. He himself would never seek to know just what had passed between his wife and the captain. He was free to assume that he had worried unnecessarily; that nothing of what he felt certain was happening had occurred, to surmise that it had not been necessary for Emma to resort to complete surrender. What he did not know could not trouble him. Anyhow, it was too late now. The die had been cast. The chief thing—nay, the one thing—he had to fear was that her mission might be unsuccessful; that she could not purchase his freedom at any price whatsoever.

The possibility of this twisted his selfish heart with anguish again. Oh, why had he got himself into this trouble?

When goaded to desperation and recklessness he had taken the first $10 from the money he had collected he had no idea of not returning it—somehow. It had brought a good deal of pleasure to Emma and himself, lightened their hard penury with a gleam of brightness. But $10 then had been a lot of money. It had not been possible to replace it at once. It was far easier to fix his accounts so that the sum would not be missed. He had yielded to the temptation and had so fixed them.

Jenkins, his fellow employee in the office, was a follower of horse racing in his small way. Now and then he risked a dollar or two in a nearby pool room, and sometimes he won. A few days after Brooks had falsified the books to cover up his deficit of $10 Jenkins had confided to his office cronies that he had a tip of which he felt so sure that he was prepared to pawn his last shoestring to back it. Many others had decided to take a chance, and, having no money of his own, Brooks had taken an advance on his salary out of his collections and followed their example. The odds they had obtained were 6 to 1, and the horse had won. Out of his winnings Brooks had replaced the money he had helped himself to.

The pool room and the availability of the company's money had offered to him a great opportunity to win what he could not earn, and, encouraged by his first success, he had taken advantage of it. He had begun by making a study of racing and risking small sums. Luck had been with him, and he had won time and time again. He had wanted his wife to share his good fortune, but had not dared to tell her how he had obtained the money, so he had invented the story of outside work. His run of luck had continued, however, until it had become phenomenal, and this it was that had caused his extravagant optimism. He had wagered larger and larger sums until his winnings had represented a secret bank account of $3,000. It was one day when he had "plunged" and won a thousand dollars that he had conceived the fiction of his promotion with reward of back pay.

Soon after their installation in their more expensive quarters, however, a series of reverses had come. His luck had deserted him. First his bank account went; then he had drawn on the collections in his efforts to retrieve his losses. He had plunged and lost, plunged and won, plunged again and lost. It had not been long before his "borrowings" had reached such a terrifying amount that he had realized that discovery was inevitable unless he could replace the money within brief delay. He had clung to the despairing hope that by wagering heavily he could win enough during Williams' absence to hide his pilfering and postpone examination. While this could be deferred there was hope. Now he knew that his cunning, relentless employer had been watching his gradually tottering progress on the tight rope of dishonesty and, preparing a trap to catch him in, had chosen his own time to spring it.

At the thought of this Brooks worked himself into a perfect frenzy of fury. He raged up and down the room, cursing Williams, and hurled a cushion to the floor and ground it with his foot as though it were his enemy's hated face.

"You have cheated me out of a living, you fiend!" he almost howled. "And now you have taken my wife!"

The sound of his own voice startled and calmed him, and he peeped out in the corridor apprehensively, for fear any one might by chance have been nigh and heard him. He was exhausted by the violence of his paroxysm. His breath came quickly in gasps, and he stood with staring eyes and heaving bosom until the nervous reaction set in. Then he staggered to the sofa, threw himself upon it and burst into tears.

Cured His Rheumatism In Three Weeks.

James LeB. Johnstone, a prominent member of the Citizen's Band, of Chatham, writes:

"I contracted Rheumatism by exposure, five years ago, and was ailing for two months and in great pain all the time. I got Father Morriscy's No. 7 Tablets and took them for about three weeks, when the Rheumatism all left me and I have had no return of the pains since."

Rev. Father Morriscy

Father Morriscy's "No. 7" Tablets have cured thousands of this terribly painful disease.

Rheumatism is generally brought on by exposure, but is really caused by Uric Acid in the blood. This Uric Acid is an irritating poison, formed from the waste matter of the body. The kidneys should remove it, but when they fail it poisons the blood, and, settling in the joints, causes Rheumatism.

"No. 7" Tablets clear out the clogged-up Kidneys and stimulate them to perform their task of filtering the Uric Acid out of the blood. When this is done the Rheumatism simply and naturally vanishes.

"No 7" Tablets cost 50c. At your dealer's. 28

CARRIE NATION PASSES

The Woman Who Tried to Wipe Out Saloons With the Axe

Mrs. Carrie Nation, who died at Leavenworth, Kansas, was nearly as well-known in Canada as in her own country. As a saloon-smasher she attained notoriety. She lectured at times in various parts of the Dominion. She was undoubtedly in deadly earnest in her battle against the drink traffic, but was often brought into ridicule by her plan of campaign. The axe was her favorite weapon in the demolition of drinking shops. She came into prominence some years ago in a Kansas town where she led a number of women in a crusade on the saloons. Most of them carried axes, and followed Mrs. Nation's lead in smashing the kegs and other receptacles for alcohol, and pouring their contents into the gutters.

BIG PAPER PLANT

A syndicate of Montreal capitalists, headed by Messrs. Rodolphe Forget, J. N. Greenshields and J. C. McCuaig, have purchased over eleven hundred square miles of timber limits in the St. Maurice district of the Province of Quebec. They have arranged for the erection on an island at the mouth of the St. Maurice of a pulp and paper plant, which it is estimated will be one of the largest and most modern in the country.

ST. LAWRENCE CHANNEL

Reports received at the Marine Department, Ottawa, state that only two miles of the 30-foot channel of the St. Lawrence remains to be completed. The 35-foot channel work, which was begun last year on Lake St. Peter, is being continued, while a start has also been made below Quebec. The present estimate is that it will take four years to complete the deep channel to the sea.

ALARM WAS NOT SENT TO STATION

Because West End Man Didn't Understand Box

The Fire Started in Room of His Home

Not having paid attention to directions as to how a fire alarm should be rung in, Thomas Franks, corner Belmont and Homewood avenues, narrowly escaped having his home destroyed by an early morning blaze, when the bed clothing caught fire by matches which he was lighting to find his way about the rooms. The bed and bedding were destroyed, as was also some of the woodwork on the walls.

Mr. Franks, about 3.15 a.m. was moving through the house by the light of a match, as the electric power was shut off. A burning match was probably dropped on the bedding, as he soon saw the room ablaze. He ran to box 35, corner Hunter and Park streets, and, breaking the glass, twisted the key instead of using it to open the box and then pull down the lever. He returned to the house and when the firemen did not arrive he began shouting "Fire! Fire!" and one of the neighbors sent in the alarm by telephone at 3.30 a.m.

The blaze was smothered by the use of four chemicals.

HERE ARE FOUR PEOPLE WHO TESTIFY

That GIN PILLS Positively Cure Rheumatism

Rheumatism is a dreadful disease. Only those, who have had it, can appreciate the agonizing pain — the excruciating torture — that racks the body when Rheumatism sets in. No wonder those, who have been cured of Rheumatism by GIN PILLS, are so grateful and so enthusiastic.

They gladly testify that GIN PILLS cured them and want all the world to try GIN PILLS.

MANY KINDS OF MEDICINE

Alex. Moore Esq., is one of many hundreds who know that GIN PILLS will cure Rheumatism. He writes from Newburgh, Ont.

"My father had been troubled with Rheumatism for a number of years. He tried two doctors but got no relief, when my uncle insisted on him trying GIN PILLS. He purchased a box and after taking GIN PILLS for a week, found that they were giving him much relief. He then bought three more boxes, which were the means of curing him. He is now a strong man—in good health—and able to attend to his daily work—and all the credit is due to GIN PILLS."

HIS FATHER WAS TROUBLED

They know about GIN PILLS down in Nova Scotia too. In fact, GIN PILLS are the old standby all over the Maritime Provinces because GIN PILLS really cure Rheumatism. An old gentleman in Yarmouth, N.S. says:

"I have been bothered with Rheumatism for the past year and have taken a good many kinds of medicine, but found no relief. One day, a friend advised me to try GIN PILLS and after taking a few boxes, I felt like a new man. I want you to know how thankful I am for the relief they gave me and would advise all sufferers to take GIN PILLS".

In New Brunswick, GIN PILLS have cured hundreds of men and women of Rheumatism. Mr. Wilson of Hartfield, N.B., is one of the many who owes his good health and strength to GIN PILLS. He writes: "It affords me great pleasure to convey not only to you, but to all sufferers from Back Ache and Rheumatism the great relief I have obtained from the use of GIN PILLS. I am sounding the praises of GIN PILLS to everyone suffering as I did". Robert M. Wilson.

COULD NOT WORK

Back to Nova Scotia for the fourth letter from D. J. Lawler of Ogden.

"I have been troubled with Rheumatism so bad that I could not work. A doctor tended me and told me to go to the hospital but all to no good until a cousin told me to try GIN PILLS. I did so, and after taking a few boxes, I am perfectly well".

SOUNDING THE PRAISES

These written words and signed statements from well-known people are the best possible guarantee of the value of GIN PILLS. They prove that GIN PILLS will give prompt relief—and will completely cure—every trace of Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Pain In The Back, Kidney Trouble or any weakness of the kidneys or bladder. You may try GIN PILLS before you buy them. Write us for free sample box. If you can't get the regular size boxes in your neighborhood, send to us enclosing the regular retail price of 50c. a box or 6 for $2.50. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada Limited, Dept. RASPBERRIES ON MARKET TO-DAY

Price Was 15c per Box—New Potatoes 45c

The upstair market was brisk this morning, but outside on the square there were very few vehicles. The newest offering was raspberries, but the price was rather high. However, no trouble was experienced in selling at 15 cents per box. The farmers declare that fruit is scarce in the country this season, and that there will only be a short run for the different lines.

The following were the prevailing prices at 10.30 a.m.:

Eggs per dozen—20 cents.
Butter per lb—24 cents.
Chickens per pair—$1.00.
Green peas—15 cents.
Green beans—8 cents.
Raspberries per box—15 cents.
Potatoes, new, per peck—45 cents.
Old, per bag—$1.25.
Beets and carrots—10 cents.
Celery—10 cents.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS CURE SUMMER COMPLAINT

Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in every home where there are babies or young children. At no time of the year is baby in such danger as in summer. At the first sign of illness the Tablets should be given to the little one, for summer complaints come on so quickly that unless prompt aid is at hand baby may be beyond help in a few hours. The Tablets never fail to relieve the sick child, and if occasionally given to the well child will keep him well. Mrs. Desire Martin, St. Denis, Que., writes: "I have a baby three months old who suffered from colic and constipation. Castor Oil was of no help at all, but Baby's Own Tablets speedily cured him and now I always keep them in the house." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

LIGHTNING STRUCK BED USED BY THE CHILDREN

They Had Been Taken Down Stairs by Mother While Storm Was On.

Norwood, July 15.—Mr. John Burgess, who resides about two miles east of the village, had his house struck by lightning during the electric storm early Thursday morning. The lightning entered by the chimney, hurling the bricks for many feet, ran into a clothes closet and then branched off into two bedrooms, leaving zig-zag strokes across the walls in its course. The bed in which two of the children had been sleeping was splintered. The mattress had a piece taken out of it and a round hole was left in the wall beside the bed, where the bolt had made its exit. Its next and last appearance was made in the parlor and dining room, where it circled around the walls, setting fire to the picture frames and damaging the organ.

While all these pranks were going on, the family, fortunately, were in the kitchen in the other end of the house, and the first warning of anything unusual was when Mrs. Burgess noticed the end of the house on fire. She ran upstairs and finding the clothes in the closet on fire, gathered them up and threw them out of the window. As it was raining very hard at the time and as there was plenty of water in a cistern, they were able to extinguish the fire before it got much of a headway.

The escape of the children from death was indeed miraculous as Mrs. Burgess had, owing to the severeness of the storm, awakened them and hurriedly brought them downstairs to the kitchen only a few minutes before the lightning struck their bed.

INDIVIDUALITY

The lady or gentleman who thinks, accentuates their individuality of character and personal appearance.

When Eye Glasses are required there is individuality in the facial features, which requires special shapes, styles of lenses and mountings.

Eye Glasses which enhance the appearance of one face would be unbecoming to another. Eye Glasses, like artificial teeth, must be built to fit the features.

Patrons of the Optical Institute frequently remark that there is individuality in our Eye Glasses because they "grace the face," "fit the features," and "please the wearer."

When you think of Eye Glasses think of—

Facts About Motherhood

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at the time of child-birth, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when the strain is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

LYDIA E PINKHAM

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, women will persist in going blindly to the trial.

It isn't as though the experience came upon them unawares. They have ample time in which to prepare, but they, for the most part, trust to chance and pay the penalty.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy, and strong.

Any woman who would like special advice in regard to this matter is cordially invited to write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass. Her letter will be held in strict confidence.

PRINTERS TO GO DOWN THE RIVER

Annual Picnic to be Held on Civic Holiday

The printers' picnic with numerous new features for the express purpose of tickling the smile-producing apparatus, will be held on civic holiday to Rice lake points, and two large steamers will be engaged to carry the big crowds which are sure to take in this popular outing. The printers intend to surpass all successes of the past. The program will include the usual defeat of the Examiner ball team at the hands of the Review experts, but the second game with the Times will be something worth while. The sports this year will be the best ever. Remember the date, civic holiday.

WINNIPEG'S GROWTH

Thirty-five years ago Winnipeg's population was less than 1,000, and the school attendance was only 35 pupils; it was but a post of the Hudson's Bay Company, without churches streets, or railroads, and but a few years previously the Indians chased herds of buffalo across the prairie where the city now stands. It is now the railroad and business centre of the Canadian West. Twenty-two railway tracks radiate from it, and the C.P.R. yard here, with its 120 3-10 miles of sidings, is the largest in the world controlled by a single corporation. It is in the famous Red River Valley and surrounded by good farming, timber and mining districts, with extensive lake fisheries.

The city contains 122 churches and missions, 33 public schools, with a registered attendance exceeding 18,000 and six parochial schools with 1,200 pupils, six colleges, a university, provincial agricultural college, academies ladies' schools.

The electric street railway operates 185 cars on 62 miles of city tracks and 44 miles of suburban lines. A permanent and volunteer military force is located here.

Winnipeg city owns and operates its own asphalt paving plant, its own quarry, street lighting, water works —including high pressure fire system of 300 lbs pressure for fire protection

WEDDING BELLS

PRATT—STRICKLAND.

A very pretty wedding took place at St. John Baptist church at two o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, when the marriage was solemnized of Miss Edith Roper Strickland, second daughter of Mr. R. C. Strickland, to Rev. C. E. Pratt, of Minden, Ont. The Rev. H. A. Ben Oliel performed the ceremony and Miss Atwood presided at the organ. The bride, who was brought in and given away by her father, was gowned in white duchesse satin, trimmed with exquisite old lace. Her veil was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Dorothy Hilliard assisted as bridesmaid and wore a gown of blue organdie, with a large white mushroom hat, and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Keith Cumberland acted as best man, and the ushers were Geoffrey Hilliard and Beresford Hamilton, of Fenelon Falls. The groom's gifts to the bride was a gold cross and chain, and to the bridesmaid a pearl crescent. After the ceremony, Mrs. E. E. Cassan, sister of the bride, held a reception at the "Homestead," after which Mr. and Mrs. Pratt left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Toronto and other points. On their return the happy couple will take up their residence at Minden, Ont.—Lakefield News.

Why Should You Buy Imported Lager When You Can Get O'Keefe's?

Imported lagers cost more than O'Keefe's "Pilsener"—NOT because they are as good, but because of the duty paid on them.

O'Keefe's "Pilsener" is brewed of the finest barley malt, hops and pure water.

The Canadian laws are very strict in this respect, although O'KEEFE'S was brewed of these choice materials long before the pure food laws were passed.

The same thing cannot be said of American lagers.

"No folks like home folks".

No lager like O'Keefe's "Pilsener"—brewed at home, under home laws, for home use.

Why should you pay more for imported lager—when less money buys such a pure, old, delicious lager as O'Keefe's?

TENNIS GAME IS BOOMING; YOUNG PLAYERS DEVELOPING

Tennis is booming in Peterboro this season as it has never done before. The participators are becoming more numerous and the younger material is developing wonderfully.

Though there were over thirty-five entries in the Y.M.C.A. tournament and the courts were not in shape as early as usual, the fourth round is almost run off. The promptness with which the players get together, when they are drawn, and arrange for their games is very creditable. The younger players are rounding into shape and there will be an abundance of material for the city tennis association events next year.

In the city tennis association events the players are not getting together so quickly and the games are being run off rather slowly. There is keen competition however, and there promises to be some interesting sessions in the finals.

Messrs. Henderson, Cluxton, Richardson, Butler, Denison and Geale go to Omemee at noon to-day and will play there this afternoon. Representatives from Omemee visited the city last season and took part in a tournament but they did not carry off any of the trophies. They have had a few good players added to their list since then and may give the locals a hard run.

CLUB STANDING

The following is the standing of the different clubs in the City Tennis Association.

DEAD MAN'S BONE ON WOMAN'S LEG

New York, July 14—By grafting the shin bone of a man onto a woman suffering from necrosis, thus practically giivng her a whole new lower limb, the surgeons of the New York Hospital for deformites have completed an operation unique in surgery. Up to now, operations of this sort have been confined to experimental work done on dogs.

The first essential was to get a good healthy bone to take the place of the once eaten by disease. After a time one of the hospitals which handle emergency cases reported that a man had been killed in an accident. The body was unclaimed and was to be taken to Potters' field or to the dissecting table, and requisition was made for one of the legs, from which the tibia was taken. It was kept in an ice box, immersed in a strong salt solution until the surgeon was ready to use it.

The Tussock moth has made its appearance again this summer in Montreal and traces of its work are noticeable in all the city parks.

The Dominion Government is sending militia tents and blankets into Porcupine, with a detachment to distribute them. Parliament will be asked for a vote to aid the sufferers.

A serious fire broke out in Canso, N.S., yesterday in the centre of the town and before it was got under control three residences and three stores were totally destroyed and others damaged.

There was a mix-up among a gang of Italian laborers on St. Antoine street, Montreal, yesterday afternoon, and as a result, Angelo Beligne of Lusigna street, received a bullet wound in the right side.

A score of guides and others are searching in the mountains for Homer Tidman of Boston, who set out several days ago, unaccompanied, to climb the Dent-Du-Midi, a lofty peak of the Alps. It is feared that he has fallen over a precipice.

Captains Paid Their Fines.

St. Catharines, July 15.—The captains of the steamers Corona and Chippewa of the Niagara River Line appeared before Police Magistrate Campbell at the instance of John King. license inspector, and admitted illegal sales of liquor on the steamers while plying on their regular routes. They were fined $150. Every year the license inspector pays a visit to all the steamers of the fleet, with the result that fines are recorded against the captains.

German Warship Coming.

Montreal, July 15.—It was stated at the offices of the harbor commission yesterday that special arrangements had been made to accommodate the first-class cruiser battleship Bremen, of the imperial German navy, which is to arive in Montreal next Thursday.

The Bremen, which is close upon 300 feet long and carries a complement of more than 400 men, is one of the most modern fighting craft in the sea forces of the Kaiser.

The occasion will be the second upon which the Bremen has visited Montreal, the last time being in August, 1907, when she called here on her way home to Germany, after having been stationed in West Indian waters.

May Fine Railway Company.

Montreal, July 15.—A new phase of the fight between the city and the street railway, the former seeking a better and more extensive service and the latter a new and more profitable franchise, developed yesterday when action was entered by the city against the Montreal Street Railway Co., asking a mandamus against the company and to fine it heavily for not constructing lines in St. Paul and Emard wards. The company asked a delay of fifteen days to file an answer in writing.

Another Guelph Man Missing.

Guelph, July 15.—A. W. Nicholson, brakeman on the Grand Trunk, is anxious about his brother Samuel, first reported to have been among the victims of the fire at Porcupine.

Nicholson was from Palgrave, near Wingham, where his parents reside. He was about 28 years of age and unmarried. He had worked at Cochrane before going to the Porcupine district.

OVER-WORKED KIDNEYS

Cause, Rush of Blood, Fullness, Dizziness.

J. T. Chetland, the well-known railway engineer of Hamilton, found the strain always resting upon men of his occupation vastly intensified by a tendency of the blood to rush to his head, and often at times when clearness of vision and great steadiness were demanded. Finding some difficulty in bending—a stiffness with pain having settled in his back, it occurred to him that his kidneys might be at fault. "This was a happy idea, for by it I not only got rid of the pain but many other troubles as well. I took a full dose of Dr. Hamilton's Pills and was glad to note that some obstruction of the kidneys, which I had lately noticed, was at once relieved. The flushed appearance of my face gave way to a more rational color and there was a perceptible improvement in my appetite. Dr. Hamilton's Pills certainly act splendidly upon the blood, removing heat and fulness and that sort of dizziness that makes a man at the throttle wish when it siezes him that he were elsewhere."

No medicine gives such unquestionably good results for stomach, liver, and blood troubles as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are mild, certain, and always curative. Refuse any substitute.

Judge Sues For Libel.

Vankleek Hill, Ont., July 14.—Mr. Albert Constantineau, judge of the united counties of Prescott and Russell, has issued an indictment against H. C. Jones, editor of The Review, Vankleek Hill, [illegible] charging him with criminal libel. The Review published some pointed comments on the speech of Judge Constantineau delivered at the St. Jean Baptiste celebration in Montreal. The case was called for yesterday at 11 o'clock, before Magistrate Gauthier of L'Original. An adjournment was made to allow the editor to prepare his defence, as it is generally believed that he will put in a plea of justification.

Discussed at Conference.

London, July 14.—The Times intimates that the question of the revision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, in order to bring it into harmony with the proposed Anglo-American arbitration treaty, was fully discussed at the Imperial Conference.

Therefore any new arrangement made with Japan will be made with new authority and new moral force arising through the previous assent of all the self-governing dominions.

Hence The Times considers that one of the most important results of the Imperial Conference has still to be announced.

"If the coal strike is not settled immediately the situation throughout the west this winter will be most serious," said F. W. Peters, of the C.P.R., yesterday in Calgary. "It will result in people being frozen to death."

Earl Webb, aged 14, who got away from Sarnia jail three weeks ago, stole $70 in Watford, got to Woodstock, and was arrested. Placed in the cells, he pulled down the stove pipes and crawled through the hole to freedom.

MANY WERE MISSED IN THE MONTREAL CENSUS COUNTING

Recount Possible in the Case of One Division—Bandits Get Small Pickings From Mail Trains—A Human Cat.

From our own correspondent.

Montreal, July 12.—There have been a disquieting number of complaints concerning the taking of the census. Individuals, if there are enough of them, make a community, and there have been enough queries and complaints from citizens who wish to be counted in Montreal's total, but whom the enumerators have apparently overlooked to form quite a respectable village. The last addition to the evidence that Montreal, unless some special attention is paid to the matter immediately, will be recorded as having a population much smaller than is really the case, comes through the discovery that a whole section of St. Denis ward, numbering some four hundred inhabitants, was omitted from the allocations made by the enumerators and, for census persons, does not exist. This particular oversight can be corrected because it has been brought to the attention of the proper authorities, but how many similar blunders have there been which have not been discovered and will not be rectified? The day appointed for the formal enumeration was, in itself, likely to lead to confusion and, from all indications the results have justified the early criticisms. The exodus number of Canadians who will not be counted as residents of Canada because of early vacations, must be considerable. Add to it the population of a few sections like the unfortunate part of St. Denis ward, previously referred to, and the total may easily be large enough to be well worth consideration.

SMALL PICKINGS FOR ROBBERS

The recent hold up of a mail train in which the robbers escaped with the registered mail is cited by postal authorities here, as emphasizing the rarity of losses of this kind. While hundreds of millions of dollars are transported by mail, the total indemnity paid by the Post Office during the past year on account of train robberies was only 189. Much of the disinclination on the part of the professional highwaymen to interfere with the mail in transit undoubtedly is due to the reputation which the Dominion and Mounted Police have gained of never letting up on the trail of a peculator and of eventually "landing" every man who tries to prey upon the mails. Another reason for the comparative infrequency of train robberies undoubtedly is that by far the greater part of the mail is now transported by the railroads and it is a much more difficult matter to hold up a fast train than a stage coach or a star route carrier. By the increase in the use of the railways as mail carriers, the government gains in two ways, for not only is railway transportation far safer, but it is also cheaper. In fact the railways claim that the rates paid by them by the government for carrying the mails are so low that they lose millions of dollars a year on this end of their business, and as the postmaster general after investigating nearly 400 lines has just reported that more than a quarter of them are underpaid, the loss which they suffer in this connection is vastly greater than that which arises from the depredations of would be imitators of Jesse James. That this occupation offers small chance of profit is shown by the fact that in the past two years, according to Post Office records, there have been in the entire country, only nine train robberies involving the mails and it is said that even in this latest hold up the mail train was attacked through mistake by bandits who were really after a heavy gold shipment traveling by express on another train.

"HUMAN CAT" NEVER HURT

Falling more than a mile without injury is the record which has just been set by a man known to his fellow workers as "Nine Lives Tim" and "the human cat" who is neither an aeroplanist nor balloonist, but a painter who has done his falling without the aid of any artificial means of support. He rounded out his two hundredth feet or over this week, by tumbling 166 feet from a building on which he was at work, landing on his feet and escaping without any more serious injury than damage to his trousers, although had it not been the intervention of telegraph wires which broke his fall it is likely that this would have been his last tumble. Only three weeks ago he fell fifty feet from another building and his record includes twenty falls from barns, thirty-eight from trees, and more than 100 from the roofs of residences. Falls from bicycles, fences and downstairs have been so numerous that their total has not been kept, since the "human cat" regards them as entirely too trivial to remember. But in spite of his peculiar proclivity for taking unexpected drops, he always lands on his feet and has not a sore to show for his mile of tumbling.

HONEST CROOKS

That crooks are honest men as compared to many local merchants is the novel complaint made here by two self confessed thieves this week, who have been looting many retail jewelry stores, by what is known in the slang of the underworld as the "penny weight game." The method of operation is simple necessitating merely the services of two men and a watch. Having selected a store to be robbed, the first man enters and asks to look at diamond rings. While thus engaged his partner enters apparently in a great hurry shoves a watch under the jewelers nose and asks to have it repaired, giving his partner an opportunity to substitute imitation gems for real ones and to depart with his booty. The grievances of these thieves has just been voiced in an ingenious letter, written to a local jeweler's trade paper in which they accuse the retail jewelers of being "an enterprising band of up-to-date bandits" continuing, "as an instance of their keen-sighted thievery, we call your attention to the fact that our famous watch which you say we always wished "fixed right away' has never been out of repair since we stole it, but nevertheless every store we visited, and we visited 138 of them, has succeeded in finding something the matter with this watch of ours and has found some excuse to charge us anywhere from 25 cents to $3.10, for doing everything from opening the cover to winding it up for us.

AT LAST, A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

"Fruit-a-tives Cured Me" Says Mrs. Baxter.

"I was a helpless cripple from Rheumatism for nearly a year. All down the right side, the pain was dreadful and I could not move for the agony. I was treated by two physicians without help.

I saw "Fruit-a-tives" advertised in "The Telegram" and decided to try them. After I had taken one box, I was much better.

When I had taken three boxes, I could use my arm and the pain was almost gone.

After taking five boxes, I was entirely well again. The cure of my case by "Fruit-a-tives" was indeed splendid because all the doctors failed to even relieve me. "Fruit-a-tives" cured me.

MRS. LIZZIE BAXTER,
4 Home Place, Toronto, Dec. 15, '09.

In hundreds of other cases, "Fruit-a-tives" has given exactly the same satisfactory results because "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest blood purifying medicine in the world. "Fruit-a-tives" the famous fruit medicine regulates kidneys, liver, bowels and skin, and prevents the accumulation of uric acid, which is the prime cause of Rheumatism.

"Fruit-a-tives" will positively cure every case of Rheumatism, when taken according to directions. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At all dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

Latest Quotations in Grain, Dairy Products, Live Stock Etc.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Fear of forced liquidation thru the calling of loans by banks had considerable effect today in causing wheat prices to smash. Record-breaking deliveries of new wheat from the farms put trade facilities under a heavy strain. At one time the market showed a fall of more than three cents for the July option. Taking the list as a whole, latest figures, however, were at a net decline of 1 5-8c to 2 1-2c. On the other hand, corn finished with a gain of 1-8c to 3-4c and oats up 1-8c to 1-2c. The outcome for hog products was a loss of 2 1-2c to 15c.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ¼d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ½d lower on corn. Berlin closed unchanged for wheat, Buda Pest 1⅛c lower, Antwerp unchanged.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, July 14.—The foreign demand for Manitoba spring wheat was fair at the decline in prices in the Winnipeg market. Bids were in line and sales of 100,000 bushels were made. The demand for oats continues good, but as foreign buyers have not responded to the recent advance here bids are still out of line. The local market is firm and holders as a rule are very strong in their views as to the future course of prices. A good business continues to be done in spring wheat flour for export account and a fair trade on spot.

Moist Heat is the Natural Heat

YOUR HOUSE WILL "FEEL" WARMER AT 65° WITH MOIST AIR THAN AT 70° WITH DRY

Door. Open to fill pan.
Either door may be used.

Adding moisture to the air in your home will give you the same heat for less fuel.

A consideration, no doubt.

But that is not all.

Warm dry air, however pure, is not healthful. The human body demands more moisture than is carried in the winter air.

The "Hecla" supplies this moisture in plenty. A large circular pan of water is placed where it will be easy to fill and where it will not be overlooked.

Circular Water Pan

Has five times the evaporating surface of pans placed over furnace door. Runs clear around the back of the furnace. Will hold enough water to last 24 hours. May be filled at either door, as shown above.

"Hecla" Furnace

SAVES ONE TON OF COAL IN SEVEN.

By actual test the "Hecla" saves one ton of coal in seven. That is, it is so constructed as to give the same heat for six tons of coal as you ever got from seven.

Do you want to know more about this furnace?

No Gas or Dust.

And it is just as important to keep the air free from coal gas and dust.

In the "Hecla" every place where experience has shown that gas might otherwise find an outlet, has been fused absolutely tight by our patented process. The same fused joints keep out the dust and smoke.

BANDAGES OUT OF UNDERSKIRT

Mrs. McGee Acted Promptly when Bad Accident Occurred

The presence of mind of Mrs. John McGee of Omemee, at Cobourg on July 12th, when Mr. Harry Mitchell, the Peterboro man who fell off the train and sustained serious injuries, is noteworthy. Mr. McGee, seeing he was injured pushed her way through the crowd which had quickly gathered, and making everyone stand back she used her pocket handkerchief to bind up his wounds. When she saw that the kerchief was not large enough she took her underskirt and tore it into strips to be used as bandages. When the doctor arrived, the patient was ready to be removed to the hospital.

WANTED 40,000 LOCOMOTIVES

Canada to-day has 25,000 miles of railroad. In 1860 the United States had 30,000 miles, to-day she has 250,000 supplying the needs of a population of 90,000,000. It is safe to estimate that Canada will have at least 250,000 miles of road fifty years from now, and the likilihood is that she will have a much greater mileage. As one locomotive is required for every six miles of road, and as there are but 4,000 locomotives in use in Canada at the present time, it will mean that we will require about 40,000 locomotives within the next forty or fifty years, or at the rate of 1,000 locomotives per year. This means an almost unlimited demand for locomotives in this country. This knowledge was at the bottom of the Canadian Locomotive Company's decision to enlarge the capacity of their plant.

WATER TEST

A small sample of water from the well recently drilled on the farm of Mr John Jenkins, four miles west of Norwood, was sent to the Dominion Experimental Farm's Labratories at Ottawa for examination. The result of the analysis is as follows—

Chlorine 185,000
Equivalent to common salt 304,860

The results shows that this water is very strongly saline and that the saline matter is essentially common salt. It is, in fact, a brine, practically at the point of saturation.—Norwood register.

COBOURG DOWN ON BLAKE CRAWFORD

Won't Enter League Again With Him as President.

Peterborough were scheduled to have played a Midland league baseball here last Saturday with Cobourg. Instead President Crawford, of Port Hope, at the solicitation of Peterborough—and Port Hope, ordered Peterborough to play in Bowmanville, and Cobourg to go to Port Hope. This was after the game was billed for here, and Manager Burge, thanks be, had backbone enough to refuse to be a catspaw for such an agreement and would not go to Port Hope. If the league cannot stick to the schedule, as it was first drawn up, without changing a date—to help out Peterborough—every week, it is probably better out of existence. What it needs is a man as president, one who will see that each town is treated alike. One thing sure, Cobourg will never enter a league again with Blake Crawford at the head. It looks as if automobile fines and Cobourg were

RELIEF MEETS THE NEEDS OF REFUGEES

People in the Devastated Area Are Now Well Cared For -- Tents and Supplies Rushed From Toronto--Fires Have Stopped, And Order Prevails.

Toronto, July 17.—Reassuring reports from the fire-swept region in Northern Ontario reached Toronto yesterday. Every communication arriving in the city since Saturday indicated beyond a doubt that the worst is over and that order is developing out of chaos. The fires have abated and the people are recovering to some extent from their days and nights of anxiety and alarm. Nothing like comfort is yet obtainable in Porcupine or Cochrane, but the necessities of life—food and shelter—have arrived in quantities sufficient for the needs of everybody in distress.

To such an extent has reassurance found its way into the devastated regions that the destitute people are already beginning to send thanks to the citizens of older Ontario for the generous way in which money and supplies were sent to the scene of the holocaust.

The relief committee are working energetically to provide for the wants of all, and latest reports bring the assurance that no hungry or shelterless people are now to be found in any of the centres of population where the relief committee are sending their supplies.

A detachment of troops under command of Majors Hallett and Henderson left the city on Saturday night with 500 military tents and 4,000 blankets. Major Henderson and some of the soldiers detrained at Matheson with part of the military supplies. The other detachment proceeded on to Cochrane under command of Maj. Hallett, who will oversee the distribution of his consignment of tents and blankets. The supply train arrived in Matheson at 6.15 last night, and Maj. Hallett's party reached Cochrane a little over two hours later, and in plenty of time to get the tents pitched for the homeless people before the night was far advanced. As each tent is of sufficient capacity to provide sleeping accommodation for twelve soldiers it is apparent that a family of eight or nine persons can be tolerably well protected in each of the tents. The total consignment of tents will thus house upwards of 3,500 people, if necessary, and the supply of blankets is also sufficient for the need of all.

In addition, a carload of mixed groceries was also despatched from Toronto on Saturday night, and will have arrived in Cochrane by this time, along with the tents and bedding.

Part of the groceries will be distributed at intermediate points between Matheson and Cochrane, according to where there is need for them.

In response to an appeal by Rev. Dr. MacKay, envelopes were distributed in all the Presbyterian churches yesterday for contributions to assist the pastors and their congregations in the burned districts of Porcupine in rebuilding the churches and refurnishing the libraries of the ministers.

"Just how we will distribute the money is yet to be decided," said Dr. MacKay to a reporter last evening. "I received telegrams from two of our ministers, Rev. Mr. McClennan, South Porcupine, and Rev. Mr. Sinclair of Cochrane asking for assistance. I replied saying that the people in Ontario would do all they could for them, and that help would probably follow within a few days.

"The people as a whole, I think, have been supplied already with eatables and clothing, and what is needed mostly is money to rebuild the churches and assist the missionary. A pastor's library costs a lot of money, and it is beyond the finances of these men to buy the necessary books when they have all their other expenses to meet at the same time."

The postal situation is being attended to by Supt. George Ross, under special instructions from the Postmaster-General, Hon. Mr. Lemieux, and Dr. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General.

The postoffice that formerly was at Porcupine has been transferred to Golden City. The amount of mail matter coming out now exceeds any previous big rush. The postal supplies were all saved at Cochrane, and were soon disposed of.

Doing Good Work.

North Bay, July 17.—T. & N. O. Railway Superintendent J. H. Black and General Passenger Agent Parr returned from Porcupine and Cochrane yesterday and report that the relief committee are doing good work. There is a splendid organization at Cochrane, where everybody is being fed and sheltered. A lunch counter has been opened at Cochrane station. building operations have already started at Cochrane, and 40 small structures are under way with what lumber could be secured nearby.

The official list of dead is now given, as the missing ones have been located. The death list is not expected now to reach over 100.

TWENTY MINERS ENTOMBED IN A PENNSYLVANIA MINE

Explosion Has Disastrous Results—No Cause Can be Explained.

Dubois, Pa., July 17.—Twenty-one miners were killed in an explosion in the shaft of the Cascade Coal & Coke Co.'s mine at Sykesville, nine miles from here, on Saturday night. The explosion occurred at 9.30, but it was after midnight before the extent of the disaster was known. All the dead but three are foreigners. The explosion was slight as evidenced by the small damage done to the mine, but the deadly after damp is responsible for most of the deaths.

Three sets of brothers, and a father and son are numbered among the dead. George and John Heek; and Nick Pavelick and his fifteen-year-old son were found by the rescuers locked in each others' arms as though they embraced each other in their dying moments.

None of the bodies were mutilated, but several showed burns. Eleven of the men in one heading had apparently made ready to escape, for they carried their dinner pails and had started for the opening.

The first intimation of the explosion at the surface was when the safety door on the fan blew open and the machinery began to run wild. It was surmised there was trouble below, but it was almost midnight before rescuers could enter the mine. It took some time to get to the scene of the accident, a mile and a half from the opening, because the rescuers were obliged to carry oxygen with them.

Neither mine officials nor mine inspectors are able to assign a cause for the explosion, as there are no survivors from which to gain an explanation; but it is the general belief that some of the men drilled into a pocket of gas. The shaft is known as a non-gaseous one, and Fire Boss John Brown reports he was through the heading where the explosion occurred, but an hour before and found no trace of gas.

McRAE GOES UP FOR TRIAL

Preliminary Hearing in Murder Case Concluded.

Evidence Much the Same As At the Inquest.

Cornwall, July 17.—At the conclusion of the Police Court enquiry into the Bridge End tragedy on Saturday, F. D. McRae, reeve of Lancaster Township, was committed to jail to stand his trial for the murder of William Shaw of Carp on July 1. Police Magistrate Danis, in making known this decision, said that he would have liked to have changed the charge to manslaughter if the crown would consent. There was no doubt but that Shaw had been killed by McRae's bullet, but the conduct of Dr. Magee's party in invading the McRae homestead had been most shameful and insulting, and had the McRae's resorted to arms at that time he believed they might have been somewhat justified.

The evidence given at the trial was much the same as at the inquest. A new feature, however, was the production of a pair of handcuffs by Constable Uren, who claimed that thes were what has been mistaken for a revolver. He had taken them along to handcuff D. C. McRae, if necessary, while Dr. Magee searched the premises. The McRaes mistook the handcuffs for a revolver and he did not enlighten them. At the inquest he had made no mention of the handcuffs when charged with drawing a gun. Uren is an Englishman, 35 years of age. He came out from the Farmingham Home in Kent, England, about twenty years ago. On June 4 he and Dr. Magee had driven to the McRae homestead on a scouting expedition.

D. C. McRae did not see his brother —F. D. McRae—shoot, but he heard the report, and the auto was then over the knoll of the hill, 900 odd feet gee's party, on June 4, and his subsequent letters, the family, particularly the women, had lived in terror. On the occasion that his daughter had left her husband in his company, not the last time, it was not at his solicitation, as he did not interfere, and Dr. Magee sent her trunk to the depot.

Bail for Mr. McRae wil be asked from a high court judge. The amount is immaterial, as the man's character and standing is such that any amount asked will be promptly covered.

SIR HENRY SAYS THEY'LL BE BIG

Docks for Making Canadian Warships Planned

Toronto, July 17.—Sir Henry Pellatt declares that the largest docks in the world will be built in Canada. He made this statement on his arrival from England on Saturday morning, in connection with a discussion of the organization of the new shipbuilding company in which he is interested. The location of the new yards has not yet been decided upon, but Sydney has been mentioned.

The new company will be prepared to build the ships of the Canadian navy and Sir Henry evidently counts upon the company getting the contracts.

Trampled to Death.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., July 17.—At Portage road, five miles from Charlottetown, Saturday afternoon, James Casford, a man of 69 years, and unmarried, was trampled to death. Mr. Casford was in the yard of his brother, Mr. Stead, with the latter's mare and a stallion. He was knocked down by the mare, a quick-tempered animal, and while lying on his back on the ground the stallion trampled on him, placing his left foot heavily on the right side of his chest, pressing the lung almost flat, breaking his collar-bone, and inflicting other fearful injuries. Mr. Casford died in half an hour.

DIDN'T KNOW IT WAS LOADED

Boy Found Gun, And Pointed It With Usual Result.

Canso, N.S., July 17.—What may prove a fatal shooting accident happened here yesterday. A number of boys were swimming near the fish store of William Shrider, when one of them named Willie Horn, about ten years of age, went into the store and finding a gun lying on a table, picked it up and pointed it out of the door at the boys coming out of the water. It went off, discharging the whole load in the face of Jason Smith, shattering the chin and lower jaw and passing through his neck. Horn did not know that the gun was loaded. The gun was left in the store by William Shrider on his return from gunning because he could not extract a shell that had got jammed. There are small hopes of the boy's recovery.

Caspian Badly Damaged.

Kingston, July 17.—The steamer Caspian, hard aground at Point Ann, near Belleville, was successfully released on Saturday afternoon. She was quite badly damaged and will be brought to the Kingston dry dock for repairs. The steamer North King, also out of commission, owing to an accident, is again on her route.

ROASTED TO DEATH IN GAS WORKS

Sad End of Toronto Man On Saturday.

Toronto, July 17.—Samuel Keyman, 178 Greenwood avenue, was mysteriously burned to death at the gas works at Eastern and Booth avenues Saturday morning. Workmen found the body lying on top of one of the retorts. They were attracted by the odor of burning flesh.

The authorities at the plant told the police that they could not understand how the man came to be in the retort-room, as his employment would not call him there, and, indeed, he had no right to be in the room. From his position it is believed that he must have been walking on a pipe above the retort and fallen. The flesh was literally roasted and was loose upon the bones when the body was found. It was removed to the morgue and the chief coroner notified. An inquest will be held.

TRYING TO GET HOLD OF LAND

Schemers After a Million Acres in Peace River District

Special to the Review.

Winnipeg, Man., July 17.—It is alleged that a Toronto lawyer and a Winnipeg hotelman are engineering a deal to grab a quarter of a million acres of land in the Peace River district, worth two and a half million dollars, from the British Columbia government. Signatures necessary for the assignment of a hundred and sixty acres are being obtained for fifty cents worth of drinks.

Impaled Herself on Knife.

New York, July 17.—"I'm not hurt, mother, but please take the knife out of my heart," fifteen-year-old Helen Wineman moaned as Mrs. Wineman found her prostrate on the floor of their apartment kitchen Friday night. The girl, while romping with her pet dogs, had fallen and been impaled upon a potato knife which she was playfully brandishing.

The panic-stricken mother drew out the knife, and ran screaming for a doctor. Returning, she found the girl dead, halfway up the hall stairway, where she had dragged herself.

Bricklayers' Excursion.

Berlin, July 17.—The biggest picnic excursion that has ever come to Berlin was that of the Bricklayers' Union of Toronto, Hamilton, London, Stratford, Galt and other towns on Saturday, the visitors numbering about 1,500. Toronto's contingent brought the 48th Highlanders, and the 91st Highlanders accompanied the Hamilton excursionists, these bands along with the 29th Regiment band of Berlin, furnishing an abundance of good music. A fine program of sports were carried out at Victoria Park during the afternoon. A joint band concert was held in the evening at the auditorium.

THIRTY-TWO ARE DROWNED IN WRECK ON SAN JUAN RIVER

Passengers Were Below Decks and Had no Chance of Escape.

New York, July 17.—Thirty-two passengers and several members of the crew of the steamer Irma, were drowned or crushed to death when the vessel was sunk by the Diamante, according to a despatch from Port Limon, Costa Rica, published here yesterday. The wreck occurred during a storm in the estuary of the San Juan River.

The fact that most of the passengers were below on account of the heavy weather seems to account for the heavy loss of life, as the steamer sank so quickly that there was little chance for those under decks to escape.

The Irma was heavily laden, and her efforts to swing to port did not take her far enough to prevent the Diamante plunging her nose deep into the side of the Irma. The Diamante's bow was badly battered, but she proved seaworthy.

Carried Sewer Bylaw.

Berlin, July 17.—Ratepayers on Saturday carried the bylaw by 324 majority to abolish the sewer commission, the work to come under the direct management of the Town Council. The submission of the bylaw came as the result of the commission refusing to dismiss Foreman Reckerman, who had admitted certain irregularities following an investigation.

Her Cargo on Fire.

Perim, July 17.—The British steamer Antilochus, from Tacoma, Seattle, and Victoria, B.C., via Yokohama, for Liverpool, has arrived here with the cargo in No. 1 hold on fire. The hold has been flooded to extinguish the flames. The cargo will be discharged.

Will Enlarge the Station.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 17.—Supt. Bowker yesterday announced the enlargement of the Grand Trunk station here. Quarters will be erected for the immigration officials. The work will start immediately.

THIRD DEATH FROM CHOLERA

Fifteen Other Cases Being Treated at Swinburne Island

New York, July 17.—The death of the third cholera victim within forty-eight hours occurred at Swinburne Island this morning. Health authorities admit that the situation is grave. Fifteen other cases are being cared for. [illegible]

KITCHENER IS APPOINTED AS BRITISH AGENT IN EGYPT

He Will Also Have Command of the British Troops of the Mediterranean.

London, July 17.—Official announcement was made on Saturday that Field Marshal Lord Kitchener has been appointed British Agent in Egypt in succession to Sir Eldon Gorst, who died on July 12.

The command of the British troops on the Mediterranean, heretofore held by a general at Malta, will be transferred to Lord Kitchener.

The Nation says: "Lord Kitchener will go as the nominee of the critics of Sir Eldon Gorst. He will be hailed by them as a rough man who will stand no nonsense, and the Egyptians will receive his nomination as a challenge.

"What must follow is easy to foresee—the checking of such confidence in our good faith as Sir Eldon Gorst had begun to establish, the outbreak of reckless discontent, and a ruthless period of repression carried out by a soldier who gave no quarter at Omdurman and signalized himself by ghoulish barbarity in beheading the Mahdi's corpse."

Since 1909, when he returned to England from India, where he had been in command for six years, Lord Kitchener has been popularly known as the "Man out of a job." He was offered the Mediterranean command, which he declined to accept, and now has come his appointment to a position of the greatest responsibility, and which he will be eminently qualified to fill.

Kitchener had been spoken of freely as a possible successor to Earl Cromer, which appointment has, however, been reserved for him until now. It is said there is no living Englishman who has a better, more intimate knowledge of Egypt, its people, and its affairs than Kitchener.

Bolt Killed Horses.

Chatham, Ont., July 17.—A barn on the farm of Martin Doyle, Harwich, was struck by lightning on Friday and was consumed by fire. In the stable at the time was a team of horses, and George Anderson, colored, who was working on the farm with Doyle. The bolt hit and killed the horses, but Anderson, who was lying down in the stall next to the horses, was uninjured, and did not even feel the shock.

The building was insured for an amount that partially covers the loss, but the implements and contents will be a total loss.

"PILLS LIKE A FYLE"

So Harsh and Drastic are Many Pills as to Seriously Injure Health.

In a letter written from his home in Valencia, Mr. Marsh Belwyn does service to thousands by drawing attention to the injuries inflicted upon delicate people by drastic purgative pills.

"For a long time I suffered from constipation. This condition compelled the use of pills. Like many another, I made the unwise choice of using pills that were like lightning in their activity. I began to be filled with intestinal disturbances, constant rumblings, gas in the bowels and diarrhoea. I grew pale and emaciated. Then the doctor told me drastic irritating pills had caused catarrh of the bowels, an almost incurable disease. Explaining my situation to a friend, he advised a trial of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I speedily experienced the healing and curative effect they exert on the stomach, liver and bowels. The intestines, freed from irritating drugs, rapidly regained natural tone, the bowels acted as if nature and not Dr. Hamilton's Pills were at work. I know it will be of value to thousands to know that a pill as mild and curative as Dr. Hamilton's is available to the ailing."

For bowel disorders, sick headache, constipation, liver and stomach derangement, there is no pill so invariably sure to cure as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Refuse a substitute. Sold in 25c boxes, all dealers, or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

UNION LABEL

FRIGHTENING CANADIANS

The Montreal Herald advanced a reason why reciprocity should be passed, in an issue last week that sounds rather strange to Canadian ears. It urges that as there is no annexation sentiment in the United States now, and as the United States wants reciprocity, to refuse it would be to engender a big annexation sentiment in the republic, and this sentiment would not be overly careful how it achieved its object, viz., the annexation of Canada.

We are certainly surprised at the Herald urging the adoption of the reciprocity agreement because its refusal might give offence to Uncle Sam.

If we must do the bidding of Washington now, when we are very much free from dangerous entanglements, how will we escape being a mere catspaw and tool later on, when we are entangled in the meshes.

Could any stronger argument be advanced against the "entangling alliances," that Clifford Sifton warned the government against, than this very pro-reciprocity argument of the Herald.

If what the Herald says is true, that to reject reciprocity would bring into being a tide of not-over scrupulous annexation sentiment, how imperative it must be that we shall do nothing to impair our British connection. If the rejection of any trade advances by the United States involves a threat to put an end to our national existence, how unfortunate a policy must it be that snubs Britain, and seeks to separate us.

And what an answer it must be to the pretensions of the Canadian independence men, of whom Sir Wilfrid Laurier once was one.

According to the argument of the Herald, if we went into the pact, and later decided to withdraw from it, we would be swallowed at one mouthful by Uncle Sam—because to withdraw would be a greater offence than to refuse to enter. Could any stronger national reason be advanced than this for remaining free from such dangerous alliances?

One thing is certain. Canadians won't be frightened into accepting reciprocity by the Herald or the United States, or anyone or anything else. If they do take it, it will be from a delusion that Canada stands to benefit. But to tell us, in ghostly whispers, not to refuse reciprocity because Sam mightn't like it, is babyish.

Ours not to reason why,
Ours not to make reply;
Ours but to do or die;
Poor Canadians.

SOME POWER FACTS

As usual the newspapers of Hamilton are having their summer tilts in the power lists, the Spectator and Times upholding the Cataract Power company glove against the Herald, which carries the colors of the hydro-electric. The contest is not so unequal as might be thought, for the hydro-electric knight has been splintering lances with telling effect on his adversaries.

One of the Hearld's latest thrusts is the reproduction of an article appearing in the Dundas Star and dealing with the comparative prices for house lighting in Dundas and Hamilton, both being served at present by the Cataract company. This is interesting to Peterborough particularly, because it shows that while the Hamilton company says it has the cheapest generation on the continent, its house lighting charges are higher than those in Peterborough.

Dundas has now a town hydro system, and has been able to make considerable change in the house lighting rates. The Star says that prior to the advent of the hydro power, the regular rate for house-lighting was 10 cents net per kilowatt hour, with 25 cents meter rent per month additional. In Peterborough the rate was never higher than 7 cents net. For commercial lighting the rate was 15 cents per kilowatt hour, with 25 cents a month meter rent. Commercial lighting in Peterborough has been 10 cents per kilowatt hour, or $3 flat rate per 16 candle power lamp.

It must be pointed out, however, that Dundas has a population of 4,000, which is considerably different from 18,000, just as the power company officials here point out that a comparison between Peterborough rates and Toronto rates is not really a fair comparison because of the difference in the size and consuming capacity of the two cities. But let us see what the introduction of hydro power did in Dundas. The Cataract company, under competition, is now willing to sell lighting at 8 cents per kilowatt, though it had claimed that under 15 cents it was selling at a loss.

Hamilton citizens now pay 8 1-2 cents per kilowatt hour less 10 per cent., with 25 cents meter rent, which is more than Peterborough's old rate. To illustrate the price question, the Star gives a sample that of the town clerk of Dundas. We give the results of the rates under the two systems, and add what the rate would be in Peterborough under the new room and meter rate, having to guess, however, that the house would be seven roomed—there being no way of properly comparing a floor space charge of 60 cents as against a room charge of 10 cents a room, without special information.

In all fairness, it cannot be said that Peterborough is suffering from exorbitant electric lighting rates as compared with Hamilton and other places. The advantage in power prices in large blocks lies with Hamilton and Welland, but as we have said before, the fact that we are doing fairly well is no reason why the city should not seek to find out if it cannot do better. To quote an eminent statesman and politician, "let us ask ourselves—is this China? Are we to stand still forever without progress? Because we are doing well, is it any reason why we should not change and do better?"

EDITORIAL NOTES

Magistrate Judd of London, got a letter from Mrs. Thornley urging a conviction in a liquor case. Mrs. Thornley is the lady who made the charges as to immorality in the public schools that so stirred up the forest city. The letter received by Magistrate Judd could easily be termed contempt of court, but it has been merely called "impertinent."

The newspaper editorial columns are still filled with articles urging the necessity of more complete fire-ranging in the northern timber districts. If an increase in the number of rangers will do any good, by all means let us have them. Anything that will help in preventing a disaster such as that of last week, ought to be secured, IMMEDIATELY whatever the price.

The Conservative convention of West Peterborough to-morrow night will be held in the Conservatory of Music Hall. It is hoped that every Conservative voter of the city will be present, and the importance of every delegate being present to cast a vote scarcely needs emphasizing. Prospects for winning this riding for Mr. Borden were never so good in years as at present.

There are no new arguments in love and politics.

CHICAGO, July 15.—A revival of the export trade brought new strength today into the market for wheat. Bullish estimates regarding the northwest crop gave help. In consequence, closing prices were ¼c to ⅜c higher than last night. The end of the day, however, left corn down ⅛c to ⅜c; and oats off ⅜c to ⅞c to 1⅛c. Hog products finished all the way from 10c to 17½c gain.

The Liverpool market closed to-day ⅛d to ⅜d lower than yesterday on wheat, and ¼d higher on corn. Buda Pest closed 1¼c lower, Berlin ⅜c lower and Antwerp ⅜c lower.

Winnipeg Exhibition.

Winnipeg, July 17.—"Travelers' Day" at the Canadian Industrial Exhibition yesterday brought out the largest crowd that has thus far greeted the fair, despite lowering skies. The commercial travelers' organization, 1,000 strong, toured the city in a street car parade.

A strong wind which blew all day deterred Coffyn, the aviator, until almost dark, when he made a spectacular flight, turning spirals and corkscrews directly over the heads of the audience that filled the grandstands and lined the fence all round the oval. The mastery of the aviator over his machine was again demonstrated in the landing. Owing to the direction of the wind, Coffyn had to land in an exceedingly small space, a feat accomplished with the utmost dexterity and nicety.

Baseball and Money Evils.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., July 17.—The two great impediments to religion in the northwest are the baseball and the money craze," declares Rev. Dr. R. W. McCullough, pastor of the leading Baptist Church here in a report to his congregation on a recent western trip.

"The westerners," he adds, "are baseball mad. It is baseball seven days of the week, Sunday and Monday alike. In the Dakotas they prefer going to a ball game to going to church. They go by train, trolley and automobile scores of miles. When they return home they are so full of the feats of the heroes of the diamond they can think of nothing else."

Treaty Well Liked.

London, July 17.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Observer says anent the new Anglo-Japanese treaty:

"Australia and Canada are frankly delighted. The Empire, divided upon the suppressed treaty, is a solid unit for the new one. This is an imperial advantage which it is not easy to overestimate."

Arrested In Alberta.

Kingston, July 17.—Word has reached Napanee of the arrest in Bonnie Glen, Alberta, of Peter Sherman Wagar, wanted for an assault on Miss Margaret Doyle near Camden East on May 23 last. Provincial Detective Greer of Toronto left to bring Wagar back, and they are expected in Napanee in a day or two, when he will stand trial for the offence.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr Wm. J. McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

The lachrymose effusion was of brief duration, and it was succeeded by deep dejection. He sat up and glanced at his watch. It was 11 o'clock. One after another he got all the papers and magazines there were, only to throw them impatiently to the floor. It was impossible for him to read them.

Emma had been gone a long time. What was detaining her—what, except—

His face began to twitch. He rose, lit a cigarette, took two puffs at it and put it down.

After all, the chief thing was that she should be successful.

He filled a glass with water that a bellboy had brought up iced for his mother-in-law and drained it at a draft. Then he picked up the newspaper nearest to him and tried to read again, but it was useless. He threw it down.

What if Williams had refused to be persuaded?

The suspense was becoming unendurable. A look of determination came into his face, and he went to the telephone, but as his hand touched it he changed his mind, walked back to the table and lit another cigarette. Then he went to the window and stared out at the opposite houses with unseeing eyes. Presently his hand sought his watch pocket. The timepiece it drew out marked ten minutes past 11. He held it to his ear. It was ticking steadily.

Only ten minutes since he had looked at it before! Impossible! Fully an hour had elapsed. The watch must have stopped in the interim. Impatient, he went to the telephone and asked for the right time. The hotel clerk replied that it was just ten minutes past 11. On his way to the table to get another cigarette he happened to catch sight of himself in the mirror over the mantelpiece. The thin, haggard, ashen visage he saw there frightened him. He laughed nervously.

As he did so the door behind him opened. Starting so violently that he let fall the box of cigarettes, he turned.

Mrs. Harris, in high dudgeon, walked in, followed by Beth.

CHAPTER XIV.

WHEN Mrs. Brooks found herself alone in the street she walked along mechanically, stunned by what had just occurred. Her heart seemed to be pressed down by a weight, and her breath came painfully through her contracted throat. She could not believe that what she had gone through was real, the thing was so monstrous, so utterly inconceivable. Her husband, Joe, for love of whom she had given up a life of ease, for whom she had borne cheerfully the trials of poverty, in whom she had placed her entire faith, this man, to whom she had yielded herself trustingly, in whom, up to that hour, she had believed as the soul of honor, had stood exposed as a thief and a liar.

To save himself from the impending punishment of his dishonesty he was willing to trade the honor of his wife! To maintain himself in the material ease that his thieving had brough them for a few brief weeks he wanted her to prostitute herself for money—had entreated and threatened in his efforts to force her to do this thing! And she, driven to desperation, had let him arrange a rendezvous for her with Captain Williams in the latter's rooms!

She stopped and leaned against a wall for support. A violent trembling had seized her, and the street lights were whirling about her.

"My God!" she groaned. "What shall I do? What shall I do?"

The fit of faintness passed off, and she was able to collect her thoughts and consider the best course of action. When she had undertaken to call on Captain Williams at that hour it was with no thought of lending herself to her husband's hideous plan. In a vague, hopeless way she had resolved to beg mercy for him, to see if there was not some manner in which atonement and restitution could be made. Now she was afraid. If she went to him, how could she approach him—what could she say? What would he think of her coming to his rooms, at night too? He would think, and under the circumstances naturally think, only one thing. And she would be completely in the power of this colossus, this ogre whom she secretly feared and detested, who so often had leered his unwelcome admiration of her when she was powerless to resent it.

Her impulse was to turn from the ordeal and fly from her husband, leaving him to the fate he merited. She could go to her mother's home and await her return from the theater. She would at least find a refuge there. But in the morning would come the public exposure and disgrace. No; she must make the effort, whatever the cost, whatever the sacrifice.

Ten minutes later she was knocking at Captain Williams' apartment.

The door swung open, and the captain stood before her.

"Come right in, Mrs. Brooks," he invited. "I've been waiting for you."

"I was delayed a little," she said timidly.

"Your husband telephoned that you were coming."

"Yes—I know."

The words came falteringly, and she stood, knowing not what to say or what to do.

"Did you meet Smith?" he inquired.

"Smith?"

"Your friend Jimsy. He just left."

"No. Why?"

"Must have passed you in the elevator. It does not matter. Won't you sit down?"

She took the chair he advanced for her close to the table.

"You must excuse the looks of these quarters," he went on. "I am an old bachelor, you know, and my Jap valet ain't allowed to dust up or clean much. Knocks out all my idea of arrangements."

"It is a quaint place," ventured Emma.

"Yes. Lived here ever since I've been in New York. I fixed it up to suit myself. It ain't what you'd call exactly pretty, but as I'm the only one to be pleased I guess it'll do."

"Almost a curiosity shop," she commented, surveying the room with a good deal of nervousness.

"Yes, stuff I've collected from time to time while I was at sea. Got about everything I ever wanted to keep, from the wheel of my first schooner down to spears from head hunters. There's models of boats and a lot of stuff. You see, I call this my main cabin—sort of grand salon. Over there I bunk with my crew, just one Jap, and the galley's to the rear. In them rooms Sato gets my breakfast, steals my loose change and lies most of the time. Got another room over there. Seldom use that; got it fixed up nice and civilized. Guess that's why I ain't feeling comfortable if I try it."

These details were of no interest to Mrs. Brooks, who desired only to bring the interview to an end as speedily as possible.

"I came right up—asked the elevator boy. Perhaps I should have asked at the office," she said.

"Not at all," he answered, in a manner intended to be reassuring. "I have my own way in this place. I got the money to pay for what I want, and there ain't no one in this hotel asking me any 'if,' 'and' or 'but.'"

"No one knew me. I didn't care that they should hear my name."

"It's nobody's business. What I'm entitled to, I'm entitled to, and so long as I pay the money no one else can interfere with the way I run my ship."

"Still, a woman—at this hour!"

"Makes no difference, although you are the first lady to call on me, night or day."

"You mean that no woman has ever been in here before?"

"I said the 'first lady.'"

Mrs. Brooks shuddered, and instinctively she glanced toward the door.

"You have a telephone here, haven't

"My God!" she groaned. "What shall I do?"

you, captain?" she asked.

"Right over there by the door," he said, pointing to it. "Want to use it?"

"Not now, thank you."

She cleared her choking throat and started right in to the business that had brought her.

"Captain Williams, since you left us tonight Joe—Mr. Brooks—has told me about his difficulty."

"So Smith said."

"That's what I came to talk about."

"Well, that little matter can rest," he said affably. "You've called, and it's the first chance I've had to speak to you alone."

"I want to know if there is any way—some arrangement"—

"No use in looking so glum over a little stolen money. I want to show you my quarters."

"I didn't come to see your quarters, captain. I came to"—

"I don't care what you came for, Mrs. Brooks," he declared, with mastodonian playfulness. "I make it a rule that everybody who drops in here, man or woman, has got to listen to me spinning yarns. Now"—

Emma was becoming more and more nervous.

"I know you will think me rude, but I can't delay," she insisted. "Joe is in great trouble, and some other time I'll bear the yarns."

ARMENIAN SETTLERS

Proposal to Bring Persecuted Christians Out West

Plans are under way for the placing of between four and five thousand Armenians on the land in British Columbia. It is announced by a party who proposes to stimulate this immigration that the Armenians in view are all Christians who have suffered persecution at the hands of the Turkish officials because of their religion. The Armenians are said to be principally agriculturists, and it is understood the British Columbia Government has been approached to ascertain what its views are in respect to the project. It is proposed to land the Armenians at Vancouver.

VROOMAN FOR WEST VICTORIA

Reeve of Lindsay the Choice of Conservative Party

Lindsay, Ont., July 16—Dr. A. E. Vrooman, of Lindsay, was to-day selected by the Liberal-Conservative Association to contest the riding of West Victoria at the coming provincial bye-election and also at the general election against the Liberal candidate, Mr. C. E. Weeks of Woodville. The selection was by acclamation all other candidates retiring.

The Conservatives have picked out a strong man, one they are sanguine will carry the riding with credit to himself and to the party. Dr. Vrooman has been a staunch Conservative for years and at the present time is reeve of Lindsay.

The convention was successful in every respect and everything augurs well for the success of the Conservative candidates at the coming election.

Excellent speeches were made by Dr. Vrooman, Dr. Wood, G. A. Jordan, John Carew, G.H. Hopkins, K.C., and other from Lindsay, as well as by Mr. Hoyle, M.P.P., of North Ontario, and Hon. Mr. Hanna, Provincial Secretary, who gave an excellent account of their stewartship and strongly eulogized the Whitney Government. The various speakers spoke in the highest terms of the aggressive and well thought out policies of the Local Government and were sanguine that West Victoria will be strongly Conservative at the coming election.

YOUNG LADY WAS DUCKED

Mishap Might Have Have Brough About Drowning

About five o'clock yesterday afternoon a boating accident occurred on the Otonabee about three miles down, just below the Braund camp. Fortunately no one was any the worse for the mishap beyond a ducking and a bad fright.

As far as could be learned two young ladies and two male escorts hired a canoe and a skiff from the Otonabee boat house for a sail down the river. After spending some time enjoying themselves, they commenced the return trip. The two ladies were in the canoe and the gentlemen in the row boat. It seems that they began to change from one boat to the other while some distance out on the river and in doing so one of the girls was tipped out and went into the river One of the men immediately went in after her and they both obtained a hold on the row boat. Several boats in the vicinity immediately put out. the canoe with the two people clinging to it were towed to shore. Between thirty and fifty people witnessed the accident. One of the Review informants stated that the party were very inexperienced at boating, and appeared to have no knowledge of the proper handling of a boat. The two young ladies are both well-known locally.

CASE WAS DISMISSED

Charge Against Hotelman Fails for Lack of Evidence

The charge against Mr. Bruce Rickey, proprietor of the Chemong hotel, of illegally selling liquor, laid by License Inspector Stewart, came up before County Magistrate Edmison at 11 o'clock this morning, and was dismissed, there being no evidence submitted to warrant a conviction. Mr. Rickey also promised to refrain from having liquor of any description on his premises in the future.

Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared on behalf of Mr. Rickey. The witnesses subpoenaed by Inspector Stewart in this case did not put in an appearance when the charge was first read against the defendant, and since then their whereabouts could not be ascertained.

NEW BOAT FOR G.T.P. RAILWAY CO.

Palatial New Steamer on Pacific Coast Run

The Grand Trunk Pacific Coast Steamship Company operated by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, has added another handsome ship to its fleet designed to operate in the Prince Rupert-Queen Charlotte Island and Portland Canal route.

This steamer will be named the "Prince John" the fourth Prince steamer of this line. The Prince Rupert and Prince George being the largest and finest vessels in the north coast trade from Seattle, Victoria and Vancouver, and the Prince Albert operating locally out of Prince Rupert

The Prince John was constructed in Port Glasgow Scotland, and is now somewhere off the coast of South America on her way to Vancouver, where she will arrive about the end of next month.

A description of the vessel as follows—

The steamer is 185 feet long, 30 feet beam, and 13 feet 3 inches moulded depth, built of steel and classed 100 A. 1., with star at Lloyds. She has seven watertight bulkheads with double bottom, affording ample ballast, and fresh water, storage, large bunkers, two multitubular Scotch boilers triple expansion engines, capable of a speed of 12 knots under full loaded conditions, on an extremely moderate fuel consumption. The vessel has been modelled to stand the heaviest weather, and is a remarkable sea boat

In addition to a large and well arranged steerage accomodation for 150 she has good first-class accomodation a very neat and comfortable smoking room done in fumed oak with leather upholstery, and buffet in connection. This is accessible only from first class quarters. The dining saloon seating 44, is done in Mahogany with crimson upholstery and drapings, and is situated on the shelter deck, and attached to it is a large pantry and gallery conveniently laid out and fitted with all modern equipment necessary to a first-class service. The chief steward's offices and men's washrooms are located also on this deck.

The dining room is reached by a mahogany staircase leading from the lounge on the shade deck, into a well proportioned and airy vestibule, also mahogany panelled and decorated. The principal stateroom accomodation is situated on the shelter deck and consists of 18 two berth staterooms of large size, well ventilated all having outside windows. These rooms are furnished with folding lavatories, spring berths, hair mattresses and the standard linens of the company.

Forward of this is a very neat semi-circular observation room, with large plate glass windows, done in white and gold, furnished with wicker chairs. This room will be the most attractive feature of the steamer. Above this is the pilot house, and texas for the officers' quarters.

On the after part of the lower deck there is ample promenading space for steerage passengers, and on the shade and upper decks there is ample shelter and lounge space for the fiirst-class passengers.

This ship has a cargo capacity of 450 tons, in addition to her bunkers, and although it is expected she will be a very convenient and comfortable ship, well adapted for the purpose for which she is intended. It is expected she will arrive on the coast some time in the latter part of July, and will as soon as possible thereafter be placed in commission on the "Prince Rupert Queen Charlotte Islands route," relieving the S.S. "Prince Albert" for other purposes.

J. R. Stratton Urged by the Grits to Run

At a meeting of the Liberal stalwarts on Saturday night in O'Connell & Gordon's office, J. R. Stratton was urged to again be a candidate, and was given a week to think over his decision not to run.

Another meeting will be held next Saturday evening and if as expected, Mr. Stratton declines to stand, a convention will be called before Aug. 1st to select another candidate. R. R. Hall is said to be the likely choice, as he did not get the East Peterborough nomination.

In a Strange Land.

Owen Sound, July 17.—Alone, disheveled and smoke-begrimed, a little ten-year-old English lad named Pollock, arrived here from London, Eng., Saturday night.

His forlorn condition attracted the attention of a bystander to whom the boy stated that he came to find his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pollock, who left England in April and were supposed to be in Owen Sound.

Investigation by the police has failed to locate the parents in the town or vicinity.

The lad's story is that he was left behind by his parents when they came out on account of illness and that relatives in London had sent him on when he recovered.

A WISE PIG

One of the wealthiest farmers of Smith, tells a wonderful story of porcine sagacity. It seems that the heavy rain of last week washed a sow and nine little piggies down into a swamp. The rain was so great that the farmer decided he would have to go down with a basket and get the piglets or they would be drowned. He waded down through the torrent, four feet deep, and found the little piggies had been safely conveyed to the roots of an upturned stump by their mother, who stood with her nose just above the water. Her family was put in the basket and the mother swam off a little knoll until she reached terra firma.

The sagacity of the detested pig thus received another vindication.

POLICE COURT

Twenty Days for Blacklister Who Transgressed

A member of the prohibited list was sentenced by Acting Magistrate Armstrong, this morning to twenty days in jail. The alternative was $10, which he did not possess.

The charge against him was of having been drunk while on the prohibited list on Saturday. He pleaded guilty to having had liquor, but not to being drunk.

The chief had him go into the box to ascertain where he had procured the liquor which had been his undoing.

The defendant stated that while on his way home Friday night between 10 and 11 o'clock, he saw a man and woman sitting on the east side of Babb's Lane. He watched them for a while, and on their departure he went over and found a 50 cent bottle of whiskey three-parts filled. It was the contents that put him in wrong on Saturday and led to his arrest by two police officers.

MUST DEPART.

For causing a disturbance at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, on Saturday evening, John Tooley was arrested, but as it was his first appearance in court, he was allowed his liberty on promising to leave Peterborough right away.

All Nations Musical Festival to Be Given

By request of a large number of citizens, the Salvation Army silver band will give their concert on Friday night of this week instead of Tuesday. A special program, known in the Army circles at the "All Nations' Musical Festival," will be given. This will include marches and selections of the leading countries of the world, the whole arrangement being completed by the Salvation Army musical band in London, Eng. The program will be published later in the week, and the change from Tuesday to Friday night will no doubt give many an opportunity of hearing the S. A. Band, who otherwise would not have the opportunity to do so. Bandmaster Peryer and his men will be pleased to see their Tuesday nights audiences as well as those who attend the usual Friday night concerts.

The Late George Schneider

An old resident of Peterborough passed away from heart trouble after a week's illness at 3.15 yesterday afternoon in the person of Mr. George Schneider, aged 76 years.

The late Mr. Schneider was born in Nwiderroldern, Alsace Lorraine, Germany, January 15th, 1835. He came to America at the age of 18 years, sailing from the port of Havre, France, Alsace at that time being a French province. The voyage was made in a sailing vessel and it took five weeks to make the trip to New York. From New York he went to Rochester where he remained for two years, afterwards coming to Peterborough. He had resided here fifty-eight years and had taken an active part in the development of the city. He was associated with various industries during his early life but for the past twenty-five years had not been actively engaged in business, his time being spent in looking after his large holdings in real estate.

Deceased never lost his love for his native land, and about four years ago he visited Germany.

The late Mr. Schneider was a member of the Board of Health for several years and for over a quarter of a century had belonged to the Peterborough Lodge of Oddfellows. He was also an adherent of the George street Methodist church.

The survivors are, one daughter, Mrs. Chas. Rishor, with whom deceased has been residing, two sons, Messrs. George F. and Frank S., who are in business in Peterborough, also three sisters and two brothers in Germany.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mr. Chas. Rishor, London street, at 2.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, to the Little Lake cemetery.

Mrs. Margaret Browne

One of Peterborough's pioneer residents passed away this morning in the person of Mrs. Margaret Browne, relict of the late John Browne, 525 George street. Her last illness, though of short duration, has really been of long standing. She has been failing for a number of years, and passed away surrounded by her family and relatives, after lingering in a state of coma for one hundred and thirty hours. Always a Christian mother, her last days were spent in prayer and supplications to the Lord she tried to serve so well, for those she was leaving behind. Mrs. Browne was the mother of nine children, six boys and three girls, eight of whom survive her. They are Mrs. C. J. Seymour, Mrs. Robert McGill Hood, Miss Jennie, John G., A. D., Robert, James and Fred Browne, all of whom are residents of Peterborough, except A. D., who resides in Chicago, Ill.

For fifty years or more deceased has been a faithful adherent of the Church of England and St. John's church has had in her a loyal and faithful worker.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 525 George street, Wednesday, at 3.30 o'clock, and interment will take place in the family plot in Little Lake cemetery.

Rev. Canon Davidson will officiate.

FANS WITNESSED GREAT BALL GAME, WITH BELLEVILLE WINNING OUT IN THE TENTH

Locals Had the Big End at the Eighth, but Quinlan's Wild Pegs Allowed Visitors to Even Up Again and Take the Winning Run—Three Double Plays Against Belleville—Score 4-3.

That 4-3 count of Saturday at Riverside tells a story of some baseball with Sleepy Hollow nine ambling away with the extra run. Good twirling, stellar fielding and wild heaves, all helped to make the exhibition an interesting one to watch. The local line up was changed somewhat. Dutch Gonter going behind the bat, where he behaved in good form. McFadden went to centre, and Rahmal patrolled short.

It was a great game for Belleville to win and a hard one for the locals to fall down on. Outside of his wild throwing, Quinlan worked well in the box. He struckout eleven and did not hit or pass a man. Only in the sixth and ninth was he hit consecutively and his slip in the latter inning allowed a score. His double in the ninth looked rosy but there was nothing coming behind, and after getting the third on a passed ball, did the sticking act.

Ashton, who they say took a turn with the Montreal Eastern League team, looked fit for the honor alright. He was cool and right in the game all the time. Not a chance did he take and he is welcome to the win. He struck out eight hit two batters and passed two, and like his opposing heaver conted the sphere for two sacks but went one better and tallied.

The visitors looked like a ball team and that helps a whole lot. However like the locals they were not overburdened with ginger. Running into three double plays doesn't look any too well.

George Minorgan lived up to his reputation that he made on the same old ball lot. He fielded faultlessly and put over a new one in the shape of a real two base hit. No doubt he was astonished himself.

Everyone was tickled with the game, although some of the fans in the grandstand would have liked to have had a few old boots to heave at the local twirler and the probability was that their aim would have been something of the Annie Oakley class. Quinlan certainly had his peekers working all to the bad when the bases were busy. And the cruelest blow came in the tenth when Smith came home and won the game on the third of the boxman's erratic pegs.

But cheer up Lizzie these things will happen and they all help to make the baseball game. It is easy to guess what would have happened to Geroux, the visitors initial sacker, were he to try that one hand catch stuff in his native burg, in the midst of such another game. His muff gave Rahmal the base and the Petes shortstop, followed with the run that sent his team ahead in their half of the eighth.

Craig should have had a hit to his credit in the seventh after McFadden got on but the latter was too slow in getting away and as a result was thrown out at second. Billy Shaw it would be safe to bet, wizzened up somewhat when Ashton caught him off the bag, when he ran for Jimmie Ohearn.

FIRST INNING

Coyne first up for Belleville, singled and stole second, Geroux fanning. Minorgan's third strike was dropped and the play to get Coyne at third fizzled. In attempting to get Minorgan off the first bag, Quinlan threw to the stand, Coyne scoring and "66" taking third, but he was caught off the plate on a fielder's choice, which Connely drove at Ohearn. Connely took second on a balk. O Neil missed three, one run, one hit.

Murphy played Ashton for a walk and stole second, Shaw neatly sacrificed him to third and he was hit to the pan by O Brien after Ohearn had failed to connect. Quinlan's single sent Mike around to third, but Gonter ended on a grounder to short. One run two hits.

SECOND INNING

Brennan was an easy out to first Smith's line drive was pulled in by O Brien and Gonter had to throw Brown out at first. No runs no hits.

McFadden connected for a base and was thrown out trying to annex second, Craig biffed one at third and Rahmal sent his to Minorgan. No runs one hit.

THIRD INNING

Ashton doubled to right, and was sacrificed by Coyne and scored on a passed ball, Geroux skying out to McFadden and Minorgan fanning. One run one hit.

Murphy hit between first and second and was forced at second by Shaw who stole the next two bags. Ohearn missed connections again and when O Brien dropped one in front of the plate Brown threw over Geroux's head and Shaw counted. O Brien took third, Quinlan was thrown out third to first. One run one hit.

FOURTH INNING.

Both sides were retired in order, each twirler getting the strikeouts.

FIFTH INNING.

Rahmal grounded out but Murphy's liner was too hot for Smith and it went on through. A bad peg by Geroux gave the runner third sack but he was out at the plate when Ashton took the throw from Brown on a passed ball. Shaw lined out at first. No runs one hit.

SIXTH INNING

Coyne hit over second and Geroux singled with a biff to left. Minorgan sent a fly to Gonter who doubled Coyne at second. Connely grounded Murphy to first. No runs two hits.

Ohearn walked and Shaw running for him, was caught between first and second. O Brien and Quinlan fanned. No runs no hits.

SEVENTH INNING.

O'Neil fanned on three pitched balls Brennan was safe at first when Murphy sent an aviator to O'Brien. Smith singled but Rahmal took Brown's fly and doubled Brennan. No runs one hit Gonter out second to first, but Coyne's slip on McFadden's grounder gave Doc the bag to which he proceeded to become glued to such an extent that when Craig wafted one to right, he was caught a mile off second on the throw from O'Neil. Craig made the third out, getting copped on the catcher's peg.

EIGHTH INNING.

Ashton sent an easy one to the pitcher. Coyne skied to Rahmal and Geroux fanned.

The locals went ahead in their half Rahmal getting on when Geroux made a failure of a one handed stab on the throw from Minorgan. He was sacrificed by Murphy. Shaw took one in the slats and Jimmie Ohearn came along with a sacrifice fly which Minorgan grabbed after a hard chase, Rahmal scoring when Minorgan threw over the catcher. Shaw went around to third and O'Brien ended with a fly to third. One run no hits.

With three hits and a wild throw by Quinlan, the visitors evened up, Minorgan leading off with a double. On a play to get him as he led off Quinlan threw into centre field and the runner took third, and tallied on Connely's single. Connely was out at second, O'Neil fanned and with Smith at bat, Gonter got Brennan at the middle cushion, after he had hit into left, one run three hits.

It was up to Manager Quinlan to redeem himself and he clouted to the fence for two bags. Gonter popped to the pitcher and McFadden was hit. A passed ball advanced both runners, but Craig was out for bunting third strike. Rahmal grounded out. Minorgan to first, No runs, one hit.

TENTH INNINGS.

Smith was safe when Rahmal became bewildered on a grounder. He stole second and was hit to third by Brown. With Ashton giving him an easy one, Quinlan uncorked another wild heave and Smith romped home, Brown getting around to third.

Coyne struck out and with Geroux at bat, Brown tried to squeeze in but was nailed by Gonter and Geroux was out for interference on the play. One run, one hit.

Murphy fanned, Shaw missed three, but had to be retired at first. O'Hearn smashed out a two bagger but it was wasted for after working Ashton every old way, O'Brien sent up a fly to Minorgan and the excitement was over.

Mr. Wanamaker held a pamphlet on Canada in his hand, and pointing to it, said:

SPORT TALK

Lovers of football will be glad to know that Peterborough is to have a team in the O.F.A. finals. The C.G.E. eleven is the team which have won the fight to play for the championship of the province, but the financial end of the club is such that at the meeting Friday night it was decided to enter a "Peterboro" team, any good player whose amateur standing is untainted, being eligible.

Of course, there will have to be money raised for this team and it was decided to open a public subscription. The entrance fee to the O.F.A. is $10 and the travelling expenses will be rather high. There has been $50 subscribed by citizens already, but it will be necessary to get a considerable amount yet.

A winning Peterborough team is a advertisement for the city and it should be patronized.

THE LONGEST BAT

Pitcher Elmer Steele of the Pittsburgs uses the longest bat on record. It is fully a foot longer than the one with which Honus Wagner does such execution. One afternoon in the spring at the training camp in Hot Springs, Ark., Elmer was greeted with a laugh when he approached the plate, telegraph pole in hand. "I hope," he remarked, "that all the pitchers in the league will take me for a monkey this season. I'll show them what's what."

Publish My Letter The World Over

The Words of Harold P. Bushy, Who Was Permanently Cured of Chronic Lumbago by "Nerviline."

"Three years ago I discovered that a man subject to lumbago might just as well be dead as alive." These words open the sincere, straightforward letter of H. P. Bushy, a well-known man in the plumbing and tinsmithing business in Portland.

"One attack came after another, and lumbago got to be a chronic thing with me. I could scarcely get in a day's work before that knifing, cruel pain would attack my back. I used a gallon of liniments; not one of them seemed penetrating enough to get at the core of the pain. I read in the Montreal Witness about Nerviline, and got five bottles. It is a wonderful medicine—I could feel its soothing pain-relieving action every time it was applied. When I got the disease under control with Nerviline, I built up my strength and fortified my blood by taking Ferrozone at meals. This treatment cured me permanently, and I urge everyone to give up the thick, white, oily liniments they are using, and try an up-to-date, penetrating, pain-destroyer like Nerviline.

"Please publish my letter the world over. I want all to hear of Nerviline."

Don't be cajoled into receiving anything from your dealer but "Nerviline." Large bottles 50c., trial size, 25c. Sold everywhere or The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Doukhobors Block Census.

Nelson, B.C., July 15.—More than one thousand Doukhobors, members of a colony at Brilliant, on the Lower Arrow Lake, have rebelled against the census taking, absolutely refusing to be counted. Sherbining, the leader of the colony, has done everything in his power to persuade the colonists to submit, and they have been threatened with arrest without avail.

The census commissioner has telegraphed to the Minister of Agriculture at Ottawa asking for instructions. From previous experience, the police and census men here believe that the instructions will be to arrest all men who refuse to give the data required and preparations are being made to send a strong force of officers to the colony to enforce the law.

Found Bodies In the Niagara.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 15.—The body of an unidentified man was taken from the river below the falls by the Maid of the Mist at six o'clock last night. The body, which had apparently been in the water for some time, was that of a young man with red hair, partially clothed in brown trousers, light brown underwear, and low black shoes. Nothing that would aid in identification was found on the body.

The body of eight-year-old Daniel Fill, who disappeared from his North Tonawanda home Tuesday, was found in the river above the falls late yesterday afternoon. It was recovered by power house workmen.

TOLERANCE AND INTOLERANCE

(Montreal Witness)

When the Eucharistic Congress met here last year the 'Witness' noted that it was the third time in succession that it had met under the aegis of a Protestant power, and expressed the belief that such demonstrations could be given under much safer and pleasanter auspices in Germany, the United States, or in British possessions than in Spain, France or Italy, where the Church had for many generations unequalled opportunity for gaining the affection of the people. The Congress chose Madrid as a meeting place this year, and we read that its organizers warned those who participated in it to march in silence for fear of provoking a hostile demonstration on the part of the Republicans and Anti-Clericals. In spite of this precaution a bomb was thrown, sixty people were injured, and other disorders occurred. In Montreal, thousands of Protestant citizens viewed the proceedings of the Congress with respect, the expenditure of public money on it with tolerance and the official character given to the receptions of its leaders with equanimity— not, as was hinted at the time —because they were coming into sympathy with the Roman system, but because they were Protestants, and Protestantism has taught them tolerance and respect for the right of every man to worship as his conscience directed him. In the Phillipines the Protestant United States had to protect the monks and their property from the Catholic natives. In Nimes the bishop has just been fined for flying the Papal flag on the occasion of the Joan of Arc festival. In Montreal we fly the Papal flag, the Tri-color, and display all sorts of sectional emblems without let or hindrance.

Mr. Stead, in his 'Review,' recently tells us that if a priest in Italy were to tell a Catholic layman who had only contracted a civil marriage, that he was living in concubinage he could be sent to jail. . . France is given up to anti-clericalism, and now Portugal has out Heroded Herod in its legislation against the Church.. By the new bill separating Church and State, not only are all the Church's present possessions conficated, but all future acquisitions are appropriated in advance. Priests are invited to marry, and if they do pensions are promised to their widows and children. The whole administration of the Church is vested in lay commissioners, and the State will have sole control over the administration of canonical rites.' It almost seems to him as if before long the only place where Catholics will be free to worship God according to their own conscience will be in the Protestant countries. It would seem he says, 'as if no one ever is so ruthless in his dealings with the Church as he whom the Church has baptized educated and preached at from his childhood. Dr. Clifford told his hearers on Sunday night that we had not liberty in this province. It is to be feared that the charge has more than a grain of truth in it, and that the very liberty that has been given to one Church has encroached upon the rights and security of other people. In Hull an agent of the Bible Society has lately been fined for selling Bibles — a thing which would not have happened in darkest Russia. In Montreal, a self-confessed 'hold-up man' was allowed to go scot free apparently because his victim was a Freemason. The right of the Roman Church to break up a home has been upheld in our courts of law. If a spirit thus manifested remain unchecked the natural fruit will be that the history of France, Spain, Italy and Portugal will repeat itself in the Province of Quebec. Therefore, it is in the interests of Roman Catholics as well as of themselves that Protestants are working when they accept Dr. Clifford's advice and 'hold on to their Protestantism.'

WHALES WERE STRANDED

Thirty-Seven of Them Were Left Floundering in the Sands

Thirty-seven monster whales were stranded recently on the coast of Perkins Island, North Tasmania. The whales, among which there was only one cow, quarreled, and in chasing the female, entered the shallows. All their attempts to jump back into the deep water failed, and as the tide receded they were left floundering on the sands, in which they half-buried themselves in their struggles, with the result that they perished in a short time. A number of persons who saw the spectacle formed a syndicate with a capital of $1,500, to recover the ambergris from the carcases. They have already obtained 3,000 pounds of the valuable commodity.

PEER AND PLAYWRIGHT

Lord Howard de Walden, the plaintiff in the recent remarkable law-suit, is one of England's wealthiest peers being credited with an income of $1,000,000 a year. As "T. E. Ellis" he has figured as the author of several plays, and was one of the earliest supporters of the movement for a National Theatre as a Shakespeare memorial. An ardent sportsman and soldier, he served with distinction during the South African War. He is exceedingly skilful with sword and gun, and once he achieved the unique feat of shooting a pheasant and hare almost at the same moment. He fired at the bird and brought it down. The report disturbed the hare, which jumped up almost at his feet and made off. Like a flash he turned round, fired the other barrel, and killed the hare.

THE PRINCE MUST BEHAVE

According to a custom in China the members of the Imperial family are above the law. Prince San-Chi has been doing just as he likes recently, fortified with this immunity. It is said that there is not a hygienic law that this interesting person has not broken. In fact, his great recreation seems to have been to defy the police. At length to the endurance of the police there came a limit, and on representations being made to the Minister of the Interior, that official brought the matter under the notice of the Regent, who has not only abolished the "convention," but the Prince's recreations also, and given instructions that in future he must act as an ordinary citizen or stand the consequences.

SHOOTING EXTRAORDINARY

The Marquess of Ripon, one of the three finest covert shots in England, recently entered upon his sixtieth year. The story goes that he can shoot a rocketing pheasant at such an angle as to catch the dead bird in his hand without moving from his position! Fifteen thousand head of game fell to his gun in one year. The other great passion of the Marquess's life is music, and that is fully shared by his beautiful and gifted wife, for both are great supporters of the opera. The Marquess is also an enthusiastic collector, and during the past twenty years has amassed a marvellous lot of Dresden china, said to be worth at least $250,000.

WHERE SWINDLING IS EASY

There is no country in the world where so many administrative formalities are necessary for the simplest things as in France, and this excess of red tape makes swindling comparatively easy. The French swindler acquires an exhaustive knowledge of all the needs and trickiness of red tape and its formalities, and soon discovers the weak points in them.

A CURIOUS CUSTOM

The village of Hambridge possesses a remarkable charity. It is known as the Alford Bread Charity, and provides that every laborer and householder in the parish shall receive bread. The customary distribution has recently been made, and every one in the parish except the parson, the farmers, and tradesmen, were recipients.

SMALL-POX IN ANCIENT EGYPT

An interesting historical discovery is reported in a mummy whose skin still shows what are apparently clear evidences of severe small-pox. The body was that of a tall man of middle-age, and came from one of the royal tombs.

SCARCITY OF DOMESTICS

The housewives of Berlin are in an unfortunate plight, and their dependent men folk are in a position not less enviable, owing to the remarkable dearth of domestics, chiefly attributed to Germany's industrial prosperity, which creates a great demand for female labor in all branches of commerce and manufacture.

MATRIMONIAL MASCOTS

Queer Ideas Among the Hindus for Finding a Mate

Here is a tip for unmarried lady readers with matrimonial ambitions. Buy cards at a shop that is about to close for the day, or, having looked upon a bridegroom at a marriage ceremony, turn your back upon him and go straight home. Result, a happy marriage within a few months.

Anyhow, according to Mr. R. A. Leslie Moore, who has made a close study of the people of India, the Hindus consider this an infallible recipe for securing husbands. Among other quaint ideas prevalent amongst Indian people, Mr. Moore mentions that they believe that anyone killing a frog will never get married. On the other hand, according to a picturesque Bengali fancy, if a butterfly entered and flitted about a house there would soon be a marriage in the family; and if a butterfly persisted in hovering about any particular person, that person was destined for early connubial bliss.

His Mind Gone.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 17.—His mind blank as the result of a visit to the Cave of the Winds late Saturday afternoon, W. H. Shawn of Carlton, Ga., is lying in a serious condition. He was in full possession of his faculties when he entered the cave, only to emerge a few minutes later with his mind gone. Physicians are baffled by the case.

Remembered Old Employes.

Yonkers, N.Y., July 17.—Among twenty-seven employes, who have worked for twenty years or more in the Saunders tool factory here, $35,000 will be distributed as a memorial gift from the widow of Leslie Saunders, the founder of the firm. The gift is in line with the bequests of the late Mrs. Eva Cochran, who left $1,000 each to more than 100 employes, who had served for twenty years in a carpet works here.

Twenty-two of the Saunders' employes get $1,000 each. The others, who have worked in the shop for nearly forty years, receive from $2,000 to $5,000 each.

A. P. MacDonell Dead.

Montreal, July 17.—News of the death of Allan P. MacDonell, formerly of Dorchester street, was cabled from England yesterday. Mr. MacDonell was a well-known railway contractor, his last big contract being part of the National Transcontinental in partnership with M. J. O'Brien.

For the past two years he has been in failing health, and he and his family went to live at Frimley Park, Frimley, Surrey, England, where he died on Friday. Mrs. MacDonell was a daughter of the late John Ryan of Brockville.

Duchess Succumbs to Heat.

London, July 17.—The Dowager Duchess of Devonshire, who was taken suddenly ill at the Sandown Park race meeting on Friday as a result of the excessive heat, died early Saturday.

The duchess was removed in an unconscious condition from the club enclosure to Esher Place, the residence of Sir Edgar Vincent, near the track, where she expired without having regained consciousness.

Every man I ever knew had ambition, but only a few had application with it.

CHURCH WORK

Presbyterian Ministers Would Like to See Greater Growth

Rev. Dr. Somerville, addressing the Presbyterian General Assembly said: "The growth of the Church has been disappointing. We have been reading in the newspapers of the great immigration, which Canada is receiving from Great Britain, the United States and elsewhere. The population has been growing tremendously, but the increase of families in the Church has been very slight. The Church has only been able to add 16,669 members on profession of faith, or one person out of every ten families in the Church."

Rev. Dr. Dickson called for a general awakening to greater religious effort. "The old Scotland of our forefathers is no more," he said. "A new Scotland has arisen a Scotland shorn of much of its spiritual power and Divine energy. And what has happened to the home of our forefathers is happening to the home of their children. Is there hope for Scotland? Just the same hope as there is for Canada. Let us get away from the gnawing canker of worldliness and materialism and tie up again to the Lord. You ministers of the Lord's Day; you parents in the home; do you always have the whitened fields before you? Do you always remember to ask God to thrust men out into the harvest?"

REV. DR. R. P. MacKAY

The new Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, is a native of Oxford county, and after some years' service in the pastorate was appointed by the General Assembly in 1892 as Secretary of the Board of Foreign Missions. This position he still holds. He is noted for his ability to accomplish an immense amount of work in an unostentatious manner, for his whole-hearted earnestness, and for his thoroughness in grappling with and solving new problems as they arise in the sphere of his activity.

MEN FOR THE MILITIA

A Radical Change Necessary to Secure Men of the Proper Type

That some radical change must be made in the system of militia training in the matter of securing men of the proper type, if the efficiency of the Canadian militia is to be maintained, is tne almost unanimous opinion of the officers, says the Globe. It is a generally accepted fact that in recent years neither the most desirable class of men nor a sufficiently large number of them have been brought to the annual camp by the rural regiments of both cavalry and infantry. Of those who do go to camp, but a very small proportion ever go out a second or third year, in spite of the fact that when they sign the service roll of their particular units they are supposed to bind themselves to serve for three successive years. Although the authorized establishment of a rural battalion of infantry is slightly over four hundred, it is very seldom that one goes to camp with over three hundred men. Officers say that it is practically impossible for a company officer to raise an efficient company to go to camp unless he is willing or able to devote almost the whole of his time to recruiting for at least a month before camp. While there are always a number of men who are enthusiastic soldiers enough to turn out to camp every year, the officers find it impossible to hold their companies together during the remainder of the year.

A VETERAN HOTEL CLERK

James Connor, However, Did Not Know the Taste of Liquor

The late James Connor, Toronto, was a well-known figure to the travelling public. For upwards of forty-five years Mr. Connor was identified with the Rossin House, now the Prince George, continuing as night clerk under different managers throughout all those years. As a boy of ten he saw the dark days of the "Black Famine" in Ireland. On the death of his father he left the plague spot with his mother, only to see her buried at Grosse Ile with many other unfortunates. He made his way to the United States and, after working at various jobs for several years, finally came to Ontario and obtained a position in the Rossin House, where, under the watchful and kind-hearted supervision of the late Mr. Irish, he was soon promoted to the position of night clerk. Mr. Connor was a man of clean life, application and industry. Although engaged in the leading hotel of the city for over 45 years, save for medicinal purposes, he did not know the taste of liquor.

IMMIGRATION SCENES

Many Races Mingle in Station at Winnipeg—Pictures of Various Nationalities

There were two hundred new comers housed at the Winnipeg Immigration hall one evening a short time ago. They proceeded the next day to various points. The guests were of six or seven different nationalities—French peasants of Alsace, Ruthenians, Poles, Hollanders, Russian Germans, and Germans. The rotunda of the C.P.R. was a place of many nations and several races. Within a radius of thirty feet were represented the white, yellow and black races. On one seat a big, pleasant-faced negro sat amid his luggage; a little way off, two Galicians, in their odd hats with beehive crowns and turned-up brims, nodded and gesticulated; and, on a bench facing these, were a row of Chinamen, cloth caps tilted forward over their braided and knotted queues, in their eyes a curious, blank look, like gawky schoolboys.

Five races were seen, cheek-by-jowl, on one short bench. At one end, a black-haired Assyrian sat alone, his hat tilted forward, his hands in his pockets, and his legs stretched disconsolately out before him; before him an Alsatian wrote laboriously on a piece of note-paper spread on the back of the seat; next to him two Polanders talked animatedly; next these again a fat mulatto woman lolled sleepy-eyed, her bundle in her lap; and, at the other end of the bench, a Swiss boy and girl sat side by side. Many stopped to look at the last two, for there were tears in the girl's eyes and the boy ceaselessly and tenderly pressed her hand, holding it against his cheek. "They are brother and sister," said the linguist from the Immigration offices, "family attachment was very strong among the Swiss."
